Bureau is not disseminating rerep. Note that Synopsis does not synopsize details. Information on page 2 describing reason for investigation set forth on pages 3 through 10 is unnecessary and does not relate to inquiry on pages 3 through 6, basis of which was to determine if Oswald was in Austin, Texas, 9/25/63. Bases of statements of Lorine Shuler on page 4 as to irresponsibility of Florence Norman and the private expressions of Norman are not set forth and, in event specifics in this regard are not available, they should be deleted. Reason for statements on page 4 regarding Shuler's furnishing address only after Agent identified himself and her reluctance to enter into a controversy is not clear. If purpose was to depict hostile or uncooperative attitude on part of Shuler and if such was the case, furnish specifics or delete above statements. Endeavor to obtain more details from Shuler as to nature of Norman's remarks concerning having seen Oswald at Trek Cafe. Include data as to when and to whom these remarks were made.

Inquiry at Trek Cafe has not established working hours of Norman on 9/25/63 nor have you established whether or not she may have been alone in Cafe that date with exception of the cook. Endeavor to resolve this through contact of manager of the Cafe who, according to your 1/6/64 report, was thought by Mrs. Donnelly to be related to waitress in question.

Your interview of Norman (page 6), after reporting her discussion with L. B. Day, records that she claimed not to have discussed her observations of person thought to be Oswald with anyone else, not even her parents. This is not clear as page 6 continues concerning her admission to discussing matter with a local reporter and it appears at variance with the revelations of Mrs. Dannelly and Lorine Shuler. Clarify and endeavor to resolve these discrepancies.

Rewrite rerep in accordance with foregoing observations and include therein results of your interview of L. B. Day and, if possible, results of your inquiry at airlines, Austin, as requested in Buairtel 1/14/64.

Refer to page 18, your 1/6/64 report in this case, wherein Ronnie Dugger is reported as having stated he developed no information indicating Oswald was in Austin beyond information furnished by Mrs. Dannelly. Report of Dugger interview despite above comment contains information that he interviewed Stella Norman who reported she believed she saw Oswald in Trek Cafe two months prior to his interview and that he had been informed by L. D. Day that he saw man referred to by Norman and was convinced this person was Oswald. Submit amended page 18 resolving obvious inconsistency. Handle immediately and suairtel date revised report and amended page will be submitted. Exercise caution to prevent recurrence of reporting delinquencies as noted herein and score errors.

NOTE:

We believe Oswald may have been in Austin afternoon 9/25/63 and we are trying to establish if during his trip to Mexico he traveled in round-about fashion from New Orleans to Austin, thence east to Houston and from Houston by bus to Laredo. We know he boarded bus at Houston 2 a.m., 9/26/63, and that he telephoned a woman in Houston between 7 and 9 p.m., on the 25th. Mrs. Dannelly of State Selective Service Headquarters, Austin, believes he was in her office at 1 p.m., 9/25/63. We would like to have a report from San Antonio which thoroughly runs out all necessary investigation at Austin to see if Oswald was there on 9/25/63.

TRANSLATION FROM SPANISH

Santa Fe, Argentina, December 9, 1963

To the Congress of the United States of America
Washington, U. S. A.

Gentlemen:

Since it is my intention and purpose to help in the investigation that the Congress of the United States of America has instituted in order to establish what really happened in the assassination of President Kennedy, and having heard references to the effect that the weapon used in the assassination was a Model-1891 Mauser rifle, I would be interested in knowing, in a dependable manner, whether this is the weapon which was actually employed. If this is the case, it is of German origin and was manufactured by the Krupp steel works. Once the serial number is known, one could establish how it reached the alleged killer. I am telling you this in confidence and on the basis of the knowledge I have of these weapons. It is my understanding that these arms were never marketed through private concerns and that the particular model in question was replaced by the 1908 model.

If it were known with certainty that this was the murder weapon, the mystery would be at least partially lifted.

Without further ado, I remain at your disposal and express my best wishes that light may be shed on this unfortunate event.

Sincerely yours,

(Signed) Manuel D. T. Munoz

By letter dated 1/15/64, J. Lee Rankin, General Counsel, President's Commission on the Assassination of President Kennedy, referred a letter in a foreign language, which the Commission requested be translated so that it might be properly evaluated.

The letter was determined to be in the Spanish language and was written by Manuel D. T. Munoz, 1469 San Jeronimo, Santa Fe, Argentina. The writer understands that a Model-1891 Mauser rifle was utilized to kill President Kennedy. He suggests that if the serial number were available it would be easy to find out how it got into the hands of the alleged assassin inasmuch as these guns were not privately marketed, but were replaced by the Model 1908 in Germany.

J. Lee Rankin, Counsel to the President's Commission on the Assassination, has asked that we obtain for the Commission's perusal 3 metal filing boxes of personal correspondence of Mrs. Ruth Paine. Reference was made to this material in Dallas 11-30-63 report in the Jack Ruby case. Dallas has reviewed this material and has reported that there was nothing contained therein of pertinence to the Oswald or Ruby cases.

Mr. Branigan to Mr. Sullivan 1-15-64 memo pointed out that we were obtaining this material from Dallas and upon receipt here it would be photographed for record purposes, rereviewed and the originals furnished to the Commission. The Commission also asked that they be furnished with translations of anything among the papers in a foreign language.

This material has been received from Dallas. We find it to be voluminous, made up of approximately 10,000 pages. Mrs. Paine who turned this material over to the Dallas office after the Dallas police returned it to her states that there are many personal items in this material and she asked that none of it be made public unless the Commission feels some of the documents may have a bearing on the Oswald case. She asks that all of the material not thought pertinent be returned to her at the earliest opportunity. She points out that the material in question was in her bedroom closet and not in the room occupied by Marina Oswald and that while she gave consent to the Dallas police to remove material from her home belonging to the Oswalds, she did not consent to removal of her personal property.

We have reviewed this material checking for foreign language material and find there is nothing of substance contained among these papers requiring translation. There are one or two poems and songs in a foreign language in a folder entitled "List of Songs." We, because of the voluminous nature of this material, do not intend to photograph it and as Dallas has reviewed the material without finding anything pertinent to the Oswald or Ruby cases, we do not intend to re-examine it now.

From a quick perusal of this material it appears to consist of correspondence of Mrs. Paine to and from her parents, her in-laws, other relatives and friends; material dealing with her activity in Quaker organizations; educational material and personal notes of a diary type. There is considerable material dealing with the marital record of her parents.

The following investigation was conducted by SA CLABORN R. CHEATHAM:

On January 21, 1964, Mrs. W. P. PEARSON, 117 Country Club Acres, Belleville, Illinois, viewed a photograph of LEE HARVEY OSWALD and immediately recognized photo as being that of OSWALD. She stated she has never seen OSWALD but recognized photograph from publicity and photographs appearing in newspapers and on television.

Mrs. PEARSON stated that her father resides in Laredo, Texas, and in September, 1963, suffered a heart attack. She stated she went to Laredo to visit him on approximately September 23 or 24, 1963, stayed ten days and then returned to Belleville, Illinois. Mrs. PEARSON stated that she departed Laredo on about October 3, 1963 via Trans-Texas Airlines to Dallas, Texas, where she changed planes to continue her trip.

RE: Bureau airtels dated 1/3/64 and 1/14/64.

The following investigation was conducted concerning OSWALD's travel and movements between New Orleans, Louisiana, and Mexico City, Mexico, during the period 9/25 - 26/63.

It is noted previous investigation has established that OSWALD cashed a check at New Orleans, Louisiana, after 8 AM on 9/25/63. He was reported to have telephoned Mrs. HORACE TWIFORD at Houston on the evening of 9/25/63 at a time she believes was between 7 and 9 PM. In the interim, an employee at Selective Service Headquarters, Austin, Texas reported she believed she was contacted by OSWALD at Austin on 9/25/63 at approximately 1 PM. When OSWALD talked to Mrs. TWIFORD at Houston, he indicated he was considering flying to Mexico. Other witnesses have reported OSWALD boarded a Continental Trailways bus at Houston, Texas, at approximately 2 AM (actually 2:35 AM) on 9/26/63, on which bus he traveled to Laredo, Texas, en route to Mexico City.

It seems apparent that if OSWALD actually visited Austin, Texas, as suggested, in view of the distances involved, he would necessarily have traveled from New Orleans, Louisiana, to Austin, Texas, by air. If he made his decision to proceed to Austin after arriving at Houston, Texas, he would, of course, have had to fly from New Orleans to Houston and thence to Austin. After arriving at Austin, OSWALD could have left Austin on the afternoon of 9/25/63 by the Kerrville Bus Company line and have arrived at Houston prior to 9 PM inasmuch as the Austin to Houston bus schedules require only about four hours' travel time.

On 1/16/64, DON RODGERS, Continental Air Lines, Inc., Houston International Airport, was interviewed by SA EDWIN DALRYMPLE. RODGERS stated that in September, 1963, Continental had the only air schedules between Austin and Houston, although these routes have subsequently, as of 11/12/63, been taken over by Trans-Texas Airways. RODGERS checked his records and schedules and reported that on 9/25/63 Continental had no flights to Austin between 6:50 AM and 12:20 PM. A person could have left Houston on Continental Flight 215 at 12:20 PM and would have arrived at Austin at 1:10 PM on that date. RODGERS located the manifest for Flight 215 on 9/25/63 and the passenger list was examined. Neither OSWALD's name nor any of his known aliases appeared on this manifest.

RODGERS reported that a passenger could have left Austin on Continental Flight 212 at approximately 2:30 PM on 9/25/63, arriving at Houston at approximately 3:20 PM. There were no more scheduled flights from Austin to Houston from 2:30 PM until 10 AM on 9/26/63.

From the above information, OSWALD apparently did not fly from New Orleans to Austin via Houston, Texas. However, if in Austin, he could have proceeded to Houston, Texas, by Continental Air Lines Flight 212 leaving Austin at 2:30 PM on 9/25/63 or by the Kerrville Bus Company which has several schedules during the afternoon.

In view of the possibility that OSWALD, after arriving in Houston from New Orleans, actually considered flying to Mexico City, JAMES D. GIBSON, Station Manager, Pan American World Airways (PAA), Houston International Airport, was interviewed by SA EDWIN DALRYMPLE on 1/16/64. GIBSON made available copies of PAA flight releases for 9/24,25,26/63. These are lists of the persons who requested space on PAA

Flight 501 from Houston to Mexico City on the above dates. OSWALD's name was not on these lists, nor was any of his known aliases noted. GIBSON pointed out that persons who failed to appear at flight time, who cancelled previous reservations, or who appeared at the last minute without reservations are also recorded on these lists, sometimes in ink by the employees on duty. These flight release lists are actually prepared by the PAA Central Reservations Department at Miami, Florida, and are furnished Houston and other interested offices by teletype. GIBSON pointed out that the PAA Central Reservations Office at Miami had previously been carefully checked in connection with this investigation without locating OSWALD's name. GIBSON stated his office had no record of any request or inquiry on the part of OSWALD in connection with possible travel to Mexico City.

On 1/17/64, DAVID R. TAYLOR, District Sales Manager, PAA, PAA Downtown Office, Houston, Texas, checked all available records in an effort to find a file card or other data indicating that OSWALD may have made an exploratory inquiry concerning possible travel to Mexico City without actually making a reservation. Mr. TAYLOR stated he could find no such record and his records had previously been searched thoroughly without locating any record pertaining to OSWALD.

It is noted that PAA has the only direct air travel to Mexico City from Houston.

On 1/21/64, S. R. COBB, Station Manager, Continental Trailways Bus Terminal, 1114 McKinney Street, Houston, Texas, made a thorough review of personnel and payroll records to identify all employees of his company who were physically present at the Continental Trailways Bus Terminal on the evening of 9/25/63 and up to 2:30 AM on 9/26/63. It was determined that twelve employees, consisting of six ticket agents, one information clerk, three porters, and two snack-bar attendants were on duty at that time and could conceivably have observed OSWALD. The Houston Office is presently locating for interview those employees who had not previously been interviewed.

For the information of the Bureau, on 1/17/64 the Dallas Office succeeded in locating the auditor's stub for Continental Trailways bus ticket number 112230, which was previously identified as the only Continental Trailways bus ticket sold at Houston between 9/24/63 and 9/26/63 for travel between Houston and Laredo, Texas. This ticket stub carried a rubber stamp indicating it was sold on 9/25/63 by ticket agent identified as number 12.

On 1/21/64, E. P. HAMMETT, 8603 Detroit Street, Houston, Texas, employed as ticket agent by Continental Trailways Bus Company, observed his copy of the above ticket stub and identified this as a ticket which he had sold on 9/25/63. Photographs of LEE HARVEY OSWALD and of a small zipper bag used by OSWALD were exhibited to HAMMETT. HAMMETT furnished the following information:

There are very few tickets sold for travel between Houston and Laredo, Texas, and HAMMETT sometimes will not sell more than one in a week. He stated for this reason any sales or inquiries about tickets to Laredo and/or Mexico are unusual and he usually remembers them. On 9/25/63, HAMMETT went on duty at 10:30 PM and was the only ticket agent on duty from 10:30 PM until 6:30 AM on 9/26/63.

HAMMETT stated he could recall a man strongly resembling the photograph of OSWALD coming to his counter at some time which would have been approximately in late September, 1963, and making inquiry concerning travel to Laredo and to Mexico City. HAMMETT believes this man came to his counter at approximately midnight. The man HAMMETT recalls was wearing a pull-over sweater which he believes was brown and white, white dungarees, and dirty white canvas shoes. This man inquired as to prices of tickets directly to Mexico City and also to Laredo. HAMMETT stated this man seemed to be very undecided and could not make up his mind and after considerable discussion he left the counter and was not observed for a short period. There was no discussion of visas or Mexican tourist cards, these matters normally being handled when passengers arrive at Laredo, Texas. This man did not give HAMMETT his name, and normally there is no occasion for ticket agents to learn passengers' names.

HAMMETT stated after leaving his counter for some time, the above man finally returned and stated he decided to buy a ticket to Laredo, which HAMMETT sold him. This man was alone at the time and HAMMETT did not observe how he arrived at the bus terminal. HAMMETT noted that he believes it was about 1:30 AM or possibly 2 AM before this man finally purchased a ticket for use on a Continental Trailways bus which left Houston at 2:35 AM on 9/26/63 for Laredo.

HAMMETT stated that the date stamp which he uses at the ticket counter is not changed at exactly midnight but is normally changed at 2 or 3 AM. He stated the date 9/25/63 appearing on the ticket in question would not establish that it was necessarily purchased prior to midnight but could have been purchased as late as 2:30 AM.

After further study of the photograph of OSWALD, HAMMETT stated this photograph was definitely familiar to him and he believes he can associate OSWALD with the person who discussed with him travel from Houston to Laredo and Mexico City several months ago.

HAMMETT stated that between midnight and 2 AM there is only one ticket agent at the counter, two porters work in the driveways, and normally one person is on duty in the snackbar operated in the lobby. The restaurant opening onto the lobby closes every night at 7:20 PM.

It is noted that prior investigation determined OSWALD received an unemployment compensation check through the mail in New Orleans, which could not have been obtained by him in his post office box prior to 5 a.m. on 9/25/63. This check was cashed by him on 9/25/63 at Winn-Dixie Store No. 1425, which store did not open for business until 8 a.m.

Investigation has disclosed that travel by bus between New Orleans, La., and Austin, Texas, takes at least twelve and three-quarters hours. There is no direct train service between New Orleans and Austin. Train passengers are routed through either San Antonio, Texas, or Dallas, Texas. Travel by train between New Orleans and Austin, via San Antonio, takes over sixteen hours; and by way of Dallas, takes over twenty hours. PRESIDENT"S COMMISSION
ASSASSINATION OF THE PRESIDENT

Airtel from New Orleans 1/22/64, advised the Governor of the State of Louisiana had received a letter from the President's Commission signed by J. Lee Rankin requesting original documents reflecting all school attendance for Lee Harvey Oswald in two parishes be obtained, and indicated interest in results of interviews conducted with those people who had been familiar with Oswald while in attendance at the appropriate institutions.

This matter was taken up with Mr. Rankin today and he advised that apparently there had been a definite misunderstanding of the letter that had been sent to the Governor of Louisiana. He advised a similar letter had been sent to authorities in New York inasmuch as original documents were not available because of certain regulations.

Mr. Rankin called to his office Howard P. Willens who had handled this correspondence and requested that Willens be briefed on the difficulty that had arisen. He then requested Willens to advise of the exact wording of the letter that had gone to the Governor of Louisiana. Mr. Willens stated that he did not recall anything in the letter that would have caused any interviews to be conducted but stated he would obtain the original letter and furnish the exact wording as soon as he could locate it. Both Mr. Willens and Mr. Rankin were advised that the letter certainly must have requested a number of interviews inasmuch as individuals in the State of Louisiana were indignant of the fact that duplication of effort was being made in that a number of those individuals contacted stated that they had previously been interviewed by Bureau representatives.

Mr. Rankin stated emphatically that he certainly did not want anyone duplicating any work that the Bureau had handled. He advised that the Commission did feel it advisable to obtain original records wherever it was possible to do so as a permanent record for the Commission, and that he was of the impression that this was all that had been asked for in the letter to the Governor of Louisiana. He stated he was most appreciative that this matter had been called to his attention and that as soon as the correct facts could be obtained from the Commission he thought it would be well for the FBI to contact whatever agency in the State of Louisiana was handling the President's Commission request and straightenthe matter out so that they would be thoroughly aware that the Commission had no intention of asking a state agency to recheck on any matter that had been handled by the FBI.

During this discussion Mr. Rankin and Mr. Willens were advised that the FBI's investigation had been conducted for the purpose of obtaining full facts relative to all aspects of the assassination of the President and that we had not asked for original documents, such as school records or employment records. They were told that if the Commission desired original records in any instance and would make it known, the Bureau would attempt to obtain such original documents. Mr. Rankin advised that he felt this should be done to avoid any further misunderstanding and that if any situation arose where the Bureau report reflected that a particular organization had refused access to its original records, the Bureau should be advised of what action the Commission was taking before proceeding so that the Bureau would be on notice of the Commission's actions.

Mr. Rankin reiterated several times during this conversation that he certainly did not want anyone to get the impression that the Commission was attempting to have someone double check on the Bureau's work, and that he was very happy this matter had been called to his attention immediately. This interview was terminated prior to 3:00 p. m., inasmuch as Mr. Rankin was to attend a meeting of the Commission today at 3:00 p. m. No information was volunteered by Mr. Rankin as to the purpose of the meeting.

ACTION:

As soon as the details of the letter which was written to state authorities in Louisiana are made available, appropriate instructions will be issued to the New Orleans Office.

ADDENDUM: Subsequent to the dictation of the foregoing memorandum, Willens called and read the letter that had been sent to the Governor of Louisiana. The letter did ask for documents covering the school attendance of Lee Harvey Oswald but did not specifically request any interviews.

Memorandum to Mr. Belmont
ASSASSINATION OF THE PRESIDENT

In view of this, Willens was advised that it appeared more appropriate that his office communicate with the office of the Governor of Louisiana to straighten out the request rather than to have the FBI handle this matter. Willens stated that inasmuch as there did definitely appear to be a misunderstanding, he felt this was the best procedure and that an immediate letter would be prepared to be sent to the Governor. An appropriate communication is being sent to the New Orleans Office advising them of the discussion with Mr. Rankins office.

LEE HARVEY OSWALD

By letter dated January 11, 1964, one J. D. Royce, 496 West Scott Avenue, Clovis, California, advised Parade Publications, Incorporated, New York, New York, that he had what he believed to be "positive proof that Lee Henry Oswald did not assassinate the President of the United States." In the letter Royce requested one thousand dollars plus round trip air fare to New York to bring the information to Parade Publications Office and also stated that if he was correct he would expect "without question" a loan in the amount of $35,000 on a ten years note at 8% in order that he might materialize a life long dream of a business in his field. He claimed that his letter was not a "crank letter", that he is "an Electronic Engineer, married has four children, twenty-five years, white, and carry secret clearances U. S. Army 1957, U. S. Air Force 1961."

Royce furnished the following information to Special Agents of the FBI on January 23, 1964, at which time, he stated that the "positive proof" he referred to in his letter was based entirely on a double page photograph which appeared on pages 24-25 of the December 14, 1963 edition of the Saturday Evening Post. He stated that after examining this photograph with a magnifying glass, which photo was reported to have been taken the instant President Kennedy was shot, he is convinced that the individual standing in the background at the left edge of the doorway is Oswald. He added that, if so, then Oswald could not possibly have fired the fatal shot at that instant. He stated further that comparing this photo through a magnifying glass with a photo of Oswald taken later, as well as his jacket, he is convinced that the man in this photo is Oswald because of the same texture of material in the jackets, the same approximate height of the two, the same hairline, and the same facial features. He stated that he cannot believe that if Oswald was actually upstairs in the building at the time, that there would be another individual so similar in appearance and apparel standing in a doorway of the building at the same instant.

1 COPIES DESTROYED

Royce stated that this is the entire basis for his letter, and he could be wrong but he feels certain he is not. He added that he also wrote an identical letter to the editor of the Saturday Evening Post on the same date he sent the letter to Parade Publications, Incorporated. He stated that he has had no reply to either letter.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

JAY DEE ROYCE

Royce was interviewed at his residence, 496 West Scott Avenue, Clovis, California, by FBI agents on January 23, 1964. He stated that he was actually born at La Grange, Georgia, with a midwife in attendance at the birth and no record of the birth was made there. His parents thereafter moved to Oakland, California, when he was seven months old at which time his birth was recorded there as having occurred at Oakland, California, on March 5, 1939, which he stated is what appears on his birth certificate.

According to Royce, he has lived most of his life in the Oakland area having graduated from Fremont High School there. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Jay Dea Royce still reside in Oakland at 5438 Holland Street. He stated that actually he was supposed to be a "junior" named after his father but has never used the "junior" after his name although he did use the name Jay Dee Royce throughout his Army service. Since then he has used only the initials "J. D.". He had no explanation for the difference in spelling of Dea and Dee as used by his father and him respectively. He stated that after graduating from high school he went into the U. S. Army where he served from 1956 to 1958.

He was stationed most of the time with the 365th AntiAircraft Battalion at Torrance, California, under the Van Nuys, California, Missile Command. He stated that he was a Private First Class assigned to radar and guidance systems service and operation.

According to Royce, he received certain technical training while in the Army for which he received college credit. After his discharge from the Army, he entered the University of California at Berkeley, California, from which he received a BS degree in Electrical Engineering in June, 1960. Thereafter, he obtained a job in September, 1960 with Genge and Associates, a subcontractor for the Martin-Marietta Company of Ohio. He stated that his work was in Denver, Colorado, where the Genge and Associates work was to handle the technical manuals for the Titan missile project.

INTERNAL SECURITY - RUSSIA - CUBA

In the investigative report in this case dated 12-23-63 there is set forth a description of certain material which was belatedly found by Mrs. Ruth Paine and turned over to the Irving, Texas, Police Department. Included with this material were six picture postcards apparently purchased by Oswald when he was in Mexico. The Commission has asked if Mrs. Oswald has been specifically questioned concerning these picture postcards.

On 1-20-64 SAC Shanklin, Dallas Office, was instructed to reinterview Mrs. Oswald concerning the picture postcards to determine if she had knowledge as to their origin. It was pointed out that if Mrs. Oswald was aware of the existence of the articles described in the investigative report, she should have been aware that her husband traveled to Mexico in September-October, 1963. It was further noted that Mrs. Ruth Paine has stated that she was aware that Oswald was in Mexico from her perusal of a rough draft letter prepared by Oswald. Dallas was instructed to ascertain if Mrs. Oswald spoke with Mrs. Paine about Oswald's trip to Mexico or about the rough draft letter.

Dallas was instructed that through Mrs. Paine they should obtain specifics concerning the rough draft letter and ascertain its present whereabouts. Mrs. Paine was to be questioned concerning conversations she may have had with Mrs. Oswald concerning Oswald's Mexican trip, the rough draft letter and other material referred to in the investigative report.

Dallas was instructed to submit a teletype summary concerning results of the interviews.

Pathetic

Murfreesboro, Tenn.

Dear Sirs: A. G. Frank's article, "Brazil: Exploitation or Aid," in the Nov. 25 issue is about the worst thing I have read on this subject. Frank stated almost in the same breath that Brazilian per capita income is rising and that the people there are becoming worse off all the time, that United States aid is negligible but that it wields a tremendously nefarious influence over Brazil's economy and, finally, he misread economist Celso Furtado's writings on events in Brazil during the 1930 depression.

Mr. Frank's all-out attack on every U.S. policy, act and attitude with respect to Brazil could be regarded as mere cynicism, but combined with incompetence it is merely pathetic.

New Order

Miami Beach, Fla.

Dear Sirs: Peter L. Bernstein in "Can Business Grasp the Future?" (The Nation, Jan. 13) is naive in advancing the idea that the goals he correctly promulgates can be achieved within our present order.

Mr. Bernstein, among other aims, calls for disarmament with resultant dislocation of industry, shattering of local economies, shriveling of bloated defense profits. He asks for vast increases of government investments in the public sector of our economy, the elimination of poverty and unemployment and the creation of a "demand for goods and services . . . at least 20 per cent faster than in the extraordinarily prosperous decade 1947-57. . . ." Mr. Bernstein also wants to eradicate all aspects of discrimination "based on race, color or creed," and asks for an unheard-of expansion of social welfare of all types.

Wonderful, wonderful — but Mr. Bernstein fails to recognize, or avoids, the simple conclusion that in order to achieve these and other laudable goals . . . we would have to change the power structure of our society and usher in a government with the professed aim of radically altering our system. Unless and until the people see the necessity for such a far-reaching social change, and have a political party that truly represents and leads them, Mr. Bernstein's goals will never be realized. . . .

Effect of courage

New York City

Dear Sirs: It is a very pallid statement . . . to say that "An Island Joins the March" renewed my strength (Peter S. Medbee, The Nation, Jan. 13). On July 1, 1963, I was suspended by the New York City Board of Education for refusing to participate in a shelter drill. As the date recedes my sense of purpose becomes more cloudy. The act becomes more insignificant as everyone but myself and two lawyers forgets it. An individual's concern is easily eroded by parents and friends who counsel: play it cool. Let me repeat the quotation from the Vineyard Gazette: "The courage of moral and ethical conviction cannot be a force in our world unless those whose conscience and humanity are deeply stirred will act, even sometimes against conviction or protocols or counsels of restraint." The effect of an act of courage can be more than local and limited.

Appeal from South Africa

South Fork, Calif.

Dear Sirs: Contact, the courageous anti-apartheid newspaper in South Africa, is in desperate need of funds to continue publication. Until funds can be raised, this fortnightly paper will appear only once a month.

The editor writes: "We wish to make a particular appeal to organizations on the continent and abroad to realize the set-back the liberal movement would suffer should we miss a thirty-day publishing period under the Imprint Act, as amended by the Union's 1962 Sabotage Act. This would be followed by immediate cancellation of Contact's registration. The South African Government could, and most certainly would, demand a deposit of R20,000 (about $28,000) for a new Contact or any other anti-apartheid paper."

Financial support can be sent to Contact, P.O. Box 1979, Cape Town, South Africa.

Nasser's yen

Washington, D.C.

Dear Sirs: Desmond Stewart ("Tremors in the Near East," The Nation, Jan. 6) . . . accuses the Ba'ath of viewing Arab unity as "one which it could dominate." The fact is that it was Nasser who insisted upon one party . . . namely his own national socialist union. . . . The yen for domination in the Near East is notoriously that of Nasser, and it is incredible how any reporter can overlook this fact.

Bernard S. White

Correction

Through a misunderstanding between author and editor, Desmond Stewart was made to say in "Tremors in the Near East" (The Nation, January 6) that the Iman Badr of Yemen is in exile in Beirut. Mr. Stewart intended to refer to propaganda emanating from Iman supporters in Beirut; the present whereabouts of the Iman himself are not known. —Editors.

Task of the Warren Commission

The confidence which we have previously expressed in the Warren Commission (The Nation, December 28, 1963, p. 445) has been strengthened by the announcement that J. Lee Rankin has been selected as counsel and that Norman Redlich, of the New York University Law School, will serve as Mr. Rankin's personal assistant. Further assurance of the thoroughness and skill with which the investigation will be conducted is to be found in the designation of Francis W. G. Adams of New York, Joseph A. Ball of Los Angeles, William T. Coleman, Jr., of Philadelphia, and Albert E. Jenner, Jr., of Chicago, as senior counsel in charge of special phases of the investigation. These are excellent lawyers, men of the highest integrity. Mr. Adams was an incorruptible and effective Police Commissioner of New York City. Joseph A. Ball is an outstanding lawyer with a long record of splendid public service. Such a staff, under the supervision of the Chief Justice and other members of the Commission, and with Mr. Robert Kennedy in charge of the Department of Justice, provides ample assurance that the Commission will ably discharge the extraordinary responsibilities which it has assumed.

Not only is the task the Commission faces inherently difficult; it is made doubly so by the confused state of the public record. The assassination of a President is no ordinary news event. It is not surprising, therefore, that in the initial excitement stories chased stories across the front pages and that this welter of print resulted in much confusion, contradiction, omission and discrepancy. The Nation has been inundated with letters, manuscripts and communications calling attention to this or that discrepancy or pointing to glaring omissions in the factual record. In the interval since November 22, certain key questions have been asked. Doubts have been raised, for example, about the rifle, the ammunition, the timing of the shots, the marksmanship involved, the role of the Dallas police, possible negligence in the precautions taken to guard the President, etc. The expression of these doubts should help the Warren Commission in its work; hypotheses have been suggested, discrepancies have been pinpointed, gaps in the factual record have been noted.

In this issue, Harold Feldman (p. 86) suggests still another possibility — that Oswald may have been an informant for the FBI. The question has been raised by the Texas press (in a story in the Houston Post of January 1), and the FBI has not commented on it. Because of the way in which the FBI has cautioned certain witnesses not to cooperate, it has been impossible for the Texas paper that raised the question, or for the press generally, to verify the facts. By simply dovetailing various news reports, Mr. Feldman raises a question that calls for a finding by the Warren Commission. The article is published not to make a charge but to raise a question that, in fairness to the FBI and to the public, requires a specific finding.

Brightening the Image

The Washington reporters are agog: on January 9, the CIA met the press. Of course it had huddled with individual members before — to supply them with leaks calculated to further the CIA's ends — but now it came right out and held a press conference at its $46 million headquarters at McLean, Va. It might as well have been the Department of Health, Education and Welfare. It admitted that it existed, and humbly requested the cooperation of the press.

Three motives may be discerned in this volte-face. The first is obvious: the agency did not like the image it had created for itself. The American public was gradually coming to the conclusion that the CIA was a self-perpetuating, ever-growing, tax-eating organization of spies, schemers and bunglers, with a few murderers thrown in. This was not the whole truth, but it was as near to it as the public could get and the CIA administrators sensed trouble ahead. The image could not be changed all at once, but a press conference might be the beginning of a more benign image.

What the CIA wished to reveal at its first conference had already been leaked, but it was not without interest. U.S. intelligence about the Soviet Union has gone through several phases, all erroneous. In the forties and early fifties the accepted doctrine was that the Soviets could not get very far because, without individual freedom, the divine afflatus of invention would be lacking. A scientist-engineer as distinguished as Vannevar Bush propagated this theory, which collapsed with the launching of the first sputnik. Then came the era of the Soviet superman. They would soon have a thousand ICBMs while we would have only a hundred, and we would have to choose between Red and dead. This theory died of inanition rather than implosion, and was given the coup de grâce in the economic field at the CIA press conference. In the last two years, through multifarious channels and scholarly studies, the CIA has discovered that the Soviet economy has grown by only 2.5 per cent annually, instead of the 6-10 per cent previously reported. Hallelujah!

The CIA press conference must have had the President's blessing; it is in line with his policy of downgrading the Soviet menace and perhaps letting both sides cut back on military spending without diminishing their security, such as it is. That is the second motive, and one can only wish it Godspeed. But it would be foolish to think that any Soviet weakness would not be seized on by the proponents of negotiating from strength, i.e. [illegible]ing them in while the auguries are favorable. The current form this take is to persuade our allies, who without exception wish to trade with either the Soviet Union or with one or another satellite, that selling anything but surplus wheat is a wicked act, and the more wicked if long-term credit is extended. A hard-nosed attitude, it is argued, will result in such weakness on the other side of that well-known curtain that we can have things all our own way. The CIA would like to drum up domestic support for this latest discovery, and that is motive three. If it succeeds, other press conferences may follow, until the public image of the one-time secretive agency becomes as beautiful as that of a Hollywood car-hop suddenly transformed into a starlet.

Two Trials

When the kidnaper of the Lindbergh baby was being tried at Flemington, N.J., a Canadian newspaper exclaimed: "What a police! What a press! What a country!" When Jack Ruby is tried at Dallas, the Flemington circus is likely to be eclipsed. In contrast, the trial in Jackson, Miss., of the man accused of slaying Medgar Evers will probably be conducted with a minimum of national publicity. Most American whites have already forgotten the Evers murder.

The Nation will be astonished if either trial should result in a conviction of first-degree murder, despite the report that in the Evers case the FBI has worked up the evidence. In the other case, there is no doubt that Ruby committed the murder — the whole country saw it on television. In Dallas, however, and in some other parts of this Christian country, the infraction of the Sixth Commandment is not taken too seriously if, for instance, the victim happens to be a Negro, or if the murderer is an outraged husband, or if popular passion is running high and the act gives it a momentary outlet. Oath or no oath, judges and jurors tend to follow the folkways. Just as Oswald probably could not have had a fair trial in Dallas (as James Donovan and others have suggested), so Ruby can hardly fail to receive a favorable trial. The crucial question, when the law is thus skewed by mass psychology, is only whether the defendant killed the right guy.

Ruby is fortunate, also, in that his defense is to be conducted by one of the leading lawyer-impresarios of our day — Melvin Belli — whose biography may be filmed with Tony Curtis as the star. (Why Tony Curtis? Belli plays himself with consummate artistry.) Come all the way from California to see justice done, the elegant attorney will try to show that while Ruby may have been sane before he dispatched Oswald and may be sane now, he was insane at the instant of the shooting. Belli has looked into the heart of Ruby and has seen "his own true, pitiful self. . . . I am convinced he was driven by his love for [President Kennedy] to do this act. I have the greatest compassion for him."

According to Newsweek (January 13), McGraw-Hill is paying the compassionate Belli a $10,000 royalty advance on the book rights to the defense version of the trial, with another $10,000 going to Alvin Moscow, who will be the as-told-to writer. Belli has also been assigned all of Ruby's literary rights as a guarantee of his $100,000 fee. Is not the laborer worthy of his hire? And the more so when his past performance is a guarantee that he will put on a good show?

Marching Through Georgia

In October, 1960, under the auspices of the Committee for Nonviolent Action, Bradford Lyttle initiated a peace demonstration which was to extend from San Francisco to Moscow. As far as possible, the demonstrators were to move on foot, carrying signs and handing out leaflets pleading for nonviolent policies on both sides of the Soviet-U.S. conflict over Cuba. After nearly a year, the travelers reached Moscow, where they "vigiled" in Red Square, spoke to thousands of Russians, and returned to the United States, dilate in spirit, as Walt Whitman says, and with a whole skin.

Not so in a more recent venture, at least as regards the skin. Under the same leadership, sponsored by the same organization, and including some of the same individuals, a small, highly disciplined band started a Quebec-Washington-Guantanamo Walk for Peace in May, 1963. But, like the earlier one, this was an integrated group, and it was soon apparent that the Deep South presented a tougher problem than the Soviet Union. Members of the group were arrested in Griffin and Macon, Georgia, for violations of local ordinances that had already been ruled unconstitutional by the Supreme Court of the United States. In Griffin, the police and the Georgia Bureau of Investigation extended Southern hospitality with electric cattle prods. The big trouble, however, did not start until the Christmas season, when the demonstrators reached Albany, Georgia. As usual, they discussed arrangements with the authorities. Police Chief Pritchett decreed that they could not pass through the business section. The demonstrators refused the by-pass instructions, and on December 23, fourteen—four Negroes and ten whites—were arrested on charges of disorderly conduct for leaving an assigned parade route and refusing to obey the "lawful order" of a police officer. As Mr. Lyttle says, the Southern authorities who control the police and the local courts circumvent Supreme Court decisions, or simply ignore them, and are the more incensed when Negroes engage in civil disobedience together with whites.

Since December 23, the date of the arrests, twelve of the young men and women have been on a hunger strike. Two are hospitalized, eleven still in jail, and one is presently unaccounted for. One of the four demonstrators who were not arrested is Barbara Deming, The Nation's correspondent.

People who are willing to risk their lives to show their faith in peace and the Constitution are also protecting the lives and liberties of those who have little to worry about except getting the snow ploughed out of the driveway. The address of the Committee for Nonviolent Action is 325 Lafayette Street, New York 12.

The Rugged Smoker

"Cigarettes Peril Health, U.S. Report Concludes. . . ."
The New York Times, 1/12/64

"Cigarette Makers May Step Up TV Advertising."
The New York Times, 1/13/64

It would appear that the cigarette people are going to take the dilemma by the horns. In true American style they are about to fight to the last bullet and die with their boots on. And there are several good reasons why they should.

First, there is considerable evidence that the American people have vast tolerance for noxious conditions. It is unnecessary to go into details of air, water and food pollution, strontium-90, dangerous drugs; the waste and desecration of natural resources; the dirt, noise and ugliness of our cities; the lamentable state of our car design and of our highways—you name it, our human creature will endure it. He has infinite capacity to encourage and exploit anti-gerontological effects. He has earned his right to lung cancer.

So why should not the cigarette folks strengthen their appeal to the American people? They are only responding to the vox populi. Now that the lethal properties of cigarettes have been given status, there is no need to sell them with namby-pamby plugs about the sporting life and thinking independently. Let's come right out with it, call a spade a spade. "Are You a Sissy or Not?" "Are You Afraid of Death?" "Stand Up and Be Counted." The cigarette folks will not be disappointed. Americans have guts as well as lungs. They have always been willing to pay with their lives for what they believe in.

The purity, the truth, the high moral plane of this new appeal cannot, perhaps, be maintained indefinitely. Dividends must be paid, and the sluggards must be rounded up. "Stick with the Habit You Understand." "The Family That Smokes Together Dies Together." "A Friend in Need Is the Friendly Weed." The slowpokes will soon join in. Timid they may be, but their desire to add to the general debilitation of man and nature is no less dedicated than that of their stalwart cousins.

A few final words about methods. Clearly the tobacco folk are right to count on the American people. But they must give their wares new names, new slogans, new faces in keeping with the new-found hard truth. No more appeals to inferiority complexes. No more deceit. Cigarettes used to be called "coffin nails"; it's high time we got back to that sort of picturesque accuracy. "Our cigarette contains more carcinogens than any ten leading brands." "Smoke Sudden Death, and feel the difference." "Hello there. This is Dorian Gray. I switched to Cobra six months ago and. . . ." This really begins to reflect the glory of America and Americans. We may well be on the edge of a new ice age.

Panama

THE TIME BOMB EXPLODES

Martin B. Travis and James T. Watkins

The time bomb in Panama has exploded. Panamanian politicians, seeking to divert public attention away from their own exploitive policies and toward the United States presence in their midst, are as responsible for the violent upheaval as Americans living in the Canal Zone. Moreover, the Fidelista extremists and nationalist students have become willing allies in agitating the Canal issues.

The bloody riots of January 9-11 ended a four-year period of deceptively peaceful relations between the United States and Panama. Temporizing policies of the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations in this period may have exaggerated the expectations of the regime of President Roberto F. Chiari. This last January it was agreed that the Panamanian flag was to be flown wher-

Martin B. Travis and James T. Watkins are both professors of Political Science. Mr. Travis teaches at State University of New York (Stony Brook). Mr. Watkins at Stanford University. Both men have specialized in the field of international relations.

Panama Prophecy

In The Nation of April 30, 1960, Professors Travis and Watkins published "Time-Bomb in Panama," which opened with these farsighted sentences:

"As the politicians in the tight little oligarchy which has ruled and nearly ruined Panama since 1903 study cues for their quadrennial shadow dance — the Presidential election . . . tremors in the earth hint that their stage is the roof of a volcano. The United States, guardian and administrator of the Canal, watches their local political miming apparently as inattentive to the political rumblings as the oligarchs themselves. Yet in Panama are to be found all the conditions for a nationalist revolution that will rival the recent upheavals in Cuba and Egypt. . . .

Apparently the presence of the United States in the Canal Zone, by providing a convenient whipping boy, helps blind Panama's rulers to the realities of their situation. . . ."

ever civilian authorities in the Canal Zone were flying the United States flag. (In defiance of this agreement, American children hoisted the Stars and Stripes at the Balboa High School and thereby triggered the riots.) Panama was also accorded the right to grant official status to foreign consuls in the Zone, provided that the United States found the consuls and their governments acceptable.

But negotiations involving further concessions to Panamanian nationalistic aspirations collapsed last June. These included a corridor through the Canal Zone, the flying of the Panamanian flag on ships transiting the Canal and the exclusive use of Panamanian stamps for zonal mail. President Chiari must have become progressively disenchanted with the United States performance. An inexperienced member of the Kennedy administration had agreed initially (and over the protest of State Department officials) to the renegotiation of the Panama treaty itself. Chiari's visit with Kennedy in June, 1962, may have led him to believe that his objectives would be accomplished through a series of Executive agreements that would by-pass a potentially hostile United States Senate. Chiari's disappointment is all the more bitter as his party tries to explain these meager results to constituents who will be voting for their next president in May.

Economic concessions by the United States have not satisfied the Panamanian oligarchy. The ruling merchant class and the industrialists (the wealth of Chiari himself is in extensive sugar land) want to replace United States commercial and industrial activities in the Zone with businesses of their own, or they want to be the sole suppliers for these activities. Thus far their only success has been to eliminate sales within the Zone of "third country" produce. Their plans to take possession of two profitable piers in Colon, which the zonal government was willing to yield, foundered last July on the rock of United States Congressional objection. The businessmen demand that minimum wages for Panamanian employees in the Zone be increased to $1 an hour (they already have risen from 60c in 1962 to 80c as of July, 1964). It does not matter that the oligarchs themselves pay no more than 40c an hour in the city, 25c elsewhere, while the Chiari sugar plantations pay less than $1 a day!

It was the scandalous experience of the Alliance for Progress in Panama which last autumn turned the United States Congress against the entire foreign assistance program. Perhaps the United States agencies involved in the program did lack coordination. But that was insignificant beside the fact that the Panamanian Government itself inhibited the construction of schools, health facilities and agricultural stations by trying to levy commodity taxes on improved materials for these purposes. It had to do so, for their construction would have made evident the administration's failure to provide teachers, doctors and nurses.

Knowledgeable Panamanians outside the government are frank to say that direct aid to farmers and small business is not encouraged because it would upset the traditional control of agriculture, cattle, sugar and milk by a few families, and would threaten the long-entrenched monopoly of commerce in the country. There was also the awkwardness of a dubious $10 million, middle-class housing project, sponsored by the brother of Panama's Catholic bishop, and a personal friend of Senator George Smathers (D., Fla.). After reported pressure from Senator Smathers, AID officials gave the project their tentative approval in July, even though there had been no competitive bidding, and a "finders fee" for the sponsor had been set at $10[illegible]0. In all this, the massive indifference of the ruling elite, together with government confusion, red tape and inefficiency, has prevented the utilization of more than $30 million of the $48 million assigned to Panama under the Alliance program.

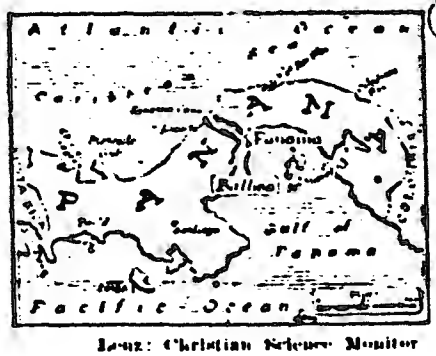
There are two lessons for the Johnson Administration in the Panamanian experience. The first concerns the nature of the nationalistic demands on the Canal Zone. These are not restrained and rational, as some of the cosmopolitan Panamanian rulers would have us believe; they are comprehensive and emotional. Captain Miles P. DuVal, Jr., leading historian of the Panama Canal, Representative Daniel J. Flood of the House of Representatives (D., Pa.), and Major General W. E. Potter, the former Governor of the Zone, were right in saying that concessions to nationalistic sensibilities would only increase the Panamanian appetite. The most popular United States envoy in Panamanian history, Joseph S. Farland, would not have withstood the tide for long if he had not resigned last August. Despite the noteworthy effort of the United States military in the Canal Zone these last two years to change the image of Americans in Panama by its Operation Friendship program (which now must be assessed as coming too late), the recent outbursts have exceeded anything in the fifty-year history of United States-Panamanian relations. So far and so deep in Panama has the national fervor spread.

The second lesson to be learned by the Johnson Administration concerns the quality and authority of the oligarchic elite. It is now clearer than ever that the Panamanian leaders have become victims rather than exploiters of nationalist sentiments. The record will also show that they are a feeble reed upon which to rest hopes for social reform and economic development. One might have expected them to resort to blackmailing the United States by threatening nationalization of the Canal as a means of gaining assistance for necessary social reforms which they were unwilling to finance themselves. Instead, they have chosen to exploit the reform projects for their personal profit.



Jenz: Christian Science Monitor

If these two lessons are learned in Washington, there will be no thought of resorting again to policies of conciliation and temporization on Panama. The nationalistic genie is uncorked, and Panamanian leaders are no longer able to direct it. Nationalization of the Canal would be for the Panamanian elite who have profited from United States control—quite as much as for the United States and the maritime countries of the world—the least desirable alternative. For one thing, where would trained Panamanians be found to operate a sophisticated lock-canal system, vastly more complex than the sea-level canal which the Egyptians were confronted with in Suez?

We conclude, then, that the wisest course today, and one long overdue, is internationalization of the Canal under a United Nations specialized agency, responsible to the community of nations as a whole, and made up of representatives of all the Canal's principal users within and without the Western Hemisphere. To place the Canal under the Organization of American States would be to ask too much of the most responsibly democratic Latin powers. Their governments are supported by Yankee-phobe publics, and their decisions will be so guided.

Internationalization in the form of a UN specialized agency could be expected to enhance the security of the waterway. Hopelessly vulnerable in a general war, as the United States military is now willing to concede, an internationalized canal would at least offer a less attractive target than one controlled by the United States. And the United States defense of an internationalized canal would enjoy widespread moral and practical support.

A new twist to canal history has come in the recent support for internationalization by the Panamanian representative to the United Nations, Aquilino Boyd, speaking before the Security Council. It was the more surprising that he should have endorsed it because of his past associations with nationalistic student groups. But it may be that Boyd, like his colleagues among the Panamanian oligarchy, foresees an imminent shift of internal government power, and would prefer internationalization to the alternative of operation of the Canal by Panamanians of another camp.

Once the Canal came under the aegis of the UN, Panamanians would get an increasingly more important role in its operations. The Panamanian flag would fly alongside that of the UN on ships passing through the Canal, and all vestiges of segregation and discrimination would disappear. By such developments, the strident xenophobia would be removed as a quality of the nationalistic sentiments of the populace. Business interests could anticipate even greater access to Zone markets, and stability in the general picture would increase the stability of their own position.

At the same time, it may be that key voices in the United States will now acknowledge the wisdom of internationalizing the Canal. Conditions in Panama are pushing that country toward revolution, of which one of the first fruits would be a move to nationalize the Canal. In that event, the United States might well find all Latin America lined up in support of Panama, just as we now find Venezuela mute and stunned by the Panamanian deaths at the hands of the United States military. Is it too much to believe that international communism could find in revolutionary Panama another Cuba?

President Lyndon Johnson has established himself as a consummate politician. His advisers have surely alerted him to the pace of events in Panama. United States allies both in Latin America and Europe recognize that a change in the Canal operation is imminent. Will history record, in this election year, that President Johnson employed his political skills to convince the American public that only in the internationalization of the Canal can future upheavals be avoided? Or must we look forward to the explosion there of other time bombs?

OSWALD and the FBI . . . . . Harold Feldman

The Warren Commission should, if possible, tell us how President Kennedy was killed, who killed him, and why. But beyond that, it must tell us if the FBI or any other government intelligence agency was in any way connected with the alleged assassin, Lee Harvey Oswald. At this moment, the possibility of such associations in the young man's life is intolerably a subject for speculation.

On the day after the assassination, the Dallas Chief of Police complained on television that the FBI had interviewed Oswald about a week earlier and had failed to inform the Dallas authorities of this fact — something the bureau would normally do after making contact with a suspicious Red. Drew Pearson also reported this but added, "In Washington, the FBI denied that they had interrogated Oswald recently."

However, Michael Paine, who with his wife helped take care of Mrs. Oswald and the two children, "claimed that FBI agents had visited Oswald more than one time after he returned to Dallas from a trip to Mexico City." Oswald returned to Dallas from Mexico on October 3, 1963. This report also is contradicted by another:

> The FBI picked up the trail again in Dallas after Oswald's return there on Oct. 3. He was not interviewed, but agents checked twice with Mrs. Ruth Paine, who told them that Oswald had gone to work on Oct. 16 in the Texas State School Book Depository. (The New York Times, 12/10/63.)

The Minority of One (January, 1964) tells us:

> William M. Kline, chief of the U.S. Customs Bureau investigative services in Laredo, Texas, stated on November 25 that Oswald's movements were watched at the request of "a federal agency at Washington." (New York Post, November 25.) Eugene Pugh, U.S. agent in charge of the Customs office on the American side of the bridge at Laredo, Texas, said that Oswald had been checked by American immigration officials on entering and leaving Mexico. Mr. Pugh admitted to the New York Herald Tribune that this was "not the usual" procedure. He said Americans were not required to check in with Immigration when crossing the border. "but U.S. immigration has a folder on Oswald's trip."

One thing is clear: the FBI was in fairly constant touch with Oswald's activities. How far these contacts went is indicated in "the revelation that the Federal Bureau of Investigation tried to recruit Oswald as an undercover informant in Castro groups two months before Mr. Kennedy's death." This report, which appeared in a Philadelphia Inquirer dispatch from Dallas December 8, went on:

> The FBI attempt to recruit Oswald as an informant, an informed law enforcement source said, was made in September, just after he had moved to Dallas from New Orleans.
> Oswald's mother said an "agent named Hosty" came to the Irving house and talked to the young man at length in his car.
> An FBI agent named Joseph Hosty handles investigations of subversives for the Dallas field office.
> The source said he did not know if the FBI succeeded in hiring Oswald; and the federal agency would not discuss the matter.

On January 1, Lonnies Hudkins of the Houston Post, published a story under the headline: "Oswald Rumored as Informant for U.S." Hudkins found that Oswald did know agent Hosty. He had Hosty's home phone, office phone and car license number — this on the authority of William Alexander, assistant to Henry Wade, Dallas District Attorney. Alexander had attended the grilling of Oswald on November 22 and 23. Hudkins notes that if the FBI had Oswald under surveillance, the watch could not have been too close or they would have known about the rifle and other matters; but, as a sheriff deputy put it, "you just wouldn't think to check out one of your own stoolies." Hudkins quotes Wade, himself a former FBI agent, as saying: "It may be true, but I don't think it will ever be made public if it is."

What the public hears of the FBI's part in the Oswald case is usually a report that such and such a witness or authority has been asked, or ordered, to keep his mouth shut. Thus, Dr. J. J. Humes of the Naval Medical Center in Bethesda, Md., the man who conducted the autopsy on the President, seemed to be the best authority on the exact angle of entry of the murder bullets, but "Dr. Humes said he had been forbidden to talk." A thirty-four-year-old machinist named Malcolm Howard Price said he had looked through the telescopic sight of Oswald's rifle on a rifle range in suburban Dallas — but "Mr. Price declined to answer further questions because, he said, the FBI had asked him not to talk. The FBI here [Dallas] denied this." (The New York Times, December 10.) On December 6, the Times had observed:

> Most private citizens who had cooperated with newsmen reporting the crime have refused to give further help after being interviewed by agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. Dallas city and county police withdrew their help the same way. One high officer said he wished he could answer questions "because it would save us a lot of work."

The Western Union office in Dallas handled frequent messages for Lee Oswald, but inquiries there brought the reply that "any details or comment would have to come from Washington headquarters of the Federal Bureau of Investigation."

It is in the light of this official coyness that we must consider the possible connection of Oswald with the attempted shooting of General Walker. Oswald's widow is said to have declared that he boasted of shooting at that doughty warrior. In view of her prolonged seclusion from the public, and even from relatives, under government supervision, we must infer that any statement alleged to be hers at this time is a deliberate "leak." It is interesting that a similar "leak" at the beginning of the case — that a rifle which Mrs. Oswald knew her husband had kept in a garage was missing on the morning of the assassination — proved to be false. The FBI is also reported to have found a document in Oswald's hand writing that mentions his at[illegible] on Walker, but once again the document has not been produced for examination or reproduced in the press.

Harold Feldman is a translator and journalist, living in Philadelphia. As a translator, he has worked extensively for the Social Security Administration. Mr. Feldman is also a frequent contributor to psychoanalytic journals, one of his papers having been "The Hero As Assassin."

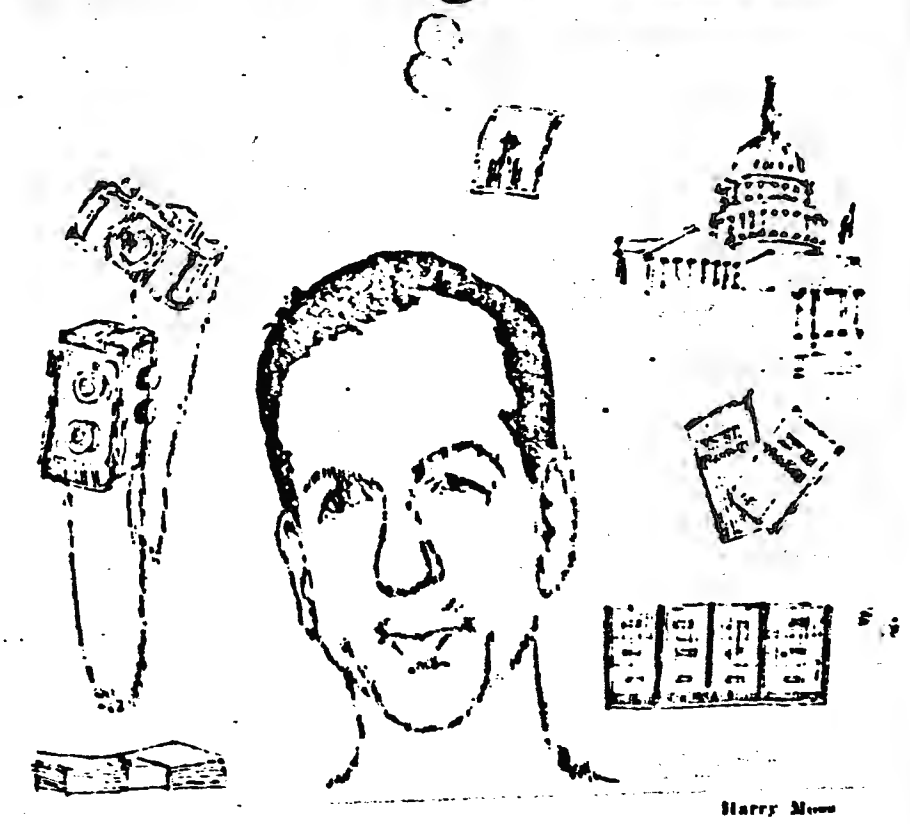
Incidentally, if "the loner" did try to shoot General Walker, we would be again confronted with questions like those raised about the killing of the President. "At the time of the Walker shooting," we read in the Philadelphia Inquirer of December 7, "Dallas police reported the bullet was from a .30-06 caliber rifle. The weapon used to kill Mr. Kennedy was a 6.5 millimeter weapon, equivalent to about .270 caliber." Moreover, an eyewitness in the Walker affair informed police that he saw at least two men enter the getaway car after the shooting. (Oswald never learned to drive a car.)

Was the alleged assassin of President Kennedy employed by the FBI? We have seen a news report that the agency tried to recruit him and that it has refused to say whether he accepted the offer. At present, all we know is that his history, as we have been able to piece it together, is not inconsistent with such employment. Indeed, his financial record seems entirely inexplainable unless we make some such hypothesis.

If there is anything constant in Oswald's life, it is his need of money. After three years on a marine private's pay, he goes to Russia. There he works in a factory for the pittance of 80 rubles a month. He returns to America with a wife and child in mid-1962 and thenceforward works at a series of jobs paying the legal minimum wage or less — when he is not unemployed. For months his only acknowledged source of income is the Texas unemployment compensation of $33 a week. His job at the School Book Depository, from whose warehouse he is supposed to have shot the President and Governor Connally, paid him $1.25 an hour.

Surely he was a pauper, a fellow whose monetary resources could only keep him swinging between want and destitution. But if there is another thing about Lee Oswald as certain as his indigence, it is that he was often capable of expenditures that would have cramped the purse of a suburban status seeker.



Harry Mora

After years of subsisting on a marine's pay, from which he occasionally sent money to his mother, he undertakes a trip to Russia with a capital of $1,600. How could he have put aside this nest egg? After years of low factory remuneration in the Soviet, he wants to return to the United States and, in a letter to his mother, estimates the cost at $800. He borrows $435.71 from the United States Embassy in Moscow but, mirabile dictu, he repays the loan between October, 1962, and January, 1963, during which time he was unemployed for several weeks and worked for a time as an unskilled developer of photostatic prints.

A Miss Pauline Bates, public stenographer, whom Oswald paid for typing his notes for a book about Russia three days after his return, has said that "he hinted he had gone to the Soviet as a U. S. secret agent." He allegedly told her then that "when the State Department granted my visa, they stipulated they could not stand behind me in any way," an admonition suggestive of instruction, to an undercover man.

Back in America, as impecunious as ever, he finds the money to rent an office for $30 a month, where he sets up in business as the New Orleans chapter of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee. He buys a [illegible] lets, he pays a $10 court fine, he buys a rifle and telescopic sight by mail, gets them assembled and boresighted — and in his room after his arrest the police find $150. This young man, untalented, it appears, for anything but finding odd windfalls of money, goes to Mexico City for a week to get visas for a trip to Cuba and Russia that would have cost at least $1,000. (The Cuban and Russian consulates did not issue the visas.) After the murder of the President, the police find in his room, in addition to the wad of money, "several expensive cameras and rolls of film."

Where did the money come from? The FBI and the Dallas police fail to supply information on the subject. For the Russian period, we have the unsupported assertion of Pravda that Oswald was an American spy who made numerous contacts with the American Embassy. This might indicate a CIA affiliation. He wrote his mother that, on his return, he would spend a day or so in New York and Washington for "sightseeing." After that, all is dark except for one hint. An Associated Press dispatch of November 30 from Dallas says in part:

> "Someone telegraphed small amounts of money to Lee Harvey Oswald for several months before the assassination of President Ken[illegible]

Dallas Times Herald said, [illegible] unidentified senders telegraphed Oswald $10 to $20 at a time.

Here apparently are some of the Western Union items about which the FBI has been so secretive — but why this secrecy? If the money came from the Communist Party, it is hard to understand why the FBI should cooperate in a Bolshevik plot. If it came from a right-wing or Fascist source, the FBI could not lose much by revealing it. But if the money came from a government source, then the agency's reticence is understandable.

Shortly before the assassination, Oswald seemed to be expecting better times:

Mrs. Ruth Paine, the woman with whom Marina was staying, said: "He seemed in exceptionally high spirits." [When he visited his wife the weekend prior to President Kennedy's arrival in Dallas.] Oswald told his wife "things are looking up" and that soon they would have enough to look for an apartment, buy furniture. (Sunday Bulletin, Philadelphia, 12/15/63.)

If the FBI did not employ Oswald or work with him, then who wrote the letters he addressed to the Fair Play for Cuba Committee in New York? Oswald alone certainly didn't. Whoever wrote the letters to New York was coherent, commanded a good vocabulary, rarely misspelled a word, and punctuated decently. Oswald himself wrote English that a sixth-grader would blush to acknowledge. Here is a letter he wrote to his mother from Russia on June 28, 1963. I preserve the original spelling and punctuation:

Dear Mother.

Recived your letter today in which you say you wish to pay me back the money you used last year, that, of course, is not nessicary however you can send me somethings from there every now and than.

Lee

P.S. Marina sends a big Hello to you also

Now compare this semi-literate effusion with the following addressed to the Fair Play for Cuba Committee about two years later. (A New York Times report on the letters to FPCC indicates that they were handwritten, so presumably no public stenographer improved their style.)

Dear Mr. Lee:

I was glad to receive your advice concerning my try at starting a New Orleans F.P.C.C. chapter.

I hope you won't be too disapproving at my innovations but I do think they are necessary for this area.

As per your advice I have taken a P.O. Box (N.O. 30061).

Against your advice I have decided to take an office from the very beginning.

I u c [apparently meaning, as you see] from the circular I had jumped the gun on the charter business but I don't think it's too important. You may think the circular is too provocative, but I want it to attract attention even if it's the attention of the lunatic fringe. I had 2,000 of them run off.

The major change in tactics you can see from the small membership blanks, in that I will charge $1 a month dues for the New Orleans chapter only and I intend to issue N.O. F.P.C.C. membership cards also.

This is without recourse to the $5 annual F.P.C.C. membership fee.

However, you will lose nothing in the long run because I will forward $5 to the national F.P.C.C. for every New Orleans chapter member who remains a dues paying member for 5 months in any year. . . .

And so on for several more well-integrated paragraphs.

He now spells "receive" and "necessary" correctly. He has mastered the apostrophe. His ideas cohere. He tackles words like "innovations," "provocative," "recourse," "disapproving," "approaching" and "application" with success, something that would have been clearly beyond the powers of the voluntary exile in Minsk.

Until the authorship of the letters to FPCC is settled, I think it reasonable to suppose that Oswald did not compose them, at least not without help. Who, and where, is the invisible scribe? No associate of his New Orleans period has been found, or even hinted at. If Oswald was employed by the FBI to operate in "Castro groups," as the news report suggests, it is also reasonable to suppose that in the letters to FPCC his pen was guided by the FBI.

It is no simple matter any longer for a radical American to get a passport from his government. If he is a known Communist or subversive, it is almost impossible. Let a man be known as a do-gooder, bleeding heart or a nonconforming screwball, and his application for travel will be greeted with jaundiced eye and dragging feet. But Lee Oswald got one readily as late as June, 1963.

One day last June, he applied for a passport and — despite his record — got it in a single day. He called himself a "photographer"; he said he planned to take a long trip abroad — perhaps including Russia — late this year. (Newsweek, 12/9/63.)

By that date, Oswald was known as a Soviet defector, had praised Castro on a radio program, and on November 2, 1959, had written an affidavit saying, "I affirm that my allegiance is to the Soviet Socialist Republic." But his passport application was granted—and posthaste! "It still isn't clear how it was processed so rapidly," commented the New York Herald Tribune.

Oswald's apartment, too, was filled with fascinating things. Besides the batches of leaflets with the legend "Hands Off Cuba!" and bearing the unauthorized imprint of the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, police found seven metal file boxes filled with names of Castro sympathizers. How did he manage, in so short a time, to compile so extensive a list?

The FBI appears once more in Oswald's news life during the last two days before he was killed. One report details two telephone calls made by FBI agents to the Dallas Police on November 24, warning them of threats against Oswald's life. The threats materialized later the same day under circumstances which raised a forest of questions throughout the world.

Equally puzzling, his mother Mrs. Marguerite Oswald, has insisted that an agent of the FBI showed her a photograph of Jack Ruby just about seventeen years before Ruby shot her son.

It was understood, however, that Federal agencies had acknowledged that she had been shown a photograph that night for identification, but spokesmen would not disclose whether it was that of Ruby. (The New York Times, 12/2/63.)

The next day the FBI denied that the photograph was that of Jack Ruby but they would not comment further. Mrs. Oswald repeated her statement and has demanded that the pictures be produced again.

The following item completes, for the moment, this side of the weird Dallas story.

Washington, Dec. 9 — The Federal Bureau of Investigation gave the Secret Service a "risk" list of Dallas indicia als in advance President Ken dy's fatal trip . . . the list did not include the name of Lee H Oswald.

An official source explained today that Oswald's name, like many others in the Dallas file, had been omitted because the F.B.I. found nothing in Oswald's background to mark him as a potential assassin. . . .

Oswald was not under surveillance by the F.B.I. at the time of President Kennedy's visit to Dallas Nov. 21, the F.B.I. noted. Months of checking by the F.B.I. had indicated that Oswald was neither a spy nor a saboteur. That, it was said, covered the statutory area of F.B.I. responsibility. (The New York Times, 12/10/63.)

Lee Oswald, the twice-court-martialed marine who defected to Russia and renounced his American citizenship, the pro-Cuba activist who had been arrested a few months earlier while distributing leaflets, this erratic "Marxist" who was employed on the route of the President's motorcade—Lee Oswald did not qualify for the FBI's exclusive "risk" list. And why? Because the FBI's "statutory responsibility" was limited to suspected spies and saboteurs!

This sudden legalistic attachment to its self-interpreted "statutory" obligations must cause very wan smiles indeed among the many individuals and organizations (including the NAACP and the Unitarian Church in Texas) which have come under the beady-eyed surveillance of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

New Hope of the Far Right . . . . . Gene Marine

To his followers, Maxwell L. Rafferty, California's new Superintendent of Public Instruction, is worthy of the same kind of uncritical, almost worshipful adulation that extreme conservatives give Sen. Barry Goldwater. To his critics, he is a slippery, cool, tough, unprincipled rightist, bent on taking over California for the John Birch Society. Actually, he's neither. He's far more important. When Jesse Unruh, the tough-minded Speaker of the California State Assembly, says that Rafferty "terrifies" him, it's worth looking to see why.

Elected in November, 1962, on a vague but forcefully stated platform shouting for "basic education," Rafferty is obviously significant to those who are primarily concerned with education. He was chosen in the most blatantly partisan contest ever waged for the nominally nonpartisan office, and has emerged as a dynamic, popular vote-getter in a state where the rest of the Republican leadership is decimated.

But most important is the fact that Max Rafferty's candidacy and election have demonstrated more clearly than ever the close connection between California's "respectable" and "radical" Right. Today Rafferty is a self-described "Eisenhower Republican." Yesterday he was a contented associate of Birchers, anti-income-taxers and other virulent rightists. From beginning to end, the transition has been worked out, supported and, to a large extent, bankrolled by wealthy Californians who are both. Rafferty's prominence is neither accidental nor transitory.

Richard Nixon, now a resident of New York, talks safely about the "kooks" of the Right, but the fact is that the rightist political structure of California, in which respectability and radicalism are but two sides of the same coin, was first exposed in 1952 when the names of the contributors to the now-famous "Nixon fund" were published. In 1958, when Californians fought out the right-to-work issue on the ballot, the same names of respectable business leaders who are also major supporters of the radical Right, turned up again. And they turned up for the third time in 1962 — behind Max Rafferty.

The nonpartisan election for the superintendency is a winner-take-all primary in June, unless no candidate gets a majority; in that case the top two run it off, as happened in 1962. At that time, in the few areas—San Francisco, Sacramento, Fresno, Santa Barbara — where good press coverage was given, Ralph Richardson of Los Angeles was pictured as the "liberal" candidate, Cecil Hardesty of San Diego as the "conservative" and Rafferty as a powerful rightist. Hardesty was supported by the powerful California Teachers Association and other school-administrator groups. Thus the primary election was not a straight conservative vs. liberal fight.

Rafferty's primary-election supporters can therefore be taken to be the people who backed him from the start. That list of supporters includes at least four Nixon-fund contributors. It includes the law firm—Gibson, Dunn & Crutcher—which issued a "clearance" for the fund's propriety, twelve contributors to the right-to-work issue; at least nine executives or directors of major oil companies, and a number of officers and directors of a few other powerful California firms —Cyprus Mines, Inc., Pacific Mutual Life Insurance, State Mutual Savings and Loan, California Bank.

These are not men who play for aggies. There is little question that Jesse Unruh, who knows as much about economic power in California as any politician in the state, has reasons for his concern about Rafferty.

Rafferty came to the attention of the organized Right shortly after becoming Superintendent of Schools in Southern California's silk-stocking community of La Cañada in March, 1961. Starting as a football coach and English teacher in a small district, he worked his way up along the usual hierarchical ladder, always in smaller districts, drawing on a genuine executive ability and personal charm. In June, 1961, he made a speech in the La Cañada junior high school auditorium, where he unleashed a gift for purple prose and extravagant generalization that is still one of his outstanding and popular characteristics:

> The results [of our present educational system] are plain for all to see: the worst of our youngsters are growing up to become booted, sideburned, ducktailed, unwashed, leather-jacketed slobs, whose favorite sport is ravaging little girls and stomping polio victims to death; the best of our youth coming into maturity for all the world like young people fresh from a dizzying roller-coaster ride, with everything blurred, with nothing clear, with no positive standards, with everything in doubt. No wonder so many of them welsh out and squeal and turn traitor when confronted with the brutal reality of Red military force and the crafty cunning of Red psychological warfare.

Another passage from the same speech has been the subject of continuing controversy about exactly what was said:

> We had better not be caught withholding from this nation's children the wonderful, sharp-edged, glittering sword of patriotism. In a word, this means Indoctrination. An ugly word? I think not. But if it is ugly to teach children to revere the great Americans of the past—to cherish the traditions our country as holy things—and to hate Communism and its creatures like hell—then I say let's be ugly, and let's revel in it.

By August, the speech was being distributed in mimeographed form by Poor Richard's Bookshop and the Betsy Ross Bookshop, Birch outlets in the Los Angeles area. In October, it was reprinted in condensed form in the Reader's Digest. Rafferty immediately became a darling of the Right, and he has been so ever since. The John Birch Society regularly urges its members to read one book a month from its approved list; when Rafferty's Suffer, Little Children appeared, the Society recommended it "especially."

Before the end of the year, the incumbent Superintendent of Public Instruction, Dr. Roy Simpson, blasted the speech-turned-article as "irresponsible and unfounded." But Dr. Simpson was retiring, and the politically minded all over the state knew it. The forces of the Right were alert to the opportunity.

Original rightist support centered around Dr. Virgil Hollis, Superintendent of Schools in Marin County, just north of San Francisco. In December, 1961, however, Hollis decided not to run, and Rafferty's name began to be mentioned. A "draft Rafferty" headquarters was opened in Fullerton, Orange County, in the office of a public relations woman named Zan Thompson.

Printed sheets prepared by the "Draft Committee" and bearing the Fullerton address were distributed through Birch outlets; the official story is that the draft movement just grew from there. Actually, Hollis, seeking to round up support for Rafferty, wrote several letters, one of them to Jud Baker, political editor of the Los Angeles Herald-Express. According to Baker, Rafferty was soon summoned to a "meeting of millionaires" at the California Club in Los Angeles and given their approval — presumably they were the same oil, banking and real estate figures whose names appear on his list of contributors.

Unknown to most Californians, these individuals and their corporate cohorts are the men who dictate financial terms to the state's political conservatives, despite the warped vision that can lead them to support the Manion Forum, Human Events, and other rightist activities. They are the men who, in 1958, genuinely believed their own mythology about the "Walter Reuther-Jimmy Hoffa-Harry Bridges brand of unionism," as the Los Angeles Times once startlingly put it. And they are the same Californians who, in 1964, will convince themselves, and try to convince the state, that Barry Goldwater is the authentic voice of the inarticulate public mood.

In California, their hearts and their money are riding with Max Rafferty.

The Republican leaders who hadn't already disappeared—as had Knowland, Knight and others—were almost certain losers in 1962, except for Senator Kuchel, a "Warren man" whom the conservative elite has never liked. This oligarchy needed a new, bright face, a new winner—and they got one. There is no overemphasizing the importance of the fact that Rafferty was their candidate from the very beginning.

The popular liberal picture of Rafferty as a right-winger and nothing more is a myopic vision, and dangerously so. For like Goldwater, Rafferty uses the classic conservative ploy: nail down the right wing and move toward the Center.

Several Democratic Party leaders are well aware of the danger from Rafferty. One of them said privately, "He's more dangerous than Nixon—he's like Nixon, in that he doesn't have any real convictions of his own, he'll contradict himself all the time. But Nixon was remote and cold—Rafferty is warm. He has charm." Indeed, Rafferty is a charismatic as well as a handsome man. With abundant iron-gray hair topping a granite-jawed, usually determined face, he can call on a quick smile, a ready articulateness and a disarming air of candor. He used all of them in a lengthy interview for The Nation. Without being asked, he began with a long, well-informed discussion of his pending effort to put into California's history teaching more details about Negro contributions to American culture. He remained charming when asked about his 1961 remarks concerning "indoctrinating" students with patriotism:

> There is an attitude about teaching history, which is very common and which on the surface sounds very good. The idea is that you try, simply and scientifically, to teach the facts—to tell the children just what happened, as far as possible, and then to let them make up their own minds about it. I respect that attitude, but I disagree with it. You don't learn to love your country that way. You don't learn to love your mother by studying all her good points and her bad points and weighing one against the other. You don't learn to love her through a process of thesis, antithesis and synthesis. I don't think you can teach children to love their country that way.

Unimpressed by the nominally nonpartisan nature of Rafferty's job, Jesse Unruh, as a leading Democrat, laced on his six-ounce gloves early. Their first public conflict was over "politics in education," and the consensus is that Rafferty, trading on the "bossism" image favored by Unruh's opponents, got by far the best of it. ("I got clobbered," Unruh says simply.) A short time later, Unruh tried again, hammering at Rafferty's Birchite support and challenging him to deny that he'll be the Republican candidate for Governor in 1966. This fight was going on when Rafferty was interviewed for The Nation.

"No educator ever gets elected to public office," Rafferty smiled. Then he went on: "Mr. Unruh is a shrewd politician. After November, when all the smoke had cleared, he looked around among all the corpses and saw one Republican standing. The only other one, Mr. Kuchel, is off in Washington. Naturally Mr. Unruh leveled on me. It's ridiculous."

Rafferty later said that Unruh was building a "straw man" in order to consolidate his own position—a line that has since been successfully sold to a number of liberals, particularly those away from Sacramento, who still think of Rafferty as largely supported by the less "respectable" Right.

Rafferty also told The Nation, "I have no plans to run for Governor—my job is here." The phrase had a familiar sound, possibly because of a letter Rafferty wrote in December, 1961 (just six months before the primary election), to the president of the La Cañada Board of Education. Referring to the possibility of his being "drafted" for the state office he now holds, Rafferty wrote: "I am not a candidate for any public office. Moreover, my present obligations completely obviate any possibility of my interest in such an office at this time." And not long after his interview for The Nation, Rafferty told a reporter that he "would run for governor for either party in 1966 if the public, major newspapers, and radio and television stations wanted him to." (San Francisco Chronicle, Nov. 18, 1963.)

Harry Moss

Rafferty has by now convinced most Californians that he has no affiliations with the John Birch Society, but there is a faintly Nixonesque flavor about the record in retrospect. On May 16, 1962, for instance, he held a press conference in Los Angeles and said, among other things, "I am not a member of the Birch Society. I am not acquainted with anyone in the society. . . ." A month before, in the April 13 Los Angeles Times, a three-column photograph showed Rafferty in smiling conversation with then-Congressman John Rousselot, who had already received national attention as a Birch Society member. The picture was taken at a meeting conducted by the rightist Doctors for Americanism; Rousselot and Rafferty were only two of a number of right-wing guests.

At about the time of Rafferty's interview with The Nation, a series of events had just begun—too complicated to describe here—which was to make a state-wide issue of a book called The Dictionary of American Slang. The issue arose originally because the book was (and is) in the Sacramento high school library—on a not-for-circulation, use-only-under-supervision basis. The book includes definitions of what its authors refer to as "taboo" words, and the question of "obscenity" arose. Rafferty, who was not then involved in the controversy, was asked about it. "As a teacher of English," he responded quietly, "I don't really think much of slang dictionaries. I read this dictionary when the controversy started. It's not bad, but I'm not sure it's appropriate for high school students, are you?"

Mild enough. But the next day, Rafferty issued a statement on the dictionary, a carefully thought out blast that must have been in preparation during that mild, easygoing interview. The book, he said, was "filthy" and "a handbook of sexual perversion." What was needed, he suggested, was "a little bit of censorship." Rafferty was in every paper in the state, as he has been at least once a week ever since.

In private, he had elaborated slightly on his vision of censorship: "Every school librarian censors books all the time. They censor books when they decide what to buy. Censorship is what they get paid for."

A short time before, Rafferty had clashed with the chairman of the State Board of Education, Thomas W. Braden. When Braden was reappointed by the Governor, a group of Rafferty's campaign followers, still organized and now bearing the title of Responsibility in Education, Inc. (RinE for short), flooded the state senate with thousands of letters protesting confirmation of the appointment. Braden was confirmed — as all experienced observers, probably including Rafferty, knew he would be — but a number of things were accomplished. The Raffertyites had a new rallying point to hold them together; the image of Rafferty-against-the-Democratic-administration had been carefully drawn.

With Rafferty's blast against the slang dictionary, the legislature was flooded again, this time with mimeographed reprints of the most "taboo" words and their definitions, along with sheets demanding Braden's resignation. Rafferty has persistently disclaimed any control over these efforts, but after unfavorable publicity about the mimeographed "dirty words" being given to children, he has nevertheless indicated that he thinks he can call it off. In doing so, he has committed another masterful Nixonism:

I doubt if there is anything further to be gained by such circulation. . . . Even indication points to [the book's] rapid disappearance from our public library shelves, or at the very least its rigidly restricted use under controlled conditions. . . . There never has been a question of censorship in this whole affair—only a question of advice from my office on a matter of common decency, morality and good taste.

Note Rafferty's reference to public libraries—never involved in the matter—his ignoring his own previous remark about censorship and especially his bland implication that the campaign had achieved the book's "rigidly restricted use under controlled conditions" — which is where it was in the first place.

But Rafferty appears to know what he's doing—or at least, his actions since taking office have followed a pattern that makes the early support of the conservative power elite of Southern California look well placed. He has now adopted the position that there is "no controversy" between him and Braden. He has made several public appearances every week, touring the state to speak to almost anyone who will have him—frequently local Republican groups.* And he has so handled his public relations—even coming out on top of the formidable Jesse Unruh—that his ever-widening group of supporters increasingly sees him as a lone and gallant David, staunchly defending integrity and "basic education" against a Goliath-like Democratic machine.

In addition, Rafferty has brought his undeniable executive skill to bear in the Department of Education itself, so that an increasing number of teachers in the state, no better informed than other citizens, are gaining a favorable impression of his abilities. His statements on education, relying as they do on oversimplified generalizations, have a wide appeal to California's many immigrant parents, who brought with them, in one observer's words, "small-town and down-on-the-farm ideas."

Add the picture Rafferty is presently painting of himself and the nature of his early and continuing support, and one can easily credit the vision of San Francisco Examiner education editor Ron Moskowitz:

The way I see it, Dr. Rafferty hopes the partisanship will continue in education. . . . Then, in 1966, he will go before the voters and be able to say: "Ever since I've been in my office . . . I have tried to make reforms in education. . . . But I have found that under present law, even though the people elected me to put my ideas into practice, I am powerless against the Democratic Governor and his advisers to do anything. . . . I have decided not to run again for the State Superintendent's job. The only office that will give me the power to put my ideas into practice is the Governor's office."

Although he disclaims any knowledge of or connection with the movement, Rafferty's supporters using his name freely, have been candidates in numerous school board elections throughout the state with varying success. RinE put out a school-board candidates' questionnaire for use by its member chapters, which it now claims number 260. It's an interesting potential route to power.

"It'll be very hard to stop him if he wants to run for Governor," Jesse Unruh says, "and the man who becomes Governor of California can become anything. You know I'll do a lot of things for the Democratic Party, and you can criticize some of them, but I'm not just thinking about the Democratic Party now. I'm thinking about the country, and this guy terrifies me." Jesse Unruh is famous, even among his enemies, for telling the truth.

The power elite of conservative Republicanism in Southern California failed with Knowland and the right-to-work issue; they failed to keep Nixon in line; Kuchel has openly opposed them; they failed with the abortive gubernatorial candidacy of Joe Shell. In 1964, they may fail, as they well know, with Goldwater in California—but it will take a real battle to defeat the newest and shiniest creation, Max Rafferty.

*Rafferty said at the Santa Fe high school on July 25, 1962, that "Every nickel I've gotten has come from individual contributions from people like yourselves. I have received no money from any political or other groups." His primary-election statement, filed a month earlier, shows eight contributions from Republican clubs, two from Pro America groups, several from corporations.

Libel and the Free Press . . .

. . . Norman Dorsen

The United States Supreme Court will soon decide a free-speech case in which, for once, the petitioner does not represent the isolated and marginal in American society. It is not the victim of a HUAC inquisition, a Smith Act conviction or a Southern purge of the NAACP. Nor is it a figure of the Right. The petitioner this time is The New York Times, that strong, respectable anchor of the Establishment. The Times now seeks for itself what its editorial columns have so often sought for others — the protection of the First Amendment to the Constitution. It is appealing from the Alabama Supreme Court a $500,000 judgment rendered against it for an alleged libel.

The libel action stemmed from a full-page advertisement the Times published on March 29, 1960, sponsored by the "Committee to Defend Martin Luther King and the Struggle for Freedom in the South." (Another libel action arising out of the advertisement has resulted in a similar jury verdict of $500,000, and yet a third case, involving a claim of $2 million is pending.)

The ad was generated by an indictment handed down early in 1960 by an Alabama grand jury against Dr. King for perjury in connection with the filing of Alabama income tax returns. (Incidentally, he was later acquitted.) The committee to support Dr. King, which included Mrs. Ralph Bunche, A. J. Muste, A. Philip Randolph, Norman Thomas and the late Eleanor Roosevelt, was hastily put together in the belief that the indictment was politically motivated and without foundation. The advertisement, titled "Heed Their Rising Voices," was essentially a political and fund-raising appeal. The text began:

> As the whole world knows by now, thousands of Southern Negro students are engaged in widespread non-violent demonstrations in positive affirmation of the right to live in human dignity as guaranteed by the U.S. Constitution and the Bill of Rights. In their efforts to uphold these guarantees, they are being met by an unprecedented wave of terror by those who would deny and negate that document which the whole world looks upon as setting the pattern for modern freedom. . . .

Without identifying or naming any particular individual, or fixing any particular time, the advertisement then referred to certain specific incidents of claimed repression in Montgomery, Ala., and Orangeburg, S.C. With regard to Montgomery, it said:

> . . . after students sang, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee" on the Capitol steps, their Leaders were expelled from school, and truckloads of police armed with shotguns and tear gas ringed the Alabama State College campus. When the entire student body protested to state authorities by refusing to re-register, their dining hall was padlocked in an attempt to starve them into submission. . . .

The advertisement asserted that Martin Luther King "symbolizes the new spirit now sweeping the South," and that his "doctrine of non-violence . . . has inspired and guided the students in their widening wave of sit-ins. . . ." It continued:

> Again and again the Southern violators [of the Constitution] have answered Dr. King's peaceful protests with intimidation and violence. They have bombed his home almost killing his wife and child. They have assaulted his person. They have arrested him seven times — for "speeding," "loitering" and similar "offenses." And now they have charged him with "perjury" — a felony under which they could imprison him for ten years. Obviously, their real purpose is to remove him physically as the leader to whom the students — and millions of others — look for guidance and support, and thereby to intimidate all leaders who may rise in the South. . . .

The conclusion was an appeal for funds.

A wave of anger engulfed Montgomery. John Patterson, then Governor of Alabama, and L. B. Sullivan, one of the three elected Commissioners of Montgomery and plaintiff in the libel suit, demanded a retraction. Although the Times believed that no statement in the advertisement referred to either Governor Patterson or Commissioner Sullivan, it published a retraction in the case of the Governor because of his "high office" and the possibility that there was "a reflection on the state of Alabama." The Times has conceded that there were certain inaccuracies in the advertisement.

A jury trial of the case resulted in a verdict for Commissioner Sullivan for $500,000 (all damages claimed), under the Alabama rule that a public official is entitled to recover "presumed" and "punitive" damages for a publication critical of a governmental agency under his supervision if a jury thinks that the publication "tends to injure him in his reputation" or "bring him into public contempt as an official." Under this rule, the complainant need not establish actual injury to his reputation.

The case, as presented to the Supreme Court, involves the broad constitutional question of whether the Alabama courts have "abridged" freedom of speech or of the press in rendering this judgment against the Times. Obviously, there has in fact been some interference with the practice of free expression: publishers are now considerably more concerned about the contents of both advertising and news copy. The Times, in particular, feels this pressure, not only because of the actions stemming from the controversial advertisement, but also because of seven libel suits—again in Alabama—arising from an article by correspondent Harrison Salisbury on racial conflict in that state. At present, the Times is not distributed in Alabama, presumably because it fears still more actions.

The threat to free expression is not limited to the cases involving the Times. Perhaps because there are fashions in law as elsewhere, there has been a rash of huge libel judgments. John Henry Faulk, a black-listed radio and television commentator, won a judgment for $3 million (later reduced to $550,000) against the publishers of Red Channels. General Edwin A. Walker has sued a host of newspapers and radio and television stations, for a total of about $20 million, charging that they disseminated false information about his activities during the riots at the University of Mississippi in 1962. Nor is this style in law suits confined to the political arena. Wally Butts, former football coach at the University of Georgia, recently won a libel judgment that included $3 million (later reduced to $460,000) in punitive damages from the Saturday Evening Post for an article it printed charging that he had revealed his team's plays to an opposing coach. Other actions are in the wings.

The New York Times thus represents not only its own interests in the Supreme Court. It is the standard-bearer for other defendants and potential defendants. What can the Supreme Court be expected to do?

A decade ago, in the case of Beauharnais v. Illinois, Justice Felix Frankfurter declared that "libelous utterances [are] not . . . within the area of constitutionally protected free speech." A sharply divided Court upheld Beauharnais' conviction under a "group libel" statute that prohibited the exposure of citizens of "any race, color, creed or religion to contempt, derision or obloquy." Although it was not essential to the decision, Justice Frankfurter's all-embracing formula has been repeated in later Supreme Court opinions. It rests on the postulate that freedom of speech is merely one of the competing interests in society, and that other important values—national security, the need to curb obscenity or, as here, the protection of personal reputations—may impose limits on free speech. Taken at face value, the opinion delivered by Justice Frankfurter plainly would offer little hope to the Times.

At the other end of the spectrum is the view of Justice Hugo Black. In a celebrated interview, he recently argued that the First Amendment "as written and adopted, intended that there should be no libel or defamation law in the United States . . . absolutely none." This approach is grounded in a philosophy that puts the highest premium on free expression. A major tenet of this philosophy is, in the words of Justice Louis Brandeis, that for "falsehoods and fallacies . . . the remedy to be applied is more speech." If Justice Black's view were to prevail, the Alabama judgments against the Times could not stand.

It is not to be supposed, however, that either of these two attitudes will commend itself to a majority of the Court. The Supreme Court has a way of eschewing broad holdings, and the Times case will probably be decided on narrower grounds. There appear to be at least two ways in which the Court could reverse the state judgments and give limited constitutional protection to defamatory utterances without having to rule on Justice Black's absolutist position.

The first avenue has been opened by the lawyers for the Times. It is implicit in the premises of the First Amendment, they have argued, that "speech or publication which is critical of government or official action may not be repressed upon the ground that it diminishes the reputation of the officers whose conduct it deplores or of the government of which they are a part." In other words, criticism of an elected public official cannot constitutionally be punished, just as concern for the reputation of the bench does not support punishment for criticizing a judge — even with "half-truths" and "misinformation" — unless there is clear danger that justice will be obstructed.

History speaks clearly here. Even before the nation was formed, James Madison maintained that "it is manifestly impossible to punish the intent to bring those who administer the government into disrepute or contempt without striking at the right of freely discussing public characters and measures." Later, when the short-lived Sedition Act of 1798 declared it a crime to defame the government of the United States by bringing its leaders into "contempt or disrepute," Madison and other leaders opposed the Act, and over the years the Supreme Court has often said that the Act was inconsistent with the First Amendment.

One can conclude, therefore, that criticism of governmental conduct may not be prohibited to protect the reputation of the government or its officials. If this were not so, as the Times argues, the "daily dialogue of politics would become utterly impossible." This consequence would flow naturally from Alabama law. As pointed out above, certain libels (such as the present one) are by that state presumed to be "false and malicious," thus opening the way for unlimited damages both general and punitive — the former for a "presumed" injury to reputation and the latter "not alone to punish the wrongdoer, but as a deterrent to others similarly minded."

This leads directly to a second, and broader, ground for reversing the Alabama courts. The Supreme Court could rule that all criminal libels are forbidden by the First Amendment and that, because the jury awarded damages against the Times without proof of actual harm to the plaintiff's reputation, the judgment was punitive and therefore equivalent to a fine for criminal libel.

The Times has partly argued this position. It contends on appeal that "it is both legally correct and factually realistic to regard the entire verdict as a punitive award." But the Times skirts the question of whether all verdicts in civil actions designed to punish rather than to recompense the plaintiff are invalid. Instead it merely contends that the size of the verdict is so "shockingly excessive" that it violates the Constitution.

The first step to the broader approach is to justify a constitutional distinction between civil and criminal libels. This distinction would follow from a recognition that, while an individual's interest in his own reputation requires the availability of a compensatory action for his benefit, society has no comparable interest which would justify criminal penalties for defamation, especially in view of the threat implied to free speech. This distinction could draw upon historic English and American fears, culminating in the First Amendment, that the government would use criminal laws banning "seditious libel" as a means of throttling political opposition. A decision invalidating criminal libel on constitutional grounds would require the overruling of Beauharnais v. Illinois, but that case has already been weakened by more recent rulings.

The second step would be to relate punitive damages in civil suits to fines for criminal libel. The argument is along these lines: (1) the purpose of the punitive award is the same as the criminal sanction — to punish the defamer; (2) the effect is the same, in that astronomical damages will sharply deter dissemination of news; and (3) punitive damages in civil cases are even more severe than criminal libel because they are inflicted without affording a defendant the protections associated with a criminal trial — indictment by grand jury and proof of the case beyond reasonable doubt.

Of course, the Supreme Court may avoid both the above routes to decision. Other possibilities do not involve the First Amendment. For example, the Court could rule that the Alabama judgments deprived the Times of due process of law because the insignificance of the paper's business in Alabama (a total circulation of only 394) did not justify the local courts in assuming jurisdiction over it. If the Court rules according to some such side consideration, it will evade an issue of pressing importance. For the chief questions raised by the New York Times litigation involve the extent to which defamation laws impose limitations on free speech, and the self-censorship that would hamstring bold journalism if the present vogue of astronomical libel judgments were permitted to become a national custom.

THE CITIES DOWNSTREAM . . . . . David Cort

A drought is not fatal to a land in the natural way. So well-watered a terrain as Maryland began a nine-year drought in 1863, and survived it. But the drought years 1930-34-36 on the Great Plains produced the Dust Bowl and a permanent injury to the American property.

The 1963 drought did not become serious until the excellent crops had been harvested. After a dry summer, the September-October rains simply did not keep their appointment. Beef pasturage and milk production were in trouble; the prospect for winter wheat looked grim. Suddenly everybody was desperate; cities were asking their citizens not to drink water; and the losses figured by statisticians ran to "billions."

The best example of what was really happening was given by the wonderfully fertile peninsula of southwest Ontario, bounded by Lakes Huron and Erie which would seem to guarantee a perpetually high water table. However, like everybody else, Ontario farmers have been speeding up the run-off of water by deforesting, draining marshes, installing artificial water runways such as sewers, drains and concrete roads, fouling streams and overpumping the underground water. October was beautiful, beautifully dry. The birds didn't migrate; the swamps dried up; the smoke of forest fires drifted over the peninsula. By November, the wells had gone dry and the farmers were carting water. Overnight, it seemed, this lush land was terribly thirsty.

Not a very impressive story. But the trouble is that America has worked its way into a water bankruptcy where it cannot afford any sort of drought at all. This monstrous fact can be grasped as a simple equation.

The total of water a continent receives arrives in the first place as vaporized ocean water, blown in over the land and then condensed. This total is a generally uniform amount, and is not subject to control by governments. It is a relatively fixed annual endowment, and there isn't any more, and there isn't going to be any more. For the area of the forty-eight contiguous American states, the gift of water is about 1,200 cubic miles a year. Except for Asia and Australia, this is the worst deal any continent gets.

All right: 1,200 cubic miles a year. On the other side of the equation, America's water demands have exploded and are still exploding. United States demands have risen in the century from 40 billion to 320 billion gallons per day and may be headed for 600 billion gallons. When anybody moves from the country to the city, his personal demand goes up from five gallons to 100 or more gallons a day. A store's air conditioning uses 2 million gallons a day. The manufacture of a ton of steel demands 65,000 gallons, of viscose rayon 200,000 gallons, of bromine 5 million gallons. This last alone equals the daily personal water use of a city of 50,000.

The word is always "demand." Addressed to water, this word assumes a pitiable arrogance. Water has a thousand ways of evading a command.

Before completing our equation, it should be noted that water statistics are very watery, and may mean much or nothing. However, anybody can multiply average annual rainfall of 30 inches by the land surface of forty-eight states, and get the figure given above: 1,200 cubic miles of water. By converting cubic feet to gallons (one cubic foot equals 7.4 U.S. gallons) and multiplying by 320 billion gallons a day and 365 days in the year, we find that we use 110 cubic miles a year. (Or maybe twice that.) This does not include the run-off of the rivers, the evaporation, the plant transpiration of water, the breakup of H_2O by photosynthesis and the mass of water that falls where nobody can use it. That 110 cubic miles of water is just about all that is available to us. The rest maintains the United States as a living, functioning property.

Ridicule of current water statistics is not idle, for they are used as clubs by powerful agencies that want the water. A comic example is the figure for total daily U.S. rainfall of 4.3 billion gallons. (About 1 per cent of the water used daily.) Obviously I cannot prove that any of these figures is right or wrong (except that many of them contradict one another), and certain statistics with an aura of pure magic run right through the literature. The use of gallon statistics, apart from their lovely propensity to run into billions, does not help. Water is not whiskey. Another favorite unit is acre-feet of water, which is hard for the layman to handle. Water is not hay.

Let us take an acre and cover it with 100 inches of water (8.3 acre-feet) in the thirsty and greedy state of Arizona. Let it stand. Within the year every last drop of it will have evaporated; you will have your acre, but no feet. There goes every statistic involving standing acre-feet in the Southwest, and to a lesser extent elsewhere.

This demonstration should long since have dissipated some of the current passion for dams and reservoirs, centered for venal reasons in the Army Corps of Engineers. This remarkable outfit has projected in the Delaware Basin alone 193 major potential operations and 386 minor ones to occupy themselves up to the year 2010 A.D. Sixty-three dams are at present definite projects. By damming the Glen Canyon of the Colorado River, for no apparent useful purpose, they have just destroyed probably the most exquisite scenic asset of the entire country (see The Place No One Knew, by Eliot Porter: Sierra Club, San Francisco). By flooding river bottoms on the migratory bird flyways, they have made it nearly impossible for ducks, geese and whooping cranes to feed anywhere on the flight between Canada and the Gulf of Mexico.

The reservoir behind the Coolidge Dam, built in 1928, has silted up until it is now a tenth its original area: a shrunken satire on the principle of dams and reservoirs. One magic word for the Corps of Engineers is "flood-control." Once completely valid in the U.S., especially along the Mississippi, this incantation is nearly obsolete. The reminder of one hurricane-triggered flood in the Delaware Basin is worth several billion dollars to the Corps of Engineers. The other magic word is "irrigation." The absurdity of the irrigation projects is that America does not need more cultivated land; it has millions of acres of good, well-watered, unused land; and irrigation eventually salts and thus ruins the land. When irrigation is mentioned, the greasy hand of politics is always under the table.

In their water literature, the industrial trade papers and the women's magazines keep repeating that the American environment is now one "we create and control." Certainly we tamper with it, try to outwit it and louse it up; but we did not create it and do not control it. The natural world, the whole tremendous environment, has us in its grip and now and then tells us so with brutal implacability. Then we cry, and for a while the little autocrats are silent.

The crying from the cities is most interesting, for these get their water in four different ways. Underground water is used by Rome, Vienna, Berlin, Copenhagen and Amsterdam. Nearby lakes are tapped by Chicago, Toronto and Geneva. Artificial, and sometimes distant, reservoirs are the recourse of New York, Los Angeles, Boston, Bristol, Madrid and Athens. But the most natural water source is the river on which the city stands: thus St. Louis, Washington, London, Paris, Antwerp and Rotterdam.

All four systems have defects, but a succession of cities along a river are in the worst trouble. For the river is invariably both a well and a sewer, two functions difficult to reconcile. Each city indignantly and expensively filters out the sewage of its upstream neighbor, and then blandly flushes its raw sewage back into the river, for the benefit of the next downstream city. The whole river-flow is never cleaned (just the portions piped into each city), so that toward the end of the line the compounded sludge of all the cities comes rolling down together. Where the water still holds free oxygen, the aerobic (good) bacteria can cleanse the water; but when all the free oxygen has been consumed, the anaerobic (bad) bacteria take over and the ultimate in filth is achieved, accompanied by hydrogen sulphide, ammonia and methane gas. As to where this is the current state, no names need be mentioned: the cities know their own names.

The Incas used to build their bathtubs as a stairway, so that the bath water passed from the chief down the chain of command to the lowliest citizens in the bottom tub. Subordinate Incas were honored by the used bath water of their superiors. This is not true of downstream cities. Everyone's drinking and bathing water has a vivid reality; his sewage has no reality at all in his own mind. On the instant, it is forgotten — but not downstream. What has been described is one way "we create and control" our environment. But not downstream.

A fortunate event for the conservation of water was the election of the late President Kennedy. Whereas Eisenhower had vetoed a modest water-pollution bill in 1960, Kennedy pushed through a much more ambitious program early in 1961. This is currently authorized to spend $100 million a year to help communities build waste-treatment plants, with a maximum of $600,000 to a single city. About 3,000 communities need such facilities; 900 have obsolete plants, and 1,600 others call for renovation. The need for such a program was dramatized by the refusal of the citizens of St. Joseph, Mo. (upstream from Kansas City and Independence) to vote a bond issue for a sewage-treatment system. When the federal government brought suit, a local official said, "A lot of people here think the federal government has gone too far. They think, who is trying to force this down our throat? It strikes a pretty raw nerve."

This comes from a man whose excrement is being "forced down the throat" of Kansas City and Independence, Mo., but to point out this fact to him "strikes a pretty raw nerve," as well it might. Nobody likes to be identified as a loathsome abomination, when in fact that is what he is. The late President Kennedy's program asked the American people just in time to observe the Golden Rule, even in St. Joseph, Mo. But St. Joseph is mad at Omaha, upstream, and Omaha is mad at Sioux City, upstream. The hatred rolls upstream, as the sewage rolls downstream. But suddenly St. Joseph, Mo. doesn't want to be pushed around. When it flushes the toilet, that's that. It is indeed a sacred moment. But not downstream.

If you want to get the bad taste of this essay out of your mouth, ask Reader's Digest for its happy 1957 reprint (when things were terrible) of a Peter Farb article, "Let's Clean Up All Our Poisoned Rivers!" proving that everything was working out fine. To articles like this one cannot quite apply the word treason.

The late President's comprehensive water vision took in reforestation, shoreline park development, development of river basins and, finally, the speeding-up of a practical technique for de-salting ocean water.

De-salting is already a practical fact, and is only a cost problem (see "Solving the Water Shortage" by Carl Dreher, The Nation, Dec. 28). For cost comparisons, Imperial Valley farmers pay 6c for 1,000 gallons of irrigation water; Los Angeles residents pay 24c for 1,000 gallons, and the price may rise close to a dollar. U.S. nuclear submarines convert 1,000 gallons of salt water to fresh for $5; the sheikdom of Kuwait spends $3, and is installing a new electro-dialysis plant; Coalinga, Calif. does it for $1.45; the demonstration plant at Freeport, Tex. converts water at $1; and Japanese engineers claim to have a freezing process that costs about 40c per 1,000 gallons.

In many parts of the world, these latter costs are already practical. California has plans to spend $13 billion on water. Southern California is already taking water from the Colorado River basin and from Northern California, and has been brutally snubbed in an exploratory raid on the Columbia River basin, far to the north. The tremendous costs of transporting water immense distances could be avoided by de-salting Pacific Ocean water. President Kennedy's complementary plan was to give the de-salting techniques to desiccated nations all around the world, and so to improve the face of the earth, the lives of hundreds of millions — and the image of the United States.

However, his program ran into a paleolithic Congressman on the Interior Committee, Wayne Aspinall (D., Colo.)—remember that name. He has an unmatched record for savaging the American property: he loves sheep men and nobody else in the United States. Aspinall managed to cut President Kennedy's program in half, and to hobble the surviving half. The Senate succeeded in restoring part of the dismembered half. The Office of Saline Water got $75 million for a six-year program.

One final statistic will illuminate the matter of who uses water, and also that of water statistics. The more or less official figure for American industry's current use of water is 10,000 billion gallons a year. This works out to about 10 cubic miles a year, but the true figure may be any multiple of that. Of course we want the industry, and we want it to have the water. But as our supplies run short, the people have a right to ask industry to clean its own water, re-use it and return it to the people in good condition. And surely the Golden Rule can be rephrased as: Remember the cities downstream.

That thought seems to have been in the mind of the late President Kennedy.

Trade Journals of Utopia

LITTLE MAGAZINES. By Reed Whittemore. University of Minnesota Pamphlets on American Writers 1963. 47 pp. 65c.

William Wasserstrom

What a splendid idea it was for the University of Minnesota Press to include in its notable series of essays on American themes Reed Whittemore's study of little magazines. The Minnesota series treats complex matters in sturdy essays, neither light nor heavy, which mix incontrovertible fact with private judgment and thereby offer enlarged understanding of major writers and movements in American literature. Whittemore, who teaches English at Carleton College, is a founding editor of Furioso and of its successor, the Carleton Miscellany — a little magazine which pricks with parody the puffier and more swollen members within its own group. One of our most knowledgeable men of letters, acute in criticism, adroit in fiction and verse, he is splendidly equipped to write a pamphlet designed to introduce an extraordinarily diverse but unified field.

His pamphlet represents one modest event within a new and general surge of interest in this realm of literary history. Until recently there has been only one book, Hoffman, Allen and Ulrich's The Little Magazine, published almost twenty years ago, and miscellaneous articles on, or anthologies of, dead journals. Last autumn, however, the full file of F. R. Leavis' Scrutiny was reissued, along with some grumpy afterthoughts by the editor. There have been books on Albert Jay Nock's Freeman, on William Marion Reedy's Mirror, on the Watson-Thayer-Marianne Moore Dial. And the more we learn the better we realize that the little magazine movement in America is a very special affair.

From 1894 until 1912, the affair was scarcely a movement. Early impulse to experiment in the arts was first supported in The Chapbook, 1894, and Alfred Stieglitz's Camera Work, 1903. But not until Harriet Monroe's Poetry was established in 1912 did the movement begin to flourish. From then on new writers found one or another magazine eager to print experimental work of every imaginable kind. Pound and Eliot, Stevens and Marianne Moore, Cummings and Hart Crane, Joyce and Yeats received their first attention in Margaret Anderson's Little Review, Alfred Kreymborg's Others and Glebe, William Carlos Williams' Contact, Gorham Munson's Secession, or Harold Loeb's Broom. Alongside these reviews were numberless papers which appeared now and then, disappeared and reappeared, or, despite announcements and manifestoes, never made it beyond a first number or two.

Ever since 1920, undercurrents have suffused the main stream of our national thought, and today, as is persuasively claimed in the 1961 organizing "Statement" of The Association of Literary Magazines in America, "American Literature since 1910 would not have survived in its present variety and vigor without these magazines. Almost without exception, all the distinguished modern writers in America started their careers in them . . . as well as scores of younger writers now emerging into prominence." Furthermore, because "a nation's body of literature does not depend wholly on the great," and because the magazines "have served as a seedbed for each generation of creative writers," little magazines compose an "indispensable tradition" which preserves nothing less than "the very impulse to literary creation" itself.

A social movement is a crystallization of that tumultuous and moiling thing, culture itself. And no matter what ax we grind for whichever little magazine we favor, one overriding fact of history must be reckoned: little magazines began earlier, have lasted longer and remained more inventive than any other single enterprise of literature in our time. And the little magazine movement in itself is by far the most influential of all modern schemes for the dilation and distribution of human learning.

Mr. Whittemore's pamphlet is designed to chronicle the history of this movement and to gauge the nature and worth of its influence. Unfortunately, the history is of small value. Although it touches almost everything, mentions nearly all the proper names, it ends in a sort of maze — a postscript called "A Few Other Magazines." There you discover in no apparent order little chunks of discussions of various magazines, the last of which concerns The Dial: "probably the best American literary magazine of the century," he says. Because his heart is not in it, his performance of the historian's task is dutiful but inexpert. He prefers to adopt the mode of an amateur, of the man who cherishes his subject too much to trammel himself with technic and detail.

Further, I am puzzled to understand why Whittemore, the historian, mentions the Liberator but not the Masses; Politics, but not The Modern Quarterly; the Harkness Hoot, but not Symposium and Accent in his Selected Bibliography of "Forty Prominent Little Magazines Started before 1950." No less troublesome is his decision to include, on his list of Selected Readings, the back files of leading journals, a quirky group of background books, his own "Brief History of a Little Magazine, and Other Matters," but not William Troy's comprehensive, two-part "Story of the Little Magazines" or Delmore Schwartz's essay on the Criterion or Lionel Trilling's essay on the Partisan Review. Precisely because there have been so few major articles, those that do exist — connecting the sixties with the thirties and forties — are the more precious.

Once they are registered, however, these objections can be put aside. For his chronicle may be capricious, but his criticism is almost beyond reproach. As a disciplined study of the ideas which led certain key persons to fashion some quintessential literary magazines during the last half-century the essay is a marvelous feat by a original and judicious mind. All our journals of high art and deep thought, he says, are marked by two presiding motives, seriousness and responsibility. These are the "purr words" of the little mag word book. But meaning is fuzzy: popular magazines are serious about being vulgar and commercial, magazines are responsible about making money. In order to sharpen mea-ing, to make those words effective. Whittemore isolates three radical patterns of purpose in three separate kinds of little review — in Poetry, in a quartet of Southern papers (the Fugitive, the Southern Review, the Kenyon Review, Sewanee Review) and in the Partisan Review. Each of these is treated as a symbol of a particular way of conducting literary affairs. None is ascribed absolute dominion over its special sphere.

Poetry, inspired by Ezra Pound's crusade to save civilization by saving art, Whittemore conceives to be the one journal that has held to its original aim: it identifies art and civilization, rejects the distinctions between human imagination and human society, and promotes the one as the chief instrument for the salvation of the other. To this most serious design, its editors have brought a responsible standard: a poem must be well made and it must seem to have permanent value. Poetry, indeed, preserves the tradition once caricatured by Ernest Boyd, "Aesthete: Model 1924," a piece which caused a famous fuss. The model aesthete is "Editor-in-Chief, Editor, Managing Editor, Associate Editor, Contributing Editor, Assistant Editor, Bibliographical Editor or Source Material Editor of one of the little reviews making no compromise with the public (or any other) taste." Forty years later, Poetry remains, in Whittemore's view, the "trade journal" of uncompromising aestheticism: "the trade is a worthy one and so is the journal," but neither trade nor journal has brought about either revolution or revelation. The magazine is in the school libraries but its idea is not an intellectual force in the classrooms. Partisan Review, however, continues to be a force, even though its idea is now murky and its former authority is dispelled. In its prime, this non-aesthetic and anti-Stalinist magazine of social purpose led a vanguard of intellectuals who were determined to establish a union of ideology and art. Rejecting the regime of art ("Model 1924"), hoping to conduct a spiritual and social revolution, Partisan incarnated that kind of little mag seriousness which served as a standard for responsible moral, social and intellectual life from the late thirties until the early fifties.

Overlapping both Poetry and Partisan and more influential than either are those Southern reviews whose ra[illegible] Whittemore calls a "critical program removed from politics," political program that is, for language or the Word." Like Poetry, the Southern reviews were committed to an abstract and solemn notion of transcendence in art. Unlike Poetry, the Southern reviews attempted, through careful analysis of the language of art, to account for its splendors. Like Partisan, the Southern journals discerned a profound interplay between language and culture; unlike Partisan, these reviews — despite an initial fascination with agrarianism and totalitarianism — ended by recoiling against all programmatic views of politics or history. Programs for salvation in art or redemption in history merely distracted men of literary mind from the exercise of their own deepest resources, from their study of the mind's best manifestation: language.

Whittemore contends that these three main patterns of imagination were brought to climax in 1949 when the Bollingen prize was awarded to Pound. Offering at this point his own most original idea, he says that this was the occasion when all issues ebalesced. The principle of objective literary value was cited by language men to support their decision to honor poems (The Pisan Cantos) written by the man who embodies all the varieties of literary life promoted in the little magazine movement at large. Whatever the embarrassment of his politics, Pound is the critic who inspired the New Criticism and Pound is the writer who invented the poetry of ideology and apocalypse. To confer this award on Pound for The Pisan Cantos, therefore, was to adopt an extraordinary and unbelievable position: with this work, art and Utopia are at last one. And by no serious and responsible standard — linguistic or textual, ideological or historical — could any sane judge support this claim. "Perhaps we have reached the end of civilization-saving in literature and therefore, incidentally, of the age of little magazines, an age which some future historian may say began with the founding of Poetry in 1912, and ended with the Bollingen Award in 1949."

Although I admire Whittemore's argument, I dissent from his conclusion. What ended in 1949 was not the age of little magazines but the age of Pound. These magazines flourish today in almost boundless number. Indeed, little magazines today are big business. The Association of Literary

"Unlike most people, the British have traditionally admired their policemen. The British bobby, social historian John D. Scott once wrote, is regarded as 'a decent person ...who is in authority but never loses his temper—he is the English ideal.' That was eight years ago. Today, the fashionable gag going the rounds in London from roughneck Notting Hill Gate to uppercrust Mayfair is: 'Don't forget! Kick a copper for Christmas.'"

Magazines of America now wants proper recognition, insists that it represents one of the chief resources of modern society (like "art museums, symphony orchestras, little theatre groups and liberal arts colleges"), and plans to go for the big money. Whether the association grows rich or remains poor, the little mag movement will continue to expand. Sooner or later it will stop representing the Pound generation, and we shall stop expecting it to deliver us from [illegible] tion and delinquency. But it will remain "incurably Utopian" in its effort to enlarge the American community of serious and responsible persons. The chief business now of the movement is to furnish members of this community with new ways to address and know one another in our unorganized country where most persons prefer old and trivial ways or are customarily frivolous and irresponsible.

Consuming the Land

ANIMAL WORLDS. By Marston Bates. Random House. 316 pp. $15.

THE QUIET CRISIS. By Stewart L. Udall. Holt, Rinehart and Winston. 209 pp. $5.

Norman Thomas di Giovanni

"Books of natural history," remarked Thoreau, "make the most cheerful winter reading." But that was many winters ago, before such books were created in the offices of federal government politicians or hatched in Madison Avenue editorial rooms. To be cheerful nowadays a natural history book has to come into the world, if not as a purely uncommercial venture, at least without its commercial origins showing too plainly. In very different ways, the two books under consideration are productions primarily for commerce.

Marston Bates has written about animal environments and animal adaptations to environment. This is the ecological approach to the study of organisms — treatment in a total context rather than in more or less isolation. Basically it comes down to cycles of who is eating what or whom in any particular landscape, some fourteen or fifteen of which are described in the chapters of Animal Worlds. As a writer, Bates is lucid and he is nontechnical without approaching the simple-mindedness of certain of his colleagues, science teachers who turn out popular studies in the various branches of biology. As a scientist, he has had the world-wide experience (in such places as the West Indies, Central and South America, Albania, Egypt and Micronesia) needed for the lively discussion of his vast subject.

But given even Marston Bates's qualifications and abilities, is it possible to handle so broad a subject at any useful depth in a volume of a little more than 300 pages, a good third of which are covered with photographs? Whisked from the depths of the oceans to the tops of mountains and through every major habitat from the equator to the poles, including deserts, grasslands, tropical forests, temperate forests, northern forests, and so on, our impressions become too general, our concepts remain too vague. I have learned more about the nature of animal adaptation, for example, in a single magazine article dealing with the competition between sheep and hill kangaroos on the poor grasslands of northwest Australia—exactly because the article kept to a specific focus. And some of the best pages in Animal Worlds are those that tend toward a narrowed focus by illustrating points with more than a sentence or two: a few paragraphs on the herring gull, a section on the Galapagos Islands. Each of the environments treated by Bates in his brief chapters deserves more extended coverage; many of them need book-length introductions.

Obviously, however, when the publishers thought up this book they were not trying to nourish any reader. Having pages that measure about 8 x 11, and containing "245 illustrations, including 100 in color," and being grossly overpriced, Animal Worlds was a gift book invention. Surely it was not meant for reading from front cover to back; and so, one review which praised it also announced its proper place: on the coffee table. As for photographs (and this is the case with collections of photographs, generally), they are valuable — useful — when they document, and are mere ornamentation when they do not. In this book they do not. Finally, the text is marred by typographical errors.

Stewart Udall's small book, The Quiet Crisis, is intended for commerce of a higher order. The Secretary of the Interior is out to promote the New Frontier's conservation program and tomorrow's land ethic. The book has two purposes: one is to survey the history of land policy in the United States from the days of the Indians and earliest white settlers to the present; the other is to "develop fresh insight concerning the men and forces that have shaped our land attitudes and determined the pattern of land. . . ."

In his first purpose, as a historian, Udall has succeeded admirably. He has sketched for us, always right to the point and in very good prose, the main lines of sound thought and the too often unsound development in husbandry and in land and wild-life conservation. The story begins with the birth of the Republic and the theories and reforms of Thomas Jefferson, who made what Udall considers "our first great land decision," the creation of public domain in the unoccupied stretches of the Northwest Territory. Before this, during colonial days, the continent was virtually virgin. As for the Indians, their relation to the land was largely one of natural harmony; of this, in an inspired opening chapter called "The Land Wisdom of the Indians," Udall writes:

> To the Indian mind . . . land belonged collectively to the people who used it. The notion of private ownership of land, of land as a commodity to be bought and sold, was still alien to their thinking, and tribe after tribe resisted the idea to the death.

But it was also in Jefferson's day that an idea took hold which made wise management of the land seem superfluous. This belief — that natural resources were inexhaustible — is aptly termed by Udall the Myth of Superabundance. This myth "induced a state of mind that made waste and plunder inevitable," and led to the great depredations on natural wealth throughout the whole of the nineteenth century. In the cycles of these "Big Raids," the abundant beaver was nearly extirpated; millions and millions of forest acres were devastated by the lumber companies in their cut-and-run operations, with up to 25 million acres a year burned off by loggers' careless fires. In the far West, hydraulic mining was invented and "For every ounce of gold collected, tons of topsoil and gravel were washed into the river courses below." Then there were the great strikes in the oil fields and, due both to greed and ignorance of geological principles, the accompanying waste of petroleum and natural gas from gushing wells; elsewhere the grasslands were overgrazed and the plains overfarmed; in the North Pacific, seal herds were ravaged almost to extinction, as were the buffaloes on the Great Plains.

The record is long and depressing. Voices of consicence stirred in the early decades of the nineteenth century, and with the closing of the Civil War, a few men of action — facing incredible odds — began to rally against the profiteers and the obliging give-away politicians. Most of Udall's chapters dwell on a central figure or occasionally on two or three who best typify the land-consciousness of their day. After Jefferson there are Daniel Boone, Thoreau and Emerson, the Bartrams, Audubon and Francis Parkman. Later come men with less familiar names: George Perkins Marsh, a scholar and ecologist whose work in the scientific management of resources led to his being called the "fountainhead of the conservation movement"; Carl Schurz and John Wesley Powell, who crusaded for reforms in forestry practices and the undertaking of large-scale irrigation projects; Gifford Pinchot, another forester and conservation counselor to Theodore Roosevelt; John Muir, who battled for extension of the national park system; both Roosevelts; Frederick Law Olmsted, a pioneer for public playgrounds, city parks and urban design. This story of our relationship to the land is perhaps the most consistently neglected aspect of American history. Stewart Udall has performed a service in outlining it.

But at the same time Udall has flatly failed in the achievement of his second undertaking. Far from leading us to fresh insights into the men and forces behind the record of history, he leads us from them with too many of his own (and our country's) contradictory, ambivalent attitudes toward basic problems. At root here is economics. Conservation requires planning; planning leads to socialism; socialism is not the American way. Thus Udall is — and as a high-ranking politician has to be — inconsistent. Take the question of land ownership: as a conservationist he praises the communal system of the Indians and the Spanish missionaries of the Southwest; but as a politician he praises the system of individual ownership as practiced by white settlers in colonial times and inherited by the rest of us. This system, he says, "fostered a fierce independence of spirit" that "was the undoing of the British rulers." He does not say that this spirit of independence also grew into the spirit of free enterprise, which consistently fought holdings of public lands and has always resisted the best schemes of the conservation cause.

Udall abhors the fact that Robert Frost's old farm in New Hampshire is an automobile graveyard, but he dares not point a finger at the powers in control of zoning ordinances. Similarly, he speaks of the pollution of the air and water by chemicals, but cannot manage a word against the profits of the chemical companies. On one page he talks about the desecration of the American landscape by "industries that produce an incredible array of boxes, bottles, cans, gadgets, gewgaws and a thousand varieties of paper products," and on the next speaks of "the collaboration of science and industry and government, quickened by the spur of business competition" in behalf of conservation.

Udall's trouble and the trouble with politics is that each must fall from passion into compromise, from what is ethical to what is possible. Thoreau knew about this inevitability, and as Udall unhappily notes, Thoreau had "contempt for politics and public men." What then do tomorrow's land ethic and the future of conservation come down to? To a plea for altruism addressed to a pack of wolves.

Trouble With the Bard

Christopher Sykes

That 1964 is the fourth centenary of Shakespeare's birth is a fact of some alarm and hope. The centenary habit is dangerous: not to push the celebration to all possible lengths is to be suspected of disloyalty; duly to push it is to risk turning the great subject into the greatest of bores. For several years after 1950 many people found it an unaccustomed effort to read the poems of Wordsworth, and what interest there was in Goethe in the English-speaking world dropped noticeably after 1949. Exceptions are to be found among those great masterspirits who cannot be hackneyed. There was no detectable Mozart-fatigue after 1956. If any one knew the date of Homer's birth he would probably be safe. Others abide our question, to remember Arnold's priggish but masterly line: Shakespeare is probably free enough to survive 1964 unscathed.

The first move in the quatercentenary celebration in England was the appearance of two biographies in the same week in the early fall of 1963. They were by Dr. A. L. Rowse of All Souls College, Oxford, and Mr. Peter Quennell, the well-known biographer and critic.[1] The appearance of the two books in the same week was not part of a conspiracy — on the contrary it was a most regretted coincidence which resulted in the sale of each book's being to some extent limited by the other. Mr. Quennell's book seems to have suffered more, not because it was manifestly the inferior of the two, indeed many critics held it up as the better, but because it was not controversial. Dr. Rowse's work, on the other hand, was one of the most controversial on its subject to appear since Middleton Murry's interesting but highly cranky and questionable book was published in 1936.

Dr. Rowse stirred up feeling against himself by claiming to be the first historian to treat of William Shakespeare. The claim is true only in a very limited sense. All first-class Shakespeare scholars have been obliged to go from literary study of the poet to a study of his times. Otherwise they would not be first class. Dr. Rowse can claim to be unique in having made the journey the other way round, but to suggest, as he does throughout, that he is the only man to have closely studied both the man and his background is manifestly ridiculous. The result has been a

Seagreen, admiral of the greens
Earth-green, comrade of the workers, countless pledge to everyone's happiness.
Infinite sky of cattle grazing fresh eternities.

Subaqueous light of a tiny thicket where plants, insects and birds live harassing each other in the silent love of a green god.
Green scent of the fleshy century plant brewing in its vegetable pot deep-rooted potions
of shadow and rain.

Tropical plain where the pine's tattooed head sweats in its green feathered tuft.
Green hunch-backed shrubs, poor relatives of the hills.

Green music of insects forever sewing the sackcloth of couch grass;
the long-shanked living in violins, and the beat of the frog's green opaque drum.

The angry green of the cactus and the patient trees gathering miraculous bird-hauls in their green nets.

All the world's appeasing green drowning in the sea, crossing mountains to reach the sky, running through the river — ancient and naked — and in the bitter moaning of the wind.

I fulfill the land's secret will eternally locked in your sealed prison where innocent birds, a panther and esoteric hairy creatures live preparing with the island's wild herbs sweat and thorns
of my rooted daily death.

A Philosopher

Though they took the trees away and locked him in his room, nothing could break that green allegiance!
When I went to see him
he was sitting very quiet, looking at his painting. It was called "The Wood."
But even one tree had given him shade enough to hide the naked walls and wind enough to blow the ceiling off!

"They're with me all the time," he said,
"Just thinking on the one has brought the whole grove in."

He feels the slow

All That Time

I saw two trees embracing.
One leaned on the other as if to throw her down.
But she was the upright one.
Since their twin youth, maybe she had been pulling him toward her
all that time,

and finally almost uprooted him.
He was the thin, dry, insecure one,
the most wind-warped, you could see.
And where their tops tangled it looked like he was crying on her shoulder.
On the other hand, maybe he had been trying to weaken her, break her, or at least make her bend over backwards for him

just a little bit.
And all that time
she was standing up to him the best she could.

She was the most stubborn, the straightest one, that's a fact.
But he had been willing to change himself — even if it was for the worse —
all that time.

At the top they looked like one tree, where they were embracing.
It was plain they'd be always together.
Too late now to part.
When the wind blew, you could hear them rubbing on each other.

great deal of unnecessary [illegible]ility which caused many critics to be most unjust to an admirable historian.

It was evident that trouble was ahead when a preview of the sonnet chapter and one other appeared in the Times. Dr. Rowse put forward the theory that most of those sonnets that were addressed to a handsome young man were lovingly intended for Lord Southampton. He went on to propose that the tormentingly enigmatic Mr. W. H. was Sir William Harvey, the third husband of Southampton's mother, and that A Midsummer Night's Dream was written for this lady's second marriage to Sir Thomas Heneage in 1594.

There was much in these Times articles (they appeared with little alteration in the book) to bother scholars. The general reader found three principal matters to disquiet him. To identify Mr. W. H. with Harvey one must assume that Thomas Thorpe, the first publisher of the sonnets, obtained the poems (through Harvey) from Lady Southampton's papers when she died in 1607. It seems, considering their contents, an odd place for them to have been in Southampton's lifetime. Not impossible, of course, but one would like more documentary evidence than the initials W. H.; and evidence is in very short supply. The whole proposition is speculation.[1]

Then again, Dr. Rowse claims to have solved the riddle of the magnificent lines:

The mortal moon hath her eclipse endured
And the sad augurs mock their own presage,
Incertainties now crown themselves anew
And peace proclaims olives of endless age.

If this refers to 1603, to the death of Elizabeth (no friend of Shakespeare), and the accession of James I (to be his good patron), and the liberation by James of Southampton from prison to which he had been condemned for joining the Essex conspiracy, it makes easy sense. But Dr. Rowse is the prisoner of his theory that the sonnets were written in the 1590s. Therefore 1603 is out. Instead he argues that the passage refers partly to the Lopez conspiracy against the Queen, and partly to the victory in the same year (1594) of Henry of Navarre. Southampton was a Catholic: Shakespeare may have been attracted to Catholicism. Even so, it is difficult to see why Henry's conversion and the consequent loss to England of her Protestant French ally should have so rejoiced this patriot-poet. Not impossible, of course, but we want more evidence, as we want it again in the third subject of distress: the uncompromising identification of "the rival poet" with Christopher Marlowe. Here only internal evidence can be called, and though it is ingenious, it is tortured to meet Dr. Rowse's case, and is only just enough for a theory. But we are told it is a completely established fact: we are ordered to shut up because the historian has spoken. No wonder people got angry.

The progress of the criticism in England was an interesting study: it was the great sporting event of the autumn. The first shots were fired on October 4 by J. I. M. Stewart from the Daily Telegraph and William Empson from the New Statesman. Both showed what was to be a prevailing mood: puzzlement at such a violent display of confidence, and admiration for the undoubtedly excellent description of Elizabethan and Jacobean England.

When a very eminent book comes out there usually occurs an informed criticism which sets the pace and provides a model. Subsequent critics either write it out again in their own words, or more honorably argue around it. This pace-making criticism came out on October 10 in the B.B.C.'s weekly magazine, The Listener. It was by Christopher Ricks, and it was short, hostile, deadly. It emphasized what Dr. Rowse had not made plain to the general reader: that many of his discoveries were in fact theories of long standing, notably the identification of Mr. W. H. with Harvey, which dates from 1867. Five days later Malcolm Muggeridge took up the Ricks argument in cruder and more popular form. He came out in the Evening Standard with a display of unrestrained abuse in which he thoughtlessly fell into one of Dr. Rowse's worst errors: treating Shakespeare as if he and the great bard were close friends

[1] In the wake of Dr. Rowse's publication, J. Dover Wilson brought out An Introduction to Shakespeare's Sonnets (Cambridge University Press, $2.75). This small book, rather pointedly subtitled "For Historians and Others," was originally intended as the introduction to Dr. Wilson's edition of the sonnets, not due until 1965. For the roles of "the favorite," "the rival poet" and Mr. W. H., it offers an entirely different cast of actors.

(unlike you and me) on mutually back-slapping terms. He called his article "Sir Oracle Speaks." It was a deplorable performance. Dr. Rowse had his defenders, notably Robert Speaight in the Roman Catholic Tablet, but few critics could quite forgive the historian's arrogant and bullying tone. This caused them to be unjust. None of them had anything to say about what seems to me Dr. Rowse's master stroke, his ingenious and very moving interpretation of that most mysterious and marvelous of Shakespeare's poems, "The Phoenix and the Turtle."

There was a long, long wait (until December 26) for what "The Thunderer" would say: the Literary Supplement of the Times. The reviewer had been delayed by illness. When he did emerge, he was most disappointing. He wrote a long article of some 3,500 words in furious hostility, but not to be compared in quality with the short, cruel piece by Christopher Ricks. It was muddled thunder. His point of view, except that it was hostile and that he adopted the silly superior tone of the anonymous reviewer, was never made clear, and he wrote with sly, round-about affectation. Unless the present writer has a very unclean mind, he seems to have descended at one point to a degree of bawdiness that even the bard might have blenched at. We had waited patiently and so very long that we felt we deserved something better.

Dr. Rowse has written a fascinating book. After reading it, the lover of Shakespeare can approach nearer to the prince of poets. The style is very colloquial, but that is a merit when writing about a man with whom no one can faintly compete in splendor, elegance or mastery of language. If only Dr. Rowse had maintained good temper; if only he hadn't ordered us about so unnecessarily, and sometimes so offensively, we should have all followed him like lambs.

MUSIC

Benjamin Boretz

The news of Paul Hindemith's death last month brought vividly back to mind the inescapable importance that his ideas and influence once exerted in the musical world. Only a few years ago, his career seemed a focal reflection of the most critical issues of twentieth-century composition, and the [illegible] presented in his music and writings were seriously discussed as the basis of a new International Style, a common practice that would reestablish the wide intelligibility and social function of the composer's work and release him from the frustration of endless, lonely experimentation.

Hindemith's impact on American musical life was perhaps most remarkable of all. His enormous prestige when he first came here was strikingly indicated by the fact that he was the only composer of the group of illustrious European immigrants (which included Bartók, Krenek, Schoenberg and Stravinsky) who was ever appointed to a major American university, and the only one whose works were played by all our major orchestras and ensembles almost from the moment he arrived. Naturally, such a formidable penetration of the American musical establishment deeply impressed the younger composers, who soon regarded a period of study with Hindemith at Yale as an obligatory credential of conspicuous professional promise. The steady flow of students and disciples continued until Hindemith's return to Europe in 1953, and there is probably no American composer above the age of thirty who has not encountered, in some crucial way, the force of Hindemith's teachings and attitudes.

Thus it is astonishing to realize how remote that force has become from the central concerns of our musical activity, how completely Hindemith's influence vanished during the last years of his life. The death of Schoenberg, in contrast, seemed a historic cataclysm, and after thirteen additional years we have only begun to comprehend the full implication of his accomplishment and to realize the extent of its potential for further development. And although every serious American musician today regards acquaintance with a new Stravinsky score as an essential part of his professional equipment, it might be difficult to find one who could even name a major Hindemith work of the past ten years.

Unquestionably, the whims of fashion and the emergence of more facile and dependable paths to musical notoriety are, as Hindemith himself believed, largely responsible for his eclipse. But there is something more fundamental involved, a fatal flaw in the essential premises on which the presumption of his mastery and authority rested, as well as in the convictions out of which his own compositional methods were formulated. At first, Hindemith's qualifications as a significant and effective musical thinker and creator seem manifestly impressive: he had a phenomenal musician's ear, whose perceptive and memorative capacities were legendary; a prodigious facility in every practical aspect of music (his first important public activity was in performance, as a virtuoso violist and member of the Amar-Hindemith Quartet); and a wide acquaintance with the historical and theoretical literature of music, ranging from Greek and Medieval philosophy to nineteenth-century acoustical science. Furthermore, the audacious "modernity" of his first compositions, and the progressive seriousness and "importance" in the style and subject matter of the later works (proceeding from the sensational Murder, Hope of Women (1921) to the settlement-house socialism of We Build a City (1930), the ethical and moral concerns of Mathis der Maler (1938), and the metaphysical profundities of Die Harmonie der Welt (1957), as well as the apparent ease with which he could handle the most complex polyphonic textures and constructive devices while turning out finished works in incredible profusion, all contributed to his establishment as a profound creative mind and a consummate master of technical resource.

But the assumption that such qualities are not only necessary but sufficient guarantees of superior compositional capacity is an old and troublesome fallacy. Its potential for misdirection is particularly great in a period like ours, when well-established criteria based on consistent musical practices are unavailable, and everyone has been thrown onto the discriminative resources of his own perception. Hindemith seems, in retrospect, to have been a victim of this misconception, to which, indeed, his extraordinary abilities made him especially susceptible. For he was evidently unaware of the fundamental distinction between the "musician's ear," which has the capacity to perceive and reconstruct musical facts, and the "composer's ear," which is able to formulate a musical conception and then project mentally those concrete details, materials and successions that can uniquely express it.

Even a composer's "hearing" of other music, or bodies of music, depends on this distinction. Much of Stravinsky, for example, seems to derive from his having heard, within the sound-context of traditional musi-unique musical phraseology which then emerges in his own works through a keenly selective manipulation of crucial elements of the traditional framework. Schoenberg, on the other hand, seems to have heard in Classical structures the possibility of mobilizing their powerful coherence through a new perceptual context. The result is both a "new sound" in Stravinsky and a new kind of structural continuity in Schoenberg, for our perception of musical qualities is ultimately determined by the interaction of the presentational framework with its constituent elements. By the same token, composition is essentially a process of choice, of selection of best alternatives from available resources. Here, the musical image functions like a Geiger counter that directs the composer by its special sensitivity to precisely those elements and relationships most relevant to its realization.

Hindemith's hearing, however, seems to have remained fixed at the purely reproductive stage, and thus depended for its local as well as long-range conceptions on the literal procedure and manner of existing music. The "modernity" of his earliest period was mainly achieved by systematic "violations" of conventional contexts, and even the neotraditional music of his later years is like a skeletal tracery of the elements of some individual or composite model, whose form and style are generalized into fluoroscopic abstraction. In both instances, the principal effect on the listener is a sense of almost-familiarity, either blatantly or elusively out of focus. Despite the abundance of ideas of widely differing appearances and levels of interest in Hindemith's prodigious output, the result seems always the same, and projects a kind of undifferentiated non-sound that has its own quality, but undergoes no perceptible variation from work to work.

In such music, the choices of specific events and successions can be governed, if at all, only by precept. Lacking a developed empirical hearing to guide his selections, Hindemith was forced to postulate objective "laws of hearing." And since the success or failure of any individual work could not be determined by testing its actual effect against a preconceived image, he had to devise objective conditions whose presence could be considered prerequisites for artistic quality.

justifying assertion of the superiority of the Medieval habitus of artisanry, in which strict and assiduous devotion to the practice of craft, and dedication to the highest ethical ideals, infused moral and aesthetic value into the fruits of one's labor. And paradoxically, his very dependence on the external authorities of "science" and "nature" seemed to him to provide a guarantee of universal validity, in contrast to the "arbitrariness" of Schoenberg's twelve-tone method. But Schoenberg's system was actually based on flexible hypotheses of what one could learn to hear, and depended on direct perceptual testing in its employment, so that its limits were constantly being extended and modified in as many individual directions as there were imaginative composers to explore them. Hindemith's rules, on the other hand, being presumably rooted in a certain knowledge of the totality of what could be heard, acted as arbitrary moral referees of "right" or "wrong." Hindemith himself was so enthralled by this mystical doctrinalism that he even recomposed some of his earlier works to conform with the new system. And whereas Schoenberg's system liberated him to produce a wealth of increasingly original works, Hindemith's creative life was permanently stunted by his intransigent adherence to a rigid method that perpetuated his severest limitations and reduced him, in effect, to an imitator of the weakest aspects of his own pre-existing music.

The ultimate decline in the influence of such a method was clearly unavoidable, given its progressively unrealistic abstraction from direct musical experience. Only the most docile worshipers could have remained content with a discipline that confined them to the endless imitation of imitation Hindemith, while their colleagues in camps of lesser moral virtue were making exciting discoveries of new resources and exploring new perceptual domains. Eventually, even the public's hearing caught and passed Hindemith's own, and recordings and public performances of his music also became increasingly rare. Today, the remnants of his influence are mainly to be found among the conservative academicians of European conservatories and the music-education mills of the American Midwest, whose adoption of a musical idea is usually a definitive sign of its final exhaustion.

Still, no matter how self-induced

A piece of the action from Newsweek:

"Dream boats"

"He had spent 64 years in jail, longer probably than any man alive.... Honeck was speaking in the austere 5- by 11-foot cell he had occupied for eleven years. From there he could look across a corridor and through a dirt-stained window. He could see a segment of highway, a stretch of railroad track, a tall stand of trees, and the Mississippi River gleaming broadly beyond. Through that window, he saw the steam locomotive give way to the diesel, and the Model T to the shining dream boats of today."

Hindemith's failure may have been, his effort must be respected as one of the serious attempts to discover a coherent syntax for the new musical materials of our time. I find it somewhat depressing that this has been so quickly and easily forgotten by most of the musical world, and that Hindemith's death has evoked scarcely more retrospection or response in most of us than a few sighs of uncertain nostalgia and uneasy regret.

THEATRE

Harold Clurman

Words have become so debased or featureless in theatre discussion that when a critic calls a play "interesting," one assumes that he must have been bored by it. I must therefore assert that when I say I found the double bill of one-act plays by Harold Pinter and Samuel Beckett at the Cherry Lane interesting, I want my readers to understand that I mean that these plays merit their attentive consideration.

The Pinter play, The Lover, a reformed television script, is the more amusing; the Beckett piece called Play, the more striking. The Lover lasts about fifty minutes, Play only about fifteen minutes.

There is a certain slickness or "commercial" dispatch about The Lover, but it is not, in the author's mind at least, unserious. It is necessary to say this at the outset because some aspects of the play are almost as banal as a revue blackout.

A middle-class Englishman, Richard, married to a young woman, Sarah, lives a double life with her. In the morning and in the evening they are a tidy, traditionally correct, placid couple. On odd afternoons, Richard returns to the house as tough, disreputable, somewhat depraved character — Sarah's "lover." Sarah, in turn, greets her "lover" as a wanton whose seductive efficiency must have been picked up from a textbook issued by a low-grade movie magazine.

In the evening, when a sedate Richard returns, he frequently asks about Sarah's lover, at the same time he confesses his own affair with a dissolute woman who is little more to him than an erotic convenience. This routine continues for some time, until one day Richard announces that Sarah's liaison is insufferable and that he no longer will tolerate her afternoon escapades. Richard's jealous tantrum frightens her until she realizes that to appease him, she must enact the trollop with him, the gentlemanly Richard!

The conduct of the play's action, which combines a touch of Strindberg with a larger dose of burlesque, is insidiously clever and passably unwholesome. What intrigued me more than the play's game is the degree to which audiences, particularly in England, take the play as something more than entertainment. Is it received as a metaphor for a psychological truth (we want our wives to be our whores), or as the symbol of a wish, or simply as a "teaser"? Pinter's ambiguity in this respect is cunning. Is the play the reflection of a peculiarly English mental and moral disarray, to be studied by sociologists and psychoanalysts, or just a joke? Pinter's attitude is noncommittal. He retires from the scene like the Cheshire cat — without the smile. Perhaps he, himself, is puzzled. We laugh a bit and remain ever so slightly disturbed.

Marian Reardon as Sarah and Michael Lipton as Richard do well.

Beckett's Play is less "fun," but a further instance of his genius. I cannot say that I "like" it; it is the kind of work which exists in such a way that the question of my, or your, liking it becomes irrelevant. It is a thing in itself.

The stage directions as Beckett himself sets them down furnish a clue to his style:

> Extreme front, touching one another, three large white urns, one yard high, from which three heads protrude through holes close fitting to their necks. . . . [They] face undeviatingly front throughout act. Age: indifferent. Appearance: indifferent. . . . Faces impassive throughout. Voices toneless except where expression indicated.

Whom do these "heads," speaking from their (funerary?) urns, belong to? W. 1, W. 2, M. (Woman one, Woman two, Man.) The play is the essentialized comic-tragedy (or "meta-drama") of adultery: the eternal triangle. The dialogue is uninflected by any readily defined emotion or climax. At times each of the figures speaks some incomplete phrase typical of his or her thought. Often they speak simultaneously — not always intelligibly — and in a semi-murmur affecting us like the rustling of leaves or the whisperings of the dead!

The triangular situation begins hilariously as a vulgar commonplace. Slowly a sense of boredom, then of guilt, then of regret, then of hopeless indifference and finally of utter forgetfulness steals over the three livid figures immersed in their urns as if in a gray sod, nearly mute and altogether meaningless. It is almost too awful to be sad; too disheartening to be tragic.

You have heard of the Constitution being written on a postage stamp or of the Lord's Prayer being engraved on a pin. Beckett's Play is like a statement of the polygamous sex-agony inscribed in sure shorthand strokes.

This leaves me dissatisfied, dumbfounded. But who says Beckett hoped to satisfy me? There is acute pathos here, but so compressed that one is not permitted a sigh or the shedding of a tear.

Scientists have said that there will come a time when a small pill will replace a full meal. The pill takes less time to consume and will furnish us with all the needed vitamins. Perhaps so. It will indicate progress and certainly be "modern." Unregenerate hedonist that I am, I shall always prefer a banquet even though it may make me sick.

Still Beckett is a master. As director, Alan Schneider is his obedient servant.

ART

Max Kozloff

Works of art traditionally are thought of as part of an environment, which they complement by being judiciously selected. When they become the total environment, however, they not only annihilate the idea of selection, they reverse the relationship of the spectator to art itself—by threatening his sense of identity, his capacity for movement and, above all, his control over his surroundings. With these faculties menaced, the aesthetic encounter sharpens, if only because the sheer pervasiveness of material and sensation, usefully repressed in so many aspects of daily life, returns in the tolerant atmosphere of the art gallery. But, in fact, one permits this encroachment willingly; and one surrenders to its thrill or terror, as in a horror movie, safely, because vicariously. The task of the "environmentalist," therefore, is to pick his way as effectively as possible between the licenses and checks of his trade—and neither to fall short of the one, nor to transgress the other. Does sculpture move? See "On the Move" (Howard Wise Gallery). Do paintings and objects make noises? Go to Cordier and Eckstrom ("For Eyes and Ears"). Can the outdoors come indoors? Visit "Four Environments" at Sidney Janis.

The range is wide in all these shows, and the accomplishment, motley. But aside from their obvious synesthesia, they have many things in common. Shared, for instance, is a skepticism of the beholder's powers of attentiveness and comprehension. These works solicit and caper in ways that leave no interpretation to chance. Partly this stems from the incitement of brush gestures in Abstract Expressionism which were attempts in their own right to break down certain barriers between the viewer and work. Dine and Rosenquist (Janis), as well as Rivers (Cordier), ironically quote the very dribble and paint slap-action painting itself. But there is a whole folk history of the movement, for much of what one sees is an outgrowth of the diorama, tableau vivant, do-it-yourself exhibits in science museums, Rube Goldberg, squawking toys, crèches, and the popular fascination of the eighteenth and nineteenth centuries for mechanical contraptions of every kind. Within their own more pertinent tradition, though, these constructions all owe a debt to collage, in which elements of reality, once pasted into the work of art, and later identifying with that work (as in assemblage), have now aggrandized in scale to include the spectator. In addition, these "displays," frameless and styleless, mechanically impersonate or counterfeit various human attributes, and hence appeal to rather primitive instincts, which one is either inclined to indulge too readily, or remove beyond the pale of the credible.

The paradox of the current works, however, is that they can amuse or aggress, or even operate (under power or manually), only by demonstrating their own lack of self-sufficiency as integral works of art. They intimidate the spectator's will by seeming to have one of their own, but their means of locomotion are all too faltering and obvious. The illusion of self-induced motion is readily undeceiving. Finally, there is an implicit weakness in a situation in which objects are habitually pulled out of context: the weakness of any surprise when repeated.

This is rather pitifully made evident by the exhibition of kinetic sculpture at the Howard Wise. If movement must occur in the dimension of time as well as space (and these pieces are all either activated or potentially mobile), time is used dumbly by the reiteration of the same, or equally meaningless, chance pattern. One demonstration is enough to get the point; two are already a bore. Here, the tendency to extend the physical properties of the work is simply to point out its expressive restrictedness. The unity of stimulus and response to be found in Tinguely, Gesner and Agam apes the machine without either transforming or commenting upon its essential un-freedom.

Kinetic sculpture has a rather respectable tradition, branching out from Constructivism and the Bau-

A piece of the action from Newsweek:

"A pinball destiny"

"It was as if Damon Runyon had written the last act of a tragedy by Sophocles. The most unlikely nemesis of all time was 52-year-old Jack Ruby, born Jack Leon Rubenstein, a 'street-smart' operator who togged out his fantasies in the Al Capone panoply of white-on-white shirts, triple-ringed hands, and snap-brim fedoras. Ruby, born to nothing in the ghetto of Chicago's West Side, ricocheted through a pinball destiny until he fell into place, master of the grubby revels for the bravos and backslappers of Dallas night life."

haus on the one hand, and [illegible] lamp on the other. It is all the more remarkable, therefore, how little advanced in technology, space penetration, and formal invention the current pieces are. For kinetic complexity and functional efficiency, let alone sheer intelligence, none of them would compare with the spectacle of a mechanical bowling-pin setter doing its job. One might object here that the motivation of a Julio Le Parc, or a Len Lye is primarily visual, as evidenced by shimmering glass wafers, or undulating metal rods or by colored lights. Still, these are of importance as means, not as ends, and as effects rather than forms. Certainly it would be unjust to juxtapose such poor relations against a really animated medium like the cinema. By the same token, to unfeather them of their transience is only to reveal all the more what ugly ducklings they are. The sort of minds attracted to this unpromising field is indicated by the offerings of the various Paris-based "recherché" groups, whose formal vocabulary is as dated as Kandinsky's, and whose penchant for scientific trappings is a naively recurring European faiblesse.

The onus of "experimentalism" weighs heavily indeed upon this exhibition, suggesting as it does an operation undertaken to confirm some unknown principle outside the imagination. Just as inadequate is the presence of actual motion itself—so much less ramified and evocative than in works which merely depict or imply it. From all this churning kineticism there rises a wisp of tautology. Only Calder's mobile, suspended above an activity, is lucid, lyrical and quite static.

The grouping at the Cordier and Eckstrom Gallery appears less scientific, but perhaps just as woolly. Certainly it makes more noise. Here one sees and hears collaborations between Paul Brach (a huge blue wooden hollow) and the composer, Morton Feldman, or the Greek sculptor, Takis (an electric tube) and the music of Earl Brown. They resemble abstract juke boxes. Avoiding this unrelatedness of thing and sound, George Ortman presents a replica of the vast Matisse "Piano Lesson," at the Museum of Modern Art with, however, various alterations such as a heart form found in the Pleyel piano rack and an inset disk for the boy's head. Behind that part of the surface which represents a metronome, a battery-operated tape thumps ominously—articulating the latent hysteria which Ortman says has always impressed him about this painting.

The overall theme here becomes art as performance. But with one exception, none of the objects possesses the power to shape and focus an interval that is enduring in the theatrical terms to which they aspire. Only the rat-tatting, umbrella-like "Music Set" of the musician, Joe Jones, escapes the monotonous clacking of its confreres, and this because its snare drums, violins and triangles comprise a new-fangled instrument which can produce all kinds of original percussive events through electronic control.

At Janis, finally, incursion into environmentalist territory is the most ambitious, as well as the mutest and most three-dimensional. One breathes easier, not only because there are no buttons to press, or plugs to push, but because the proprieties of the mode are forcefully observed. To be sure, the offerings of James Rosenquist (not terribly legible) and Jim Dine (hybrid and disadvantageously installed) have to be disqualified from discussion. But this still leaves George Segal's "Cinema," and Claes Oldenburg's "A Bedroom," each a succès de scandale. This status they have won by dealing riskily with the aesthetics of effigy: Segal by plaster casting the figure of a man who is then silhouetted against a blazing fluorescent movie marquee; and Oldenburg by conjuring a cave of horrors in the form of a zebra-skinned bedroom.

Both scenes are surrogates, imaginary displacements of the real thing. As such, they have an iconic potency hard to match—but their formal range is thereby dreadfully constrained. They approach maximum impact—that is, illusionism—only at the cost of all independence other than the selection of the image itself.

In this respect, the overpraised Segal has never hesitated to shed as much independence as possible. Only the real objects, which he incorporates in his compositions, reduce the verisimilitude of plaster effigies which would otherwise be as intrusive and unpleasant as a tableau from Madame Tussaud. (Not that Segal creates an effect greatly different from a wax museum, for he unquestionably seeks a similar environment.) The early Rodin was frequently accused of using life casts, an allegation he indignantly contested; Segal, an ultraconservative, revels in it.

No less theatrical and spooky, Oldenburg nevertheless resolves the problem. In his vignette, a monstrous, trapezoidal bed is swaddled tight with a black-patterned leatherette spread, and collared with a glistening, viscoid plastic pillow and sheet. Two flanking vinyl cabinets, of a swirled turquoise, are surmounted by lamps with dark marbleized gray shades. On a dresser is fitted a huge, dull tin sun of a mirror, while a leopard-skin coat and overgrown purse drape a zebra dais. Breaking up the wall are prim mechanized spatter prints, illuminated, as is the whole ensemble, by the cold, mortuary gallery light. These ersatzes and synthetics, congealed movements and claptrap modernities, electrify the cheapness and madness of American hotel and suburban decor. But their means of doing so is metaphor, not illusion. The place looks almost like a set for Kafka's Amerika, staged by Genet. Oldenburg, in fact, transposes his terms at every step: abnormal perspective, scale and surface, value and color perversities, refer not merely to the experience of the room, but to Oldenburg's previous enamel-dripped plaster edibles, and behind them, to Abstract Expressionism itself, now, however, effortlessly machined and industrialized. These "commercial" Pollocks even hang on walls which only recently sheltered original Pollocks, an occurrence which drastically locks into focus the latest cycle of American art. Oldenburg has erected an image which physically violates our world, but emphasizes that violation as metaphor. It is the environmentalist's dream.

LEE HARVEY OSWALD

Peter Mc Laughlin, 160 Magnolia Avenue, Jersey City, New Jersey, was contacted on January 21, 1964, and acknowledgement was made of his letter to the Attorney General of the United States in which he asked if Oswald was a red-haired man since he met such a man, former U.S. Marine, in Mexico during October - November, 1962.

Mr. Mc Laughlin stated he sent the letter since he had never read in the newspaper regarding the color of Oswald's hair but did read he had been in Mexico during the above period of time in 1962. When advised that Oswald's hair was not red in color, he stated it was definitely not Oswald whom he had met but recalled the name given by this individual as John Otto Bridge. He stated he had met Bridge in Mexico City in October, 1962, and had been told by him he had been in the U.S. Marines. He noted Bridge had a Boston accent and was very interested in reading.

Mc Laughlin volunteered he was fifty-nine years of age; was born in a small town twelve miles from Glasgow, Scotland; came to the United States in 1927 after attending school until fourteen years of age and working in a steel mill in Scotland; was in the U.S. Army Air Force from 1942 to 1945 as a Radio Operator; has had different jobs in various parts of the United States, in particular in the transit bureau of Philadelphia, the Scioto Golf Club, Columbus, Ohio, and at the present is employed as a kitchen helper at the Harvard Club, 27 West 44th Street, New York, New York.

The envelope bore no return address, and the letter was anonymous. It is set forth as follows:

The files of the Oklahoma City Office of the FBI reflect that [redacted] a former resident of Tecumseh, Oklahoma, directed correspondence to the FBI and made personal contact with representatives of the FBI in Oklahoma and Arkansas on many occasions from 1959 to 1961. [redacted] made numerous allegations against various persons, including BROWDER (BROWDER) BRUNDAGE, Tecumseh, Oklahoma, and a PEARL, or PEARL SMITH of Florida.

On September 11, 1959, [redacted] stated he was continually persecuted by BROWDER BRUNDAGE, Tecumseh, Oklahoma, who he claimed had influenced his [redacted] father against him and caused his relatives to commit him [redacted] to a hospital. [redacted] indicated at that time that he had spent the past seven months in a hospital at Norman, Oklahoma.

On September 16, 1959, and October 5, 1959, [redacted] contacted representatives of the FBI and claimed harassment by BROUDER BRUNDAGE, whom [redacted] claimed was a Communist.

On July 5, 1961, [redacted] appeared at the Oklahoma City Office of the FBI and furnished a five page handwritten statement in which he claimed he was being persecuted by the Communists. In the statement he claimed those persecuting him were as follows:

"GUS HALL - Washington, D. C. Mgr.
PEARL SMITH - Florida - Supt over
BROUDER BRUNDAGE - Tecumseh, Okla.
RILEY - (PEARLs Son) - Dallas Texas
BESSIE - Little Rock Ark."

In the above statement, [redacted] stated that an FBI man at Fort Smith, Arkansas, told him how to trap PEARL. He added that PEARL was the daughter of Mrs. W. G. RIPPEY, Shawnee, Oklahoma. He indicated that PEARL had killed two husbands, one at Weatherford, and one in Florida, in 1941.

On July 17, 1961, M. M. McDOUGAL, Attorney, Tulsa, Oklahoma, advised a representative of the FBI that [redacted] had engaged him as an attorney in order to file a claim against the United States Government concerning a patent on a spot welder he allegedly invented during World War II. McDOUGAL stated [redacted] gave him a lengthy, handwritten brief concerning the invention and in which [redacted] set forth considerable information concerning alleged Communist activities in the United States. [redacted] mentioned in the brief that one PEARL was allegedly the head of the Communist Party in Oklahoma. [redacted] indicated PEARL was in some way related to BROUDER BRUNDAGE of Tecumseh, Oklahoma, who was "a boss of Oklahoma" as well as a bank robber and dope addict.

In August, 1961, [redacted] communicated with the Oklahoma City Office of the FBI on three occasions and stated he was committed to the Central State Hospital at Norman, Oklahoma, and that he was sane. In one letter he alleged that crooks had taken 1200 bed sheets from the hospital and shipped them to one PEARL in Florida and then to Cuba. He also alleged that BROUDER BRUNDAGE took $40,000. worth of equipment from the hospital.

On January 23, 1964, TED THOMPSON, Officer in Charge, Records and Personnel, Central State Hospital, Norman, Oklahoma, advised SA DONALD H. SLOAT that [redacted] has been confined as a mental patient at that hospital since September 24, 1963.

A copy of the following letter was furnished the Federal Bureau of Investigation by the Department of Justice under date of December 23, 1963:

"Nov. 16, 1963

"U. S. Att. General-Robert F. Kennedy
White House
Washington, D. C.

"Dear Sir:

"I am writing in respect to my confinment in the United States, which is located at one Milpitas, California Jail farm, for ten months. I am from Mexico, and whyll I am here confined, my wife and children are without food or money. And do to the fact that just before this jail farm confinment here in the U. S. I have been supplying your Government with vital information as to the Communist movement in Latin American Countrys. Mainly Cuba, Brazil, Argentina and Mexico. I hold the rank of General in the Secret Underground movement in Mexico. Which will over throw any and all Communist movements in Mexico. I am known as General Roberto de Edmundo Cortez, Director of the Secret Army of Mexico. I would like to state also that the Mexican Government does not approve of this movement, for resons do to the fact that its top brass is 100% Communist, both in the Government Party, and the Military.

"I sent your brother President J. F. Kennedy, a long letter pertaining to this matter.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

ROBERT EDMOND GALLAIT

"I would also like to stat at this time that Cuba has made the following shipments of arms and ammunition as follows:

"1) Sept. 12th of this year. Landings made at 2:15 in the morning. two large shrimp boats of arms and ammunition to Argentina.

"2) Sept. 7th of this year. Landings made at 1:45 in the morning. three large shrimp boats of arms and ammunition to Brazil.

"3) Sept. 9th of this year. Landing made at 1:20 in the morning. one shrimp boat of arms and ammunition to Mexico. Note: to Communist Agents. My information is obtained from my 62 agents who are cor. in the above mentioned countrys. I would like also to mention that I represent 29 million Loyalist in the Republic of Mexico, out of the 34 million the total population, the remainder of which is the P. R. I. Party, the Revolutionary party of 5 million. this party is as your Government recognizes as the Mexican Government.

"In this respect I am asking if possible, to be freed as to carry on my work, which is far more in need to my people and your Government, than confinment here in the U. S. on a County farm.

"I have been risking my life for the last 4 years to obtain information on the inside of the Communist movements and opr. for Communism is like cancer, if not properly approached at the beginning stage, it will spread and claim human life just as Communism will claim the freedoms and libertys of great masses of people.

"If given my freedom to carry on my work, I will do all in my power to aid your Government with the information obtained from Cuba, throughout to Mexico.

"Note: This information must not be publist in any way or form. To do so, it will mean the lives not only of myself, but my wife and children and many more loyal agents.

ROBERT EDMOND GALLANT

"My name here in this country Robert E. Gallant. this can be verified by my agent in Mexico as to my rank.

"Sil Hannul T. Zapata
Ave Juarez 125-9
Mexico, D. F."

"Yours truly,
"/s/Robert E. Gallant

Robert Edmond Gallant was interviewed at the Santa Clara County Jail on January 7, 1964, by Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

He furnished the following information concerning his background:

He was born March 19, 1922, at Claremont, New Hampshire; does not know his mother's maiden name since he was reared in foster homes; graduated from Grove Street High School, Spencer, Massachusetts in 1938; attended night school for two years at Holy Cross College receiving an "M.D." (sic) degree in electronic engineering (1937-1938). He went to Canada and served about seven months in Royal Canadian Air Force, ground training, Montreal; enlisted in U. S. Civilian Conservation Corps, serving about a year during 1938-1939, someplace in Massachusetts, place not recalled; employed for short period U. S. Marshall's Office, Troy, New York; employed as machinist, "Watervliet" Arsenal, Troy, New York, shortly before outbreak of World War II for about eight months. Also worked other unrecalled odd jobs. Shortly after outbreak of war enlisted in U. S. Army, served in 33rd Infantry, Panama until 1942, when transferred to Walter Reed Hospital, Washington, D. C., following injury to back sustained while unloading heavy military equipment in Panama. Claims "CDD" (sic) honorable discharge from Army in 1942, no disability pension (could not say what CDD stood for). Following that worked in cafeteria, Brooklyn, New York, and later for General Electric, Pittsfield, Massachusetts, then held odd jobs at White River, Vermont, until latter part of 1943.

ROBERT EDWIN GALLANT

He moved to Houston, Texas in 1943, employed at Dixon Gun Plant for nine months and then Galena Park, Houston, for four months. At this time he was arrested by Texas authorities for burglary, and served seven years at Texas State Prison at Huntsville, Texas, being released in 1953. He thereafter moved to Texas City, obtained seaman's papers and made two or three trips on the Mississippi for the Brownsville Tug Line. In the latter part of 1953 he moved to Monterrey, Mexico, where he lived for seven years, employed by "Trailers of Monterrey" as technical director, and claims he built and set up three plants for this company. In 1960 he moved to Mexico City where he resided until the Fall of 1963, at which time he was arrested by the Mexican authorities and deported to the United States for writing the fraudulent checks for which presently imprisoned. This came about when he returned to the United States from January to June, 1963, and was employed by the D and L Engineering Company, Sunnyvale, California. The bad checks, amounting to about $2000, were written on this company. He was married in 1960 at Allende, Nueva Leon, to Irene Leal de Gallant, has two children by this marriage. His wife now resides at Allende, but he writes to her in care of her brother, HILVERTO M. DE LEAL, Colonia Anouhc, Monterrey, Mexico. Allende is about 48 miles from Monterrey.

Concerning the letter written by him to the Attorney General, he furnished the following:

About five years ago while in Mexico City, he was asked to a meeting by a Mexican official whom he refused to name, which was a meeting of an underground organization against communism, known as the "Secret Army of Mexico" (sic). When asked to give the name of the organization in Spanish, he said it was the same and rendered it as "Secreto Army de Mexico" (sic). He said he joined this organization after attending three meetings at which were discussed the problems of the Mexican states and he learned that the commanding general of the Mexican Army (he was unable to provide his name) was a communist, as were all the leading Mexican Army officers. The three richest and most powerful men in Mexico were also communists (he could not give their names). The governors of All the States of Mexico were communists (he could not name them except to say the Governor of Monterrey was Leviece), and that the unions in Mexico are 100% communist. (It should be noted that Monterrey is in the State of Nueva Leon).

ROBERT EDMOND GALLANT

He said the "Secret Army of Mexico" is headed by ten men, himself and nine Mexican millionaires, known as "agente general;" and that he has the title of General Roberto de Emondo Cortes, which is a translation of his name into Spanish; the organization has detachments of guerillas fighting communism throughout Mexico; that he has a detachment of guerillas under him of about 4000 men in the Coahila area which he commands and trains; that he deals with subordinate officers whom he refused to name; the organization is financed by the wealthy Mexicans and communications are by short wave radio. Also that there are 63 secret agents operating in Mexico, Cuba, Argentina, and Brazil and that he knows the names of 15 of them but refused to divulge any. There is no U. S. activity.

He said that in July of 1963 he learned from one of these secret agents (whom he refused to name) that Lee Harvey Oswald was in Mexico trying to get a visa to Cuba and Russia, and that the agent pointed Oswald out to him on the street near the Monument to the Revolution on Avenida Juarez.

He said he had furnished information concerning the "Secret Army of Mexico" and communism in Mexico to former President John F. Kennedy by letter; that four letters had been written by him in June 1963, and sent to the United States by courier to be mailed in New York, asking that the President reply to him at Cata 66, Dept. 3, Mexico 1, D. F., but he had received no reply. He stated he had furnished no information to any other agency of the United States Government, and it was to these letters he was referring when he stated in the letter to the Attorney General that he had been supplying the Government with vital information. These letters contained information concerning the systems of government in Mexico which were communist, details of arms shipment by Cuba to Brazil, Argentina and Chile; the "general setup" in Mexico itself. He could not amplify the above by any specific details. He said he had included everything in the letters from documents available to him in Mexico. He said the details as to times and dates of shipments of arms by shrimp boat to Brazil, Argentina, and Chile contained in his letter to the Attorney General, which was written from prison, were on a paper brought with him from Mexico when arrested but which he has now destroyed. (It should be noted that county jail regulations do not permit prisoners to retain any such papers or personal belongings in the jail.)

ROBERT EDMOND GALLANT

Gallant was asked for the names of any of the men in the "Secret Army of Mexico" who could corroborate his story. He refused to name any except T. Manuel Zapata, Avenida Juarez 135-3, Mexico, D. F., whom he described as "one of the bigger men in the organization" who owns land worth 4,000,000 pesos in Mexico, owns a furniture factory and housing projects. This name was in the letter to the Attorney General.

A confidential source abroad has advised as follows:

HOMOBONO ALCARAZ ARAGON, Calle Anaxagoras #232, Apartment #22, Colonia Narvarte, Mexico, D. F., on January 22, 1964, advised that he is a graduate of the Universidad Nacional Autonoma de Mexico (National Autonomous University of Mexico) at Mexico, D. F.; that he has to complete his thesis to qualify for a law degree from this University, and that he contemplates further studies in France later in 1964 on a scholarship grant.

ALCARAZ ARAGON stated that he is engaged to an American student, BARRIE MILLMAN, who attends the University of California at Berkeley, California, and that she visited ALCARAZ ARAGON at Mexico City during the Christmas 1963 holiday season.

During this visit, everyone in Mexico, according to ALCARAZ ARAGON, was talking about the assassination of President JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY and ALCARAZ ARAGON stated that he mentioned to BARRIE MILLMAN the possibility that a young American, STEVE KENNAN, described by ALCARAZ ARAGON as a pro-Communist from some city in Pennsylvania, might have had something to do with OSWALD.

ALCARAZ ARAGON stated that he first met STEVE KENNAN in Mexico City in 1962; later saw him in Mexico City

DECLASSIFICATION REVIEWED BY 2070 AND UPHELD 7-9-77 CEQ

HOMOBONO ALCARAZ ARAGON, Calle Anaxagoras #232, Apartment #22, Colonia Narvarte, Mexico, D. in 1963, and was first introduced to KENNAN, according to his recollection, as a person who had been in Cuba following the CASTRO led revolution there.

ALCARAZ ARAGON advised that he could not recall who it was who had introduced him to KENNAN, but that it was undoubtedly one of many American students with whom ALCARAZ ARAGON has been associated in Mexico over the past two years. ALCARAZ ARAGON said he had, in the past, roomed with an American student in Mexico City and had come to know many of these students. He explained that names of Americans are difficult for him to comprehend or remember because he is a Mexican national and American names are difficult for him to grasp.

ALCARAZ ARAGON further advised that when KENNAN was in Mexico in 1962 and 1963, it was the former's understanding that KENNAN unsuccessfully tried to secure a visa from Cuban authorities in Mexico City in order to be able to travel to Cuba.

ALCARAZ ARAGON said that when he engaged in the discussion concerning OSWALD with his girl friend, BARRIE MILLMAN, it was public knowledge that OSWALD had been in Mexico City prior to the assassination of President KENNEDY and he said he did mention to MILLMAN that OSWALD may have been acquainted with KENNAN, since both of these individuals were reportedly adherents of the Communist ideology and both had visited in Mexico.

ALCARAZ ARAGON stated definitely that he had never met anyone he could identify as OSWALD in the company of KENNAN, although he had seen other Americans in the company of KENNAN at various times in Sanborn's Restaurant, which is adjacent to the American Embassy building in Mexico City.

ALCARAZ ARAGON examined various photographs of OSWALD and stated that he cannot identify these photographs as being possibly identical with anyone he has ever seen in Mexico and definitely cannot identify photographs of OSWALD as anyone he ever saw in the company of KENNAN.

ALCARAZ ARAGON also mentioned that he had never discussed the possibility of a friendship between KENNAN and OSWALD with anyone other than BARRIE MILLMAN and that this discussion was merely speculative. He said that he and MILLMAN were "chatting" about the alleged assassin, OSWALD, when he mentioned STEVE KENNAN as a person who might have been associated with OSWALD purely because KENNAN is an alleged pro-Communist and was in Mexico in 1963, as was OSWALD. ALCARAZ ARAGON, in summation, stated he has no concrete data which would place KENNAN in contact with OSWALD.

ALCARAZ ARAGON also mentioned that it is rather obvious that BARRIE MILLMAN has brought up his conversation with her during discussions with someone in California which has led to the mistaken belief that he had met OSWALD in Mexico.

ALCARAZ ARAGON, in conclusion, stated that he himself does not adhere to the Communist ideology and that, although he would like to be of assistance to United States authorities in the investigation of OSWALD, he does not have any factual data he can honestly provide.

ALCARAZ ARAGON described the person known to him in Mexico as STEVE KENNAN as follows:

Race:	White
Sex:	Male
Citizenship:	United States
Age:	23 to 24
Weight:	Approximately 154 pounds
Hair:	Light brown
Eyes:	Blue
Residence:	Claimed to be from some city in the state of Pennsylvania.
Education:	Had attended college and was possibly a college graduate.

On January 22, 1964, VON PEACOCK, Acting Director, Friends Service Center, Calle Ignacio Mariscal #132, Mexico, D. F., a charitable and religious center operated in Mexico by the Quaker religious organization, viewed various photographs of OSWALD and stated he was certain that OSWALD had never visited the Friends Service Center in Mexico City. PEACOCK felt that he would have known of any contact OSWALD might have had with the Center if such contact had taken place because he is usually around the Center on a daily basis and is well acquainted with most of the persons who visit there.

VON PEACOCK was well acquainted with HOMOBONO ALCARAZ ARAGON and stated he has no knowledge of any possible connection between ALCARAZ ARAGON and OSWALD.

PEACOCK also advised that he has heard that a Friends Society member in the state of Texas had reportedly befriended either OSWALD or the wife of OSWALD, but that he knew nothing about any connection OSWALD may have had with any Friends Society member in Mexico. PEACOCK felt that OSWALD had no association with Friends Society members or affiliates in Mexico because of PEACOCK's familiarity with persons affiliated with this Society's activities in Mexico.

Reurlet 1/10/64 enclosing photographs of individuals in a picket line in front of the White House, Washington, D. C., on 9/22/62. You requested that the FBI Laboratory enlarge the slide of the pickets furnished your office by Captain James W. Marlin, Webb Air Force Base, Big Spring, Texas, and make an effort to determine if the individual referred to by Captain Marlin is Lee Harvey Oswald.

Enclosed are two copies of an enlargement of the slide and two copies of an enlargement of the individual carrying a sign "Cuba is not the 51st State." On the basis of the enclosures, it is not possible to state that the individual involved is or is not identical with Lee Harvey Oswald.

You should immediately conduct appropriate investigation to determine Oswald's whereabouts on 9/22/62. Results of such investigation, including details of your interview of Captain Marlin, should be included in a subsequent report of your office concerning Oswald.

NOTE: The photograph in question depicts an individual who is similar in appearance to Oswald. During September, 1962, Oswald was employed by the Leslie Welding Company in Fort Worth, Texas. 9/22/62, however, was a Saturday and it is desirable for Dallas to conduct necessary investigation to pinpoint, if possible, Oswald's whereabouts on that day.

On 1/7/64, Captain JAMES W. MARLIN, Webb Air Force Base, Big Spring, Texas, made available to SA'S RONALD E. BRINKLEY and COLEMAN MABRAY a 35 mm transparency slide, which he stated he took while on a sightseeing trip in Washington, D. C.

Captain MARLIN stated this slide is a photograph of a group of pickets in front of the White House, on 9/22/62, and, upon viewing the slide on his projector, he believes one of the individuals in the picket line to be LEE HARVEY OSWALD. He stated the slide shows a man carrying a sign, "Don't Make Cuba Our 51st State," and he feels this is the individual who may be identical to OSWALD.

Captain MARLIN stated the man believed to be OSWALD is partially hidden behind a man in the exact center of the slide wearing a grey suit and carrying a sign against his chest.

The FBI Laboratory is requested to endeavor to enlarge this slide and review it in an effort to determine if the individual referred to by Captain MARLIN is LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

Rerep of SA James J. O'Connor dated 1/23/64 at Miami.

Enclosed for Miami and Dallas are two copies of revised page 2 of rerep which should be inserted therein. Note that the second sentence in the second paragraph of page two has been revised to fit the known facts concerning Dr. Lasaga's revelations as to source.

NOTE:

Lasaga, a psychiatrist, provided White House with speculative paper on psychological motivations of Oswald in the assassination, in which he set forth an allegation that Oswald met with Cuban Ambassador in restaurant outside Mexico City and that Oswald and the Ambassador left in Ambassador's car where they conversed so that they would not be overheard. Report indicates that Lasaga in his paper given to the White House identified the source. This is not so as the staff member at White House who received the paper specifically asked for the source in response to which Lasaga identified them. This is the change that has been made in the report. This allegation has been disproven and when results are received from Mexico City, same will be disseminated to Department and Commission.

ADMINISTRATIVE:

This report is classified "Secret" because it contains, on pages 39, 40, 41 and 42, information received by Legat, Rome, Italy, in a report prepared by SIFAR at the request of Defense Minister ANDREOTTI, which was so classified.

The identities of the Agents, both of the Dallas Office and from surrounding Offices, participating in this investigation are reflected in this report.

In connection with this report, it should be borne in mind that the Dallas Office has a separate case in connection with the shooting of LEE HARVEY OSWALD, captioned, "JACK L. RUBY, aka; LEE HARVEY OSWALD, aka (Deceased) - VICTIM, CR", Dallas file 44-1639. Allegations regarding the alleged acquaintanceship of OSWALD and RUBY have been, and are continuing to be, resolved in that investigation.

During the initial preparation of reports in instant matter, the material was being submitted under Dallas file 89-43, and for this reason certain of the FD-302's and inserts contained in this report may bear that file number, rather than 100-10461.

The overlap in the period of this report with that of previous reports in this matter was occasioned by the fact that material with respect to certain phases of the investigation was withheld until such time as the complete resolving of the particular phase could be included in one report.

Furthermore, a review of the Dallas files, in instant matter, has reflected certain information not previously reported, which it is felt should be included in report form.

On January 10, 1964, the Bureau was requested to authorize a polygraph examination to be given ALBERT GUY BOGARD, to attempt to determine if the facts related by him in an interview and a signed statement, previously reported, were correct.

By airtel, dated January 15, 1964, the Bureau authorized a polygraph test for BOGARD, and arrangements are being made as soon as possible to afford him such an examination.

ADMINISTRATIVE

On 1/4/64, RALPH LEON YATES was interviewed with the use of the polygraph at the FBI Office in Dallas, Texas, by SA C. RAY HALL, with SA WARREN C. DE BRUEYS present during the interview. YATES signed a waiver, consenting to the interview, on 12/10/63: Bureau teletype to Dallas, 1/2/64, authorized this interview.

During the interview, YATES was asked whether he had deliberatley furnished any false information to the FBI; whether he had picked up a hitch-hiker along the R. L. Thornton Expressway in November, 1963; whether this hitch-hiker had a package with him; whether this person told him he had curtain rods in the package; whether this person asked YATES if he knew JACK RUBENSTEIN or JACK RUBY; whether this person showed YATES a photograph of himself holding a rifle; whether this hitch-hiker talked about killing the President; whether he let this person out at the intersection of Elm and Houston Streets; and whether he believed this person was LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

No significant emotional responses were recorded by the polygraph when YATES was asked these relevant questions or control-type questions. Therefore, no conclusion could be reached as to whether YATES was answering questions truthfully.

YATES denied any history of mental disturbances, or mental treatment. He stated that while he was in the U. S. Air Force, he went to military doctors inasmuch as he was having pains in his back. He said he was interviewed by a psychiatrist, about two months before being discharged, who told him he thought the pains would disappear after he was discharged from the service.

It should be noted that during the course of interview with HILLARD HAMPTON JONES, on 1/6/64, the interviewing Agents noted that JONES was confused and incoherent in the narrative of the alledged events, and was inconsistent in the narrative of events. It was obvious to the interviewing Agents that JONES was under severe strain and was possibly suffering from mental hallucinations.

Title: LEE HARVEY OSWALD

Character: INTERNAL SECURITY - RUSSIA - CUBA

Synopsis: ROY S. TRULY, Superintendent, Texas School Book Depository, Dallas, Texas (TSBD), expressed opinion OSWALD did not plan assassination before approximately 10:30 A. M., 11/21/63, which was approximate time the "Dallas Times-Herald" newspaper appeared on streets displaying schedule of President's route prominently in middle of front page. HOWARD LESLIE BRENNAN, who saw man in sixth floor window near southeast corner of TSBD at time of assassination, reinterviewed and states saw man in this window prior to first shot without rifle. After hearing first shot, looked at same window and saw man take deliberate aim and shoot rifle. He thereafter ran to notify police officer that shots came from TSBD. Previous investigation reflected OSWALD claimed in interview after assassination to have eaten his lunch on 11/22/63 in lunchroom at TSBD, and recalled two Negro employees walked into the room during this period, and stated one of them was known as "JUNIOR." "JUNIOR" identified as JAMES EARL JARMAN, Jr. JARMAN and others who were with him just prior to assassination, deny having seen OSWALD in lunchroom at TSBD. LILLIAN MOONEYHAM, from window in Records Building, states heard shots and immediately thereafter observed figure of man standing in a sixth floor window of TSBD behind some cardboard boxes. She could not make out man's features and could not describe him. Other individuals who watched motorcade from Records Building interviewed. Alleged background in Italy concerning type of rifle used in assassination furnished by informant. Data in effects of OSWALD reflecting he was member of Byelorussian Society of Hunters and Fishermen, Collective No. 3, and had registered a weapon, caliber .16, N64621, manufactured by "IZHK 59." Investigation regarding allegation that individual named STACY may have had something to do with telescopic sight on assassination weapon, negative. FBI Laboratory examination of two books in Russian entitled "Book of Useful Advice" and "Our Children" did not reveal any indications they were used for code or cipher purposes. Examination of blue jacket (previously identified by MARINA OSWALD as belonging to subject) reveals several brown head hairs and head hair clippings in the debris removed from such jacket. Such hairs match in microscopic characteristics the previous submitted hair samples of OSWALD. None of the textile fibers previously removed from assassination weapon could be associated with this jacket. No gunpowder residues present on this jacket. Additional investigation conducted concerning OSWALD's alleged effort to purchase car at Dallas, Texas on 11/9/63. RUTH PAINE states OSWALD was at her residence on afternoon of 11/9/63 and in her opinion it would have been impossible for OSWALD to have been at Downtown Lincoln-Mercury, Dallas, on that date. Identities of four individuals who may have witnessed shooting of Dallas Police Officer J. D. TIPPIT, obtained. Additional investigation conducted concerning MARION MEHARG having possibly furnished false information. Investigation into alleged passing of rifle from one man to another day or so prior to assassination in parking lot near TSBD reveals deer hunting season opened in State of Texas on Saturday, 11/16/63, and during week beginning 11/18/63, number of persons were returning or borrowing rifles for hunting purposes. Reinterviews of Mexican women who saw transfer of rifle, not sure of make or color of car to which transferred. Investigation reflects RALPH LEON YATES (who previously furnished information to the effect that he picked up hitchhiker believed to be OSWALD on date prior to assassination and let him off near TSBD) is possibly suffering from hereditary mental condition and was admitted as patient to Woodlawn Hospital for observation and psychiatric treatment. Efforts continuing to locate WILLIAM McEWAN DUFF who was allegedly seen with OSWALD seven or eight months ago in Dallas. Mrs. MARGUERITE OSWALD, mother of subject, has publicly announced she has retained New York Attorney MARK LANE without fee to represent subject before the WARREN Commission. MARINA OSWALD in reinterviews states OSWALD has never attended any meetings in New Orleans, Louisiana or Dallas, Texas to her knowledge; that when he came to the PAINE house unexpectedly on 11-21-63, he told her he was lonesome for the family. OSWALD told MARINA on morning 11-22-63 to buy shoes she needed for herself and things for the baby. She stated she did not notice OSWALD's wedding ring on dresser at PAINE house on 11-22-63 until after the police came to search residence. MARINA stated she believes OSWALD was confused in his way of life and was seeking a way to make something out of himself. MARINA stated on Saturday, 11-9-63, OSWALD had appeared at PAINE house in early morning about 9:00 o'clock and had been with her all that day. To her knowledge, he made no contacts to purchase automobile on 11-9-63 or any other day. MARINA insists she did not know OSWALD contemplated trip to Mexico nor did she know he made such trip. Further identification of friends of the OSWALDs in Russia obtained. JAMES HERBERT MARTIN, agent for MARINA, reportedly having marital difficulty because of MARINA. Efforts continuing to locate JOHN HOWARD BOWEN who is believed to be person who sat next to OSWALD on Mexican Red Arrow bus on trip from Nuevo Laredo to Mexico City, 9-26/27-63. Letters to OSWALD from representatives of "The Worker", Socialist Workers Party and Fair Play for Cuba Committee, as well as autobiographical notes of OSWALD and other correspondence, set forth. Information concerning other documents and correspondence of MARINA OSWALD set out.

Date January 17, 1964

On January 13, 1964, Mr. ROY S. TRULY, Superintendent, Texas School Book Depository (TSBD), 411 Elm Street, Dallas, Texas, was contacted on another matter at which time he advised that it was his firm conviction that LEE HARVEY OSWALD did not plan the assassination of President JOHN F. KENNEDY before approximately 10:30 AM on November 21, 1963. TRULY pointed out that although he has since learned that the parade route of the presidential motorcade was made public on November 19, 1963, he has noticed in these articles, after reading them after November 22, 1963, that the parade route was "buried" at the end of an article in which the heading and main theme concerned the seating arrangements of United States Senator RALPH YARBOROUGH, TRULY pointed out that unless a person read the article in its entirety, which most people would not do, they would not have seen the paragraph which mentioned the parade route.

TRULY noted that at approximately 10:30 AM, on November 21, 1963, the first issue of the "Dallas Times Herald" appeared on the downtown streets of Dallas displaying a schedule of the President's route prominently in the middle of the first page. Before this schedule appeared TRULY stated that he was completely unaware of the parade route, or in fact that there would even be a downtown parade, and that he had heard no conversation from any of the employees at the TSBD concerning this parade. After the "Times Herald" appeared on the downtown streets there was immediately considerable excitement and conversation among the employees at the TSBD concerning the fact that the parade would pass right in front of their building.

TRULY also pointed out that the news media has erroneously stated that the only possible route a parade could take from the downtown area to the Dallas Trade Mart was past the TSBD. TRULY pointed out that this is not true and he knows of at least two other routes from the downtown area which would not pass in front of the TSBD. TRULY stated that one way would have been to turn right off Main Street onto Lamar Street to the Continental Viaduct and then onto Stemmons Freeway to the Trade Mart. The other way would have been to continue straight ahead on Main Street to Industrial Boulevard and then onto Stemmons Freeway and the Trade Mart. Mr. TRULY pointed out he considered either of these two routes to be better from a political consideration since they both went through factory districts where large numbers of industrial employees might observe the parade route; however, the route actually chosen was through a predominantly "white collar" district and passed very few if any industrial plants.

Mr. HOWARD LESLIE BRENNAN, 6814 Woodard, was re-interviewed at his place of employment, Medical Arts Building Parking Lot, at which time he furnished the following informations:

Mr. BRENNAN advised that on November 22, 1963, after finishing lunch at about 12:18 P.M., he sat on a retainer wall directly across from the Texas School Book Depository (TSBD) building, on Elm Street. While he was sitting there, he looked up at the TSBD building and noticed that there was a man standing in the sixth floor window; however, at this time, this man did not have a rifle. He said he then turned around and noticed that the man had left the window. Then he turned his head back toward the south where the Presidential motorcade would come. Approximately ten minutes after sitting down on this retaining wall, the Presidential motorcade turned onto Houston Street, and he was able to see President KENNEDY and his wife pass approximately thirty yards west on Elm from where he was seated. The car passed out of sight and shortly thereafter, he heard one shot, which he first believed to have been a firecracker, and he immediately looked toward the TSBD building and saw a man on the sixth floor in the same window, near the southeast corner of the building, and noticed that this man took deliberate aim and shot the rifle again. When he saw the man shoot the rifle this time, he realized it was the same man that he had seen standing in the window a few minutes before.

After the last shot, he immediately fell off the retaining wall and ran for an officer so that he could advise the police and Secret Service that the man whom he had seen take the last shot was in the TSBD building.

Mr. BRENNAN estimated that it was approximately ninety yards from the window where the shots were fired to the area where the President's car had passed out of sight. He said that he did not see anyone else near him that he knew; however, there was a lady and a little girl approximately ten years old who had attempted to sit on a cement column attached to the southwest corner of the retainer wall, on Houston Street, close to where he was sitting.

He also noticed that a woman in her forties was taking pictures near him, but he could not tell whether she had a movie camera, or a still camera; although, he believed the size of this camera was approximately four inches by five inches.

Mr. BRENNAN added that after his first interview at the Sheriff's Office, on November 22, 1963, he left and went home at about 2 P.M. While he was at home, and before he returned to view a lineup, which included the possible assassin of President KENNEDY, he observed LEE HARVEY OSWALD'S picture on television.

Mr. BRENNAN said that this, of course, did not help him retain the original impression of the man in the window with the rifle; however, upon seeing LEE HARVEY OSWALD in the police lineup, he felt that OSWALD most resembled the man whom he had seen in the window.

Under date of January 6, 1964, the New York Office advised that GEORGE MURRAY, National Broadcasting Company, New York, had stated that the BRENNAN previously referred to by him was identical to HOWARD LESLIE BRENNAN.

It should be noted that Mr. MURRAY had previously indicated that an individual, (FNU) BRENNAN, an employee of Union Terminal Company in Dallas, had reportedly stated he heard shots from opposite the Texas School Book Depository and saw smoke and paper wadding come out of boxes on a slope below the railroad tressel at the time of the assassination.

Investigation to identify a BRENNAN other than HOWARD LESLIE BRENNAN met with negative results, and HOWARD LESLIE BRENNAN has been previously interviewed.

Previous investigation in this matter indicates that subject claims to have eaten lunch in the lunchroom at the Texas School Book Depository (TSBD) and recalled that two Negro employees walked into the room during this period. One of these employees was called "JUNIOR" and he was unable to recall the name of the other.

Identity of "JUNIOR" establishes he is JAMES EARL JARMAN, Jr., and his companions during the lunch hour on November 22, 1963, were HAROLD "HANK" NORMAN and BONNIE RAY WILLIAMS.

Results of reinterviews with these persons set out.

JAMES EARL JARMAN, Jr., also known as "JUNIOR", advised that he resides at 3942 Atlanta in Dallas, Texas and is employed as a checker at the Texas School Book Depository (TSBD) in Dallas. He said that he and HAROLD "HANK" NORMAN and BONNIE RAY WILLIAMS were all employed at the TSBD at Dallas, Texas on November 22, 1963. He said that he and the other two boys ate lunch on the first floor around 12:00 noon on November 22, 1963, and shortly afterwards went to the fifth floor, about 12:25 P.M., on the west elevator in the building in order to watch the Presidential parade. He said they stayed there until they heard the sound of shots; then they went downstairs. He said RAY and NORMAN were with him all the time he was on the first floor and they did not see LEE HARVEY OSWALD at any time between 12:00 noon until they returned to the first floor after the shooting.

JARMAN advised that HAROLD NORMAN is no longer employed at the TSBD, but he thinks he still resides at 4858 Beulah.

BONNIE RAY WILLIAMS advised he resides at 1502 Avenue "B", Apartment B, in Dallas, Texas, and he has no telephone. He stated he is employed as a checker at the Texas School Book Depository (TSBD) and recalled that he ate lunch about noon on November 22, 1963 on the sixth floor of the TSBD building, and about that time he heard JAMES EARL JARMAN, Jr., also known as "JUNIOR" and HAROLD "HANK" NORMAN on the fifth floor, and he joined them there by going down on the west elevator about 12:05 P.M. He said around 12:30 P.M. while they were watching the Presidential parade, they heard some shooting and ran down the west steps to the fourth floor and on down the stairway to the first floor of the building.

He said that he never did see LEE HARVEY OSWALD after 12:00 noon on November 22, 1963 and he did not see him during the time he was eating his own lunch. He said he saw LEE HARVEY OSWALD about 11:40 A.M. on that date on the fifth floor of the building, and LEE HARVEY OSWALD asked him to send the east elevator up as he (WILLIAMS) went down to get his lunch. He said he never saw LEE HARVEY OSWALD in the lunchroom on the first floor of the TSBD building.

JACK A. WEAVER, 829 Fidelity Union Life Building, Dallas, Texas, during the KENNEDY motorcade on November 22, 1963, at Dallas, took a Polaroid photograph of the President's automobile which depicts the automobile and its occupants as the automobile made a right turn onto Houston Street from Main Street. In the background of the photograph, in the left hand section, appears the seven-story building housing the Texas School Book Depository. From the time this photograph was taken until the time of President Kennedy's assassination, the automobile traveled one block on Houston Street at the TSBD building, then made the left turn on Elm Street in front of the building, and proceeded to the point where President KENNEDY and Governor CONNALLY were hit by the assassin's bullets.

Mr. WEAVER made available this Polaroid photograph and it has been forwarded to the FBI Laboratory for enlargement and study.

On December 31, 1963, SEARCY LEE JOHNSON, Attorney, Republic National Bank Building, Dallas, advised that LILLIAN MOONEYHAM, Clerk, 95th Court, Records Building, Dallas, had mentioned that she was outside the Dallas Court House watching the Presidential parade on November 22, 1963. She reportedly heard the first shot from the assassin's gun and thought it was a firecracker. She reportedly later looked up at the window from which the shot came, and reportedly saw some boxes moving in the window. Mr. JOHNSON also believed there was another girl by the name of ROSE who may have seen approximately the same thing as had LILLIAN MOONEYHAM.

FD-302 (Rev. 9-3-59) FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

LILLIAN MOONEYHAM, Deputy District Court Clerk, 95th Court, Records Building, advised that she watched the Presidential Motorcade on November 22, 1963 from the windows of the court house. She, along with Mrs. ROSE CLARK and JEANNETTE E. HOOKER, observed the Presidential Motorcade proceeding down Main Street from the window of Judge J. FRANK WILSON's courtroom, overlooking Main Street. As the motorcade passed them on Main Street, MOONEYHAM, CLARK and HOOKER ran to Judge HENRY KING's courtroom window, which faces Houston Street, in time to see the motorcade turn west from Elm Street on Houston. Mrs. MOONEYHAM believes that BOB REID, Deputy District Court Clerk, Dallas, Texas, was in Judge KING's courtroom watching the motorcade at the same time as was MOONEYHAM, CLARK and HOOKER.

Mrs. MOONEYHAM heard a gunshot and observed President KENNEDY slump to the left of the seat of the car. At the time of the initial shot, Mrs. MOONEYHAM believed that a firecracker had gone off. Following the first shot, there was a slight pause and then two more shots were discharged, the second and third shots sounding closer together. Mrs. MOONEYHAM observed Mrs. KENNEDY climb up on the back of the car and her eyes were then diverted toward the left of the Presidential Motorcade on Elm Street toward a bystander, a man who had fallen to the ground.

Mrs. MOONEYHAM and Mrs. CLARK left Judge KING's courtroom and went to the office of Judge JULIEN C. HYER on the third floor of the Records Building, where they continued to observe the happenings from Judge HYER's window. From Judge HYER's window, Mrs. MOONEYHAM noted a number of bystanders running toward the cement pavilion which borders Elm Street between the railroad viaduct and the Texas School Book Depository (TSBD). Mrs. MOONEYHAM estimated that it was about 4½ to 5 minutes following the shots fired by the assassin, that she looked up towards the sixth floor of the TSBD and observed the figure of a man standing in a sixth floor window behind some cardboard boxes. This man appeared to Mrs. MOONEYHAM to be looking out of the window, however, the man was not close up to the window but was standing slightly back from it, so that

Mrs. MOONEYHAM could not make out his features. She stated that she could give no description of this individual except to say that she is sure it was a man she observed, because the figure had on trousers. She could not recall the color of the trousers.

Mrs. MOONEYHAM stated she could not furnish any additional identifying information regarding the figure she observed in this window.

Mrs. MOONEYHAM stated that following the assassination of President JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY, she observed a re-enactment of the assassination on two separate occasions on one day, and it was her impression that the Presidential Motorcade was going slower than the re-enactment motorcade. She stated that it was her estimation that the Presidential car was going approximately five or six miles per hour at the time of the assassination, however, she noted that her estimation was based upon her observation of the Presidential car as it moved west on Elm away from the position where she was located.

ROBERT REID, aka Bob Reid, Deputy District Court Clerk, Dallas District Court, Clerk's Office, Records Building, advised that on November 22, 1963 he was observing the Presidential Motorcade from the window of Judge HENRY KING's court room, and followed the progress of the Presidential Motorcade from the second floor windows of the court house as it progressed down Main Street on to Houston Street and west on Elm Street from Houston Street.

Mr. REID believes that Mrs. LILLIAN MOONEYHAM and CECIL AULT, Deputy District Court Clerks, Criminal Courts Building, as well as others not recalled, were also observing the Presidential Motorcade from Judge KING's court room window.

Mr. REID heard the three gunshots fired and took his eyes from the President's car because he noticed people who were lining the streets were either running or dropping to the ground after the shots were fired. He observed people running or dropping to the ground and noticed policemen running up the grass toward the railroad tracks between the Texas School Book Depository (TSBD) and the railroad overpass. Mr. REID stated he observed nothing significant and at no time did he observe the windows of the TSBD building.

Mrs. ROSE CLARK, Deputy District Court Clerk, 44th Court, Records Building, Dallas, Texas, advised that on November 22, 1963, she was with LILLIAN MOONEYHAM and Mrs. JEANNETTE E. HOOKER in the court building, and observed the Presidential Motorcade from windows of the court house. She observed the motorcade come down Main Street and turn in to Houston Street. From the window of Judge HENRY KING's courtroom on the second floor of the court house, she heard the three shots, and it was her impression that the first shot was louder than the second and third shots. She noted that the second and third shots seemed closer together than the first and second shots. It was her impression that bystanders on the sidewalk on Elm Street ran toward the cement pavilion on the north side of Elm Street, and she noticed that the President's automobile came almost to a halt following the three shots, before it picked up speed and drove away. Mrs. CLARK did not see the President following the shots because she was watching the bystanders running away.

Following the gunshots, Mrs. CLARK and Mrs. MOONEYHAM left Judge KING's court room and went to Judge JULIEN C. HYER's office window, where they observed what was occurring outside on Elm Street.

Mrs. CLARK stated that she did not observe anything else of consequence, except that it was her impression that less than five minutes following the shots, she observed a crowd of people and policemen gathering around the entrance to the Texas School Book Depository (TSBD).

Mrs. CLARK stated that JAMES CRAWFORD, Deputy District Court Clerk, Dallas District Court, had advised her that on November 22, 1963, he had observed what appeared to be a gun protruding from one of the windows of the TSBD building. Mrs. CLARK stated she had no additional information regarding Mr. CRAWFORD having observed a gun on November 22, 1963.

Mrs. JEANNETTE E. From Judge WILSON's court room window, she observed the Presidential Motorcade turn west on Elm Street.

Mrs. HOOKER estimated that the President's car was almost to the R. L. THORNTON Freeway when she heard three gunshots. From the sound of the shots, she could not tell from where they had been fired. Mrs. HOOKER observed Mrs. KENNEDY stand up in the Presidential car and observed a man jump on to the back of the car, whom she assumes was a Secret Service Agent. She then observed the car speed away.

At no time did Mrs. HOOKER observe the windows of the Texas School Book Depository. During her observations of the Presidential Motorcade, Mrs. HOOKER was accompanied by Mrs. LILLIAN MOONEYHAM and Mrs. ROSE CLARK, fellow employees in the Records Building.

JAMES N. CRAWFORD, Deputy District Court Clerk, Dallas County District Court Clerk's Office, Records Building, advised that approximately three minutes before the presidential parade approached the intersection of Elm and Houston Streets near the Texas School Book Depository, Mr. CRAWFORD along with a fellow employee, MARY ANN MITCHELL, left the Dallas County District Court Clerk's Office and went to the southeast corner of Elm and Houston Streets to await the approach of the Presidential motorcade. As soon as he reached the southeast corner of Elm and Houston, Mr. CRAWFORD noted that the Presidential motorcade was just rounding the corner at Houston and Main Street. Mr. CRAWFORD watched the President pass in the Presidential limousine turning west onto Elm Street toward the Elm Street Triple Underpass. Mr. CRAWFORD estimated that approximately four or five automobiles including the Presidential automobile, of the Presidential motorcade, had turned down Elm when Mr. CRAWFORD heard sounds which at first were believed by CRAWFORD to be the backfiring of an automobile. Mr. CRAWFORD believed these sounds came from one of the cars in the front of the Presidential motorcade which was approaching the Triple Underpass. Upon further evaluation of the sounds CRAWFORD thought that the sounds might be fireworks. He looked around for signs of smoke.

Mr. CRAWFORD stated that to his best recollection there was a definite pause of as much as 15 to 20 seconds between the first and the second sounds, and the second and third sounds came very close together. By the time the sound of the third shot had passed, Mr. CRAWFORD looked around and in looking up at the sixth floor of the Texas School Book Depository he observed a movement which he described as a movement such as something being withdrawn quickly. Mr. CRAWFORD stated that this movement was in the left side of the sixth floor southeast corner window facing on Elm Street. This window was the only window which Mr. CRAWFORD noted at the time appearing to be open. He noticed that there were boxes close to the window on the inside of the building. Mr. CRAWFORD stated he could describe the movement he observed as light colored, possibly white, and might have been the reflection of sunlight upon a light colored object. Upon seeing this movement he immediately remarked to MARY ANN MITCHELL, "If those were shots, they came from that window".

Mr. CRAWFORD stated he observed no smoke in or around the sixth floor window of the Texas School Book Depository. Mr. CRAWFORD stated that he believes the motion that he observed in the window was a person, but he could not determine whether it was the figure of a man or a woman because of the short glimpse he got. He stated he could, therefore, not give a description of what he had observed except that it was a quick white movement made by a figure which he had immediately concluded to be a person.

Mr. CRAWFORD noted that at the time they heard the shots MARY ANN MITCHELL had exclaimed "Oh no, oh no, oh no" and appeared to be quite upset. Mr. CRAWFORD and MARY ANN MITCHELL returned to their office where they turned on the radio to find out what had happened. Mr. CRAWFORD did not know that the President had been shot until he heard it on the radio in his office. After hearing that the President had been shot, Mr. CRAWFORD went back to the street and walked to the Texas School Book Depository where he contacted Deputy Sheriff ALLAN SWEATT advising him of the movement he had seen in the sixth floor window of the Texas School Book Depository. He suggested to SWEATT that a check be made on the sixth floor behind boxes near the sixth floor window.

Miss MARY ANN MITCHELL advised she resides at 9914 Glen Rio, Dallas, Texas, and her telephone number is FL. 2-9587. She said she is employed in the District Clerk's Office, 2 Records Building, Dallas, Texas.

Miss MITCHELL said that she recalls she went to watch the Presidential Motorcade between 12:25 and 12:33 P.M. on November 22, 1963 from a location at the corner of Houston and Elm Streets. She was accompanied by JAMES N. CRAWFORD, a fellow employee. She said that the first motorcycle leading the parade turned the corner from Main Street on to Houston Street just as they arrived to watch the parade, and a minute or so later as the presidential car passed the curb in front of the Texas School Book Depository building (TSBD), she and her companion heard a loud report or explosion, then, after a short pause of four or five seconds, there were two more rapid explosions. She said she and her companion could not see the Presidential car at that time but the crowd became highly excited. As she looked toward the parkway on the right side of the street as you look toward the triple overpass, she noticed people were hitting the ground and one officer was in the street working the intersection, and another officer jumped the railing on to the grass toward the crowd. She said she exclaimed "Oh, my GOD! They've shot the President!" and looked up at the TSBD where she observed some boxes in a window on the second floor down from the top of the building. She said she did not observe any person or persons in any of the windows, but her attention was directed to a window at the corner facing Elm Street at the end of the building near the Dallas County Jail. She believed this window was open. She said she did not see any gun or smoke.

She said she had never known LEE HARVEY OSWALD or JACK RUBY, and that she had never visited the Carousel or the Vegas Clubs at any time and she knew of no association between OSWALD and RUBY.

Miss MITCHELL said she had not been interviewed by anyone else with regard to this matter.

T. E. MOORE, Deputy District Court Clerk, Records Building, advised that on November 22, 1963, he took his lunch hour to observe the Presidential Motorcade. He was standing at the southeast corner of Elm and Houston and observed the motorcade going by, turning west from Houston to Elm Street. By the time President KENNEDY had reached the Thornton Freeway sign, a shot was fired and Mr. MOORE observed the President slumping forward in the Presidential car. Mr. MOORE heard two more shots fired, however, the President was out of Mr. MOORE's sight at the time the last two shots were fired. Mr. MOORE noticed some of the bystanders on the north side of Elm Street below the concrete pavilion, rushing away from the street across the grass towards the concrete pavilion in the direction of some railroad tracks behind the concrete pavilion. Mr. MOORE stated that at the sound of the first shot, he looked up toward the Texas School Book Depository because the shot sounded like it had come from a high area, however, he did not observe anything noteworthy at the Texas School Book Depository.

He stated that approximately ten minutes later, the Texas School Book Depository was surrounded by police officers.

CECIL AULT, Deputy District Court Clerk, Dallas District Court, 505 Main Street, advised that on November 22, 1963 he had put up the shades of the windows in the courtroom of Judge HENRY KING, Dallas District Court, in order to look through the windows onto Main Street to observe the Presidential motorcade as it came down Main Street. Mr. AULT observed the President pass the courthouse on Main Street turning onto Houston and observed the President's automobile as it moved down Houston to the intersection of Houston and Elm Streets where the Presidential motorcade turned west on Elm Street. After the Presidential car had turned the corner onto Elm Street, Mr. AULT heard three loud reports which Mr. AULT immediately recognized as shots from a high-powered rifle. He noted that the first and second shots sounded to him to be close together and the third shot was spaced more after the second shot, the first two shots sounding close enough to be from an automatic rifle. Mr. AULT could not tell from what direction the rifle shots came.

Following the first shot Mr. AULT noted that President KENNEDY appeared to raise up in his seat in the Presidential automobile and after the second shot the President slumped into his seat.

Mr. AULT could not recall what other persons were present in Judge HENRY KING's courtroom at the time the above observations were made by Mr. AULT, however, he was of the belief that several other persons were present at the time.

Mr. AULT advised that he did not look toward the Texas School Book Depository at the time of the firing of the three shots and immediately thereafter because his attention was directed toward a policeman who got off his three-wheeler on Elm Street and ran toward a hedge to the left of the cement pavilion which is immediately north of Elm Street.

STEVEN F. WILSON, Office Manager, Allyne and Bacon, Inc., 301 Texas School Book Depository Building, advised at approximately 12:30 p.m. on the afternoon of November 22, 1963, employees of his office had gone to view the Presidential Motorcade on the corner of Elm and Houston Streets, and due to a heart condition which he has had, he opened the blinds on the third floor opposite from his reception desk and viewed the Presidential Motorcade as it proceeded north on Houston Street and then west on Elm Street. Due to a large tree being in the way, he could not view the entire procession, but as his view became obstructed, he heard three distinct shots which he thought came from a rifle, and subsequently it was determined that the President had been shot.

WILSON advised he discovered later that the President had been shot, but he had not seen or heard anything unusual in the immediate area surrounding his office, and when questioned as to any knowledge he might have concerning LEE HARVEY OSWALD, he stated he did not know OSWALD and did not, in fact, subsequently remember seeing him in the Texas School Book Depository Building. However, he noted he could have possibly seen him on one or two occasions in the lunchroom located on the second floor of the building.

Mr. WILSON could offer no information of subsequent value in this matter.

On December 27, 1963, MARY SUE BROWN, 6106 Singing Hills Boulevard, Dallas, Texas, stated that about three weeks ago, an individual named RICHARD CARR, who resides on North Bishop Street, Dallas, Texas, had told her that LEE HARVEY OSWALD had not assassinated President KENNEDY. CARR is a friend of Mrs. BROWN'S sister, ELSIE JOHNSON, who resides at the same address as Mrs. BROWN. A friend named HOLLY JORDON also heard this individual make this statement concerning the fact that OSWALD did not assassinate the President. Dallas Texas

According to Mrs. BROWN, CARR was making an application for a job at a building which was under construction near the court house at the time President KENNEDY was assassinated. CARR told her and the others that he was about five hundred yards from the place where the President was assassinated and that he had seen the individual who fired the gun from the Texas School Book Depository Building, and that it was not OSWALD. He said this individual wore a hat, horn-rimmed glasses, and was of athletic build. CARR told them that there was a Negro man with a gray-colored car waiting for this individual after the assassination, and that the man who did the shooting got into this gray car. CARR told Mrs. BROWN and others that there were four or five other steel workers on the building under construction near the place where the President was assassinated, and that they likewise saw the assassination.

Mrs. BROWN stated CARR was sober at the time he made the statement and although she did not know him well, he did not seem to be a braggart or to be joking when he told the aforementioned story.

Richard Randolph Carr

On January 4, 1964, RICHARD RANDOLPH CARR, 738 North Bishop, advised that on the morning of November 22, 1963, he had taken his wife and child to the Parkland Hospital, arriving there at approximately 11:30 A.M. He advised he left his wife and child at the Parkland Hospital and proceeded to the downtown area of Dallas, Texas, attempting to locate employment. He advised that shortly after noon on November 22, 1963, he was attempting to locate the foreman in charge of the steel construction at the new court house presently under construction, located at the corner of Houston and Commerce Streets, Dallas, Texas.

CARR advised he made inquiry with one of the employees and they informed him the foreman was on the ninth floor, at which time he, CARR, started walking up the steel stairway of the building under construction and when he reached approximately the sixth floor, he looked toward the Texas School Book Depository (TSBD) building and observed an individual described as a white male, wearing a hat, a tan sportcoat, and wearing glasses, looking out of the top floor window. A few minutes later, he heard sounds which he believed to be backfire of an automobile and shortly thereafter heard a second sound, and looking toward the triple underpass, he saw several individuals falling to the ground. CARR advised he did not look at the TSBD again and immediately proceeded down the staircase with intentions of going over to the triple underpass to see what had happened. Upon reaching the ground, CARR advised he proceeded to the Houston Avenue and Commerce Street intersection, at which time he observed an individual who he believed to be the person he saw earlier on the top floor of the TSBD building.

CARR advised he did not walk over to where he had earlier seen people falling to the ground, mainly due to the large crowd. He stated he then went to his personal residence, 738 North Bishop, and did not know of the Presidential CARR advised that from his location on the steel structure of the new court house building, it would have been impossible for him to observe the lower floors and entrance of the TSBD, and that from his position he could only see the top floor and roof of the TSBD and the ground area surrounding the triple underpass.

CARR denied making any statements to the effect he had observed an individual fire a gun from the TSBD on November 22, 1963, and he also denied observing anyone leaving the entrance of the TSBD and getting into a gray car.

On January 4, 1964, SAS JOHN T. KESLER and VERNON MITCHEM personally observed the Texas School Book Depository (TSBD) building from the sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth floors of the steel structure of the new courthouse building, presently under construction on the corner of Houston and Commerce Streets, Dallas, Texas.

From the sixth floor of the steel structure, it was impossible to observe the southeast corner window of the TSBD building, where the assassin fired at President JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY.

From the ninth floor of the steel structure, the seventh floor and roof of the TSBD building could be observed; however the window from which the assassin fired at President KENNEDY and Governor JOHN CONNALLY could not be observed. The lower portion of the TSBD, including the entrance thereto, could not be seen from the sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth floors of the steel structure. However, the area near the triple underpass, between Elm and Main Streets, could be observed, but distinguishing features of the individuals in the vicinity of this triple underpass could not be observed.

From the personal observation of SAS KESLER and MITCHEM, from the sixth floor of the steel structure of the new courthouse building, it would have been impossible to observe the assassination of President JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY, on November 22, 1963.

Mr. JOHN J. SOLON, 4153 Beachwood Lane, was interviewed at his residence.

Mr. SOLON advised he is no longer in private law practice, but is employed as an attorney by the Texas Highway Department, at Mesquite, Texas.

Mr. SOLON advised that on November 22, 1963, he was in the Main Street entrance of the Old Courthouse, on the south side of Main Street, looking north toward the Dallas County Jail, when the Presidential motorcade passed by. Mr. SOLON advised he observed President JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY, Mrs. KENNEDY, and other officials in the Presidential car, which was moving at approximately 35-40 miles per hour. The Presidential car slowed down to turn north on Houston Street from Main, and a few moments later, he heard three shots which sounded as follows:

First shot; pause; two shots; then echoes of the shots.

Mr. SOLON advised he would judge that approximately five and one-half seconds was taken for all three shots.

Mr. SOLON advised he did not have any further specific information about the assassination of President JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY. Mr. SOLON advised that on December 10, 1963 he addressed a post card to the FBI. Mr. SOLON said these comments were merely an opinion of his and he had no idea that there was any information available concerning the date that the Presidential trip to Dallas was first planned; the date OSWALD obtained a job at the Texas School Book Depository; nor did he have any information or proof that the "Dallas Morning News" was the connecting link between these two facts.

Mr. SOLON advised he also addressed a post card, dated December 17, 1963, to the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company. He said his comments on this post card were only his opinion that someone at the "Dallas Morning News" must have called Caracas, Venezuela, so that the kidnapping of the U. S. Army Colonel could have been reported at the same time of the assassination of President KENNEDY to push the news of his death off the front pages.

Mr. SOLON said he felt that if such a call was made, the Southwestern Bell Telephone Company should report this to the FBI and that if this was not done, then this was "treason".

Mr. SOLON advised he had been a great admirer of President KENNEDY and was deeply shocked by his death. He said he had thought about this very much and just wished that he could help in some way, so he wrote the post cards as a means of suggestion and help. Mr. SOLON advised, however, the only thing he really knew of positively was having heard the three shots of the assassination.

On January 9, 1964, the following information was received from Confidential Informant DL T-1 concerning the type of rifle allegedly used in the assassination of President KENNEDY:

According to informant, articles appearing in the Italian and foreign press indicated the use of an Italian-made rifle in the slaying of President KENNEDY. Informant stated as follows:

The weapon which appears to have been employed in the assassination is a Model 91 Rifle, 7.35 Caliber, 1938 Modification. The description of a "Mannlicher Carcano" Rifle in the Italian and foreign press is in error. The Model 91 Italian Rifle is of Austrian origin and is derived from the Steyer. Informant indicated that the "Mannlicher" is a Hungarian rifle whose clip loader was adopted for the Italian Model 91.

Informant continued that CARCANO was a Senior Technician in the Terni Army Weapons Plant who, in 1890 - 1891, made certain changes in the original Austrian model, from which the Italian Model 91 Rifle is derived. The "Model 91" is the result of a combination of ideas taken from various types of foreign weapons; Mannlicher Loader, Steyer Model, Mauser Bolt, etc.

Informant indicated the weapons mentioned by the foreign press are varied. The type of weapon actually employed in the crime, according to informant, is not yet known in Italy. The telescopic sight on the rifle is not of Italian origin and was never fixed to the weapon in Italy, according to informant.

Informant continued that in 1958 the Italian military authorities decided to eliminate all the "Model 91's" (6.5 and 7.35 calibers) of various types which were no longer being issued and which were declared obsolete. The Army Artillery and the Air Force Arms and Munitions Command agreed together to dispose of all such weapons on the basis of regular bidding. According to informant, the Navy in Italy acted independently and in February, 1959, turned over to the Pietro Beretta Arms Plant of Gardone Val Trompia (Brescia) on an exchange basis about 26,000 6.5 caliber "Model 91" rifles, which were exported by Beretta to the United States between August and November, 1960, the consignee being Comir Creation of New York.

The rifles put up for sale by the Army Artillery Command in Italy consisted of some 570,000 serviceable and unserviceable weapons. Three American firms bid competitively for them, Adam, Interarmco and Sidem International. Adam Consolidated Industries of New York was given the contract and in April, 1960, began to make delivery of these weapons.

According to informant, the Adam Company, through its Italian legal representative, had these rifles modified by the Riva di Store Laboratory (Trento) shortening the rifle barrels or replacing the short rifle barrels with longer ones, and making certain other minor changes were made, which were designed to make the weapon more acceptable to the American public.

Informant advised that this firm took delivery of some 100,000 rifles, which were shipped at intervals to the United States, and put on the open market through normal commercial channels. The Adam firm did a good deal of advertising to bring these weapons to the attention of the public in America, where the sales of such arms for hunting or target shooting is uncontrolled and is normally accomplished through large chain stores.

Informant related that weapons were sold to the Adam Company at an average price of $2.70 for serviceable 6.5 rifles; $1.10 for unserviceable 6.5 rifles; $4.50 for serviceable 7.35 rifles, and $2.00 for unserviceable 7.35 rifles. In the United States, the sales prices to the buyer ran from a minimum of $9.95 to a maximum of $29.95 per rifle. Informant stated that the sale of European weapons in the United States, adapted for hunting or target shooting, is very great and, in addition to Italian weapons, there are English Remingtons, German Mausers, English Enfields, Russian Tokarevs, Belgian Brownings, French Mabs, Austrian Mannlichers, and many others.

Informant advised the first lot of 7,000 "Model 91's", which Adam put on the American market had disastrous results, many of them bursting, with frequent fatal consequences, and many would not fire. This forced Adam to withdraw all the rifles from sale and check them before putting them back on the market. Informant stated that after taking delivery of 100,000 rifles the Adam Company did not accept any more and, as a result, litigation is now in process by the firm and the Italian military authorities for breach of contract.

Informant continued that the Klein Company, International Firearms, and Globe Fireams (apparently United States firms) have never made direct purchases of weapons in Italy, but it was possible that these firms obtained some lots of Italian rifles from Adam Company for sale on the American and Canadian markets. Informant stated that all the weapons sold to the Adam Company were ordinary repeating rifles and that normally each piece shows its serial number, year of manufacture, and the words, "Made in Italy," or the name of the manufacturer.

Informant pointed out that between 1935 and 1945 many tens of thousands of "Model 91" rifles of Italian origin disappeared in East Africa, North Africa, Spain, Greece, Yugoslavia, Russia, and elsewhere, and that most of such rifles were bought by the local population and even the governments of various countries made sales of which the Italian authorities have no knowledge.

Informant stated that, since the assassination, a number of journalists from communist newspapers had visited the Terni Arms Plant in Italy and tried to obtain information on the sale of weapons abroad, but were reportedly given no information.

On January 2, 1964, an anonymous telephone call was received at the Dallas FBI Office, at which time a male voice stated that a man by the name of STACY, 2518 Catherine Street, Dallas, Texas, had been showing him some guns and stated that this man, STACY, puts telescopic sights on guns and inferred that he may have had something to do with the telescopic sight on the weapon used in the assassination of President KENNEDY.

The 1963 Dallas City Directory reflects a JAMES O. STACY, wife ANNA R., employed as a gunsmith for Moore and Carpenter, 325 North Akard Street. STACY's residence is reflected as 2518 Catherine Street.

Date 1/6/64

JAMES OLIVER STACY was interviewed at his place of employment, Doran Chevrolet, 2222 Main, Dallas, Texas, at which time STACY was advised of the identity of the interviewers as Special Agents of the FBI. STACY was advised that he did not have to make a statement and that any statement he did make would be voluntary and could be used against him in a court of law. He was advised of his right to consult an attorney.

STACY stated that he had no objection to talking with agents of the FBI. STACY was asked if he had ever indicated that he had something to do with the telescopic sight on the weapon used in the assassination of President JOHN F. KENNEDY. STACY replied that he had never at any time stated that he had something to do with the telescopic sight on the assassination weapon and he denied emphatically that he had ever made such a statement or a similar statement or that he at any time had actually fixed the sight on the assassination weapon. STACY further denied ever having known LEE HARVEY OSWALD. Photographs of LEE HARVEY OSWALD and JACK RUBY were displayed to STACY and he denied having ever seen these individuals or ever having known them. STACY stated that he was employed by Moore and Carpenter Inc., Dallas, Texas, as a gunsmith and clerk from February, 1961 to March, 1963. In this capacity he had worked on guns and had fixed gun sights to rifles. He had no recollection of ever having seen OSWALD at Moore and Carpenter, Inc. He recalled that following the assassination of President KENNEDY he had wondered what type of weapon had been used and he may have expressed to various individuals not recalled, that he had fixed a sight on an Argentine Mauser 7.65 Caliber Rifle for a man named JOE UNDERWOOD. STACY stated that this Argentine Mauser had no connection with the assassination of President KENNEDY, however, he had commented regarding it following the assassination only because he was concerned about what type of weapon had been used in the assassination.

STACY recalled that he had recently gone to a rifle range in the vicinity of the Sports Drome Speedway in the 8000 Block, Davis Road, Grand Prairie, Texas in order to practice shooting his rifle. While at the rifle range he overheard some of the personnel at the rifle range discussing that LEE HARVEY OSWALD had been to the rifle range at one time or another.

The following is a description of STACY as obtained through observation and interview:

Under date of December 31, 1963, the FBI Laboratory furnished the following information concerning a cryptanalysis examination requested by the Dallas Office on December 16, 1963:

Specimens received 12/20/63

Q348 Book entitled "Book of Useful Advice" in Russian containing 865 pages, the first 18 missing.

Q349 Book entitled "Our Children" in Russian, published by the State Printing House, Medical Literature, Prague, 1961, containing 489 pages.

Result of examinations:

Cryptanalytic examination of Q348 and Q349 did not reveal any indications that they were used for code or cipher purposes.

Under date of December 31, 1963, the FBI Laboratory furnished the following information concerning a microscopic and firearms examination requested by the Dallas Office on December 21, 1963:

Specimens received 12/26/63

Results of examination:

Several brown head hairs and head hair clippings were found in the debris removed from the Q350 jacket. These hairs match in microscopic characteristics the previously submitted K7 hair sample of Oswald and originated either from him or from another Caucasian person whose head hairs exhibit the same microscopic characteristics.

It is pointed out that hairs do not possess enough individual microscopic characteristics to be positively identified as originating from a particular person to the exclusion of all others.

Several brown limb hair fragments of Caucasian origin were also found in the debris removed from Q350; however, these hairs did not contain enough microscopic characteristics to be of value for comparison purposes.

None of the textile fibers previously removed from the K1 gun could be associated with the Q350 jacket.

The jacket, Q350, was microscopically examined and chemically processed to determine if any gunpowder residues were present and no nitrates or nitrites such as would be present in gunpowder residues were found. It is pointed out that the absence of nitrates and nitrites does not necessarily indicate that the jacket was not worn by a person firing a weapon since such residues are not normally deposited on a shooter's clothing.

The envelope Q350A is the same kind as the envelopes Q232 and Q234. The envelope Qc352 is similar to the other three envelopes. The paper of Q351 is the same kind as Q235.

No indented handwriting was found on Q350A and Q351.

It was concluded that the envelope Q350 had been previously opened and resealed.

The signature on Q351 is not at all comparable with the signatures on Q233 and Q235. There is no handwritten signature on Qo353.

It is pointed out that specimens Q232, Q233, Q234 and Q235 were previously submitted for examination, the results of which have been previously reported. The following is a description of these items:

Specimens received 12-9-63

Q445 Color picture postcard bearing printed description on back "TOROS EN MEXICO BULL FIGHT IN MEXICO"

Q446 Color picture postcard bearing printed description on back "TOROS EN MEXICO BULL FIGHT IN MEXICO" and printing on front of card "TOROS EN MEXICO"

Result of examination:

It was concluded that the questioned handwriting in Q439, which is on a blank sheet which faces the inside back cover, was written by LEE HARVEY OSWALD, K4 and K5 in this case. The remaining brief notations in Q439 are too limited for an adequate handwriting examination.

The various isolated words appearing in Q440 are too limited for an adequate comparison with the known writings of OSWALD, K4 and K5. However, some handwriting and hand printing similarities were noted common to the questioned writings in Q440 and the known writings of OSWALD.

No indented writings of significance were noted in Q439 and Q440.

He said that DALE TENNILL is still employed in the Service Department of that company.

Mr. ROZZELL said he wanted to furnish other information that he believed pertinent to the investigation of this case, and he then related that JACK LAWRENCE (JACK ALLAN CARROLL LAWRENCE), a former employee, left the business about one hour before lunch on November 22, 1963 and he returned about 30 minutes after the assassination of President KENNEDY and was observed to be extremely pale and nervous, and immediately went to a rest room. When he returned to the sales floor, he said that LAWRENCE told other employees he had left his demonstrator near the scene of the assassination and was reluctant to discuss anything about the assassination. He said he recalled the new car sales personnel talking on November 22, 1963 about the assassination of President KENNEDY. This discussion took place about 2:30 or 3:00 P.M. on November 22, 1963 and one of the salesmen, FRED FALZONE (PH), had remarked "a man (OSWALD) was in here trying to buy a car". He said that on that evening or possibly a day or so later, he met L. G. HERRINGTON and DALE TENNILL at Glen's Drive-In where they had a couple of beers and he mentioned this discussion to them and said he believed it was a Mercury that OSWALD tried to buy.

He said he never heard OSWALD actually making a trade or taking a demonstration ride. He said that he did not believe that he had ever told anyone that the FBI had made inquiry at Downtown Lincoln-Mercury concerning the attempt by OSWALD to buy a car, and that no person from the FBI has interviewed him before in connection with this matter.

DALE TENNILL advised he resides at 4034 Walker in Dallas, Texas and has been employed by the Downtown Lincoln-Mercury automobile dealership at 118 Commerce Street for about 18 months and he is presently assigned to the new car "make ready" department. He said he recalls going to Glen's Drive-In about a week after President KENNEDY was assassinated, with "IKE" HUSKINS and L. G. HERRINGTON, also known as "RED", and at that time IKE remarked he had heard that LEE HARVEY OSWALD had tried to buy a new car from the dealership. He said he did not recall whether it was a Lincoln or a Mercury, but somehow or other believed it must have been a "Comet". He said it was the custom of employees in the "make ready" and maintenance department to drop by Glen's Drive-In for a beer after work, but so much time had passed that he was unable to recall definitely what the conversation was between HUSKINS and HERRINGTON and himself.

He said he had no knowledge of OSWALD or RUBY prior to the assassination of President KENNEDY and knew of no association between OSWALD and RUBY.

FRANK PIZZO advised he is the Assistant Sales Manager of the Downtown Lincoln-Mercury dealership, New Car Department, which is located at 118 East Commerce Street. He said on or about a week or more before November 22, 1963, he recalled that AL BOGARD, a new car salesman for the Downtown Lincoln-Mercury dealership, had brought a customer to the office where he, PIZZO, advised BOGARD that the customer would need $300.00 cash to make a contract to buy a new "Comet" car. Then he said BOGARD brought this customer, who resembled LEE HARVEY OSWALD, to Mr. PIZZO and BOGARD remarked that the customer did not have the money then but would have it in two or three weeks.

He recalled that this customer had taken a demonstration ride, and he believed it was a "red Comet Caliente" and he recalled that BOGARD was quite angry after the demonstration ride on account of the amount of gas used and the fact that he was unable to close his sale.

He said that BOGARD advised him that the ride was "really wild". He said this conversation occurred on the date of the attempted sale by BOGARD, which was prior to the assassination. He described the customer as male, white, age - late to middle 20's, short stature - about 5' 6" or 5' 7". He noted that he, PIZZO, is 5' 9" and said the customer was definitely shorter than he was. He said he noticed no accent and seemed to recall that there was no conversation between him and this customer. He said the customer could have been dressed in a T-shirt or sport-shirt, but he was not positive about the description and certainly could not be positive that this customer was identical with LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

Mr. PIZZO said later, after the assassination, BOGARD remarked to him that he had a card on November 22, 1963 that had LEE HARVEY OSWALD's name on it, and when he heard of OSWALD being killed by RUBY, he (BOGARD) had thrown it away. He said that the FBI representatives were in the office after OSWALD was allegedly killed by RUBY, (BOGARD made an unsuccessful attempt to search through the trash in an effort to locate this card.

RUTH PAINE, 2515 West Fifth Street, furnished the following information:

On November 9, 1963, LEE HARVEY OSWALD was at her home in the morning, having spent the previous night there with his wife, MARINA. She recalls that he did not leave the house during the morning hours until around 10:00 or 10:30 A.M. when she drove him in her Chevrolet station wagon to the drivers license examining station, located on South Masalis, near Pentagon Parkway, on the extreme south side of Dallas. She stated that MARINA OSWALD and the OSWALD and PAINE children accompanied them on this trip. When they arrived at the drivers license station, they found that it was closed; it normally stays open until twelve noon on Saturday, November 9 being a Saturday, but because this was an election day, the station did not open at all.

Mrs. PAINE recalls that they shopped briefly in a variety store located in the same shopping center with the drivers license station, and recalls MARINA purchased a pacifier and that she (Mrs. PAINE) purchased a pair of baby pants.

She stated they then returned to the PAINE residence in Irving, Texas, and estimated that they arrived home some time between 12:00 and 12:30 P.M. She stated that it is a 40-minute trip from her house to the drivers license station and that she knows they spent a few minutes shopping.

She said that she recalls that before leaving for the drivers license station, LEE OSWALD had borrowed her typewriter and was typing a note on it. She stated she knows he was not away from her residence prior to the time they left to go to the drivers license station.

After they returned home, she prepared lunch and she is of the opinion that LEE OSWALD spent the afternoon watching a football game on television.

Mrs. PAINE recalls she was away from her home some time between 4:00 and 5:00 P.M. when she went to a nearby school to cast her ballot. Mrs. PAINE stated she was away from her home at this time probably 45 minutes and that this was the longest period she was away from home on this date, other than the trip to the drivers license station.

She stated that she did not stop at any car dealers while en route from Irving to the drivers license station, and back, and specifically stated she did not stop at Downtown Lincoln-Mercury, 118 East Commerce Street, Dallas, Texas. She stated that in her opinion, it would have been impossible for LEE HARVEY OSWALD to be at the Downtown Lincoln-Mercury, in Dallas, Texas, on November 9, 1963, since he was not out of her sight for a sufficient portion of the day to make such a trip.

Lawrence Kenneth Smith

On January 11, 1964, Mr. WILLIAM LAWRENCE SMITH, 12805 Dodson, Mesquite, Texas, was interviewed while he was working in the vicinity of 10621 Larchfield. Mr. SMITH advised that he was brick-laying at 500 East 10th Street, Dallas, Texas, on November 22, 1963. He said that he left the job and went to lunch, exact time unrecalled, and noticed a man walking west on 10th Street. A few minutes after he got to the cafe located at 10th and Marsalis, GEORGE CHAPMAN, a bricklayer who lives on Carnation Street in Mesquite, Texas, came after him and said "Somebody shot a policeman". SMITH said that he and CHAPMAN returned immediately to 500 East 10th Street and arrived in time to see a police officer being put into an ambulance.

Mr. SMITH said that GEORGE CHAPMAN told him that he did not see the shooting, however, SMITH believes that two of his Negro employees and possibly a third one, may have witnessed the shooting of this police officer.

SMITH said that he later learned that this was Officer J. D. TIPPIT. After seeing photographs of LEE HARVEY OSWALD, he feels sure that the man who walked by him going west on 10th Street while he (SMITH) was going to lunch, was LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

PERRY HOLMES, address unknown, a Negro brick mason tender who lives just east off of Lancaster Road to Cedar Way Drive, the first street left, which is Fatima, first house on left;

FRANCIS KENNIETH, a Negro brick mason tender who lives in the second house on Cardwell Street on the left after turning south off of East Grant Street;

Captain PAUL BARGER advised he has been unable to identify the source of his original information, which he furnished to a Special Agent of the Dallas Office of the FBI on a date not recalled, concerning a conversation which took place between telephone number CR 5-5211, Arlington, Texas, and telephone number BL 3-1628, Irving, Texas, on November 23, 1963. He said he had located his notes, which were at his home at the time of this interview. He determined there was nothing on the notes to indicate the exact time he had received the information.

He stated he had contacted a person he believed to have furnished the information to him, but determined this person had not done so.

He said he would continue his attempt to locate and identify the original source of the information in his notes.

He stated that when he originally received the information, he felt his identity should not be revealed, but now has no objection to the use of his name in connection with this information.

Captain PAUL BARGER advised he is a member of the Irving, Texas, Police Department and he stated he had no objection to the use of his name in connection with information he furnished SA ROBERT C. LISH, on November 26, 1963, at Irving, Texas.

He said he had made extensive inquiry in an effort to identify the name of the individual who furnished him with the information concerning a telephone conversation which took place on November 23, 1963, between telephone numbers CR 5-5211, Arlington, Texas, and BL 3-1628, Irving, Texas. He said he had been unable to identify this individual, but he was certain the information was furnished to him between Friday night, November 22, 1963, and Monday, November 25, 1963. He said he had an unusually large amount of work assignments during that period and these assignments kept him from recalling the time of day that this information was received.

Captain BARGER said a request was made of him to attempt to obtain a list of telephone tickets, or other helpful information, from his contacts with the Southwestern States Telephone Company at Irving, Texas, which would assist in the investigation of the case concerning the assassination of President KENNEDY, on November 22, 1963. He said he felt sure the information he furnished SA LISH had come from some telephone company sources, but he was still unable to identify the individual who related it to him; and he was unable to recall whether it was related in person, or by a telephone call.

He furnished his personal, original notes concerning this information for any use they may serve, and he identified same by placing his initials thereon and the date, January 17, 1964.

Mrs. Michael Ralph Paine

Mrs. RUTH HYDE PAINE, 2515 West Fifth Street, Irving, Texas, advised she was at home on November 23, 1963, except for a short period when she went out shopping. Her husband, MICHAEL PAINE, was at their residence, 2515 West Fifth Street, Irving, Texas, all day on November 23, 1963, except for the period between 3 P.M. and dark. During this period, MICHAEL PAINE, had been picked up by the Dallas Police Department and taken to the Dallas Police Department for questioning and then returned. She does not know if he could have stopped at his place of employment in Arlington, Texas, during this period.

N.Y.

Mrs. PAINE stated that she had one telephone conversation with her husband on November 23, 1963, which was a phone call by herself to her husband, at which time she inquired as to the time he would return to their residence. Mrs. PAINE denied having a telephone conversation with her husband at his place of employment.

Mrs. PAINE denied that her husband had ever commented to her that he felt sure LEE HARVEY OSWALD had killed the President, but did not feel OSWALD was responsible and "we both know who's responsible". Mrs. PAINE was asked concerning the following quotation, "Oswald wouldn't have any reason to do it, but when you get right down to it, the only guilty person it that bastard himself". Mrs. PAINE stated that she could not recall her husband using those exact words in conversation with her, but the meaning of the words would be "compatible" with his feelings on November 23, 1963.

Mrs. PAINE advised that her husband, MICHAEL PAINE, was one of a few employees at Bell Helicopter who had a key to their research laboratory, in Arlington, Texas, and could enter this laboratory at any time he desired, at which location phone number, CR 5-5211, is located.

Mrs. PAINE stated that her husband had never discussed with her the fact that he had been previously questioned by the FBI concerning a specific telephone conversation.

On November 23, 1963, she recalled that definitely there were no other women or ladies in her home, except MARINA OSWALD, who did not speak English.

She advised that on the 23rd of November, a group of officers made a search of her home and while the search was being made, she made a brief visit to shop for groceries.

Mrs. PAINE stated that on November 22, 1963, at about 1 P.M., her husband telephoned her from his place of business and advised her that President KENNEDY had just been shot. At the time, LEE HARVEY OSWALD'S connection was not known to her and no mention was made of OSWALD in this conversation. Mrs. PAINE said that on November 22, 1963, following an announcement on the radio that LEE HARVEY OSWALD had been arrested by the Dallas Police Department, MICHAEL PAINE left his place of employment and came to their residence in Irving, Texas, and arrived shortly after the Dallas police came to their residence.

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

MICHAEL RALPH PAINE, 2515 West 5th Street, Irving, Texas, denied ever having made a statement that he felt sure LEE HARVEY OSWALD had killed the President, although he does not feel OSWALD was responsible, and further stated that "We both know who is responsible". PAINE stated he never made a statement of this type at any place at any time or under any circumstances.

PAINE was asked if he ever made a statement to the effect that "OSWALD wouldn't have any reason to do it, but when you get right down to it, the only guilty person it that Bastard himself -". PAINE stated that he has stated on numerous occasions to many persons that OSWALD wouldn't have any reason to do it, namely, to kill the President; however, the last part of the statement definitely does not sound like his (PAINE's) statement. PAINE stated that he did sincerely believe that OSWALD had assassinated the President in view of so much strong and convincing circumstantial evidence, and he did feel that he (OSWALD) was alone responsible and did not have any collaborators in the assassination of the President. PAINE said OSWALD had never mentioned President KENNEDY in his presence or to his (PAINE'S) wife at any time to his knowledge.

Mr. PAINE said subsequent to the shooting of President KENNEDY on November 22, 1963, he and his wife received many telephone calls, crank letters and visits from people both at their home and his office with regard to all sorts of "crank" remarks concerning their knowledge of and association with LEE OSWALD and his wife, MARINA. He also advised that if he felt these people who telephonically contacted him or contacted them in person were reliable people, he would talk to them; if not, he ignored their entreaties, letters or conversations.

Mr. PAINE stated upon reflection, with regard to the second statement at the outset of this interview, that he felt the sentiment expressed was compatible with his belief after the death of President KENNEDY.

On December 28, 1963, Mr. SAM C. ARMSTRONG, 902 East 14th Street, Austin, Texas, advised that his adopted son, DONALD HOWARD ARMSTRONG, 3312 A Knight Street, Dallas, Texas, in a long distance call on December 23, 1963, commented "I know some things about the assassination that the FBI does not know." Mr. ARMSTRONG said this comment was made during a discussion concerning the tragedy in Dallas.

e. April 1957

Mr. ARMSTRONG stated that he does not know what his son meant, that although he, ARMSTRONG, has tried to raise his son properly his son seems to gravitate toward the wrong kind of people and has been rather unsuccessful as far as a career is concerned. He stated his son is 27 years old and his last employment was a secretarial service wherein his son was sending out literature. He stated his son can be reached through telephone LA 8-2071 or EM 3-6391.

The following investigation was conducted by SA WILLIAM G. BROOKHART at Dallas, Texas:

On January 10, 1964, Mr. DONALD HOWARD ARMSTRONG, 3312 A Knight Street, advised that he has no information whatever concerning the assassination of President JOHN F. KENNEDY in Dallas, Texas on November 22, 1963. Mr. ARMSTRONG advised that he has the opinion that one man could not have fired three shots so rapidly to kill President KENNEDY, and he believes that there may have been another person firing one or more of these shots. Mr. ARMSTRONG said that he based this opinion on his ability in handling a rifle, since he recalls on one occasion that he shot three ducks "on the wing" with a .22 caliber bolt-action rifle and it took him longer to do this than five or six seconds. He said that although he is able to handle this .22 caliber rifle in an expert manner, he barely qualified as a marksman with the .30 caliber rifle while in the U. S. Air Force.

Mr. ARMSTRONG said he was sincerely interested in helping in the investigation of the assassination of President KENNEDY, and that he would be free at any time to aid in any way possible.

Mr. ARMSTRONG advised that he is presently employed as an employment counselor for the Approved Employers Service, 6170 Sherry Lane, Dallas, Texas, from 9:00 A.M. to 5:00 P.M., and also works at Wyatt's Cafeteria No. 21, north 4300 block of Oak Lawn from 6:00 P.M. to 9:30 P.M. Mr. ARMSTRONG said that he has a tenth grade education, but received a high school equivalent certificate by taking a test at the University of Corpus Christi in Corpus Christi, Texas. He said that he was in the U. S. Air Force from 1956 to 1957, receiving an Honorable Discharge under medical conditions which he stated indicated he had scars on his lungs. His assignment in the Air Force was as a radio mechanic, although he worked as a clerk in the Squadron Post Office. His Air Force Serial Number is AF 18499107.

I am not a member of the FPCC. I wish also to state that I have never known or met Lee Harvey Oswald, nor have I met or known anyone who did know him. I do not know of the existence in Dallas of a chapter of the FPCC. In short I have no pertinent information about OSWALD or JACK RUBY, aside from what I have read or heard from various news media.

DAVID CONRAD GLASS, residing at Logging Camp #9, Weyerhaeuser Lumber Company, in Lake County, Oregon, on interview furnished the following information:

Cols Nevada New Mexico Idaho

In 1954, he was residing in Lakeview, Oregon, and was separated from his wife. He met a girl named JANE WARD in a local bar and began dating her. This continued until February, 1956, when she broke off the relationship. In the spring of 1957, she began appearing to him in dreams and engaged him in what he termed "small talk." These dreams occurred infrequently after he had had a few drinks the night before. He considered these occurrences dreams until about a year later. At that time he was employed by United Air Lines as a mechanic in the International Airport at San Francisco. He recalled that JANE WARD appeared to him in a dream and asked him if he thought MARILYN MONROE would commit suicide. He made a prediction then that she would commit suicide about August 5, 1962. The next day a fellow employee named RAY ANDREWS repeated to him word for word the conversation about MARILYN MONROE in his dream the night before. He said he had no explanation for this other than the fact that it did occur. He said he also had no explanation as to why MARILYN MONROE committed suicide about the time he predicted.

From 1957 to 1959, he thinks he had about twelve dreams in which he had a conversation with JANE WARD and the conversation in the dreams was repeated to him by ANDREWS word for word the next day. About 1959, JANE began talking with him about KENNEDY in the dreams. She insisted that KENNEDY was a relative of his and also that KENNEDY was a friend of Queen ELIZABETH. She would question him about whether he thought that KENNEDY would live through his first term as President and he would reply that he did not think so. He quit United Air Lines in June, 1959, and got a job in Medford, Oregon, for Skeeters Logging Company and during the summer of 1959, he also completed his training for a commercial pilot's license at the Medford Airport. In early 1960, he went to work for Lockheed Missiles in Sunnyvale, California. He had a limited security clearance and at this time he had another dream in which JANE WARD asked him everything he knew about restricted activities at Lockheed. He said the next day he telephoned JANE at her sister's place in Palo Alto, California, and she admitted that she talked to him in his dreams. He resigned from Lockheed in June, 1960. He then became employed by Weyerhaeuser at Klamath Falls, Oregon. The dreams continued infrequently and in one dream she told him she was now residing in Albuquerque, New Mexico, at 506 Sycamore S.E. As a memory aid to remember the address, she told him to think of the Heinz Company, 57 Varieties, subtract 1 and put a 0 in the middle. She also gave him a song title with the name of a tree but told him he should substitute Sycamore. In the spring of 1963, she appeared to him in a dream and asked him what was going to happen to WALKER. He said she referred to General WALKER in Texas. He replied that he did not know but thought nothing would happen to him. She also asked him what was going to happen to KENNEDY and he predicted that KENNEDY was going to get shot. She insisted that KENNEDY was his relative and stated again that he was a friend of the Queen.

In April, 1963, in a dream, JANE first mentioned OSWALD and asked him if he knew OSWALD.

In June, 1963, Weyerhaeuser shut down so he went to JANE's mother, NORA WARD, who verified the address JANE had given him in a dream and Mrs. WARD told him JANE was living there with her husband GENE MURPHY. He said he thought he would go and visit her so he drove to Albuquerque, arriving there on June 18, 1963, and went to see JANE. He talked with her a few times in a park near her residence. He said she had intended to get a divorce but told him she had patched things up with her husband. During the time he was in Albuquerque, he stayed at a rooming house at 602 Arno Street. He returned to Lakeview but on July 9, 1963, he flew his plane, a Piper Cub, to Albuquerque, and again stayed at the Arno Street address. He saw JANE again and she told him her marriage was okay and she did not want to see him any more. He accused her of appearing to him in his dreams and she denied it and he said he was going to punch her in the nose and she still denied it and he hit her in the eye and gave her a black eye. Right after this he hid out in some shrubbery near a church but when the police did not find him he went to his roominghouse. In the meantime, he had got a job in the service department of Montgomery Ward Company.

On July 16, 1963, two deputy sheriffs came there and arrested him on an assault charge. He said they were driving a green "bathtub" Nash, 1952 or 1953 model. It was not a police car although the deputies were in uniform. They took him to Central Street in Albuquerque, to the office of a justice of the peace named ROSE DORFER. JANE was at the office. There he was placed under oath and was required to furnish a peace bond to keep the peace and pay $32, after which he was released.

On December 10, 1963, at Camp #9, Weyerhaeuser Lumber Company, he had just finished reading an account of the assassination of President KENNEDY and the surrounding events when it suddenly occurred to him that these matters had been mentioned at the hearing before justice of the peace in Albuquerque on July 16, 1963. Between July 16, 1963 and December 10, 1963, it had not occurred to him that anything had been said at the hearing other than matters connected with the assault charge, but after reading of these matters in the magazines, he suddenly began to remember that both the justice of the peace and JANE WARD had talked to him and during a long conversation they had talked about KENNEDY being a socialist, pro-Negro and a civil rightist. At that time JANE had admitted that she had appeared to him in his dreams and talked with him. They asked him to make a prediction about how long President KENNEDY would live and it appeared to him that nothing would happen to KENNEDY if he made no prediction, so to please the women, he told them that KENNEDY would die between November 15 and December 15, 1963. The justice of the peace said that was right and JANE nodded okay. They asked him about OSWALD so he said OSWALD would kill KENNEDY and that he had about a thirty caliber rifle with a four power scope. They asked him what OSWALD looked like and he said that he had short and kinky hair and was about 5' 10". They asked him to predict the details of the assassination and he told them that KENNEDY would be shot twice in the head. They also mentioned CONNALLY, the governor, and wanted him to predict that CONNALLY would be killed, but he said that CONNALLY would be shot and not killed and he would not predict that CONNALLY would be killed. They then asked him about RUBY and he said that RUBY was the short form of the Jewish name RUBENSTEIN and that RUBY would kill OSWALD two or three days after the assassination.

GLASS repeated that he remembered none of the above conversations until December 10, 1963, when he had read the account of the assassination in a news magazine, and after that time, as he was working in the woods, he would begin to recall different bits of conversation as set forth above.

GLASS said that since July, 1963, he has had no conversations with JANE in his dreams and does not expect any more since it appears that he will never see her again.

He said that when these dreams first started, he thought they were just dreams, but after other people seemed to know about them, they appeared real although he has no explanation for what has happened.

"We had an anonymous phone call who gave the following information on the JACK RUBY case.

'This woman drives a car, PW1784, and they all left town after all this killing. The woman's name is Mildred. Another woman named Click who lives on South Barnett knows where this woman is. David Miller is man who runs with Click. They are connected with Lee Oswald and also Jack Ruby.'

"He said to not turn this over to the FBI but to get the woman and he thinks she will squeal."

She told this person that MILLER did not live there. The caller said MILLER drove an old white station wagon and that he understood that MILLER had lived there. Mrs. JOHNSON stated she thought that this was a bill collector trying to locate DAVID MILLER, and paid no attention to the call.

She stated that at about 10:30 P.M. on January 2, 1964, she started receiving calls from a person who identified himself as DAVID MILLER who claimed he was a friend of OSWALD, and that she had better not report him to the FBI. She stated she did not know DAVID MILLER and told the person calling that she did not know him and he replied, "Oh, yes you do know me and you'd better not report".

Mrs. JOHNSON stated she received intermittent calls from this same person until 12:30 A.M., January 3, 1964, at which time she took the telephone off the hook in order to get some rest.

On January 13, 1964, Mr. Z. B. OWEN, Colorado Towers Cafe, formerly Clifton Hotel Coffee Shop, 214 West Colorado Boulevard, was interviewed by SA ARTHUR E. CARTER at his request. Mr. OWEN had been previously interviewed concerning an allegation that LEE HARVEY OSWALD had been seen drinking coffee at his cafe in the summer of 1963.

Dallas, Texas

Mr. OWEN advised that a Mr. (FNU) JOHNSON who formerly owned the Humble Oil Station at Zang's Boulevard and Beckley Street in Dallas, Texas, was in the cafe on the evening of January 9, 1964, at which time JOHNSON asked OWEN if the FBI had mentioned the name of MILLER when they talked to OWEN previously. When OWEN replied to JOHNSON in the negative, JOHNSON seemed relieved and left.

It should be noted that the Humble (Enco) Service Station located at the intersection of Zang's Boulevard and Beckley Street, is presently operated by JERRY DUNCAN, who has previously been interviewed, and that OSWALD at the time of the assassination was residing at 1026 North Beckley which is in the immediate proximity of this service station. Sergeant ROBERTSON had to leave but on his return on January 13, 1964, he found a note concerning the call of the individual which in substance was as follows:

JOHN VALENTINE, 186 13th Street, Apartment 1, Atlanta, Georgia, who said he was passing through Dallas, Texas claimed he overheard DAVID MILLER, 366 Lake Drive, Hamphill (?), Georgia, tell MILLER's wife he had married her only to keep her mouth shut regarding the attempt on Governor CONNALLY's life (Governor JOHN CONNALLY of Texas was wounded at the time President JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY was assassinated at Dallas, Texas on November 22, 1963). Caller allegedly indicated MILLER was about 24 years of age, driving a green and white 1956 station wagon, make unknown, and his brother-in-law was one BOB WALKER of Irving, Texas. On December 27, 1963, the information furnished by Mrs. BERNICE CLICK, 905 Barnett Street, Dallas, Texas, on December 26, 1963, was furnished to Mr. L. H. STEPHENS, Postal Inspector in Charge, U. S. Post Office, Fort Worth, Texas.

It should be noted that the information furnished by Sergeant LESTER ROBERTSON, Texas Rangers, on January 13, 1964, indicated that one JOHN VALENTINE, 186 13th Street, Apt. 1, Atlanta, Georgia, had left a note furnishing information concerning DAVID MILLER. This address in Atlanta, Georgia has previously been established as being the address of DAVID and MILDRED MILLER, the latter being the former wife of MARION MEHARG.

It should be noted that in an interview with Mrs. BERNICE CLICK on December 11, 1963, she stated that MARION MEHARG had in the past threatened MILDRED MILLER, his ex-wife, with a knife and had also threatened to commit suicide. In view of this statement, MEHARG should be considered to have suicidal tendencies.

Mrs. BERNICE CLICK, 905 Barnett, furnished the following information:

Her daughter, MILDRED MILLER, after obtaining a divorce from MARION MEHARG, married DAVID LEON MILLER in September, 1963, in the state of Oklahoma. Mr. and Mrs. MILLER returned to Dallas after their marriage and then departed for Atlanta, Georgia, about October 1, 1963. They reside at 186 - 13th Street, Northeast, Apartment 2, Atlanta, Georgia.

Mr. and Mrs. MILLER returned to Dallas for a two day visit on January 1, 1964, and stayed in the home of Mrs. CLICK. They departed Dallas for Atlanta by air on an 11:45 PM flight from Love Field, Dallas, on January 2, 1964.

DAVID MILLER is employed as a dispatcher for a trucking company at Atlanta, Georgia.

Mrs. MILLER's two teenage daughters by a previous marriage with MARION MEHARG accompanied her on her return to Atlanta.

Since October, 1963, when MILDRED MILLER and her husband departed Dallas, MEHARG has been telephoning or writing to Mrs. CLICK at least once a week trying to ascertain the exact address in Atlanta of MILDRED MILLER and the two children by their marriage who are in the custody of their mother.

During the early evening of January 2, 1964, when DAVID and MILDRED MILLER were visiting, MEHARG called Mrs. CLICK. MILDRED MILLER answered the telephone and talked to MEHARG. Before the conversation terminated, MILDRED MILLER and MEHARG had a heated discussion which Mrs. CLICK presumed concerned MILDRED MILLER, MEHARG and their two children.

On January 14, 1964, MEHARG called Mrs. CLICK at approximately 10:30 PM, again at 12 midnight and a third time at approximately 12:30 AM, January 15, 1964.

In his first call, MEHARG asked if MILDRED MILLER had brought his two children to Dallas during her brief visit in early January. She advised him that the children did not accompany their mother. When MEHARG called the second time, Mrs. CLICK scolded him for his repeated calls. MEHARG immediately denied that he had called her at 10:30 AM when Mrs. CLICK reminded him that he had made reference to the children in his call. When MEHARG called the third time, Mrs. CLICK did not give MEHARG a chance to talk but again scolded him and then hung up on him.

Mrs. CLICK has a teen-age girl named SONDRA KAYE DAMRON residing at her home as of January 12, 1964. 905 Earnest Dallas, Texas

During the early evening of January 13, 1964, five telephone calls were received at Mrs. CLICK's residence by Miss DAMRON. Each time that she answered the telephone the caller hung up without saying a word. On the following evening, January 14, 1964, when Mrs. CLICK was again away from her home, during the evening, two telephone calls were answered by Miss DAMRON. When she answered the first time, the caller hung up without saying a word. When she answered the second time, the caller asked to whom was he speaking. Miss DAMRON did not identify herself but in turn asked the caller to identify himself. The caller stated that it was not important that he identify himself but he wanted to know to whom was he speaking. When Miss DAMRON refused to identify herself the caller hung up.

It is Mrs. CLICK's contention that the caller was probably MEHARG who called on January 13 - 14, 1964.

Mrs. CLICK stated that she was extremely embarrassed by a person whom she believed to be MEHARG. She related the following:

During the evening of either January 6, 1964, or January 7, 1964, a telephone call was received at the Eastern Star Lodge in Dallas for Mrs. CLICK. At the request of the caller, Mrs. CLICK was paged during the meeting of the Eastern Star Lodge. Mrs. CLICK was not in attendance at the Lodge as her chapter was not meeting that night. When the unidentified caller was so advised, he requested to speak to someone who was acquainted with Mrs. CLICK. Mrs. MOZELLE TAYLOR, 8915 Rockridge Drive, telephone EX 8-9487, who is secretary of Mrs. CLICK's chapter of Eastern Star, was in attendance and she accepted the call. The caller identified himself to Mrs. TAYLOR as a Secret Service Agent and he stated that the purpose of the call was to request that Mrs. CLICK stop bothering MARION MEHARG.

Upon being furnished the above information by Mrs. TAYLOR, Mrs. CLICK contacted the Dallas Secret Service and asked if anyone connected with that office had attempted to contact her. She was advised that no one in that organization was attempting to locate her. Mrs. CLICK then advised the Secret Service of the anonymous caller who had identified himself as a Secret Service Agent and of the identity of Mrs. TAYLOR who had accepted the call. According to Mrs. CLICK representatives of the Secret Service have contacted Mrs. TAYLOR.

On the evening of January 6, 1964, Mrs. TAYLOR, Secretary of the Blue Bonnet Chapter, Order of the Eastern Star, attended a meeting of a sister chapter at the Dallas Masonic Temple.

During the course of the meeting, a telephone call was received at the Masonic Temple for Mrs. BERNICE CLICK. The caller was advised that Mrs. CLICK was not present that evening. The caller then requested to speak to someone acquainted with Mrs. CLICK.

Mrs. TAYLOR recalled that Mrs. CLICK was a member of her chapter, so she accepted the call. The caller, who did not identify himself, advised Mrs. TAYLOR as follows, "This is the Secret Service and we are trying to locate Mrs. Bernice Click. Do you have her telephone number?"

Mrs. TAYLOR advised the caller she did not have the telephone number available at that moment; however, she could check the chapter roster and attempt to obtain it. Mrs. TAYLOR checked the roster, but was unable to locate the number and so advised the caller. Mrs. TAYLOR then advised the caller she could call her own home and get the number and then return the call, if the caller would leave his number. The caller advised Mrs. TAYLOR that he couldn't leave his number, as he was departing for Fort Worth shortly. Mrs. TAYLOR then asked the caller if there was any message that he might wish to leave. The caller stated that his information was personal and that he would rather not leave a message. After a short pause, the caller then decided to leave a message with Mrs. TAYLOR for Mrs. CLICK. He advised Mrs. TAYLOR to get a pencil and pad,

Since being interviewed previously by Special Agents of the FBI, he has not made any telephone calls to any law enforcement agency, or anyone else, intimating that DAVID LEON MILLER, the husband of his former wife, MILDRED, was acquainted with LEE HARVEY OSWALD or had any possible connection with the assassination of President KENNEDY or the wounding of Governor CONNALLY in the state of Texas.

MEHARG stated definitely, and vehemently, that he did not telephone Mrs. A. C. JOHNSON, Mrs. EARLENE ROBERTS or JERRY DUNCAN stating he was DAVID, or EDWARD, MILLER. He said he did not call Mrs. A. C. JOHNSON inquiring of a DAVID MILLER. He further stated he did not, or did not have anyone, telephone the Irving, Texas Police Department and tell them that DAVID MILLER, whom the FBI was looking for, could be located at 2314 Concord Street, Irving, Texas. He said he did not call the Texas Rangers, identify himself as JOHN VALENTINE, 186 - 13th Street, Apartment 1, Atlanta, Georgia, and relate a conversation which was allegedly overheard between DAVID MILLER and his, MILLER'S wife.

MEHARG advised his former wife's brother-in-law, ROBERT N. WALKER, resides in Irving, Texas, at 2314 Concord Drive.

MEHARG advised he had been on a "drunk" for the past eight days and is not clear as to his actions during this time, but is quite positive he did not make any of the aforementioned telephone calls.

B. Alleged Passing of Rifle From One Man to Another Day or So Prior to Assassination in Parking Lot Near Texas School Book Depository (TSBD)

WGB:mja

The following individuals were interviewed since it was alleged that they knew about the three Mexican women who had seen one man take a rifle out of a car and hand it to a younger man in a parking lot, west of the Texas School Book Depository Building, a day or so before the assassination of President JOHN F. KENNEDY.

WGB:mja

The following investigation was conducted by SA WILLIAM G. BROOKHART:

AT DALLAS, TEXAS

On January 8, 1964, Mrs. CONRAD GALVIN, 3989 Park Lane, advised that Mr. GALVIN learned from DAVID TORRES that three Mexican women who worked for a dress manufacturer in the vicinity of the Texas School Book Depository (TSBD) building, on Elm Street, had seen two men pass a rifle in the parking lot, west of the TSBD building. Mrs. GALVIN said that she understood that DAVID TORRES had learned about this incident from his sister, who works at the dress manufacturer, McKell Sportswear. Dallas Texas

Mrs. GALVIN advised that Mr. and Mrs. LOUIS VELEZ were also present in her home and overheard this story. Everyone there urged TORRES to get in touch with these people to furnish this information to the FBI; however, they understood that the women were frightened and reluctant to discuss this matter.

Mrs. GALVIN advised that she has no personal knowledge whatever concerning the assassination of President JOHN F. KENNEDY, and has never seen nor heard of LEE HARVEY OSWALD or JACK RUBY, until the assassination of the President.

On January 8, 1964, Mrs. LOUIS VELEZ, 3318 Hedgerow, advised that she does not know the Mexican women invdved in the story of seeing two men pass a rifle west of the TSBD building. She only overheard this conversation in the home of Mrs. CONRAD GALVIN, and she has no knowledge whatsoever concerning the assassination of President JOHN F. KENNEDY other than what she has read in newspapers and magazines. Mrs. VELEZ said that although, she heard the story concerning the three Mexican women, she did not repeat it, but she urged Mr. TORRES, along with the others present in the home of Mrs. GALVIN, that he attempt to influence these women to contact the FBI.

Mrs. VELEZ advised that she does not know LEE HARVEY OSWALD, or JACK RUBY, and had never heard of them prior to the assassination of the President.

It is noted that Sheriff BILL DECKER, Dallas County, Texas, commented to SA NAT A. PINKSTON on November 24, 1963, that deer season officially opened in the State of Texas on Saturday, November 16, 1963, and literally thousands of Texans went deer hunting over the weekend of November 16-17, 1963, and many of these hunters still had their high-powered deer rifles in their automobiles during the week beginning November 18, 1963, and a number of these rifles were being returned to their owners by persons who had borrowed them for a weekend of hunting or were being turned over to others who wanted to borrow them for hunting on the following weekend.

The following investigation was conducted by SA WILLIAM G. BROOKHART, at Dallas, Texas:

On January 8, 1964, Mr. JESS L. HORTON, Watchman, Texas and Pacific Railroad, Houston and Pacific Streets, Dallas Texas advised that all property at the foot of Elm Street, west of the Texas School Book Depository (TSBD) building, is owned by the Union Terminal Railroad. This parking area is entered by a single, dirt service road on the south side of this road, the Dallas County Sheriff's Office uses the first parking lot, the TSBD building uses the second parking lot, and the Dallas County Sheriff's Office uses the third parking lot.

On the north side of the road all the parking lots are occupied by railroad personnel with the exception of a large public parking lot located west and north of the third railroad track.

On January 8, 1964, Mrs. FRANCES HERNANDEZ, residence 1917 Annex, Dallas, Texas, was re-interviewed at her place of employment, McKell Sportswear, second floor, 501 Elm Street. She advised that she would be willing to go to the parking area and show SA BROOKHART where a car was stopped when she observed an older man take a rifle out of the trunk of a car and hand it to a younger man.

At approximately 4:10 P.M., January 8, 1964, Mrs. HERNANDEZ, in the company of Mrs. JOSEPHINE SALINAS, 13740 Birch Lawn, Dallas, Texas, indicated that the car she observed was stopped between the third and second railroad tracks on the dirt service road, along side of the Dallas County Sheriff's Office parking lot.

Mrs. SALINAS advised that she agreed with this location also; and she and Mrs. HERNANDEZ walked through all the parking lots in the area west of the TSBD building, observing all Buick automobiles in these lots. They said that none of these cars looked like the car they saw.

Mrs. HERNANDEZ said that after thinking about it, she believes that the color of the car was either dark blue, or dark green, and not light blue, as she had originally stated. She said she could not be sure it was a Buick since Mrs. SALINAS had told her it was. She added that she did not know the different makes of cars too well.

Mrs. SALINAS advised that she thought the car was a Buick, but she thinks it could have been a Chevrolet, she was not too certain. She said that she thought the color was a medium blue, and not a light blue, as she had originally stated.

On January 8, 1964, Mr. B. D. GOSSETT, Deputy Sheriff, Dallas County Sheriff's Office, advised he supervises the Dallas County Sheriff's Office parking lots west of the TSBD building and to his knowledge, there is only one old Buick in that area, and this is owned by Captain BUCKALEW, Supervisor of the uniform patrol of the Sheriff's Office. Mr. GOSSETT stated that many members of the Sheriff's Office own a rifle and could have been seen taking it out of the car by other people in the parking lots west of the TSBD building.

Dallas Texas

On January 8, 1964, Captain F. M. BUCKALEW, Supervisor, uniform patrol, Dallas County Sheriff's Office, advised that he has a 1956, blue and white Buick, two door, hardtop, but does not own a rifle. He added he always leaves the Sheriff's Office parking lot for home about 3:30 P.M., at the latest, and always wears his Sheriff's uniform. Captain BUCKALEW said that quite a few of the Sheriff's Office officers own rifles and could easily be seen taking them out of their cars on any occasion in this parking lot by other individuals parking there.

C. Hitchhiker Identified As LEE HARVEY OSWALD Allegedly Picked Up by RALPH LEON YATES on Date Prior to Assassination

"Dallas, Texas,
January 4, 1964

"I, RALPH LEON YATES, make the following statement voluntarily to WARREN C. DE BRUEYS and C. RAY HALL, who have identified themselves to me as Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation. No threats or promises have been made to me to get me to make this statement. I have been told that I do not have to make a statement, and that I have a right to talk with a lawyer before making any statement. I have been told that any statement I make can be used against me in a court of law.

On December 10, 1963 I furnished a signed statement to C. RAY HALL and MAURICE J. WHITE, Special Agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, and on this day I have re-read this statement and SA DE BRUEYS has read it to me and I now wish to make the following changes.

In my statement of December 10, 1963 I mentioned that the hitch-hiker had asked me if I knew a JACK RUBENSTEIN and that he had also said that JACK RUBENSTEIN was more commonly known as JACK RUBY and that RUBY ran the Carousel Club. I now wish to state that the hitch-hiker in my last statement who I identified as LEE HARVEY OSWALD did not mention the name of RUBY or RUBENSTEIN, but apparently had mentioned the name of JACK and it was for that reason that I asked him if he was referring to the man that owns Jack Branch Office Lounge. I wish to state now that I cannot positively state that he used the name RUBY or RUBENSTEIN.

Also in my statement of December 10, 1963 I said that the hitch-hiker had asked me if I thought the President could be killed with a gun like the one I mentioned in that statement. This is not entirely accurate. The hitch-hiker rather asked me if I thought a man could be shot from up on top of a building or out of a window.

"In my statement of December 10, 1963 I mentioned: 'After I got back from Irving, that same day, I told DEMPSEY JONES, a man that I work with, about the conversation I had with this man.' I wish to explain that my conversation with DEMPSEY was as follows: I mentioned to DEMPSEY that a co-incidence had happened that morning, explaining that I had picked up a hitch-hiker who said the same thing that DEMPSEY and I had talked about previously, namely, that a man could be shot from a window or from a building top when a man would be coming up from under the Continental Underpass. This is all I can remember about my conversation with DEMPSEY.

Outside of the above changes my statement of December 10, 1963 is accurate.

Dallas Texas I have read this statement and it is true an_ correct.

During the night of January 8, 1964, RALPH LEON YATES telephoned SA C. RAY HALL, and stated he desired to talk with SA HALL again. During the telephone call, YATES was crying, and sounded as if he were emotionally upset.

On January 9, 1964, YATES appeared at the Dallas Office, and stated he had been extremely upset and nervous about the report he had made to the FBI, that he had picked up a hitch-hiker that he believed to be LEE HARVEY OSWALD. He said he had become very suspicious of the people he worked with. Everything he previously reported seemed unreal to him, as if he had dreamed it, but he is positive that everything had actually happened just as he had reported. He said that his father had a nervous breakdown when he, RALPH LEON YATES, was a young boy, but so far as he knows his father was never treated by a doctor or at any institution for this nervous breakdown. His uncle, CHARLES YATES, has been confined at the Terrell State Hospital, Terrell, Texas, for mental treatment, and is presently on leave from that hospital. His grandfather, JAMES YATES, was treated at a mental hospital at Alton, or Woodriver, Illinois, about twenty-five or thirty years ago.

RALPH LEON YATES stated, however, that he is sure he is all right. He said that it bothers him a great deal, because at one time he lived on Garfield Street, in Edwardsville, Illinois, and President GARFIELD was assassinated. BARNEY T. WYATT, who is a great uncle, or some kind of distant relative of YATES', is a printer, and WYATT has done some printing work for JACK RUBY. YATES said that things like this just seem to involve him, somehow, in something and he can't figure out what it is.

Mrs. RALPH LEON YATES, 13564 Brookgreen, Dallas, Texas, advised that her husband has discussed with her the report he had made to the FBI about picking up a hitchhiker he thought was LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

Mrs. YATES stated her husband is a very truthful person, and she ordinarily has no reason to doubt anything he tells. She does know he mentioned nothing about this to her, until after everything he told that indicated he had picked up LEE HARVEY OSWALD had appeared in the newspapers and on television. Her husband has been so upset and nervous since the assassination of President KENNEDY that she is now concerned about his mental condition. She explained that her husband was abandoned by his mother when he was less than two years old. When he was about ten years old, his father and stepmother moved away and left him to try to find a place to live with relatives, so he has felt rather insecure all his life. Her husband's paternal grandfather, name not known, was in a mental institution in Illinois for some time; his paternal uncle, CHARLEY YATES, has spent over a year at Terrell State Hospital, Terrell, Texas, and still thinks he is Jesus Christ, and his paternal aunt, Mrs. GLADYS SMITH, has spent a lot of time at Timberlawn Sanitarium in Dallas, Texas, for treatment of her mental condition.

Mrs. SMITH frequently imagines that things have happened to her, that never happened, and Mrs. YATES is now fearful that her husband is having the same type of difficulty.

Her husband has told her nothing which would indicate that he is deliberately lying about picking up LEE HARVEY OSWALD as a hitchhiker, and she thinks her husband now really believes he did talk with OSWALD, but she is not sure that this happened at all, and thinks it entirely possible her husband is suffering from a hereditary mental condition. So far as she knows, her husband has not been examined by any doctor, or treated by any doctor, for any mental condition.

On January 15, 1964, Mr. and Mrs. RALPH LEON YATES, 13564 Brookgreen, Dallas, Texas, appeared at the Dallas Office of the FBI. Mr. YATES had a small ladies overnight case with him, and inside he had several bottles of pills and capsules which he stated he would like to have analyzed, because he thought his doctors were trying to kill him. YATES said he was afraid he was losing his mind. These bottles of medicine had been prescribed for him by several doctors over an extended period of time. It was suggested to YATES that he contact his own doctor, or seek help at Parkland Hospital in Dallas, Texas, the City-County Hospital. YATES stated he had tried to put down on paper, all his thoughts about his contact with LEE HARVEY OSWALD, and the death of President KENNEDY, and he furnished the following written account:

D. Investigation to Locate WILLIAM McEWAN DUFF Who Was Allegedly Seen with LEE HARVEY OSWALD Seven or Eight Months Ago

WGB:mvs

On December 10, 1963, JOE LORIA, a restaurant operator in Dallas, Texas, stated that approximately seven or eight months ago, he saw individual known to him only as "SCOTTIE" who was subsequently identified as DUFF, with an individual believed to be LEE HARVEY OSWALD. He based his identification on photographs of OSWALD that he had seen in Dallas newspapers and could recall only one time that he thought he saw OSWALD and "SCOTTIE" together.

The following investigation was conducted by SA WILLIAM G. BROOKHART at Dallas, Texas:

Dallas Texas

On January 10, 1964, Miss FRANCES BERNARD, 5201 Willis, advised that she met WILLIAM McEWAN DUFF who she also knew as "SCOTTIE" and "SANDY", while she was traveling on a Greyhound Bus from Vancouver, B. C. through Seattle, Washington. Miss BERNARD advised that she believes that DUFF got on the bus at Seattle, Washington. He told her that he was an Engineer working for the Boeing Aircraft Company out of Canada Los Angeles, California and had been to a convention of Boeing employees at Seattle.

DUFF went on to Los Angeles and Miss BERNARD continued to Dallas. Shortly afterwards, he came to Dallas and they were married in November of 1962. He lived with her at her apartment located at 5201 Willis for approximately three or four weeks, all the while claiming that he was expecting a paycheck to be forwarded from Boeing at Los Angeles. He never received this check and Miss BERNARD called DUFF's uncle, WILLIAM McEWAN, at South San Gabriel, California, who told her that DUFF was a pathological liar. Miss BERNARD said that she had spoken to McEWAN on one or two occasions previous to that time and McEWAN said that he had never mentioned this fact because he believed that Miss BERNARD was just another one of DUFF's girl friends. Mr. McEWAN told Miss BERNARD that DUFF had never been an Engineer working for Boeing, and that he had sent DUFF bus fare to get back to Los Angeles. McEWAN added that if DUFF had been any kind of an engineer at any time, it would have been a locomotive engineer, which was DUFF's profession in Scotland.

Miss BERNARD advised that after she learned that DUFF was a pathological liar, she had her marriage to him annulled at Dallas, Texas in December, 1962. She said she threw him out of the house and did not allow him to return to pick up any of his belongings. Among these personal belongings was an expired British Passport, No. C.213108, for WILLIAM McEWAN DUFF. This passport indicated that he was a British subject and citizen of the United Kingdom and Colonies. The passport indicated that he was a Locomotive Fireman, born November 4, 1931, Grangemouth, Scotland, 5' 8½", blue eyes, dark brown hair, appendix scar. This passport expired October 19, 1961, however, it indicated that DUFF was admitted to the United States at New York on May 11, 1957.

Miss BERNARD advised that there was a photograph of DUFF indicating that he had been in the U. S. Air Force; the photograph contained the name of WILLIAM M. DUFF, AF 19607309.

Also in the passport book was a shoe repair stub, No. 8632, from the Family Shoe Service, 505 West Lancaster Boulevard, Lancaster, California. On the back of this stub was printed the name "MARGARET FAIRCHILD, Box 109, Monte Vista, Colorado".

Miss BERNARD advised that DUFF made many extravagant claims about his associates and said that he was a cousin of movie actor HOWARD DUFF; however, she feels that this was untrue as he made other such wild claims. The only person that she believes he knew in Dallas was a man by the name WILLIAM A. REED of 3327 Topeka, Dallas, who DUFF claimed to have met in Los Angeles, California. Texas

Miss BERNARD advised that she doubted if DUFF would ever contact her, but in the event that he did she would advise the Dallas FBI Office.

On January 12, 1964, Mr. DON MAY, Clerk, Identification Bureau of the Dallas Police Department, advised that

Dallas
Texas

WILLIAM McEWAN DUFF, 4919 San Jacinto, Dallas, Texas, Dallas PD No. 52495, was arrested on April 18, 1963 for investigation of swindle and released April 18, 1963. There was also a wanted person report of October 26, 1963 for residence burglary, No. F-78892. Mr. MAY advised that an FBI Identification Record dated April 24, 1963 for DUFF under FBI No. 483264E, indicated that DUFF was also arrested by the Los Angeles County Sheriff's Office on December 11, 1960 for drunk driving under SO No. B 743533. DUFF's fingerprint classification was:

2/ 10 tu 16
2 T W

Mr. MAY advised that there were no other arrests for DUFF by the Dallas Police Department.

RE: WILLIAM McEWAN DUFF, also known as William McEwan McDuff, Bill Duff, "Sandy", "Scottie", "Scotty"

Calif. Canada Wash. Texas N.Y.

The following investigation was conducted by SA WILLIAM G. BROOKHART in an effort to locate WILLIAM MC EWAN DUFF:

On January 10, 1964, Mr. CHARLES H. HOLLOWAY, Apartment 123, 5420 Lewis Street, was re-interviewed at his place of employment, Skillern's Drug Store, 5605 East Grand Avenue, Dallas. Mr. HOLLOWAY advised that he recalls after talking to the FBI, that he met WILLIAM MC EWAN DUFF during May, 1963. He said that he was able to verify this fact since he bought a new automobile on May 9, 1963, and DUFF was with him when he picked up the car.

Mr. HOLLOWAY said that he believes that a woman by the name of PAULINE M. MINTON, a real estate broker who resides at 4216 Lomo Alto, Dallas, was known to DUFF since he recalls taking DUFF over to this address or some address very close to this address to pick up some clothes. HOLLOWAY said that it is possible DUFF was "bumming off" PAULINE MINTON as he has done with almost everyone else that he has had any contact with.

HOLLOWAY said that DUFF also claimed to have worked for GEORGE BIRNIE, 3834 Casa Ridge, the owner of Texas "Birnie Bows", 12429 North Central Expressway, Dallas. HOLLOWAY said that he does not know whether this was true, however, DUFF had a "Birnie Bow" which is a hunting or target bow made by GEORGE BIRNIE.

HOLLOWAY said that he also believes that DUFF knew the man who runs "DEE'S Lounge", 3220 North Fitzhugh, Dallas, Texas. HOLLOWAY said that DUFF has been in this place and acted as if he were friendly with the manager.

HOLLOWAY said that it is possible that DUFF may have also known two girls by the name INGRID and VERA, both last names unknown, who are employed by the Merchants State Bank on Ross Avenue in the vicinity of Sears-Roebuck. HOLLOWAY said that these girls also live in the apartment building at his address, 5420 Lewis Street, Dallas Texas.

It should be noted that the Dallas Police Department record of DUFF indicated that he lived at 4919 San Jacinto, Dallas, Texas.

On January 12, 1964, Mrs. OLIVE SABRACE, manager of 4919 San Jacinto, said that there was no record of anyone by the name of WILLIAM DUFF or WILLIAM McDUFF having resided at 4919 San Jacinto. She said it is possible that this man may have stayed with some other tenant and gave this as an address. Mrs. SABRACE said that she has only been the manager of this apartment building since August, 1963; however, the owner, Mr. J. A. BOZEMAN, address unknown, telephone DA 1-9003, may be able to furnish some information concerning DUFF, since he would have more complete records. Dallas Texas

On January 13, 1964, Mr. JEFF WOOSLEY, supervisor clerk, INS, Dallas, Texas, advised that he had not received any information to date concerning WILLIAM McEWAN DUFF, however, DUFF would have to submit an Alien Registration Notice sometime during January, 1964. Mr. WOOSLEY advised that even though this was the case, his office in Dallas would not necessarily know anything about the current address of DUFF until at least April since the alien registration address reports will not be in alphabetical order until that time. These address reports will be in order of nationality for Iron Curtain countries only, and aliens from other countries such as Great Britain, would not be in this order. If DUFF registers in another district, it will be filed in that district and they will never notify the Dallas Office of INS unless DUFF furnishes a previous address of Dallas. The Central INS Office at Washington, D.C. will never get one of these cards.

Mr. WOOSLEY advised that he has placed a flash notice at INS in Dallas, so if by chance a card comes in for DUFF, he will immediately notify the Dallas FBI Office.

The following investigation was conducted by SA's ARNOLD J. BROWN and MALON L. JENNINGS:

On November 26, 1963, Mr. LLOYD W. HILBERT, residence 1440 West Cambrell, employment 100 University Drive, Fort Worth, Texas, advised that on November 18, 1963 he was in a meeting with GEORGE SAULTANIAN and JOHN ALGER in the lobby of the Blackstone Hotel.

HILBERT stated he overheard an individual making a telephone call to North Manchester, Indiana. He stated that he was standing close by and introduced himself to this individual and asked the individual if he was from North Manchester, Indiana. This individual had said, "I have been there". HILBERT stated that the individual apparently was making a person-to-person call to someone at the Indiana Lawrence Bank & Trust Company, North Manchester, Indiana. HILBERT stated that he did not hear any conversation that this individual had with the party on the other end of the line. He stated that the man gave his name as OSWALD. HILBERT stated he is sure that the individual stated his first name, but HILBERT did not recall it. HILBERT stated that this individual was somewhat aloof, and they did not actually engage in any conversation because about the time he spoke to this individual, the connection was made on the other end of the line. He stated that the individual was dressed in a blue military type of uniform and was holding his hat.

HILBERT stated that this individual had the same general physical appearance of LEE OSWALD, but he could not identify the pictures of OSWALD that he has seen in the newspapers and on television as being the individual with whom he spoke in the lobby of the Blackstone Hotel. HILBERT stated it was his recollection that the conversation with OSWALD occurred at approximately 4:30 to 4:45 P.M. on November 18, 1963.

On November 26, 1963, Mr. GEORGE SAULTANIAN, residence 4851 East Line Road, Fort Worth, Texas, employment 100 University Drive, advised that he recalled that LLOYD HILBERT had spoken to an individual in the lobby of the Blackstone Hotel on November 18, 1963, and this individual was in a military uniform. SAULTANIAN believed the individual was a Second Lieutenant in the U. S. Air Force.

SAULTANIAN advised that it was his recollection that this individual identified himself by name as LEE OSWALD. He stated this immediately came to his mind when he heard the news broadcast that LEE OSWALD had been arrested and subsequently charged with the assassination of President KENNEDY.

SAULTANIAN stated as he recalled when Mr. HILBERT spoke to the individual who stated his name was OSWALD, that it was approximately 2:00 P.M. SAULTANIAN was questioned further about the time of the occurrence, and he stated that he could not recall just what time the conversation took place. SAULTANIAN insisted that this individual introduced himself as LEE OSWALD.

On November 26, 1963, Mr. E. B. HANNA, Resident Manager, Blackstone Hotel, 601 Main Street, Fort Worth, Texas, made available his registrations for the period November 17-20, 1963, and no registration was located under the name of OSWALD or HIDELL.

The following investigation was conducted by SA MARVIN L. ARMSTRONG:

On November 29, 1963, JERRY MOORE, Cashier, Indiana Lawrence Bank and Trust Company, North Manchester, Indiana, advised Lieutenant JAMES R. OSWALD, Box 1511, Carswell AFB, Texas, called at the bank late afternoon Monday, believed November 18, 1963, asking credit reference in application for FHA loan there. JAMES R. OSWALD known at Indiana Lawrence Bank, and bank records fail to reflect dealings with LEE HARVEY OSWALD in that name or others used by him.

On December 19, 1963, Special Agent DEL D. DRAKE, Jr. interviewed JAMES DOUGLAS WATSON at Paris, Texas and Mr. WATSON advised that he believed on one occasion while living in Dallas, Texas that he had observed LEE HARVEY OSWALD having coffee at a restaurant which would have been either the Clifton Hotel, the El Fenix Cafe or the Beckley Cafe.

On December 31, 1963, SA's ARTHUR E. CARTER and WILL HAYDEN GRIFFIN contacted Mrs. FLO CLEMENTS, manager of the El Fenix Cafe at 120 East Colorado, Dallas, Texas, and she advised that the El Fenix Cafe is open from 11:00 A.M. to 10:00 P.M. daily. She said she was familiar with LEE HARVEY OSWALD's appearance through recent publicity on TV and in the Dallas newspapers, but she had no recollection of ever having seen him in the El Fenix Cafe. She made inquiry of other regular employees and was unable to determine that any of them had ever seen LEE HARVEY OSWALD at any time.

Mrs. CLEMENTS said she recalled JACK RUBY had been in the restaurant on a very few occasions, some four or more years ago, but he had not been in to her knowledge in recent years. She said she knew of no connection between OSWALD and RUBY.

On December 31, 1963, Mrs. Z. B. OWEN and his wife, MARY, who operate the Colorado Towers Coffee Shop, formerly known as the Clifton Hotel Cafe, at 214 West Colorado, telephone number WH. 6-0040, Dallas, Texas, each advised that they had never observed LEE HARVEY OSWALD or JACK RUBY in the cafe at any time. They contacted their other employees who advised them that they had never seen either LEE HARVEY OSWALD or JACK RUBY in the cafe. Mr. and Mrs. OWEN said they had no knowledge of LEE HARVEY OSWALD and had never been acquainted with JACK RUBY, and knew of no connection between OSWALD and RUBY.

On January 6, 1964, J. D. KELLY, owner, Beckley Cafe, 113 West Jefferson, Dallas, Texas, advised SA's CARTER and GRIFFIN that he had no knowledge concerning LEE HARVEY and was unable to recall that OSWALD had ever been a patron of his cafe. He said one customer, whose identity he was unable to recall, had said shortly after the assassination of President KENNEDY, that he believed LEE HARVEY OSWALD had been in the cafe on one occasion and that OSWALD moved when this customer attempted to engage him in conversation.

Mr. KELLY questioned his waiters and waitresses and said that none of them recalled OSWALD or JACK RUBY ever having been in the cafe. He said he had no knowledge of either OSWALD or RUBY and knew of no association between them.

ANTHONY "TONY" CHARLES COLLITTI, 3034 Grafton, Dallas, Texas advised that he is self-employed as a "skip chaser" and a decorator.

He said as a result of his "skip chaser" business, he had occasion to observe a 1956 Buick in the 2100 block of Ervay where it had been apparently abandoned for some time; so he contacted the Department of Motor Vehicles in Nevada concerning this car to attempt to establish whether or not it had been stolen.

He said to him recovery of such a car meant "a hundred dollar bill". He produced a letter from the Department of Motor Vehicles, State of Nevada, dated December 30, 1963 that referred to a 1962 Nevada License C91186, Serial Number 4C2047790, and the letter indicated this car was registered to C. ANDERSON and a Nevada title was issued on July 10, 1962, and there was no stolen report on record with BMV, Nevada.

The letter was signed by RICHARD HERZ, Chief of the Registration Division.

Mr. COLLITTI said he has known JACK RUBY, operator of the Vegas and Carousel Clubs in Dallas, Texas for about three years inasmuch as he has attended shows at the two clubs on a few occasions. He said he had never had any close association with RUBY and knew of no relationship or association between RUBY and LEE HARVEY OSWALD. He said he had no knowledge whatsoever of OSWALD except what he had read about him in the newspapers and observed on TV subsequent to the assassination of President KENNEDY in Dallas, Texas.

HILLARD HAMPTON JONES, 3927 Peachtree Road, Mesquite, Texas, came to the Dallas Field Office, FBI, advising he wished to furnish some information to the FBI. He related the following information:

Approximately two months before the assassination of President JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY, JONES was walking down Main Street, in Dallas, Texas. At the intersection of Harwood and Main Streets, near City Hall, an individual who was approximately "7 or 8 feet tall and may have been 4 feet tall" approached JONES and said, "Jones, you're an intelligent man. You're a person who can't be taken in and you can help." This person related to JONES that he was going to kill President JOHN F. KENNEDY and had picked JONES to help him. Two days later, JONES received a telephone call from the same man, who advised JONES generally the same thing and that there were "others" and that JONES would be killed if he told the police, or the FBI.

JONES was requested to explain how the person whom he met on the street knew him by name, and JONES could not explain how the man knew him. JONES stated he did not give this person his name or telephone number and could not explain how this person could look up his telephone number without having his full name. JONES stated he did not know who the man was, and even after seeing LEE HARVEY OSWALD'S picture on television, he did not know that the man who approached him on the street was OSWALD. He later came to believe that this man was OSWALD; however, JONES could not explain when or how he reached the conclusion that the person was OSWALD.

A group of photographs, among which was a photograph of LEE HARVEY OSWALD and JACK RUBY, was displayed to JONES. JONES was unable to identify the photograph of LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

He readilly identified the photograph of JACK RUBY. JONES statedhe had never seen JACK RUBY, except through newspaper pictures.

JONES stated he cannot read or write, but he listens to radio and television and can "sense things". He liked to listen to President KENNEDY'S speeches and thought they were very good and he thought President KENNEDY was a great man and "would like to be a great man like President Kennedy". He would not have gone along with this man, "but meant to bring the FBI and police into it". Although, he believes he would have been killed for telling the authorities.

JONES feels he is being watched by members of a group connected with LEE HARVEY OSWALD, but could not elaborate on where or how he is being watched, or who these alleged persons are.

JONES requested to have the FBI give him a small radio which he could carry in the inside of his jacket in order to get in touch with the FBI if he needed to.

JONES asked the interviewing Special Agents if they believed him, and expressed the belief he did not think that the interviewing Special Agents believed him because his story was "unbelievable". He asked if there were other persons "like me" who came to the FBI with such information. He expressed fear he would be arrested for having told his story.

JONES admitted an arrest in Dallas for intoxication, and said he had been admitted to "Austin State School" when he was 12-14 years of age, where he was subjected to some "tests". He stated he had not gone beyond the fourth grade in school. While he was at the "Austin State School", he was suffering from tuberculosis, which was cured. He was admitted to Parkland Hospital, Dallas, for "stomach trouble" over two months ago, prior to the time he had met the above alleged individual. The doctors told him, after x-raying his stomach, that there was nothing wrong with him and he was released.

JONES stated that his father, WILL JONES, is deceased and he lives with his mother at his present residence. JONES said that he had a brother who died at the age of 25 with a brain tumor, which developed into cancer. JONES added that he had been married for approximately two months, but this "did not work out". His wife's name was SANDRA JONES, address unknown. Dallas Texas

JONES related that he is currently unemployed; however, when he works, he usually works as a laborer. He could not recall his year of birth, but believes he was born on January 8, at Pampa, Texas.

Information has previously been reported that JOE R. FRANKLIN, an inmate of the Texas Department of Corrections, Huntsville, Texas, alleged that in October, 1962, he met an individual who identified himself as OSWALD, and that OSWALD introduced him to JACK RUBY. FRANKLIN indicated that he and OSWALD went to a "JACK's Bar" at Dallas, located near the traffic circle, where the highway to Grapevine meets Harry Hines Boulevard.

On December 19, 1963, the area of Dallas, Texas known as the traffic circle, where Texas northwest highway 114, Harry Hines Boulevard and Shasta Drive all converge, was spot-checked by SA JAMES R. GRAHAM, Jr. No "JACK's Bar" was observed during this spot-check, and a general inquiry of various service station operators and attendants in this area, failed to reveal any information regarding a "JACK's Bar".

A check of the Dallas City Directories for 1961, 1962 and 1963, failed to reflect any listing for a "JACK's Bar" in Dallas, Texas.

The following investigation was conducted by SA WILLIAM G. BROOKHART:

AT DALLAS, TEXAS

It is noted that an American Bakery Company pay stub was found in a search of the apartment located at 214 West Neely Street, Dallas, Texas, which was the residence of LEE HARVEY OSWALD from March 2, 1963, to April 1, 1963. This stub appeared to belong to one JAMES A. JACKSON. An interview with JACKSON has established that he once resided at 214 West Neely Street.

On January 8, 1964, Mr. JAMES A. JACKSON, 5107 Junius Street, was re-interviewed, at which time he furnished the following informations:

Mr. JACKSON advised that on August 17, 1960, he was employed by the American Bakery Company, 2301 South Ervay, Dallas, Texas. At this same time, he recalls moving to 1202 McKee, Dallas, and that approximately one year later, in August, 1961, he and his wife moved into the apartment located at 214 West Neely, Dallas, Texas. Mr. JACKSON advised that he and his wife stayed at this address approximately eight or nine months, until April or May, 1962. Then they moved to 701 North Boulevard Terrace, Dallas, Texas, where they stayed until June or July, 1963, at which time he and his wife, SALLY ANN JACKSON, were separated.

Mrs. James A. Jackson

During the entire time he resided at 214 West Neely, he does not recall ever having known anyone by the name of LEE HARVEY OSWALD and has no idea how OSWALD may have come into possession of an American Bakery Company pay stub with his name on it, unless this pay stub was probably dropped somewhere in the apartment and remained there after they left.

He said Mrs. OSWALD operated a small variety shop on Main Street, which was located in the building that Ray's Cafe now occupies.

He stated Mrs. OSWALD appeared to have few friends in Boyd and she operated her shop for approximately three months before closing it.

He was of the impression that at some period of time during Mrs. OSWALD's residence in Boyd she had made a trip to Washington, D. C.

He stated that the landlord of the shop would be a Mrs. BERKE, of Fort Worth, Texas. HINKLE advised he believed Mr. WELDON MUNN and Mrs. SPENCER, both of Boyd, had known Mrs. OSWALD.

WELDON MUNN, Munn's Farm Store, advised he vaguely recalled MARGUERITE OSWALD running a variety store in Boyd in the latter part of 1960.

MUNN stated he did not know Mrs. OSWALD's son, LEE HARVEY, had defected to Russia and he doubted that anyone else in Boyd had known it. He said Mrs. OSWALD's son, ROBERT, had married a MERCER girl, who lived on a farm near Boyd. MUNN advised the only people in Boyd who might know Mrs. OSWALD would be Mr. & Mrs. NORRIS SPENCER and Mr. SHIFLET, who ran the filling station in Boyd.

JUANITA SPENCER stated that MARGUERITE OSWALD was a former employer of hers when Mrs. OSWALD ran a shop in Boyd, Texas.

She said Mrs. OSWALD had a small shop and sold yard goods, sewing notions, and took orders for ready-made clothing. Mrs. SPENCER said she did sewing for Mrs. OSWALD on special orders, particularly western shirts, as Mrs. OSWALD was not a very proficient seamstress.

Mrs. SPENCER said that Mrs. OSWALD was a very quiet woman and had very few friends in Boyd. She said the only friend she could think of would be HELEN WALKER, the postmistress.

Mrs. SPENCER advised Mrs. OSWALD was forced to close her shop because of a lack of business after a few months. She said she was not aware of LEE HARVEY OSWALD's defection to Russia and she did not know anyone in Boyd, except possibly HELEN WALKER, who might have known of this incident.

Mr. NORRIS SPENCER advised that his wife, JUANITA Spencer used to do sewing orders for Mrs. MARGUERITE OSWALD when she operated her shop in Boyd, Texas.

SPENCER said he operated the frozen food locker across the street from where Mrs. OSWALD's shop was formerly located. SPENCER said that MARGUERITE OSWALD appeared to be a "peculiar type of woman" and had very little, if any, friends in Boyd. He stated she lived in the back of her shop and she made frequent and strongly worded complaints to the townspeople that boys were running across her roof at night. SPENCER added he believed her complaints to be largely imaginary.

SPENCER said that, at the time Mrs. OSWALD operated her shop, Mr. WILLIAM SPAKES operated a print shop adjacent to Mrs. OSWALD, and he might be able to furnish information on her.

ROSCOE SHIFLET advised that he owned and operated a Phillips "66" Gas Station in Boyd, Texas. He stated he recalled MARGUERITE OSWALD as a former resident of Boyd, and that he had occasionally serviced her old, two-tone Buick.

SHIFLET said he knew Mrs. OSWALD only vaguely, but he did know her son, ROBERT, married the daughter of RUTH MERCER, a farming woman who lived outside of Boyd, Texas

SHIFLET said he recalled Mrs. OSWALD making a trip to Washington, D. C., during the time she lived in Boyd, but he did not connect this in his mind with the defection of LEE HARVEY OSWALD. HELEN WALKER advised she is the Postmistress of Boyd, Texas. She stated she regarded MARGUERITE OSWALD as a former friend of hers. She said that while Mrs. OSWALD operated her shop in Boyd, Texas, she was a very lonely, friendless woman.

WALKER said, in her opinion, Mrs. OSWALD's business had failed due to several factors, including lack of capital, the fact that Mrs. OSWALD was not a good seamstress, and the fact that there was little or no demand for her merchandise. WALKER pointed out that several businesses of a similar nature have appeared in Boyd and closed shortly thereafter.

WALKER said she was aware of the fact that Mrs. MARGUERITE OSWALD's son, LEE HARVEY, had defected to Russia. In fact, Mrs. OSWALD had made a trip to Washington, D. C., regarding this matter. WALKER stated that she doubted that anyone else in Boyd, Texas, had knowledge of the defection of OSWALD.

Mrs. R. O. BERKE, 3251 Olive Place, advised that her husband, now deceased, and she had been landlords of Mrs. MARGUERITE OSWALD during the latter part of 1960. She stated she had retained no records on her previous tenants and the information she would give would have to be from memory.

BERKE advised that, in the Fall of 1960, Mrs. OSWALD contacted her and her husband and wanted to rent a small business place in Fort Worth to operate a dress shop. OSWALD indicated she could not pay over $30.00 a month and the BERKES advised her that they had no such place for rent in Fort Worth. However, the BERKES were able to interest Mrs. OSWALD in a small shop in Boyd, Texas, which they rented to her for $30.00 a month.

Mrs. BERKE advised she had very little contact with Mrs. OSWALD, as her husband usually collected the rent. However, she stated Mrs. OSWALD was a tenant who was "very hard to please" and frequently gave them much trouble about very small details in the shop. BERKE advised she could not be more specific on this point but she felt, in her mind, that Mrs. OSWALD was simply a complaining type.

BERKE stated Mrs. OSWALD's business did very poorly and she vacated her place and surrendered her lease about three months after renting it.

WILLIAM M SPAKES, 3900 Kimbo, advised he was a printer by trade. He stated he formerly operated a printing shop in Boyd, Texas, and, although he could not recall the specific dates, he remembered he had been in the shop when MARGUERITE OSWALD moved next door and he was still there after she had left.

SPAKES stated he worked days in Fort Worth and worked in Boyd on week nights and week ends. He said he had occasional contact with Mrs. OSWALD and found her to be a rather "disagreeable person with a persecution complex."

He stated her business was extremely poor and, the worse her business got, the poorer her attitude became. He said she made frequent complaints of boys running across her roof, but SPAKES said he had no trouble of such a nature, and he felt that this complaint, as were most of Mrs. OSWALD's complaints, was largely imaginary. SPAKES stated MARGUERITE OSWALD had told him her son had defected to Russia, but he stated he was not particularly interested and Mrs. OSWALD did not elaborate on the details.

SPAKES said he thought he was the only one in Boyd, Texas, who knew Mrs. OSWALD's son had defected to Russia.

On January 15, 1964, the "Dallas Morning News" carried an article bearing a Fort Worth, Texas dateline captioned "Mrs. OSWALD Retains Lawyer to Defend Son". This article is quoted as follows:

"West Texas Bureau of the News

"FORT WORTH, Texas -- Mrs. Margerite Oswald disclosed at her home here Tuesday that she has retained a New York attorney to represent her dead son, Lee Harvey Oswald, before the Warren Commission investigating the assassination of President Kennedy.

"Mrs. Oswald, in a brief press conference here, said New York Attorney Mark Lane agreed to take the case without fee.

"Lee Harvey Oswald, accused assassin of President Kennedy, was shot down on Nov. 24 in the basement of the Dallas police headquarters while he was being transferred to county jail.

"'The fact that my son was murdered-murdered, boys, murdered-before he was able to defend the charge against him has motivated me in my decision,' she said.

"Mrs. Oswald added, 'I have, until now, carried alone this fight for our American way of life, and it is with great respect and deep gratitude to have Mr. Lane help me.'

"Offering to pay the attorney later, after she wrote her book about her son, Mrs. Oswald said the attorney replied he had 'never turned down a case yet because there was no fee.'

"Also injected into the press conference was the continued unsuccessful effort on the part of Mrs. Oswald to see her daughter-in-law, Russian-born Marina Oswald.

"Marina and her two small children have remained in seclusion with Secret Service help since Thanksgiving.

"Mrs. Oswald said she has been turned down by the Secret Service in an attempt to see Marina or her grandchildren.

"Then, almost in tears, Mrs. Oswald spoke of herself: 'Here is a mother, 56 years old. Alone. And when I say alone, I mean alone. I am the only member of the Oswald family fighting for justice.'

"It was an obvious reference to a recent remark from Marina, who allegedly said there was nothing to lead her from the belief that her late husband killed President Kennedy.

"Mrs. Oswald charged that her daughter-in-law has been too protected by the Secret Service, and 'does not know the facts of the case.'"

On January 15, 1964, the following quoted article appeared in the "Ft. Worth Star Telegram", Fort Worth, Texas, concerning a press conference held by Mrs. MARGUERITE OSWALD, mother of LEE HARVEY OSWALD, on January 14, 1964:

"MRS. OSWALD HIRES ATTORNEY TO DEFEND SON

"New Yorker Would Appear Before Warren Commission

By Ed Johnson

"Mrs. Marguerite C. Oswald announced Tuesday she had hired New York attorney Mark Lane to represent her dead son, Lee Harvey Oswald, before the Warren commission.

"Lane, a Democrat and former state legislator, Texas N.Y. was in Fort Worth last week-end to confer with Mrs. Oswald on the case, she said.

"His job is to defend the slain accused assassin of President John F. Kennedy before the select presidential commission headed by Chief Justice Earl Warren.

"Mrs. Oswald made the announcement at a press conference in her modest home at 2220 Thomas Pl.

" 'I explained to him that I would not be able to pay him now, as I was living on the $863 insurance money, along with contributions from people who are interested in justice!' she read.

Book Planned

"She related she told Lane she could pay him later, after a book she intends to write is published.

"'True to my sense of justice, Mr. Lane immediately replied that he had never turned down a case because there was no fee, and that it was too late to start bad habits now. He said he would take the case, without even any future fee.'

"The mother said she needed the attorney's help now because her son 'was murdered before he was able to defend the charge against himself.'

"The prepared text listed Lane's address and phone number in New York and Mrs. Oswald's here.

Rules for Press

"A reporter asked if the contact information also meant she was seeking donations for her cause.

"'Of course not. Read it,' she replied with a sweep of her hands.

"Mrs. Oswald set the ground rules for the press conference and admitted about 15 reporters precisely at 5 p.m., the announced time for the session.

"A blond woman helped her write the names of all who attended. Mrs. Oswald refused to identify her aide other than 'she is a friend who is helping me because I'm all alone.'

"The mother sat at a desk between the living room and a bedroom.

Camera Reversed

"She used a small camera to take photos of the reporters huddled before her, saying:

"'I would like to have pictures of you boys--you have pictures of me--because I am going to write a book.'

"In her off-the-cuff remarks, she took issue with a statement Monday by Texas Attorney General Waggoner Carr.

"He said that all facts surrounding the assassination must be sought out and established and that only then would the public confirm that justice had been done.

"'He (Carr) failed to mention one thing. Mrs. Marguerite C. Oswald will have to be convinced along with the public,' she commented.

"The mother also lamented she did not know where Russian defector Oswald's notes on the Soviet Union have landed.

"'Somebody has those notes. Somebody is going to cash in on them', she said.

Map 'Natural'

"She also termed the finding of a map of the Kennedy motorcade route in Dallas Nov. 22 in Oswald's room 'very natural'.

"Authorities said the map had a line on it corresponding to the path of the bullet that killed Kennedy.

"The mother claimed her son was a long-time student of maps.

"'He could tell you the miles from here to Kalamazoo,' she said.

"She said it was natural for him to have a map because 'Lee was a stranger to Dallas.'

"SS Criticized

"Mrs. Oswald claimed she was still getting a run-around from the Secret Service about seeing Oswald's Russian-born widow, Marina, and her two children.

"She related she had been in contact with the Secret Service in Dallas and was told a phone conversation with Marina might be arranged.

"The mother said she would talk to Marina on the phone only as a last resort.

"Lane recently wrote an article describing the type of questions he would ask the Warren Commission, which, he said, must be answered before Oswald's guilt is fixed. This article led Mrs. Oswald to contact the attorney."

done EKD

"According to Mrs. Paine, Mr. Lane has filed a report to the Warren Commission investigating the late President Kennedy's murder.

"The 'defense' motion planned by Mr. Lane is believed to be hinged largely on Mrs. Paine's statement that Oswald could not have practiced with the 6.5 mm Italian rifle which has been tagged as the weapon that killed former President Kennedy.

"'He couldn't drive,' Mrs. Paine said. 'And he couldn't have walked that far. If he had he would have been noticed carrying a rifle.'

"Mrs. Paine's argument that Oswald could not drive has been challenged.

"Howard Malcom ~~Price~~ Price, of 1127 Rice in Grand Prairie, Texas vows he saw Oswald three times at the range in Grand Prairie where he works. Mr. Price told THE PRESS that on one of the occasions he saw Oswald driving a car when he left.

"'One time he came out by himself,' Mr. Price said. 'He was driving an old Chevrolet or Ford. It was dark blue or black.'

"Mr. Price said he was certain the man was Oswald. He said Oswald had another man with him on one or two of the trips to the range.

"Mrs. Paine is adamant in her statement that Oswald could not drive. She told THE PRESS she could be sure of "this because she herself attempted to teach him to drive.

"'As a friend of Marina's' she said, 'I thought he ought to learn how to drive. A couple of Sunday afternoons we went to a parking lot and practiced parking and turning. He couldn't even make a right angle turn. He'd pull around too far.

"'I wouldn't have loaned him my car. He learned well, but he just never had had a chance to learn.'"

Previous investigation has been conducted concerning the information attributed to HOWARD MALCOM PRICE by Mrs. PAINE.

On January 15, 1964, the following quoted article appeared in the "Ft. Worth Press", Fort Worth, Texas, containing information attributed to Mrs. RUTH PAINE, the Irving, Texas, housewife with whom MARINA OSWALD, wife of LEE HARVEY OSWALD, was residing at the time of the assassination:

"PLANS FOR 'DEFENSE' OF OSWALD ARE DESCRIBED

"The New York man who reportedly will defend Lee Harvey Oswald in death plans to contend Oswald could not have practiced with his rifle.

"And he plans to write a book about it.

"Mrs. Ruth Paine, the Irving housewife who befriended Oswald, accused of the assassination of President Kennedy, and his wife Marina, told THE PRESS she stated to Mark Lane that Oswald could not have taken the rifle from her garage and gone to practice without her knowledge.

"And THE PRESS learned from a reliable source that Mr. Lane called Oswald's mother, Mrs. Marguerite Oswald, from New York about five weeks ago asking for information to write a book.

"Sources said Mr. Lane's book would center on the 'legal loopholes' of Oswald's arrest and 'execution' by Jack Ruby.

"Mrs. Oswald told him she 'would be willing to agree on an offer.'

"It was not known today whether Mr. Lane made a money offer for the information which Mrs. Oswald would give him for his book.

2. ROBERT LEE OSWALD - Brother

FD-302 (Rev. 3-3-59)

FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date November 30, 1963

ROBERT LEE OSWALD, brother of LEE HARVEY OSWALD, voluntarily appeared at the Dallas Office, on November 22, 1963, and furnished the following information:

ROBERT said he knows of no reason why his brother went to Russia in 1959. He had just returned from the Marine Corps and left Fort Worth about three days thereafter, with the statement he was going to New Orleans to get a job. The next thing they heard of him they received word he was in Moscow, Russia.

ROBERT next saw his brother when he picked him and his Russian wife up at Dallas Love Field upon their return to the United States in June, 1962. Suspect thereafter lived with ROBERT for about two months in his home in Fort Worth, thereafter lived with his mother for a short period, and then came to Dallas. ROBERT said he has not seen the suspect personally or talked to him in person since that time. After the suspect came to Dallas he wrote a postcard to ROBERT and said any mail for him could be sent to Post Office Box 2918 in Dallas, but ROBERT never knew any street or residence address for him.

ROBERT said he works for the Acme Brick Company at Denton, Texas, and at the time LEE returned from Russia, ROBERT was working for this company in Fort Worth. In about March, 1963, ROBERT was moved by this company to Arkansas and worked for it there until September, 1963, when he was returned by the company to its Denton establishment, where he is still working.

ROBERT said LEE, when he had his last personal contact with him, did not drink, use narcotics, and appeared to be in complete normal health, mentally and physically. LEE was never subject to any kind of moody spells, was not a vicious or aggressive type of individual, but rather was retiring, quiet, and liked to read. ROBERT said his reading matter was in no way remarkable and during the time he had personal contact with him in their younger days this reading matter was always along historical lines or more or less of a non-fiction nature. He said LEE never spoke as though he was disgusted or discontent with things in this country after his return from Russia, but on the other hand seemed pleased he was back in the United States.

ROBERT said the only firearm he knew LEE to own was an inexpensive little .22 caliber rifle when he was a boy. He sold this rifle to ROBERT and never appeared to have any particular liking for or attraction to firearms. Even after his return from the Marine Corps, during the time he was in Fort Worth, he did not talk at all about guns, shooting or anything that would be in any way indicative of an inclination on his part to do serious physical harm to anyone.

ROBERT said LEE could possibly have had some sort of derangement since he last saw him during the latter part of 1962, but he knows of nothing in LEE'S childhood, his background, his environment or any of his experiences which might possibly have been a basis for thinking this actually had happened. When asked whether he thought LEE was by temperament or otherwise capable of doing such a thing as shooting a police officer and/or the President of the United States, he said on the basis of his knowledge of his brother he would not have said he could do such a thing.

ROBERT stated he had no way of knowing whether his brother, LEE HARVEY OSWALD, was in any way involved in the shooting of President JOHN FITZGERALD KENNEDY, but stated if such were the case and he, ROBERT, had any information, he would certainly make it known without hesitation.

The following description of ROBERT LEE OSWALD was obtained through observation and interview:

Mrs. VADA OSWALD, 1009 Sierra Drive, Denton, Texas, advised that she is the wife of ROBERT LEE OSWALD, brother of LEE HARVEY OSWALD. Mrs. OSWALD stated she was born and raised in Boyd, Texas, and after graduating from high school in 1955 she moved to Fort Worth, Texas, where she met ROBERT LEE OSWALD. They were married in 1956. Mrs. OSWALD advised that during this period prior to her marriage she never met LEE HARVEY OSWALD, her husband's brother, and when they were married he was in the U. S. Marine Corps.

Mrs. OSWALD advised that about four or five months after their marriage, when LEE OSWALD was on leave from the Marine Corps, he visited them on one occasion. She did not see LEE OSWALD again until he was discharged from the Marine Corps in 1959. He spent only one night in Fort Worth at which time she was with him for a short time. LEE OSWALD then departed for New Orleans, Louisiana, where he stated he would try to secure employment.

Arkansas

Mrs. OSWALD stated she did not hear of LEE OSWALD again until she received a telephone call from an unknown newspaper reporter in Fort Worth who asked her if she knew LEE HARVEY OSWALD. Mrs. OSWALD stated that at first she didn't know what this person was talking about and denied knowing LEE HARVEY OSWALD. She later in the day learned from her husband that LEE HARVEY OSWALD was in Moscow, Russia, and had announced his intention to renounce his United States citizenship. Mrs. OSWALD stated that the next day their house was filled with newspaper reporters who came to question her husband and herself, and they had her husband attempt to contact LEE HARVEY OSWALD by telephone which was unsuccessful. After this, Mrs. OSWALD stated she never heard again about LEE HARVEY OSWALD until about the middle of 1961 when he wrote to her husband and advised that he was about to be married and now desired to return to the United States, and requested assistance from ROBERT OSWALD.

Mrs. OSWALD stated that when LEE HARVEY OSWALD and his wife, MARINA OSWALD, and their baby, JUNE LEE OSWALD, returned to the United States they came to live with them. Mrs. OSWALD stated that the LEE OSWALDS lived with them during the latter part of June, entire month of July and first part of August, 1962. They then moved to the residence of Mrs. MARGUERITE

OSWALD, the mother of LEE and ROBERT OSWALD. The LEE OSWALDS lived with Mrs. MARGUERITE OSWALD for about two weeks and then moved to their own apartment in Fort Worth where they remained about a month then moved to Dallas, Texas. Mrs. OSWALD stated that in about September of 1962, LEE OSWALD obtained a job as a welder and then later obtained a job in Dallas in about October, 1962, working as a photographer.

Mrs. OSWALD stated that LEE OSWALD's wife, MARINA, was a very kind and sweet individual, and a very good mother and although she was unable to converse with MARINA OSWALD, Mrs. OSWALD stated she became quite fond of her.

Mrs. OSWALD further stated that during the period that she knew LEE OSWALD he appeared to be completely normal and rational. LEE OSWALD stated that he had gone to Russia to get more education and to obtain more material for writing a book. At no time did they discuss his political beliefs.

Mrs. OSWALD stated that after the unfortunate experiences that they had had with the press in 1959, they had avoided any publicity in 1962 when LEE OSWALD returned to the United States and there were no unfortunate incidents with any of their friends or neighbors, and everyone was friendly to both LEE and MARINA OSWALD.

Mrs. OSWALD stated that the reason the LEE OSWALDS left their residence was because Mrs. MARGUERITE OSWALD desired that they move in with her since she resided closer to the downtown area and it would be easier for LEE OSWALD to obtain a job from her residence. Mrs. OSWALD advised that she never visited LEE OSWALD at her mother-in-law's residence since she does not get along with her mother-in-law at all and, in fact, her husband has as little to do with his mother as possible.

Mrs. OSWALD advised that she and her husband moved from Fort Worth to Malvern, Arkansas, in about February, 1963, at which time LEE OSWALD and his wife were living in Dallas.

Mrs. OSWALD stated she never again saw LEE OSWALD after he left her home in August, 1962. Mrs. OSWALD stated her husband, ROBERT OSWALD did not see LEE OSWALD again until November 22, 1963, when he went to Dallas and saw LEE OSWALD at the Dallas City Jail.

Mrs. OSWALD stated that during the time that LEE OSWALD resided with her she noted that he liked to play with the children and was very kind to his child also. He had no known domestic difficulties with his wife during this period and she is certain that he never drank any alcoholic beverages during this time. Mrs. OSWALD stated it is her understanding that LEE OSWALD neither drank alcoholic beverages or smoked. He spent most of his time reading and writing his book about life in Russia. Mrs. OSWALD stated she recalls LEE OSWALD stating that he did not like the food in Russia or the living conditions, however, he was never ashamed to talk about the fact that he had resided in Russia. Mrs. OSWALD stated that she never heard LEE OSWALD discuss politics and never heard him say anything about President KENNEDY, neither good nor bad, during the time she knew him.

Mrs. OSWALD stated that, in addition to LEE OSWALD, her husband has a half brother named JOHN PIC who is about a year and a half or two years older than ROBERT OSWALD. Mrs. OSWALD stated that JOHN PIC is much like her husband in temperament and they were always quite close growing up. LEE OSWALD, however, was five years younger than ROBERT OSWALD and it was her understanding that he was never particularly close to the older brothers. Mrs. OSWALD noted that all three of the brothers enlisted in the U. S. Armed Forces as soon as they were seventeen and left home at their earliest opportunity since apparently none of them could stand their mother.

Mrs. OSWALD advised that she and her husband avoid discussing LEE HARVEY OSWALD since his arrest on November 22, 1963, since they have small children and feel that any further discussion in front of the children could only be harmful and they have decided to try to forget LEE HARVEY OSWALD as much as possible.

Under date of December 30, 1963, the Los Angeles Office advised that on December 30, 1963, Sergeant GIL FLOOD, Indio Station, Riverside County Sheriff's Office, Indio, California, had stated to SA THEODORE HINDERAKER that he had been contacted by JERRY CHANEY, a reporter for the "Indio Daily News".

CHANEY reportedly mentioned that he had received inquiry from an unspecified wire service indicating that a woman now residing in Indio, California, was LEE HARVEY OSWALD's aunt. This woman was identified as VIRGINIA PERRY, also known as Mrs. STANLEY PERRY, 44-451 Sungold, Indio, California. According to the information furnished by Sergeant FLOOD, Mrs. PERRY was not contacted by the newspaper because CHANEY refused to do the story on her as he felt that if she were related to OSWALD, she was an "innocent party", and this would only serve to destroy her reputation in her hometown.

Under date of January 6, 1964, the Los Angeles Office advised that on January 3, 1964, Mr. and Mrs. STANLEY PERRY, 44-451 Sungold, Indio, California, had advised SA THEODORE HINDERAKER that neither of them was related in any way to LEE HARVEY OSWALD. They indicated they had never heard of him prior to the assassination of President KENNEDY, and that they had absolutely no information concerning OSWALD.

Miss CAROL SMITH, Apartment 111, 4526 Munger Lane, Dallas Texas, was interviewed at her residence.

Miss SMITH advised she was a personal friend and former business associate of Mr. and Mrs. FRANK RAY, 4524 Alta Vista Lane, Dallas, Texas, and heard of MARINA OSWALD through Mrs. RAY. Mrs. RAY told her that MARINA OSWALD was a Russian girl who needed help of a financial nature and since she was neglected and often beaten up by her American husband. Miss SMITH said she does not recall that Mrs. RAY ever mentioned MARINA OSWALD'S husband by name; nor does she recall that Mrs. RAY mentioned anything regarding the political views of MARINA OSWALD and her husband.

Miss SMITH said she actually never met MARINA OSWALD but in December, 1962, she and Mrs. RAY were in attendance at a party at the home of the DECLAN FORD'S, in Dallas, at which time Mrs. RAY pointed out MARINA OSWALD as the Russian girl who had needed help. This happened as MARINA OSWALD and a man, presumably her husband, were leaving the party. Miss SMITH said that she noticed that MARINA OSWALD was shabbily dressed in a plaid skirt and blouse and that there was a man with her, but she cannot recall him by any description.

Miss SMITH advised she later saw photographs and television pictures of LEE HARVEY OSWALD and also of JACK RUBY; however, she does not know either one of these individuals.

Mr. EVERETT D. GLOVER, 9838 Webbs Chapel Road, Dallas Texas advised that he recalls meeting LEE HARVEY OSWALD, in approximately February, 1963, at the home of GEORGE DE MOHRENSCHILDT, on Dickens Road, near Southern Methodist Dallas, Texas University. MARINA OSWALD was also there at this time; although, he had met her previously at the DE MOHRENSCHILDT'S home several times. MARINA OSWALD had been invited to the DE MOHRENSCHILDT'S home approximately three times before, because she was a Russian-speaking person and was having marital difficulties with LEE HARVEY OSWALD. At this time, she was living at Fort Worth, Texas, and the only conversation GLOVER said that he could recall was of a general nature, through the interpretation of the DE MOHRENSCHILDTS.

After having met LEE HARVEY OSWALD, he and VOLKMAR SCHMIDT decided that it might be interesting to invite LEE HARVEY OSWALD and his wife to GLOVER'S house, at 4449 Potomac Street, in Dallas, Texas for a social gathering, and a closer opportunity to question OSWALD about his beliefs.

Approximately one week after the DE MOHRENSCHILDT party in mid-February, LEE HARVEY OSWALD, MARINA OSWALD, and their child consented to visit with GLOVER at his home. GLOVER said that he went to get them in his automobile at 602 Elsbeth, in the Oak Cliff section of Dallas, Texas.

GLOVER said that he also invited Mrs. RUTH PAINE, of Irving, Texas, to meet with OSWALD at this time since she had knowledge of Russian, and who was going to teach Russian courses in a local school and was interested in having this opportunity to practice her Russian. In addition to RUTH PAINE and her husband, there was also Mr. and Mrs. NORMAN FREDERICKSON. Mr. and Mrs. FREDERICKSON now reside in Madison, Wisconsin, where Mr. FREDERICSEN is a member of the Geology Department of the University of Wisconsin.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

Mr. GLOVER advised that he cannot recall any specific conversation which he, or anyone else, had with OSWALD, but only the general impressions. The people in attendance asked OSWALD what Russia was like, and he mentioned that the conditions were unsatisfactory, but that there seemed to be an excess of women in the Soviet Union as the result of the great number of men having been killed during World War Two. He implied since this was the case, MARINA OSWALD had taken this opportunity to marry him. OSWALD also said that he left Russia because there was too much regimentation, that life was not perfect, and there were very many hardships that the individual had to endure. He claimed that he was some sort of a tradesman, possibly a tinsmith or metal worker, during the time he was in Russia.

MARINA OSWALD also answered through translation that she was discriminated against by other Russian people because she had married OSWALD, who was an American.

Mr. GLOVER advised that his total impression of LEE HARVEY OSWALD was that he was still a very dissatisfied man who could never be happy anywhere, and that he was not a very stable person who wouldn't keep a job, and who mistreated his wife. It was GLOVER'S impression that he did not want to teach MARINA OSWALD English, to make her more dependent upon him.

Mr. GLOVER said that he believes that OSWALD told him that he was employed by the Jaggers-Chiles-Stovall Company, in the photographic department, during the time this social gathering took place.

GLOVER advised that this was the last time he had an opportunity to talk to OSWALD, or had any contact with him, and he learned sometime during May, 1963, from GEORGE DE MOHRENSCHILDT that OSWALD had either gone, or was going, to New Orleans, Louisiana.

GLOVER advised that he did not realize that OSWALD was a violent person and during the conversation with OSWALD, OSWALD made no comments concerning the United States and did not indicate that he was involved in any political causes.

JOHN B. HALL, 4760 Trail Lake Drive, furnished the following information:

He met LEE HARVEY OSWALD for the first time in August of 1962. He and his wife and some other persons, names not recalled, went to the home of LEE HARVEY OSWALD on Mercedes Street, Fort Worth, Texas. His wife was trying to help Mrs. OSWALD in getting some clothes and food for the OSWALDs and their baby. HALL was at this home only a very few minutes and did not say a half dozen words to LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

The next time he saw LEE HARVEY OSWALD was in October, 1962. At that time, HALL and his wife were separated but his wife was involved in an auto accident and he visited her at their home at 4760 Trail Lake Drive. MARINA OSWALD was staying with Mrs. HALL at the time of her accident. He only talked to LEE HARVEY OSWALD a very few minutes and nothing important was discussed. He stated that LEE HARVEY OSWALD did not seem to want to talk very much and he did not have very much conversation with him.

The next time he saw OSWALD was Christmas, 1962. He and his wife had gone back together and his wife wanted to take a little present to the child of the OSWALDs and at that time they were living in Oak Cliff in Dallas. They visited for 15 or 20 minutes and at this time he talked more to LEE HARVEY OSWALD than at any other time. He mentioned to them that they did not have a Christmas tree and did not seem to be celebrating Christmas in any way. LEE HARVEY OSWALD said he did not believe in Christmas and that they were not going to have a Christmas tree. At that time, HALL mentioned he was in business for himself in operating a dental laboratory in Fort Worth and was trying to make some money out of it. OSWALD called him a "petty capitalist" and said he was mainly interested in acquiring money than being a capitalist. OSWALD said he only wanted a job where he could make a living and this would be security for him. OSWALD mentioned at that time that he liked it in Russia and indicated that he, OSWALD, would like to go back to Russia.

Ethel Ann Harris

WILMETH retired from the U. S. Army in 1960 and obtained a Master's Degree from Texas University, majoring in the Russian language, in 1962. He has been teaching Russian at Arlington State College, Arlington, Texas, since 1962. On or about November 11 or 12, 1963, he telephonically contacted Mrs. PAINE and explained to her that he would like to meet Mrs. OSWALD and talk to her about the Russian language. Colonel WILMETH was a member of the U. S. Military Force in ~~Mexico~~ Moscow for two years during World War II. He learned a great deal about the Russian language at that time. He was interested in talking to someone who might help him in appearing before his class to discuss the modern Russian language. He made arrangements to visit PAINE and Mrs. OSWALD for Tuesday, November 19, 1963. He went to the PAINE residence and visited with Mrs. PAINE and Mrs. OSWALD for about an hour and a half on November 19, 1963. This was strictly a social visit and he talked Russian with Mrs. OSWALD and Mrs. PAINE and also made arrangements to come back for another visit on November 26, 1963. Mr. LEE OSWALD was not present and his name was not mentioned.

FRED BROWN, Managing Director of Six Flags Inn, Dallas, Texas, advised he has known JAMES MARTIN for 12 to 15 years, as both were in the hotel business in the Dallas area. BROWN knew MARTIN during the time MARTIN was employed by the Statler-Hilton Hotel and MARTIN worked for BROWN as Resident Manager when BROWN took over as General Manager of the Six Flags Inn.

BROWN advised DON ATWOOD was Acting Manager of the Six Flags Inn when it opened in May of 1962, and ATWOOD, Dallas, Texas, hired MARTIN as Resident Manager. Later, RAY DIETRICH took over as Manager of the Six Flags Inn and MARTIN continued as Resident Manager. BROWN decided the Six Flags Inn was overstaffed and was using MARTIN as relief as Desk Clerk and for other extra duties which MARTIN had made comments he did not like. About December 15, 1963, MARTIN resigned as Resident Manager of Six Flags Inn, saying he believed the inn was overstaffed and that he was no longer needed. MARTIN was efficient as a Desk Clerk and was a hard-working employee, but was not capable of handling the detailed work associated with the position of Resident Manager. Dallas, Texas

On January 14, 1964, MARTIN was visiting the Six Flags Inn and commented that he thought his wife was leaving him because his wife was jealous of Mrs. MARINA OSWALD, as Mrs. OSWALD was in love with MARTIN. MARTIN told BROWN that he wanted to return to the Statler-Hilton Hotel after he left the Carte Blanche Division of Hilton Hotels, but that he did not have the nerve to ask that he be reinstated as an Assistant Manager or a Credit Manager.

MACHUE worked with MARTIN for two years at the Statler while MACHUE was Credit Manager and MARTIN was Assistant Manager. MARTIN then moved to the Credit Office where both MACHUE and MARTIN worked as Credit Managers. In about 1959, MARTIN left the Statler-Hilton Hotel, Dallas, and went with Carte Blanche, Credit Card Division of the Hilton Hotel chain, in promotional sales.

MACHUE advised that he sees MARTIN around town at hotel meetings and socially. MACHUE has heard rumors that MARTIN and his wife were having marital difficulties because of Mrs. LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

MARTIN was considered an honest, efficient employee while working at the Statler and would have been rehired at the Statler if he had applied for a job after leaving the Carte Blanche Division of the Hilton Corporation.

While MARTIN was employed at the Hilton, he was continually in some promotion deal, attempting to make additional money.

MACHUE stated he would pull MARTIN's personnel record and make it available to the Dallas Division if it was needed.

JAMES HERBERT MARTIN, 11611 Farrar Street, advised he is the agent for MARINA OSWALD, the wife of LEE HARVEY OSWALD, deceased. He advised he first met MARINA OSWALD when she was brought to the Inn of the Six Flags, Dallas-Fort Worth, Texas, immediately following the assassination of President KENNEDY, where she stayed in protective custody of the Secret Service for a few days. He advised he does not know, nor has he ever seen, LEE HARVEY OSWALD, to his knowledge.

He advised he became acquainted with MARINA OSWALD while she was at the Inn of the Six Flags. He stated he subsequently invited MARINA OSWALD and her two children to live with him at his residence. He advised the OSWALDS have resided at his residence since approximately November 30, 1963.

MARTIN advised he is the agent for MARINA OSWALD and is handling her business affairs. He stated MARINA OSWALD has received, through voluntary public donations, in excess of $54,000, which has been deposited in bank accounts in her name in the Dallas area. He said he has told newspaper representatives that the amount of money received by MARINA OSWALD in this method is approximately $28,000.

Mr. MARTIN advised that Mr. JOHN M. THORNE, of Grand Prairie, Texas, is the attorney for MARINA OSWALD.

MARTIN was asked if he knew JACK RUBY, and he replied that he did. MARTIN stated he had been the Credit Manager at the Statler-Hilton Hotel, in Dallas, some years ago.

MARINA OSWALD was interviewed at 11611 Farrar Street, in the Russian language, SA BOGUSLAV translating.

She was exhibited a silver-colored bracelet with the name MARINA on it, which is contained in a gold-colored box. This bracelet is among the personal effects of MARINA and LEE HARVEY OSWALD acquired by the Dallas Police Department through a search of the RUTH PAINE residence, 2515 Fifth Street, Irving, Texas, on November 22, 1963, and subsequently made available to the FBI Office at Dallas.

MARINA identified this bracelet as a gift to her from LEE HARVEY OSWALD. She said it had been given to her immediately after OSWALD had returned from New Orleans, in early October, 1963. She said that now everybody knows OSWALD had been to Mexico immediately prior to his return to Dallas, in October, 1963; although she had not known this at the time, thinking he had returned to Dallas directly from New Orleans. She said the bracelet was too small for her and she had not particularly liked it, and as a consequence had not worn it. She said OSWALD had purchased a similar bracelet for himself with his name on it prior to the time they moved from Dallas to New Orleans, in the spring of 1963. She said OSWALD had wanted her to have a bracelet like his.

MARINA said OSWALD did not state where he had bought the bracelet, which he gave her as a gift, and that she definitely did not know that he had been to Mexico prior to his return to Dallas.

MARINA stated she had not discovered OSWALD'S wedding ring on the dresser in her room at the RUTH PAINE home the morning of November 22, 1963, upon getting up that morning. She said she had not seen it until the police came to her house to search it, following the arrest of OSWALD on November 22, 1963. She had not noticed the ring on the dresser before the police came. She advised she recalled calling RUTH PAINE later in that day, November 22, 1963, or the following day, to tell her about the ring.

MARINA was questioned concerning her prior statement that she could not understand how OSWALD could commit a killing, in view of his prior admission to her that he had attempted to assassinate General WALKER, at Dallas. She stated that upon reflection, and in view of the WALKER incident, that she now felt that LEE HARVEY OSWALD had been capable of murder. She stated he had evidently been a man of some strong will to have carried out the attempted assassination of WALKER, even though he became highly nervous later when he returned to their home, following that assassination attempt. She said that if it is true that OSWALD committed the assassination of President KENNEDY, that he very possibly would not have been caught if he had not lost control of himself when accosted by Policeman TIPPIT, resulting in the killing of Officer TIPPIT.

MARINA was asked if, while she resided in New Orleans, she had attended any meetings alone, or in the company of OSWALD, or any other person. She answered she had not attended any such meetings on any occasion in New Orleans, or in Dallas. She stated while she was in New Orleans with OSWALD, she had been visited on occasion by OSWALD'S uncle and aunt and their family, and had been visited on two occasions by a Quaker friend of RUTH PAINE. RUTH PAINE had written this friend that MARINA OSWALD was in New Orleans and requested that the friend contact MARINA.

MARINA said she had previously stated this friend had visited her on one occasion. She now remembers that this Quaker friend of RUTH PAINE, whose name MARINA does not recall, visited her on two occasions--the first time she came alone to their house on Magazine Street and the second time she came accompanied by her two daughters. MARINA said this woman's husband is a Professor in a medical school in New Orleans, she believes. She said LEE HARVEY OSWALD had been at the house on the occasion of both visits of this Quaker woman. MARINA recalled that one of the daughters of the Quaker woman had toured the Soviet Union and the other daughter was a student of the Russian language.

MARINA was questioned concerning her religious belief. She advised she has always had a religious feeling, which dates back to a very young age. She said her grandmother, who had taken care of her when she was very young, had been very religious, in fact almost fanatically so. The grandmother taught her prayers, which she said for a number of years, but no longer recites. MARINA said she crosses herself before going to sleep each night, but she did not let LEE HARVEY OSWALD know this because he did not believe in a God and would have resented her doing this.

She said she has more religious belief now because of her recent experiences.

She volunteered the opinion that most every Russian, whether he shows it or not, down deep in his heart has a religious belief of sorts.

MARINA was further questioned concerning the events of the night of November 21, 1963. She said OSWALD had told her when he arrived unexpectedly at the PAINE residence on the evening of November 21, 1963, that he was lonesome for her and for the children. MARINA said at the time, she thought that OSWALD had arrived primarily to patch up the quarrel between them. She was asked if OSWALD had made the statement that he had something important to do, and she replied that she did not recall that he made such a statement.

She said she recalls OSWALD had retired to his bed approximately two hours before she had, but she does not believe he was asleep when she retired. She said, in fact, she believes he did not go to sleep until the early morning hours and for that reason, he did not awaken when the alarm clock went off. She said upon reflection, that she would now say that OSWALD had been nervous because he had not gone to sleep as he usually did. She did not think at the time of his being nervous.

On the morning of November 22, 1963, after OSWALD had arisen and was leaving the bedroom, and while MARINA was in bed feeding the baby, she mentioned to him that she had not had time previously to purchase the shoes which they had agreed she needed. OSWALD then told her to buy the shoes and to buy anything that was necessary for the children -- out of the money which they had saved, and which was in the wallet in the dresser drawer. MARINA states that in reflection, now she believes this to be strange, because OSWALD had always been most frugal and did not allow her to spend hardly any money.

MARINA said OSWALD told her he would not be back to the PAINE house that weekend because he did not want to disturb the PAINE family any more than necessary.

MARINA was questioned regarding her personal relationships with LEE HARVEY OSWALD. She stated that she can recall that after a series of arguments, which had culminated in her writing a letter to the Soviet Embassy in the United States, requesting permission to return with her daughter, JUNE, to the Soviet Union, OSWALD had begged her not to leave him alone; and she had thereafter agreed that the whole family could return to Russia together. She said OSWALD had on occasion asked her not to laugh at him, or his ideas. She advised she had the impression that OSWALD had become lost in his relationship with the people of the world and was trying to find himself and to make something out of himself. She said she had been sorry for him.

MARINA OSWALD was interviewed at her place of residence, 11611 Farrar Street. She was again questioned about her recollection of the activities of OSWALD on Saturday, November 9, 1963. She stated OSWALD had called her on the previous day, November 8, 1963, which was a Friday, and told her he would not come to the PAINE residence on that day because he had an appointment to see about a job the following day, November 9, 1963. She stated OSWALD appeared at the PAINE residence about 9:00 A.M. to the best of her recollection on November 9, 1963. About mid-morning that date, Mrs. PAINE took OSWALD, MARINA and JUNE to Oak Cliff in Dallas to the Drivers License Office, but the office was closed because it was an election day. Mrs. PAINE then took the OSWALDs back to her house. MARINA states OSWALD stayed in the house the rest of the day, and, in fact, stayed at the house until the following Monday morning when he went to work. She stated she does not know of any occasion when OSWALD talked to anybody about the purchase of an automobile. She said she is positive that he did not leave the PAINE residence on November 9, 1963 for such a purpose. She said that if OSWALD had talked to anybody about purchasing an automobile, that she did not know about it.

MARINA was again questioned concerning the trip taken by LEE HARVEY OSWALD to Mexico in September-October of 1963. She said OSWALD had not told her anything whatsoever about any intentions on his part to go to Mexico. She said he had not told her upon his return to Dallas in early October, 1963 that he had been to Mexico. She said she received no intimation whatsoever that he had intentions of going to Mexico or that he had been to Mexico. She said her first knowledge of OSWALD's travel to Mexico had been that which she gained from television programs at Dallas immediately following the assassination of President KENNEDY.

In this connection, MARINA OSWALD said that although she had in the spring of 1963 petitioned the Soviet representative in the United States to return to Russia, that by the fall of 1963 she had no desire to return to Russia. She said she had originally petitioned the Soviet government for a return to Russia mainly because OSWALD had found it difficult and almost impossible to support his family in the United States. She wanted to help OSWALD and she felt that she could do this by returning to Russia with their baby daughter.

Portions of the diary of OSWALD in Russian were discussed with MARINA. She said she knew RIMMA SHERIKOVA who was the guide of OSWALD during his first trip to Moscow. She met this guide when the latter came to Minsk with a tourist group.

She advised she is aware that OSWALD had girl friends in Minsk before he met her, and she has met some of these friends. She recalls a girl named ENNA from Riga Estonia worked in the same factory as did OSWALD and had been a friend of his. She also recalled that a girl named TAMARA had been a friend of OSWALD before their marriage. She remembers a friend of OSWALD's had been a Jewish girl named ELLA GERMAN. She does not know these friends of OSWALD well because they were friends of his rather than hers, and OSWALD did not maintain a social relationship after their marriage.

MARINA reiterated that OSWALD had never attempted suicide to her knowledge since she had known him. She stated she had observed the scars on his left wrist and had asked him on several occasions about the scars but he was embarrassed and refused to talk to her about the scars.

MARINA said upon reflecting on the entries of OSWALD in his diary pertaining to his suicide attempt, that it was her belief he had done this in order to obtain from the Russian government permission to stay in that country, and that he had not truly wanted to take his life.

MARINA advised OSWALD had told her on an occasion that he had walked into the American Embassy in Moscow and thrown his passport on the table and told the officials that he considered himself no longer an American.

MARINA said OSWALD was the type of person who thought that there were green pastures in other countries. She said he had been disappointed in the Soviet Union. MARINA advised that he would like to have combined the job opportunities in the Soviet Union with the freedom of press and other freedoms enjoyed in the United States.

MARINA said in Russia OSWALD had enjoyed meeting people, but frequently he would grow tired of people after he knew them for a while. PAVEL GOLOVACHEV, however, was his best friend. OSWALD and PAVEL enjoyed talking to each other. PAVEL was very clever; he was a good story teller. PAVEL was an expert in electronics and read many periodicals and books on the subject. Although neither OSWALD nor MARINA were interested in electronics, they would listen to PAVEL talk about electronics. OSWALD and PAVEL also discussed politics. PAVEL was very frank and direct in his approach to things and in his conversation. He was candid in his views. MARINA thinks he was honest in his opinions. PAVEL and OSWALD played chess a good bit.

ERIC TITOVIETS, a medical student in Minsk, presented a better appearance than did PAVEL and was more handsome than PAVEL. MARINA stated she was more attracted to ERIC at first than to PAVEL, but when she became better acquainted with each of them, she found that PAVEL being more direct and more honest in his opinions was the more attractive of the two. She found ERIC to be afraid to openly discuss political questions.

In his letter of September 9, 1963 to the OSWALDs, ERIC mentioned the "Z's". MARINA said this was a reference to the ZIEGER family who lived in Minsk and were friends of the OSWALDs. When he first went to work in the TV factory, OSWALD could not speak adequate Russian. Mr. ZIEGER, whose full name is ALEXANDER ROMANOVICH ZIEGER, can speak

Russian, English, Spanish and Polish, and he acted as OSWALD's interpreter. ZIEGER was one of the chief engineers in the plant. OSWALD did not work in the same section as did ZIEGER. OSWALD and ZIEGER became good friends and associated socially before and after OSWALD's marriage. Concerning ZIEGER, MARINA stated he was of Jewish blood, she believed. He had been raised in a land which was a part of Poland. He had spent 25 years in Argentina and had then returned to his homeland. Meanwhile, his homeland had become part of Russia and is now known as Belorussia. Both he and his wife desired very much to leave Russia and return to Argentina.

ZIEGER and OSWALD frequently discussed political subjects and ZIEGER was frank in his displeasure with the Soviet system and wanted to leave and go back to Argentina to live.

MARINA stated ERIC TITOVIETS had become acquainted with the ZIEGERs. ERIC knew the ZIEGERs when she met OSWALD. ERIC, like the OSWALDs, was a friend of the ZIEGERs. She said it was therefore natural for ERIC to comment regarding the ZIEGERs in his letter to the OSWALDs. Concerning her friend LIALIA, MARINA stated this girl's full name is LARISSA PETROVANA PETRUSEVICH, and her nickname is LIALIA. She lived in the same apartment house as did the OSWALDs in Minsk. Although she had been raised in Belorussia, she had relatives living in Moscow. MARINA stated LIALIA on occasion had visited her relatives in Moscow. MARINA does not recall the occasions but knows that LIALIA had been in Moscow. 2000 APPROX 1941 or 1942

RUSSIA

MARINA stated LIALIA was a few months older than she, and would, therefore, be 22 or almost 23 years of age at the present time. She estimated the height of LIALIA to be about 5' 4". LIALIA has brown eyes and dark hair. She had a pretty figure which was somewhat girlish. She had well-shaped legs, and although she was not pretty, was very attractive. She had a lively personality. MARINA described LIALIA as a child who was not at all sophisticated. She said

LIALIA was very definitely of Russian descent although she might have some Polish blood as her mother had possibly come from Poland. MARINA stated that to her knowledge, LIALIA had never lived in Moscow but had only visited there for short occasions to see her relatives.

MARINA OSWALD was interviewed at her place of residence, 11611 Farrar Street.

She was questioned concerning a notation on a sheet of autobiographical notes of OSWALD. This notation showed his wife as MARINA NIKILIEVNA OSWALD, and written underneath that was the name "DAVID LEE OSWALD, son, American". MARINA OSWALD said that this had been a note made by OSWALD before the birth of her first daughter, JUNE. OSWALD thought the first child would be a son and had already selected the name as DAVID LEE. It was in anticipation of this that he made this note on this autobiographical sketch.

MARINA was asked if she recalled that OSWALD had in his possession a phonograph record when he returned to Dallas, on October 3, 1963. She said she did not know if he had a phonograph record and that if he had brought a phonograph record back to Dallas on that occasion, she did not know about it.

She also said OSWALD had never spoken to her about Jai-lai games.

MARINA said she had never been in, nor seen, the residence at 1026 North Beckley, where OSWALD last lived.

MARINA was asked the direct question if OSWALD had ever said anything, or did anything, to indicate to her he was thinking of, or intended to, kill or attempt to assassinate or harm the late President KENNEDY, or Governor JOHN CONNALLY. She answered that OSWALD had not said anything, or done anything, to indicate any intentions to harm either late President KENNEDY, or Governor CONNALLY. She said that the accusation of OSWALD as the assassin of President KENNEDY had come as a "thunder clap" to her.

She said that she cannot recall that OSWALD ever said anything, or wrote anything, against Governor JOHN CONNALLY. She said OSWALD had told her he had written to the United States Navy, protesting his undesirable discharge, and that he had received a form letter from the Navy, stating that his request would be considered. He made the remark to her that the bureaucracy in the United States was just as bad as it was in Russia.

MARINA identified two additional acquaintances of hers in Russia. These persons are TAMARA ALEXANDROVNA SANKOVSKAYA, who is approximately age 34, and was an employee of the Third Clinical Hospital at the same time as was MARINA. This woman is married and has a child and is a pharmacist by profession. Another friend of MARINA'S was SOFIA VASILEVSKAYA, now about age 25, who also was employed at the Third Clinical Hospital at the same time as was MARINA. She was also a pharmacist by profession.

On November 27, 1963, Captain WILL FRITZ made available an address book found at the residence of LEE HARVEY OSWALD, Dallas, Texas. This address book had writings in both the English and Russian languages. On page 19 of the aforementioned address book was noted the name R. HARTEN HAWTORN.

DPD MRS. A review of the City Directory for Dallas, Texas reflects a ROMAN HARTEN, wife, MARTHA, employed as a draftsman for Koch, Fowler and Crafe, with residence located 3719 Hawthorne, Dallas, Texas.

Harten

The following investigation was conducted by SA WILLIAM G. BROOKHART at Dallas, Texas.

Mr. ROMAN HARTEN, 3719 Hawthorne, was interviewed at his place of employment on January 10, 1964, Fowler and Grafe, Incorporated, 3900 Lemmon Avenue. Mr. HARTEN advised that he has never met LEE HARVEY OSWALD, OSWALD's wife, or any of OSWALD's family. Some time ago, Mr. GEORGE BOUHE, a leader in the Russian Orthodox Church Group in Dallas, Texas, proposed that HARTEN and his wife take in a young couple who was coming to Dallas from Russia. Mr. HARTEN said that at that time he and his wife had a spare room and might have been able to make this available, however, he later found out that the man was an American and he felt that if this were the case, he believed that this man must be a Communist because he was coming back to the United States from Russia with his Russian wife without any opposition from the Russian government. For this reason, he told Mr. BOUHE that he would not have anything to do with this individual. He was never told the name or identity of this young couple and did not learn until after the assassination of President KENNEDY that LEE HARVEY OSWALD and his wife, MARINA, were the young couple referred to by Mr. BOUHE.

Mr. HARTEN said that the only explanation he could have for his name being in the address book of LEE HARVEY OSWALD is that possibly it was given to OSWALD by Mr. BOUHE as a prospective place to live, and that OSWALD may have thought that this would have been a place to keep in mind. Mr. HARTEN said that he never heard from OSWALD and presumed that OSWALD never considered HARTEN's residence as a place to live.

Mr. HARTEN said that he would be happy to aid in any way possible, however, he did not know anyone outside of Mr. BOUHE who knew LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

Mr. HARTEN advised he had not become an American citizen and was an Estonian National, and has been in the United States approximately 14 years. He was born December 24, 1896 at Parnu, Estonia and is a Civil Engineer, having graduated from the Railway Engineers Institute in Moscow, Russia. He said that he does not have a license to practice engineering in the United States and is currently employed as a draftsman for Fowler and Grafe, Inc.

Efforts are being made to locate JOHN HOWARD BOWEN who is believed to be the person who sat next to LEE HARVEY OSWALD on the Mexican Red Arrow bus on a trip from Nuevo Laredo to Mexico City on September 26/27, 1963.

On January 7, 1964, Confidential Informant T-4 furnished information to the effect that JOHN HOWARD BOWEN had still not been located. Informant advised that on January 7, 1964, Reverend ALBERT OSBORNE, an elderly Canadian missionary residing 4A Emilio Carranza Street, San Martin de Texmelucan, State of Puebla, had advised that BOWEN is an ordained Baptist minister who over the years has collected funds for construction of several churches in Mexico. BOWEN has not been in Mexico since late September or early October, 1963, at which time he advised OSBORNE he was thinking of giving up his missionary work because many of his contributors who helped him financially over the years are now deceased. Informant advised that OSBORNE suggested that BOWEN could be located through the Hotel Jong or Jung in New Orleans, Louisiana where he was most recently employed and was making efforts to qualify for Social Security benefits. OSBORNE also thought BOWEN might be located through the Hotel St. Anthony in Laredo, Texas. (No such hotel of this name is known to exist in Laredo, but there is such a hotel in San Antonio, Texas).

Informant advised that OSBORNE claimed he has no way of communicating with BOWEN and does not know his exact address in the United States, although he believes he is in the United States at this time. OSBORNE indicated to informant that BOWEN never lived at the Emilio Carranza address but did pick up his mail there during his visit to Mexico in September or October, 1963.

Dear Sirs;

In reply to your notification of the granting of an Undiresable discharge and your conveying of the process at which at was arrived.

I would like to point out in direct opposition to your information that I have never taken steps to renounce my U. S. citizenship. Also that the United States State Department has no charges or complaints against me what/so ever.

I refer you to the United States Embassy, Moscow, or the U. S. department of State Washington D.C., for the verification of this fact.

Also, I was aware of the finding of the board of officers of 8 August 1960. I was notified by my mother, in December 1962.

My request to the Secretary of the Navy, his referrel to you and your letter to me, did not say anything about a Review, which is what I was trying to arrange.

"You mention 'reliable information' as the basis for the Undiserable discharge. I have no douth it was newspapers speculation which foreward your 'reliable information.'

Under U. S. law governing the use of passports and conduct abroad I have a perfect right to reside in my country I wish too.

I have not violated; Section 1544, Title 18, U. S. code, therefore you have no legel or even moral right, to reverse my honourable discharge from the U.S.M.C. of Sept. 11, 1960, into a undiserable discharge.

You may consider this letter a request by me for a full review of my case in the light of these facts, since by the time you recive this letter I shall have returned to the U.S.A. with my family, and shall be prepared to appear in person at a reasonable time and place in my area, before a reviewing board of officers.

(Gov.) (Gov.) John Connally

Dear Sir. D.C

I wish to call your attention to a case about which you may have personal knowlege since you are a resident of Ft. Worth as I am.

In November 1959 an event was well publicated in the Ft. Worth newspapers concerning a person who had gone to the Soviet Union to reside for a short time, (Much in the same way E. Hemingway resided in Paris.)

This person in answers to questions put to him by reporteds in Moscow criticized certain facets of American life. The story was blown up into another 'turncoat' sensation, with the result that the Navy department gave this person a belated dishonourable discharge, although he had recived an honourable discharge after three years service on Sept. 11, 1959 at El Toro, Marine Corps base in California.

These are the basic facts of my case.

I have and allways had the full sanction of the U. S. Embassy, Moscow USSR, and hence the U. S. goverment. In as much as I am returning to the U.S.A. in this year with the aid of the U. S. Embassy bring with me my family (since I married in the U.S.S.R.) I shall employ all means to right

"this gross mistake or injustice to a boni-fied U. S. citizen and ex-service man. The U. S. government has no charges or complaints against me. I ask you to look into this case and take the necessary steps to repair the damage done to me and my family. For information I would direct you to consult the American Embassy, Chikovski St. 19121, Moscow, USSR.

Thank You

Lee H Oswald"

Dear Mr. Oswald:

We have your clipping requesting application for membership in the Socialist Workers Party.

We are sorry for the delay in answering your letter.

Our constitution requires that there must be a minimum of five members before a branch of the Socialist Workers Party can be formed and it is not our practice to take in individual members where no branch yet exists. Unfortunately we don't have any branches at all in Texas.

We very much appreciate, however, your request for membership in the party and wish to continue on a basis of close sympathetic relation with you until such time as a branch of the SWP can exist in Dallas. Pending the necessary basis for such a local structure, we suggest that you concentrate on seeking subscribers to the Militant and promoting the sale of socialist literature obtainable through Pioneer Publishers. Through contacts you may be able to develop on this basis let us hope it will be possible before too long to welcome a Dallas, Texas branch into the party.

In line with the above I am taking the liberty of sending a number of subscription blanks to the Militant so that you can have full advantage of our introductory offer of 4 months for only $1. We have had great success nationally with our subscription campaign. Also, you yourself should "be sure to subscribe to both the Militant and International Socialist Review as you will find them excellent sources of socialist literature and information.

Please keep in touch with us.

With best wishes,

Sincerely,

Dear Mr. Oswald:

Your letter and reproductions were turned over to me by the SWP office.

I am familiar with reproductions and offset printing processes. It is clear from your work that you are skilled at blow-ups, reversals and reproduction work generally. Do you do any other phases of the process as well as photography? What about layout and art work?

We have access to a small offset shop here in New York. Generally, when we need any copy work done we have taken it there directly. However there might very well be occasion when we could utilize your skill for some printing project. It would, of course, necessarily have to be a project in which we would have flexibility as to time. It is not easy to do anything in which there is pressure to get a job out immediately through correspondence between New York and Texas. Such work must be done locally, out of necessity. However, for a longer term project it might be possible to ask your aid.

Could you write to me directly at the above address? I would like to know what size camera you have; how large a paper print you can make; how large a negative; and any other technical information that you can give us that would help us judge how your aid could be most effective. If you have any questions please feel free to (illegible) to me and I will try to respond promptly.

With best wishes for a year of progress

F. Typewritten Manuscript of The Oswald Composition Entitled, "The Collective"

On the following pages is transcribed a typewritten manuscript found among the personal effects of LEE HARVEY OSWALD, at Dallas, Texas, by the Dallas Police Department, on November 22, 1963, which manuscript is entitled "The Collective". This manuscript is practically a copy of the handwritten manuscript dealing with the same subject which was recorded in a prior report. The handprinted corrections which appear on the typewritten manuscript have been examined by the FBI Laboratory and found to have been prepared by LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

The following pages are a copy of a composition typewritten in the English language entitled "The Collective."

"PART 1 The Colletive

"The lives of Russian Workers is governed, first and foremost, by the 'Collective', the smallest unit of authority in any given factory, plant or enterprize. Sectional and shop cells form a highly organized and well supported political organization. These shop committees are in turn governed by the shop and section party chiefs who are directed by the factory or plant party secretary. This post carries officially the same amount of authority as the production director or president of the plant, but in reality it is the controlling organ of all activities at any industrial enterprise, whether political, industrial or otherwise personal relations. The party secretary is responsible for policitcal indoctrination of the workers, the discipline of members of the Communist party working at the plant and the general conduct and appearance of all members.

"The Minsk Radio and Television plant is known throughout the Union as the major producer of electronics parts, and sets. In this vast enterprise created in the early 50's, the party secretary is a 6'4" man in his early 40's -- has a long history of service to the party. He controls the activities of the 1,000 communist party members here and otherwise supervises the activities of the other 5,000 people employed at this major enterprise in Minsk, the capital of the 3rd ranking Republic Belerussain.

"This factory manufactures 87,000 large and powerful radio and 60,000 television sets in various sizes and ranges, excluding pocket radios, which are not mass produced anywhere in the U.S.S.R. It is this plant which manufactured several console model combination radio-phonograph television sets which were shown as mass produced items of commerce before several hundreds of thousands of Americans at the Soviet Exposition in New York in 1959. After the Exhibition these sets were duly shipped back to Minsk and are now stored in a special storage room on the first floor of the Administrative Building -- at this factory, ready for the next International Exhibit.

"I worked for 23 months at this plant, a fine example of average and even slightly better than average working conditions. The .....

"The plant covers an area of 25 acres in a district one block north of the Main thoroughfare and only two miles from the center of the City with all facilities and systems for the mass production of radios and televisions; it employs 5,000 full time and 300 part time workers, 58% women and girls. This factory employe 2,000 soldiers in three of the five mainshops, mostly these shops are fitted with convair belts in long rows, on either side of which sit the long line of bustling women.

"500 people, during the day shift, are employed on the huge stamp and pressing machines; here sheet metal is turned into metal frames and cabinets for television and radios.

"Another 500 people are employed in an adjoining building for the cutting and finishing of rough wood into fine polished cabinets. A laborer's process, mostly done by hand, the cutting, trimming and the process's right up to hand polishing are carried out here at the same plant. The plant also has its own stamp making plant, employing 150 people at or assisting at 80 heavy machine lathes and grinders. The noise in this shop is almost deafening as metal grinds against metal and steel saws cut through iron ingots at the rate of an inch a minute. The floor is covered with oil used to drain the heat of metal being worked so one has to watch one's footing; here the workers' hands are as black as the floor and seem to be eternally. The foremen here looks like the Russian version of 'John Henry', tall and as strong as an ox. He isn't frilly, but he gets the work out.

"The plant has its electric shop, where those who have finished long courses in electronics work over generators, television tubes, testing experiments of all kinds. The green work tables are filled high here. Electric gadgets are not too reliable, mostly due to the poor quality of wires, which keep burning out under the impact of the usual 220V _____ voltage. In the U. S. it is 110V.

"The plastics department is next. Here 47 women and three physically disabled persons keep the red hot liquid plastic flowing into a store of odd presses, turning out their quoto of knobs, handles, non-conducting tube bases, and so forth. These workers suffer the worst condition of work in the plant, an otherwise model factory, for the Soviet Union, due and the hotness of the materials. These workers are awarded 30 days vacation a year, the maximum for workers. Automatum is now employed at a fairly large number of factories, especially, the war industry. However for civilian use, their number is still small.

At this plant at least one worker is employed in the often crude task of turning out finished, acceptable items. Often one worker must finish the task of taking the edge of metal off plastic and shaving them on a foot driver lathe. There is only so much potentiality in presses and stamps, no matter what their size.

The lack of unemployment in the Soviet Union may be explained by one of 2 things. Lack of automation and a Beaurocratic corps of 1-6 workers in any given factory. These people are occupied with the tons of paper work which flow in and out of any factory. Also the number of direct formen is not small to the ratio of workers in some case 1-10, in other 1-5, depending on the importance of the work.

These people are also backed by a small army of examiners, committees and supply checkers and the quantity control board. These poeple number (without foremen) almost 300 people, total working force 5,000 -- 3-50 without foremen.

To delve deep into the lives of the workers, we shall visit most of the shops one after another and get to know the people. The largest shop employes 500 people; 85% women and girls; females make up 60% of the work force at this plant.

Here girls solder and screw the chassis to the frame attaching, transistors, tubes and so forth. They each have quotas depending upon what kind of work they are engaged in. One girl may solder 5 transistors in four minutes while the next

"girl solders 15 wire leads in 13 mintues. The pay scales here vary but slightly with average pay at 80 rubles without deductions. Deductions include 7 rubles, general tax, 2.50 rubles for bachelors and unmarried girls and any deductions for poor or carbless work, the inspectors may care to make further down the line. They start teams oftwo mostly boys of 17 or 18, turning the televisions on the convair belts right side up, from where there has been soldering to a position where they place picture tubes onto the supports. These boys receive for a 39 hour week, 65-70 rubles, not counting deductions. Further on, others are fitting tubes and parts around the picture tube itself, all along the line there are testing apparatus with operators hurriedly afix snap type testing currents, and withdrawing the snapps that fitting out a tester's card, pass the equipment back onto the convair, speed here is essential.

"The Communist party secretary here, as in most shops, has promised to increase production by 2% in honor of the coming end of the third year of the current 7 year plan. Now the televisions are carried around the convey to go back down the line where others sit to complete the process, the smoke from the careful soldering doesn't keep the girls from chattering away and that, coupled with the boys at the end of the line, testing the loudspeakers, makes for a noisy but lively place, with the laughter of girls mixing with music and occasional jazz programs, which the testers favor for purely personal reasons until the foreman looks his way.

"As we go out we see crates of the finished product with the well known, 'made in Belorussia,' stamp.

"One of the most interesting things in observing Russian life and conventions, is the personal relationship to each other; there exists a disciplined comradeship springing from the knowledge that in Soviet Society the fundamental group is the 'Kollective' or intershop group. These groups with the shop or section party chiefs and foremen, are the worlds in which the Russian workers live. All activities and conduct of members is dependent upon the will of the 'Kollective.'

"In the shop where I worked, the experimental shop, of the Minsk Radio and Television factory, there were58 workers, including the party shop secretary, who is a Communist worker assigned into the shop by the factory Party secretary, the Master foremen, assigned by the Shop production head who is assignedin turn by the Director of the Factory.

"The key person in the shop, as everyone appreciates is Comrade Libezen, 45 years old, the party-secretary. His background is that after serving his allotted time in the Young Communist League before the war, he became a member in good standing of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union CPSU. During the war, he was for a short time, a tankest, but his talents seemed to have been too good for that job so he was made a military policeman, after the war, starting at this newly built factory. He was appointed by the factory Communist party chief, as shop secretary, responsible for shop discipline, party meetings, distribution of propaganda and any other odd 'jobs' that might come up, including, seeing to it that there are always enough red and white signs and slogans hanging on the walls. Liebezen holds the title (besides Communist) of 'Shock worker of Communist Labor', this movement was started under Stalin a decade ago, in order to get the most out of the extreme patriotism driven into Soviet children at an early age. Indeed, Leibezen is a skilled mechanic and metal worker and for his work he receives 130-140 rubles -- month minus deductions. This shop party secretary, together with the section party chief, usually selects workers for the title 'shock worker of Communist Labor.' These people are not necessarily Communist party members, although it helps in the same way party membership helps in any facet of life in the U.S.S.R.

"Factory meetings of the 'Kollectives' are so numerous as to be staggering.

"Take for instance during one month the following meetings and lectures are scheduled: 1 prof. Union; which discuss the work of the prof. union in gathering dues, paying out receipts on vacations orders, ect. (p. 24.); political information (4) every Tuesday on the lunch hour, Young Communist Meetings (2) on the 6 and 21st of every month; production comittees (1) made up of workers, discussing ways of improving work; Communist party meeting (2) a month called by the section Communist party sec.; the school of Communist labor meeting (4) compulsory) every Wednesday, and sport's meeting, 1 a month, non-compulsory, a total of 15 meetings a month, 14 of which are compulsory for Communist party members and 12 compulsory for all others. These meetings are always held after work or on the lunch hour. They are never held on working time. Absenteism is by no means allowed. After long years of hard discipline, especially under the Stalin regime, no worker will invite the sure disciplinary action of the party men and inevitably the factory party committe because of trying to slip out of the way or giving too little attention to what is being said.

A strange sight indeed is the picture of the local party man delivering a political sermon to a group of usually robust simple working men who through some strange process have been turned to stone. Turned to stone all except the hard faced communists with roving eyes looking for any bonus-making catch of inattentiveness on the part of any worker; a sad sight to anyone not used to it, but the Russians are philasophical. 'Who likes the lecture?' 'Nobody,' 'but its compulsory'. Compulsory attendance at factory meetings isn't the only way to form spontaneous demonstrations and meeting's. The 'great October revolution' demonstrations, the May day demonstrations are all formed in the same way. As well as spontaneous meetings for distinguished guests. The well organized party men mark off the names of the hundreds of workers approved to arrive at a certain place at a given time. No choice, however, small, is left to the discretion of the individual.

PART II THE EXPERIMENTAL SHOP

For a good cross section of the Russian working class I suggest we examine the lives of some of the 58 workers and 5 foremen working in the experimental shop of the Minsk radio plant. This place is located in the midst of the great thriveing plant which produces some of the best known radios and TV's in the Soviet Union.

"The shop itself is located in a two story building with no particular noticeable mark on its red brick face. At 8:0 sharp, all the workers have arrived and at the sound of a bell sounded by the duty orderly, who is a worker whose duty it is to see to it that the workers do not slip out for too many smokes, they file upstairs, except for 10 turners and lath operators whose machines are located on the first floor. Work here is given out in the form of blueprints and drawings by the foremen Zomof and Jr. foreman Laveook, to workers whose various reliability and skill calls for them, since each worker has with time acquired differing skills and knowledge. Work is given strictly according to so-called 'pay levels', the levels being numbered 1-5 and the highest level 'master'. for level one (1) a worker receives approximately 68 rubles for work, level (2); a worker receives 79.50, for three; 90 rubles, for four; 105 rubles for five; 125 rubles and for masters about 150. These levels of pay vary slightly because workers receive a basic pay of, for 1st level, 45 rubles and bonuses bringing the total to 68 rubles, including reductions for taxes, the basic pay of a master is 90 rubles. Except in instances for poor quality work, bonuses are allways the same, giving use to a more or less definite pay scale, a worker may demand to be tested for a higher pay level at any time. Only skill is 'a barrier' to higher pay. The foreman and shop head all receive about 120 rubles basic pay but much higher bonuses are awarded to the best shops by the factory committee for good production standards.

Russia

Our shop head Shephen Tarasavich Velchok is a stout open faced and well skilled metal worker who, although he hasn't got a higher education which is now a prime requisition for even a foreman's job, he, managed to finish a 4 year night school specialty course and through the help of the director of the factory, Mr Ukavvich became shop head in an important segment of this large plant, employing 5,000 people. Shephen has an almost bald head except for a line of hair on the left side of his head, which he is forever combing across his shiny top. Aged 45, he is married with two children aged 8 and 10. It may be explained that Russians seem to marry much older than their American counterparts, perhaps that can be explained by the fact that in order to receive an apartment, people often must wait for 5 or 6 years and since security is so unstable, until a commonly desired goal is reached, that is, an apartment for oneself, most Russians do not choose to start families until later in life. Shephen is responsible to the factory committee and director for the filling of quotos and production quantity. His foreman Zomof is 38 years old, has a wife and 15 month old baby, not too long ago moved out of his one room flat without kitchen or private toilet, into a newly built apartment house and flat of two small rooms, kitchen and bath, a luxury not felt by most Russians. A tall thin man with dark creases in his face, his manner, nervous, spontaneous and direct, betrayes his calling. His job, keep the working on the premises going as quickly and efficiently as possible. His Assistant, Jr. Foreman Laveook, is much younger, ten year younger, enigmatic, handsome, quick, he climbed to his post through a night school degree and a sort of rough charm, which he instinctively uses in the presence of superiors. The shop's mainstay is composed of 17 so-called 'Shock workers' whose pictures hang on a wall near the stairs so that all might strive to imitate them. Usually of the 5 level or master class of workers, they are experienced at work and politics.

Most shock workers are men of the older aged groups 40-50, not always members of the communist party, they carry the production load and most of the responsibility of the interlife of the 'Kollective'.

The remaining 41 workers are divided about half into 18-22 year olds, new metal workers, trying to fulfill their obligatory two years at a factory, before going on to full time day studies at the local University, or one of the specialized institutes, and older workers who have been working at the plant for 4-6 years and occupy the middle number worker levels, 3, 4; these workers are aged about 24-30 and form the mass of laborers at the factory. 70% have families, apartments are few, most occupy rooms belonging to relatives or rooms let to rent by holders of two or three room apartments, often for as high as 20 rubles a month, although rent in the Soviet Union is paid by the sq. meter and 3, 15 meter rooms with kitchen and bath cost about 32 rubles a month. The housing shortage is so critical that people count themselves lucky to even find a person willing to let his room, room renting also is the most common form of speculation in the USSR. Often it reaches heights all out of proportion with reality, such as the man who derived 80 rubles a month from letting his rooms in the summer while he himself was living in a summer house or 'Dacha,' in the country. Such speculation is forbidden and carries penalties, including deportation to other economic areas of the USSR for terms of up to 6 months. Still these are the most common instances. Most workers in Minsk come from peasant stock, which re-populated the city at the end of the 2nd WORLD WAR. Like most Russians they are warm hearted and simple but often stubborn and untrustworthy.

The life of the 'Kollective' or rather inter-life, since it often touches upon more than just the work, is the most reflective side of the complex working of the Communist party of the USSR. It is the reflection of mass and organized political activity, deciding the actions of every individual and group, placing upon a society a course, so strict, so disciplined, that any private deviation is interpreted as political deviation and the enforced course of action over the years has become the most comprehensible educational and moral training system. . . . . the world.

To understand the work and workings of the 'Kollective' one must first ask who controls, who leads the 'Kollective'. The answer to that is a long one; all plants and factories in the Soviet Union have party committees, headed by one graduate of a higher party school whose function is to control discipline of members of the Communist party, and who, working in conjunction with the directors of the factory, controls all factors pertaining to the work, alterations and production of any given line. It must be noted that officially the party men occupies a position exactly equal to the head of any factory; however the facts point out that he has, due to the fact that Communist hold the leading positions in plants, considerable more sway over the activities of the workers than anyone else. No suggestion of the party man is ever turned down by the director of our factory, that would be president to treason. The party man is appointed by the H.Q. of the Central Committ of the Comm Party and in turn the party man designates who shall be shop and section party secretaries, a post well coveted by employed Communists. These Communists in reality control every move of 'Kollectives'. They are responsible for the carrying out of directives pertaining to meetings, lectures, and party activities in the local cells.

These meetings or Sabrania's are almost always held at the lunch hour or after working hours. The number of meetings of a strictly political nature is not small, considering that on an average 8 meetings are held a week and of these you have 'young Communist, party communist meeting', 'political information' and the 'school of Communist labor'. These are every week and are compulsory for all workers. Also monthly meetings, include 'Production meeting' 'General trade Union' 'Shop Committee' and 'Sport Meeting', none of these are compulsory. The numbers of meetings held a month average 20. 50% of these are political or by-political meetings. Meetings last anywhere from 10 minutes to two hours; usually the length of 'Political information meeting's held every Tuesday is 15 minutes. An amazing thing in watching these political lectures is that there is taken on by the listeners, a most phenominal nature, one impervious to outside interferance or sounds. After long years of hard fisted discipline no worker allows himself to be trapped and called out for inattentiveness by the ever present and watchful party secretary and members of the Communist party. This is mostly seen in political information or Central Comittee party directive readings. At these times it is best to curb one's natural boistrous and lively nature. Under the 6' by 6' picture of Lenin, founder of the Soviet State, the party section secretary stands. in our section a middle aged poched man by the name of Osobakin, an average looking man wearing glasses, his wrinkled face and twinkling eyes give one the impression that at any moment he's going to tell a racy story or funny joke, but he never does. Behind this man stands 25 years of party life. His high post, relatively speaking for him, is witness to his efficiency. He stands expounding from notes in front of him, the week's 'Information', with all the lack of enthusiasm and gusto of someone who knows that he has no worries about an audience or about someone getting up and going away.

PART III 'demonstrations'

In the same way, May Day and other 'demonstrations' are arranged as well as spontaneous receptions for distinguished guests. I remember when I was in Moscow in 1959 I was just passing in front of the Metropole restaurant when out of the side streets came a 10 man police unit which stopped all people on the street from passing in front of the entrance, surrounding the crowd and keeping them hemmed in (not detouring the flow of traffic, as would be expected) for 3 minutes, until right on schedul, an obviously distinguished foreign lady was driven up to the restaurant, where a meeting in her honor had been arranged. She was taken through the 'spontaneous' welcoming crowd, after which the police were withdrawn, allowing the passers by to continue.

Another instance of this was in 1961 when a Chinines delegation arrived in Minsk and was driven from the Railway station to a house on the outskirts of the city. Even though it was 10:30 at night all along the way members of the MVD (security) forces ran into apt. buildings and student dormatories ordering people out on to the streets to welcome the arriving guests.

Although there was no prior notice of any delegation, another 'spontaneous welcoming comittee met the calvacade of black limosines and dutifully waved back at the darkened cars with the slightly proturding yellowish waving hands.

I myself was visting friends in the forieng lanuage dormitory when Ive were called out for this purpose by a security agent. I went right along with all the others into the crowd and I know this story to be not only ture, but standard operating procedure.

At the Minsk radio factory, holiday demonstrations (there are two a year), May Day and Revolution Day, are "arranged in the following manner. Directives are passed down the communist party line until they reach the factory shop and mill 'Kollectives'. Here they are implemented by the Communist party secretary who issues instructions as to what time the demonstrators are to arrive, at the arrival point names are taken well in advance of the march so that late comers and absentees may be duly noted, neither one is allowed. At the collection point, signs, drumme's and flags are distributed and marchers formed in ranks. In the city of Minsk on such days, all roads are closed by driving trucks across them, except the prescribed route. This, as well as meticulous attention to attendance, insures a 90% turnout of the entire population. Stragglers or late risers walking through the streets may be yanked into the study stream of workers by the police or voluntary red armed 'people's militia', any one who argues may be subject to close investigation later on, the one thing to be avoided in any police state.

In roughly the same way, a 98% majority of the voting population is always funneled into voting for the one candidate for the one post, one party system, in the Soviet Union. Before State, Republic, or city elections, a 'agitator' calls at the residence of each and every person in the city; he inquiries regarding the numbers of eligible voters (voting age throughout the USSR is Sixteen years) Age, sex, place of work ect.. He insures that all eligible voters know, when, where and how to vote.) He can explain who are the candidates, although he is forbidden by law to canvass for one or the other, and insures the prospective voter that his name will be on the voting register, located at the poll, which he must sign before voting by secret ballot. At the voting poll after signing the register, a person receives a voting list with the names of all candidates for different posts. He may either place an X next to his choice or strike out any name he doesn't like or write in any name he wishes, names written into the ballot are counted but no one can be elected to any post or office in this manner, it may, however, mean that this person will be a candidate for a chosen post sometime in the future elections. All candidates are approved by the central committee of the Communist party, although a candidate does not necessarily have to be a communist party member (he may be non-party) the system in the USSR insures that no person rises to any heights at all without being approved by party, even if he has made an application for the party. At the 22nd Congress KPCU Kruscheff revealed that out of a population of million, 5 and one half million persons are member of the Communist party. That is less than 10% of the total population. Actually engaged in production, not counting children and pensioners, etc.

But in order to get to know the workers, how they think, act, hope and have lived, will take an example from the lower and middle and upper age groups. Starting with the lower.

Russia

Uusha Shklieavich, born in what is now south western Beleprussian territory; he is 24 years old, makes 90 rubles a month, without deductions, he is married and has a young baby. He and his wife live in a small room in a house, the property of his inlaws. He is on the waiting list for a small flat, 'hopes' to receive it in 'four or five years', hope's to enters the University night course next year so that he can become a radio engineer. He went to school during and after the war in the east where his family took him during the evacuation. Moved still further east after an all out attempt at a drive by the Nazi's in which his mother was killed. After finishing his schooling at the age of 19, like most Russian boys, he was drafted into the Army, served in Hungary when the Counter Revolution broke out as a jeep driver, when I asked him who started the war there, he says 'American Imperialists' and 'spies'. When asked who he killed he says 'he didn't kill anyone'. When asked who was killed during the Revolution he says 'Hungarians'. Asked what he thinks of that Revolution, he says 'It was a glorious victory by our forces'. Shklieavich also tells a story about how he was 'newly arrived with the occupation forces, was walking down the street when he came upon a group of young Hungarian civilians; one of them was a girl he says, and she looked at me so hard I thought she must of known me. One of the younger people came forward and asked for a match. Just then a Hungerian "people's policeman" came around the corner.' This probably what saved Shklieavich's life. The policeman shouted just as one of the younger people came up behind him and hit him on the head; when he awoke there were two of the group dead and the others ran away. Surely a revolution of spies and imperialists I jibed.

A picture of a different sort is that out by AKSONAVICH, mild mannered, he served his army service along time ago, on the Leningrad front during the war. Married for ten years, he has three children; aged 44 he has a hawk like nose, bushy eyebrows, profuse straw colored hair; he makes 115 rubles a month, lives fairly well, owns a television, radio and refrigerator in his two room flat with neighbors who share kitchen and bath, A very good arrangement for the Soviet Union. He pays 15 rubles a month rent, has a middle school education, had finished a metal workers course at night school at the night school facility of the University in 1958. He has been working at this plant for 5 years. A skilled tradesman, he is respected and is a member of the shop production committee. Non-communist, He believes in the Policies of the party as do almost all Russians. His hobby is fishing on the banks of the little creek near his home during the summer. Every morning he spends 20 minutes on a bus coming to work, this is the most inconvenient aspect of his otherwise simple and average life. Does he have money, personal belongings? 'No money, but I have an apartment'; that is the most important thing in life. People have been known to do odd, even unlawful things to get even a little higher on the houseing waiting list such as faking the ownership of a baby or two to get special rating. The opening of apartments houses is always done with a great deal of gusto and preparation. Indeed, for the lucky one's, receiving their orders on rooms and flats, it is a big moment, a moment culminating years of waiting and often years of manipulation, the lucky few get the word to move out of their old quarters, usually one room in oblong buildings, built after the war, which are mostly to be later torn down. As soon as a newly built house is ready, enough to support the rush of happy home owners, it is opened even though their may not be light fixtures or toilet seats just yet. What does that matter! In 1960 there were 2,978,000 living places built in USSR; USA, 1,300,000 including Hawaii and Alaska.

"One man whose family received a flat not long ago is Grisses. At our shop a master, a shock worker and a communist for many years, he is almost 60 years old. Now with dark but greying hair, long nose, and potruding check bones set under very old and weighted eyes, contesting to his long years as a laborer, a laborer with his hands. During the war Orisses, too old to be taken into the army in the first draft remained in Minsk with his wife when the Germans arrived, lived here for 8 months, until things got too hot for him, as it did for most of the remaining population who didn't support the Germans outright, he fled into the deep pine forest with his wife where he served with the famed Guerilla fighters; as is well known, these people held most of the territory of Belerussia during the entire 4 years of occupation by the Gernams of Minsk and other points in Belerussia. One day Orisses, in talking about the war rolled up his sleeve and showed me two unmistakable scars - bullet holes. When talking about Minsk during Germen occupation, one feels a trickle running allong the neck. There was a chimney in Minsk, he says, next to the crematorium. The smoke from that chimney was as black as death day and night, night and day, the smoke of that belching chimney never stopped rising over the ruined skeleton of Minsk. 90% razed to the ground, during the war with only three major buildings still standing after the war, opera house, government house and church. These buildings, all except the Church, which is now closed, are still in use.

PART IV

The reconstruction of Minsk is an interesting story reflecting the courage of its builders. In a totalitarian system great forces can be brought into play under rigid controls and support. The success of the Russian 'Sabootniks' is testimony to that. So also is the result of the reconstruction of Minsk and other cities of the USSR. This reconstruction is still, in part, going on but the design and structure of the city already gives no idea of the condition of the capital of the Belerussian State in 1945, Only 16 short years ago. The architectural planning may be anything but modern but it in the manner of almost all Russian cities.

"With the airport serving as its eastern boundary we find a large spreadout township in appearance, 1 city only. The skyline pierced with factory booms and chimneys betrays its industrial background township. I say in appearance, because, the tallest building here is the 9 story black apparatus house flanking the main street Prospect Stalin which is over 2 miles long and the only such Boulivard in the republice, all other streets are narrow rock laid streets, curving through the city like rivers of stone braching off the main street ending out at the other end by extensive parks. The design and contend of this prospect is very reflective of the life of this city, from north to south of this straight as an arrow vain of the city includes in the first two miles, the center district of the city, Hotel Minsk and the Main Post Office. The hotel was built in 1950 on the direct order's of Krushcev who was grieved at the fact that only one, old, delapidated, hotel existed at that time when he paid an official visit to this the capital of Bellerussia, the hotel was build in three months, a record for the entire Soviet Union, and has over 500 rooms a modern well serviced and built hotel, box shaped, it serves many tourist traveling from Germany and Poland through Minsk to Moscow.

"The post office handles all mail coming in and out of the city. Built in 1955, it has 4 columes at its entrance in the Greek style.

Next down the prospect are a clothing store and childrens store. The central movie house, the best one in Minsk seating 400 people in a small unventilated hall. Next to it stands a shoe store, across from it; the central beauty shop, the main drug store and a Uaspranon (Russion food store), furniture store. Next is the Ministory of Internal Affairs, whose boss is 'tough military Colonel Nickoley Aksonof, of the 'peoples militia', he holds the titel minister Internal Affairs. around the corner is his subsidarary, the KGB commiettee for Internal Security. (intelligence and Secret police. Across from the ministry is the ever crowed prospect book shop, across from this is the even more crowded resterunt, one of five in the city where for two rubles a person can can buy fried toung or plates of chicken with potatoes and fried cabbage, instead of just the 'Kotlets' (bread and ground meat patties) or snitsel with a little more meat and less bread and beef steak pure (ground beef patties served with potatoes and cabbage and sometime's macoroni. These are always served in workers dining room's and stand up cafes for they open at night). And sometime's, sweet rolls, coffee, and fall fruits, salads and tomatoes can also be bought.

Russia

Even trips to many cities of the Soviet Union is forbidden even to those who would like to travel their to see relatives. All cities above Leingrad towards the Finnish border fall into this catogory, Brest on the polish border, Odessa maine sea port down from this cafe called 'springtime is the bakery shop. Here for 13 Kopeck's a person can buy unwrapped bread (white), for 7 Kopecks sweet rolls of different kinds, 20 kopeks black bread (the black bread loaf is twice as large as the white is, therefore cheaper per kilogram and more in demand. Also black bread remains fresh for an exceptionally long time due to the hard crust.

"Across from this bakery shop is the confection place. Here is a kid's dreamland of sweets and chocolate, although owing to its climit chocolate costs 4 times as much as in the US (for four ounces one must pay 60 kopekcs. Chocolate is much in demand since Russians have a vicious sweet tooth. Here there is always a crowd. Further down we come to the only Department store in Minsk, the 'BUM', which means 'State Universal Store'. Here one may buy anything sold in the smaller specialized store's and sign on the list for refrigerators, vacuum cleaners, and even cars, none of which can be bought anywhere outright. The waiting list for refrigerations (112 mill. sold 1952-58) is three months; the same also for vacuum cleaners. For cars the waiting list is anywhere from 6 months to a year depending upon which of the three existing types one puts a down payment on. The 'Moskavich', which costs 2,500 rubles, is presumed to be the best, so the waiting list is almost a year for that; however the 'Victory' and 'Volga' are a little cheaper and so one can expect it after only a 6 or 7 month wait; cars are bought more or less to order, here. Their styles are not very impressive. The Moskavich looks like a box on wheels, while the Volga looks like a 1938 Studebaker which, by the way, is what it is modeled after, 'American' prewar aid'.

Motorcycles and television sets can, however, be bought on the spot for ready cash. A good high powered motorcycle costs 350 rubles and their quality is apt to be better than the more complex automobile; television sets cost anywhere from 80 rubles for a 6 inch by 6 inch screen to 350 rubles for a well made television of 22 inche screen. Other models, light table models, cost 190 and 145 rubles. Here ready made suits of rough material can be bought. The cheaper, a double breasted blue for 110 rubles or a better made three button suit for 50 rubles and _____ costs 40 rubles or a pair of pants for not less than 15 rubles. There are few cheap ones, however, in stock. They usually cost 30 rubles.

Just before we come to 'Stalin Square' the end of the central district along the Prospect, we find the two 'Automats' or stand up cafes. These cafes are located across the prospect from one another, the Internal and External structure is exactly the same in each, both places serve the same dishes at the same prices. Why these were not built at opposite ends of the Central District or even the Square, for instance, is not known. Although it would of course be more convenient. The reason is that the architectural plans for all the cities in the Soviet Union, come directly from Moscow, which, as one can imagine, is a big responsibility for the architec - since, in the USSR, one pays for a mistake with one's head, it seems that the logical reason for the outmoded archit. is that in building the street so it is the simplest, it is therefore safest way. Another characteristic and interesting structure in Minsk is the trade union building. This houses an auditorium, offices for the training and costuming of the amateur group's who perform here periodically and a small dance hall. There is not, as one might assume, an office of any trade union. They do not exist as we know them, (since strikes or negotiations for higher pay or better working conditions are not allowed, of course; suggestions may be made by any worker but these all are handled through the local Communist factory committee and are passed along or shelved as it suits the committee's) An imposing structure, it looks like a Greek temple with figures atop the V shaped roof supported by large white marble columnes all around. However, a close look reveals not naked Greek gods but, from left to right, a surveyor complete with scope, a bricklayer holding a bucket, a sports women in track suit, and a more symbolic structure of a man in a double breasted suit holding a brief case, either a bureaucrat or an intellectural, apparently.

The rest of the prosepect for the remaining miles is enclosed with the so familiar square shaped 5 storied apartment houses ending at Victory Square; it may be that at the present time 60% of all living is in apartments. In 20 years 90% of all living quarters will be in these many storied barracks. The building spree is in full swing, although at the 22nd congress, Krushev announced that so many building projects were started in 1960-1961 that for a year after the finish of the Congress only special important projects will be allowed to be began in order to give a chance for the completion of sites already started, this is not the only reason, for the demand for raw materials and prefabricated parts far exceeds the supply and in desperation Krushchev called a halt to the construction plans of the present 7-year plan. This means, expecially on apartments, for which there is a dire need.

Most factory workers do not consider themselves in line for an apartment even even if they are on the list for at least 4 years. Their estimates are based on experience.

'Tourists'

At the 22nd party Congress Krushchef, in his 7 hour key note speech (which was, for all practical purposes, the only speech, since all others followed in support of the first speech) revealed that in 1960 700,000 people in the Soviet Union went abroad. This is a gross over-estimate, including engineers and technicians sent abroad, which make up 20% of this total. All others are delegations of Intelligent students, all scientific workers. The 250,000 'tourist' who do manage to go abroad are carefully selected from applicants, the main requisite is, 'is he loyal and politically prepared?' Any worker at our plant could apply for a tourist trip under the "limited number rules' applying to delegations; for 140 rubles he can go to China for two weeks from Minsk or for 80 rubles go to Chekoslovakia, for more if he passes the requisitions he can even get to England, the hitch is (1) that he must be OK'd by the Comm-Bureau; (2) he must account for the presence of excess money, since speculation is not allowed in the USSR; (3) he must leave behind close relatives, preferably a wife and children, or mother and father; this last is actually the most important. The Russians know that a person will not ordinarily leave a delegation or group of tourists to seek asylum if he knows he'll never see his family again, not alive anyway. Individual tourist who go abroad when and where they went to, because of their own desire is unknown in the Soviet Union. Passports abroad are issued only after a 6 month exlaustive investigation by the K.G.B.

"Even trips to many cities of the Soviet Union is forbidden even to those who would like to travel their to see relatives all cities above Leingrad toward the Finnish Border fall into this catogory, Brest on the Polish border, Odessa mai seaport. Some citys in the Urichrain and Siberia conectd with industry all cities along the Southern border of the USSA from Moldovia to India are forbidden without a pass, all cars, trucks and other private vechles are stopped at police check points to these areas. train and plane and bus terminals are not allowed to sell tickets to these places without being shown a passport o being shown a valid pass whose owners address is in the forbidde city, persons already living in these cities may travel freely to and from the, however, they may not bring others in with out pass passes are given out by the local K. G. B. offices, and one must apply directly to it.

"It may be explained that in the Eastern European custom all citizens upon reaching the age of 16 years are given a grey-green 'passport' or identification papers. On the first page is a foto and personal information, on the following 4 pages, are places for the registering of address, this including rented rooms, on the next four pages are places for making paticular remarks as to the conduct of the carier, a place better kept blank, the next three pages are for registering the places of work, then the next page is for marriage license and divorce stamps; these 'passprts' are changed for a small chrage every five years, a lost passport can be replaced after a short investagation for 10 rubles, all persons regardless of nationality are required to carry those at all times in the Soviet Union nationalities are allso marked on the passport, for instance a Urakranion is Urakrinuian, a Jew is "marked Jew no matter where he was born.an immigrant is marked as to place of birth, as in the cases of the many immigrants in the U.S.S.R. also on these pages. marked for special remarks usually of a criminal nature, immigrants have a short autobiography painted such as, Carlos Ventera, born in Buenas Aires, 1934, resident Buenas Aires till 1955, occupation student, immigrated to U.S.S.R. 1956. This is enough to insure any and all who reads the passport that, Carlos, along with any other of his fellow immigrants will be given the proper treatment and attention, so that he never gets to far away from his registered address, without a good reason or too high at his work. But otherwise. immigrants in the U.S.S.R., a relativly few French, Spanish, and Eastern European, are treated with more respect than the Russians treat each other, particulary in the matter of being awarded an apartment, any immigrant, no matter how unimportant he may have been in his native country, has much 'less' to worry about conserning getting an apartment and being assigned to work, than his Russian born conterport, this is part of the nation wide drive to impress all foreingners as to the high level of life in the U.S.S.R.

"Twelve miles outside of Moscow is a 'show' collective farm for foreign tourist, who ask to see a genuine, average collective farm, on it, is almost every imaginable help to man possible, including automatic milkers, feeders, even automatic floor cleaners. The collective farms at this place along with their conterparts at the same sort of place south of Leingrad, have well built apartment houses with food and clothing stores built right into the first floors.

"For the benifit of everyone who doesn't want to be duped, I suggest you take the Moscow to Breast highway for 24 miles until you come to Uesteech where by asking directions you can in five minutes find a real collective form, a village of the small black mud and scrape wood houses, seen throughout the Soviet Union and although its 50 minutes form the Kremlin it doesn't have electrecity "or gas. Inside plumming is unknown and the only automation is that done with a broom. There are 45,000 collective farms in the Soviet Union of these types as well as 7,400 State farms run directly by the government. Collective farmers and their families number 65.5 million people or 31,4% of the total population.

"True, the collective farmers may own chickens or pigs or even a cow, as well as his own piece of land, usually ¼ of an acre, but the isolation and agonizingly hard work in summer and fall affects these 'advantages'. Nowadays, although still without electricity 'collective farms' have wire fed radio programs and speakers in every home, this is part of the propaganda system instigated by Stalin to 'bring the culural level of outlying collective farms up to the level of the city dweler therefore although their are no lights there is always the incessant blar of the loudspeakers." School attendance for the children of collective farmers is cumplusey as it is for all children up to the age of maturity, that is up to the age when they recieve their passports, sixteen. Public schools are in general box shaped 3 story affairs with no particular decloration. teachers recieve 80 rubles a month in these general educational institutions, disciple from the student's viewpoint is strong. starting school at 7 years he is taught to keep his pinoeer school costume, which all students must wear, in neat apperance, is thought to stand rigidly at attention when any adult enters the room or when the teacher asks a question. His studies, particuly foreign languages, are apt to be harder and more complex then their American counterparts science is also stressed as well as patriotism and Soviet history. An attitude towards his studies of complete seriousness is instilled in him at an early age and young Russian students are apt to appear rather made bookish than Americans.

"Since most women work for a living in the U.S.S.R. (with or without husbands) they usually leave their non-school age children in the care of the local 'childrens garden' these are "highly organized state created care centers for childrens. Here babies are fed and cared for, their health is checked periodicatly by doctors; diets are recommended and baths given, all for 30 rubles a month. Young children are given pre-school preparation by trained day school teachers who recieve 50 rubles a month in pay. A director of such a school may recive 100 rubles a month 3,050,000 children in 1960 were cared for by these establishments. After the U-2 incident on May 1, 1960 and the following exchanges between the American government and the Soviet governments, Premier Kruschev invited then President Eisenhower to come to the Soviet Union and become director of one of these 'childrens gardens'. Since, he said in a speech at the Krimlin in July 1960, Eisenhower doesn't know how to run his country.

"Public care centers for young and old are an established principle in the U.S.S.R. thousands of neat homes, sanitoriums and hospitals are scatted around the Black and Caspion Seas, the 'resort area' of the Soviet Union. For any worker to get a reservation for one off these places he should apply to the factory comittee for a 'Pitovroo' or ticket reservation, after showing that he has the right to his three weeks vacation, (30 days for persons engaged in dangerous occupations or mining) he may buy the 'Petovkoo' from Minsk to the Black Sea, Yalta resort area, for three weeks at a cost of 70 to 100 rubles, depending on class of service available, if a member of the trade unions (a worker pays 1% of his pay earning as dues a month) he may only have to pay 50% of the total cost, if it is at a trade union built house of rest or Republician Sanitorium service at these places included three good balanced meals a day, the attenion of doctors and nurses, sports and sailing facilities, private beaches and excursions and all necessaties.

"More modest wallets can, howerver, aford journies to rest homes nearer home, in the case of Minsk, to Zhdonovich located in pine forest three hours from Minsk here the same services minus the beaches, fruit and sun can be had for as little as 25 rubles for two weeks.

"Other rest homes include Liovod and Narock located 100 miles north-west of Minsk on the shores of 20 mile long, lake Narooh, deep in the pine forest of Belerussia, where hare-hunting and fishing can be had as well as the usual rest home services for 35 or 40 rubles by any workers whose vacation time comes up. The only is restriction is sometimes lack of space, especially in summers, but that is not an obstacle to one who plannes in advance. Russian workers all ways take advantage of these cut prices and fairly good services to escape the rigors and dust of their factories at least for a while anyway. The capital of Beloussian has 12 institutions of higher learning including a university and polytechnical institution. These institution are engaged in turning out highly trained specialist for the national ecomony. The city has many secondery schools, colleges, vocational and factory schools. These schools teach a rigious 5 year course of vocational and political subjects. five year course of vocational and pditicial subjects. Hostels for students are located near their respective Institutes, non-residential students live here. Often these numbers exceeds the rooms and many have to rent rooms in the city. All rooms 15-15 feet house 5-6 students with just enough room to allow metal beds to be placed around the walls and a table and chairs in the middle, there is not room enough for closets so clothing is kept in suitcases under beds. Here, except during the three-month summers vaction, students live and study for 5 years. Common rooms with stoves, are also located at the rate of 1 room to 8 student living quaters for cooking the clean-lines of line, and rooms as well as the entire dormitory falls upon the students. The number of students in the U.S.S.R. in 1960-61 was 2,396,000 U. S. figure 1,816,000 or 102n per 10,000. Al students in higher educational institution receive 'stipends' or grants of money at the rate of 40 rubles a month, regardless of chosen vocations, for excellant to outstanding grades a student may recieve the maximen of 50 rubles per-month. Thus all students are paid to study in the Soviet Union, unlike the United States where students must pay tuition to learn. This is the reason why

"the Soviet Union turns out almost three times as many engineers 159,000 in 1959, twice as many agronimist 477,200, technichens and other specialist, this is why the Soviet Union has more doctors per 10,000 of population (18.5) in (1960) than any other country in the world (USA. (12.1).1960) regardless of the lack of dormitories and aisied living conditions of the students, that we have in the U.S., we could definitly learn from the regious and highly specialized educational system of the Soviet Union. A system which jointly and carefully instills political as well as vocational training into each and every student just as at the factorys and plants, each and every institute has its corps of party chiefs, sectional and class, for teachers and professors as well as for students.

"At the 22nd Congress in October 1961. Krushchev, prohasized that by 1980 1 out of every 5 persons living in the Soviet Union will have a higher education, this is a unheard of figure, but it is possibal under the system in the Soviet Union.

"Foreign languages also hold postitions of favority in the Soviet Educational plan. Much more so then in the U.S. in sientific fields of vocation, two foreign languages are compulsory over a five year period, in enginering and also medicine at least one language is complusory. The studied languages in order of importance and popularity are, English, German, French, Italian and Spanish with far Eastern Languages following. The text books from which these languages are learned are very interesting in themselfs, they combine politics and education at once, a very common occurance. An example is that texts in English or German for instance are given on the life of Lein, founder of the Soviet Union, formally the life of Stalin was a favored subject to fill a text book, these books are no longer in circulation. A good text book for English speaking students studing Russian is the one by Nina Potronova, chairman of the U.S.S.R. society of

"Friendship with the United States and England. This book published in 1959 by the Moscow publishing house Lulovski Blvd. 29, Moscow is a good stare for anyone interested in the highly expressive Russian language, political texts are kept to a minimium in this book and only make up about 20% of the text. Most of the millions of text books printed in the Soviet Union every year are published at the Central Moscow publishing house a truely gigantic and monopolistic enterprize printing (69,000 titles in 1959 and 1,169,000,000 copies) here foreign books are printed in the Russian language and others into anyone of the 100 of languages of minority groups in the U.S.S.R. 90% of the population of the U.S.S.R. speak Russian, however national languages are protected and propagated by law, of the 208,827,000 million people in the Soviet Union 114,114,000 count Russian as their national language next is Urkarnians 37,253,000 and Belerussians 7,913,00 and Ubekastans 6,015,000. The remaining population figures are destruibuted among 18 minory, and 60 fractional groups. Some of which have as few as 4,000 people speaking the tongue. Also there are 60,000 persons in the Soviet Union who are not of Soviet origin, of these the leaders are Ygoslaves 5,000: Albanions 4,800: Afgans 1,900: Uangols 1,800, Italians 1,200, Frenchmen 1,000, Spanish 1,000, and Argentines (estimated) 4,000. Since the figures fro Argentine immigrants is not given in the 1960 figures for the Soviet Union pages 74-75. 50% cent of all the 69,000 titles printed in the U.S.S.R. in 1959 were technical or industrial text books. Only 20% of these titles were for light reading, of these most concerned war stories reflecting the struggle and victory of the Soviet armed forces over the Nazis during the 2nd world war as well as herioc novels about opening up the Virgin lands in Siberia and the wild country East of the Urals. As was described by Eraving Levine in his book 'Main Street U.S.S.R.' Love stories are few and far between with them apt to be 'boy loves - tractors - loves girl' episods or how Ivan increased production at his machine to win the admiration of Natasha, the shop foreman. Foreign novels are very popular in the "U.S.S.R. because of their comparitably racy lines, however foreign writers seem to be chosen because they write about the decay and immorality of their respactive country. Every foreign book seems to be chosen to show that if capitalism isn't dead or dying it should.

"American authors include, Jack London, Ernest Heminway and others. Some of these writers are often very popular in the U.S.A. but not for the same reasons, Jack London wrote what we consider adventure stories while the Russians consider them to be reflective of present day life, Earnest Hemingway, wrote 'old man and the Sea' a deeply touching story of mans struggle against nature and the sea, while here it is considered an indictment of capitalist society although Hemingway, unlike Jack London, was never a Socialist.

"For a person reading detective stories by foreign writers one gets a very depressing feeling and is overwhelmed by the greyness and dullness of the life depicted in them, other foreign authors include Leonard Frank, German novilist; William Goodwin, 'Things As They Are' English; and more classical writers such as Alexander Drue 'Count Margo' French author, 'Sherlock Holmes and Captain Blood' are also known and read in the U.S.S.R. but such titles are few and hard to find. Dickens however is in profusion. wherever one goes. Mark Twain books are also found in quanity such novels of 300-400 pages sell for 1.50 rubles or less. Spy stories rank high in fiction publication and therefore, are popular with the plots more often then not American or West German spies ~~chased~~ captured in the end by the young, handsome, Soviet courter espionage agent.

All Foreign

"Newspapers and magazines are also a giant undertaking with the printing if not the information agencies, less centratized and controlled. In 1959 periodicals and magazines mumbered 4,029 titles and 10,000,000 copies.

"Newspapers numbered 10,603 trade Union, Republican and city and collective farms papers, with 13 and one half billion copies. Foreign newspapers are not allowed in the country accept representive communist party papers such as the 'Worker' United States, 'Daily Worker', England, 'Humanity' France, 'New Germany' East Germany, 'the Daily Berliner', West Germany, ect.

"The main publications in the U.S.S.R. are 'Pravda, Truth' organ of the communist party of the U.S.S.R. and Isvestia 'The News' organ of the council of ministers of the Soviet Union, it may be noted that the chairman of the council of ministers and the first secretary of the communist party of the U.S.S.R. is one man, Nikita S. Krushchev. All Republican and city newspapers take their que from these two leading dailies, reprinting articles passed to them by TASS, Soviet news agency, government controlled. All newspapers are organs of one or another ministry or their subsideraries. In Minsk the newspapers are 'Soviet Belerussia' organ of the central comittee of the communist party of Belerussia, a sport newspapers are the organ of the ministry of phyisical cultur. railroads newspapers is the organ of the ministry of transport, and ect. The name of the organ of concrol is printed at the top of the first page: Russian newspapers from 'Pravda', right on down consist of four pages except on spie events where the number is increased from four pages for two kopecks to six pages for three kopecks. Advertising is unknwon and unnnecessary in a government controlled economy where prices are rised and lowered as the 7-year plan. Flucuatats up and down. The first page in all Soviet language newspapers is developed to party news and speeches. The second to production notices and local industrial acheivments such as the opening of a new dam as the overfulfulling plans at a plant. The third page is filled with foreign news items. Often covered and credited to A.P. or ruters news agencies, they usually concern stikes and clashes with police, crime and race incidents in capitalist "countries as well as other 'News', slanted to give a bad im-ers presstion about all countries except those who are members of the Socialist camp or their follow traverlers such as Cuba who are painted as properous democraries fighting against Imperilizism from without, and capitalist spies and agents from within.

"Films carry the propaganda ball where books and newspapers leave off, with 90,872 movie houses in the U.S.S.R. with collective farm clubs bringing the toatl to 118,000 movie houses; the average number of times a Soviet citizen goes to the movies, per year, including men, women, and children is 16.5 times (page 319.) There is a joke current in the Soviet Union as to why N. S. Krushechev received his thired hero of the Soviet Union, medal, highest order in the Soviet Union, the answer is for his part in the film 'Our Nikita Krushechev', a documerty circulated in the summer of 1961, of old films, showing Krushechev in his younger days as a commisar on the Eastern front or touring Industries after the war. Half of the hundreds of films made in 1959-1960 were either Revolutionary historial or war stories, others were Virgin land or far North adventure stories, most every Republic has its own studio which shot pictures concerning their respective places. In Belerussia its the Bele films on 'Soviet Street' it employs scores of operators, technicians, writers, costume films but no permanent (non-Amaute) actors all of these have finished the artist and operators higher school of film making in Leingrad, a 3-or four year course and have diplomas in their respective fields. During the week of October 9-15 the following movies were showen in Minsk 'Too Live', revolutionary film on the 1917's 'Clear Sky' the film presented at the film festival in Moscow in July 1961, which took 1st place. A film about the post Stalin Era, it candemes repression of the main charcter an ex-prisoner of war who is driven out of the party because he didn't die as all good soldiers must. but was captured instead. This film is very symbolic of the new government line condeming some of the tacties of 'Stalin and his

"click. 'The Fair' a West German film against militarism and 'The Poor Street' a Bulgarian film about the resitance in the 2nd World War.

"Foreign films make up quiet a large percentage of movies shown here since the young Soviet film industry is not well subsidized and cannot turn out half of the demand for films.

"German, Italian, and French films as well as more numerous films from the 'peoples republics' are popular here. American films are few, although well liked for their technical skill and production. American films shown in 1959-1960 were; 'Rapsody' with Elizbeth Taylor, 'Eve' with Joan Crowford 'The Seventh Vogage of Sinbab' made in 1959 and 'Serende of Sun Valley, made in the 40's others were 'Viena Waltz' about the life of the composer and 'Old Man and the Sea', a technicolor film of Ernest Hemingway's book. 'war and Peace' was also shown to vast audiences in two serials. Col.f

"Prices for seats in movie houses, unlike the United States change for adults and children and also for the location of rows with the center rows costing 50 kopecks in the evening and front row seat 30 copecks. Show is until 5 o'clock are 10 kopecks cheaper per seat, until the prices change. Showing's are at posted times on the tickets and doors are opended for only five minutes while spectators take their designated seats. Nobody even has to stand because tickets are sold only according to the number of seats in the hall, per showing.

"Television is organized and shown in order not to interfere with work in industries. Monday to Fridays programs start at 6:00 in the evening, quite enough to allow any work to get home in time for the start but not enough to allow him to take time off to "watch television or become a television addict as we have in the U.S. Programs finish at 11:00 in the evening so that all the workers can get enough sleep. On Saturday they start at 3:00 to compensate for the shop work day and end at 12:00 or 12:30, Sundays programs start as early as 10:30 in the morning and end at 12:00 o'clock. Programs are varied but include as all ways, more that 33 percent pure Soviet politics, but often their are good films, re-runs of movies and cartoons for the kids, the best programs however of all are the ballet preformaces from Moscow and Leingrad, Bolshovi theaters, also snyphomic music concerts are often used to break the monotous run of politics and dry facts and figures. A show for a Sunday evening is like the one show in Minsk on October 22, 1961, 6:30 sports 7:25 Soviet army show 8:25 a feature lenght film 'Baltic Sky' 2nd part 10:30 'at the 22nd Congress of the Communist Party of the Soviet Union' 'news' (31 11.00 performance by people artist of the U.S.S.R. G. Glebove, who sings songs of the mother land, 11:50 news and 12:00 sign off with the playing of the National Athem and the athem of Belerussia. Television however is not a farce as it is in the U.S., because of the poor programs and the cost of television, a good one cost 350 rubles and the light table modles for 190 rubles rarely bought in, are quickly bought up. There were 103, 200 television sets in Belerussia in 1960. The really penetrating voice of mordern socity comes from radio, cheap and extensive it is the means by which the Kremlin reaches into every nock and crany to the most out-lying collective farms or villiages. While 3 million television sets were sold from 1952-1958 in the Soviet Union (facts and figures page 343) over 29 million radio sets were sold and this figures is brought up considerably when one considers the fact that hold collective farms which may not have a radio in the place have programs fed to reproductors in each home from points many miles away in keeping with the general plan to bring the culutaral level of these collective farms up. And in the Soviet Union there are 45,000 collective farms and

"7,400 State farms with 65,500,000 people on them or 31.4% of the total population (facts for 1961 page 27). So radio may be said to be the all encomposer programs start in Minsk at 600 and may end so late at 2:00 however 24 hours a day broadcast are made to all parts of the Soviet Union from Moscow, there are 18.5 million radios and reproducors in Belerussia which can turn all stations to its one channel in a matter of minutes, this was when Gagárin made his Epoch making trip into space, the entire Soviet Union was blanked out with nothing but reports and intermittent music, for a solid day in this way the Government gets the most propoganda value out of its achievments. Again when Herman Titov made his flight for two days this process was repeated. Also all stations are immidiately turned to the Kremlin whenever Preimer Krushev makes a policy speech all stations in the Soviet Union are regulary turned every hour on the hour to the 'news' from Moscow, unlike the U.S.A. where small independent station can operate, the Soviet Union regiously imposes controll over all it state broadcasting stations which, like industries, are all state financed and built. The radio and television station in Minsk is on four stored cement building located at no. 6 Kalinina Street near the (small River 'SVISHLICH', behind it stands the impressive 500 feet steel radio towers, the highest structure in Belerussia, This radio tower and building are enclosed with high fences and patrolling armed guards with a dog, Entrance into the courtyard must be through the building itself and persons cannot enter without a special pass shown to an armed guard preformers are taken to a separate studio near the city center where production and preformers are fed back to the station and them to the broadcasting towers, in this way the all important communication systemis guarded against sabatage or 'take overs' of the sort often achieved by Latin Aerican counter-revolutionary and mel-contents elements.

"Near the television tower, 4 blocks east on 'Dolga-broadekay' Street. stands two more towers approximately 200 feet "high each, they are not engaged in braodcasing, quite the opposite in fact, these very apparent land marks with high power cables strung between them, are jamming towers, used to blank out high frequency broadcast from aboard, the main target of these jamming towers is the Munich and Washington transmitters of the 'Voice of America' programs, although they are sometimes employed to diserupt the B.B.C. and French broadcast in Russian. These towers are likewise guarded by armed guards and entrance to the wire enclosed block house and tower area is forbidden except by passes. The amount of voltage used by these towers is known to be tremendous when one considers that needed lighting at work places is only grudingly turned on even on the cloudy days, it is ironical and sad to think of the tremendous waste and efforts the Soviet government goes too in order to keep other peoples ideas out. But the jamming frequiences are only half those of the 'Radio Moscow' propaganda programs which may be heard on any short wave radio in the United States and without jamming. these 'Radio Moscow' programs insure peoples in 81 countries that the Iron Curtain no longer exists, never did exists, and is in general a ficticious slander against the Soviet Union though up by reactionarys, sich!!

"Opera is also a favorite entertainment in the U.S.S.R. with 32 operas and ballet houses throughout the 15 republics. As compared with one in the United States, the metropatltan opera house in New York, that is because the Russians have their own operas written by their own Russian composers, while we have none. Here any person can tell you about such splended operas as 'Reiglo' 'the Clown', 'Queen of Spades', 'Traviate' while in the U.S. most citizens are sadly lacking in this field of art due not to the falicity that we are uncultured as the Russians think, but do to the fact that we simply do have the facilites to put such productions on. Although their are those who prefer to remain tied to their T.V.'s and comedy shows.

"Comedy and drama theater number 53 with 11 in Belerussia. Plays are put on by amature and professional groups in the Russian language or the languages of the republics. In Minsk the Belerussian drama theater on 'VOIADARSKAYA' street has a troop of 55 professionals earning from 90 to 140 rubles a month putting on 4 plays a week in the Belerussian language. Sets and cosutme are always well made in any productions I saw, but the scripts are apt to be over loaded with politics in the dramas.

"Musems exist for the education and learning of the population, of these; 26 are historical Revolutionary 89 historical, 171 memorial (the house of shikovski in Moscow near the American embassey) 421 of local or reginal interest, and 122 art museums as well as 68 more of different kinds bringing the total to exactly 907. There are 37 in Minok. In the year 1959, 43 million people visited these places of interest as well as 7,200,000 people who visited the famous permanent exibition of Soviet achievements in Moscow's 'SKOLHIKEY' park. Here a hugh display covering 25 acres was set up in 1955, it advertizes real and immagira progress for tourist and Russians alike. In it are spudniks and jet airliner a tractor exhibition housed in a buildign 300 feet long housing and industrial samples, the light consume industry is shown more as the Russians would like it to be then as it is. With pocket radios (there are none made in quantity in the U.S.S.R.) Automatic washing machines with two spinners (from 1952-1958) there were 1.2 million made and sold all simply one spinners) and modern vacum cleaners (1950-1958 500,000 sold) however this doesn't keep Russioans from hoping that some day these things will be in mass-production, undoubtly they shall be) another means of distrubating propaganda are thought the acitpunks, or in English 'agitation points' these are located at desks or in small offices open 16 hours a day, they are manned by 'volunteer' communist and young communist party members. They are for the distrebution of pamphlets, bulletins and other party literature, for the more or less informal meetings of groups of communist party members. Formed in the early 1920's they were then points of armed workers located near to each other who would could down 'white' uprising or conviently arrest anyone "in the neighborhood. Now there funktions have slightly changed but its still known that any pary member may come in and report disloyal comments at an unguarded moment on the part of any citizen, there is always a telephone handy here. In Minsk there are only 12 movie houses. but 58 agitpunks in the telephone books, they can be recognized at a distance by red flags and banners dropped over the doors and windows of the respective building.

"The Young Communist League or YCL embraces all young people from the age of 16, until they out grow the childrens pioneer league 90% of all person's between the ages of 16 to 26 belong to this organization, although they may attane communist party membership as early as 19 or 20 years. Signed on as soon as they receive their 'passport' at 16, they recive a YCL pary ticket and must pay a small due of 70 or 80 copecks a month. After this they are obligied to attendent YCL meetings, go on harvesting trips on week ends during the fall to collective farms to help bring in the potato and grain, and to keep their studies up to high standards. a violation of conduct or refusal to tow the line will result in explusion from the league and is a block to personal progress in the Soviet Union since membership is considered a reference in hiring in factories or institution. Reveiwing request for a place at higher educational insitutions, but expulstions are fairly common about 20% being expulsed before reaching the age where they may be chosen for communist party membership. A young student may become rather popular and powerful by being elected to the post of YCL secretrry in his class at school or at work. A sure way to success is to remain at this post in ones' local school or institute keeping high standards of marks and discipline until chosen for party membership. In this way young people get a taste of what the Party can do for them if they have the right attitude. At our shop the YCL secretary is Arkadia_____ a tall handsome langy Russian of 24 with a broad grin. He reminds one of a Texas or Oklahoma boy, his father is a minor beurekrat while his mother works as a nurse-----Therefore they have a full three room apatment. His brother also a YCL member is the youngest and last member of this family group. Arkadia has worked at this favtory for years after serving his 3 years in the navy in the Black Sea. He was only recently elected to the post of YCL secretary in our shop after the former person recieved CP membership, usually an easy-going "fellow if you don't get him rallied, he takes his YCL duties seriously, collecting dues on every other pay day (which are on the 5th and 20th of the month) of 1% of the total paycheck, of 1% of 80 rubles. 80 copecks he checks off names and is responsible for tuhring in the cash to the factory YCL comittee. He is responsible for posting directives handed down by the YCL facotory committee and for helping to draw up the list of Droozhniks who shall have the duty during this month, Droozhniks are 'volunteer' civilins who patrols streets and parks as peace and order keepers, they are given a special card which they carry and when on duty wear red arm bands, they help to subsidize the police in its more routine work, Such as walking a beattin a usually quite district. Droozhniks always walk in groups of threes and fours aften women and girls are seen in this capacity, this custom is relatively new and is not genrally used except on Saturdays and Sundays, when there are boistrous groups as teenages and a large number of drunks to be seen. Both these types of groups are on the downgrowth at least partly due to these 'volunteer' efforts. Besides helping to draw up the list of Droohniks is their respective shops the YCL secretary is expected to set high examples of work and political 'prepariness' to their fellow members and tb help the shop and section leaders get to know his workers.

"In Minsk the young communist headquators is a long grey cement 4 story building on 'Kpasnoarmi' street or in English 'Red Army Street' inside, the building is honey combed with 200 rooms, an "auditorium and meeting hall. Three hundred people are permantly employed here to do the work of the YCL, also, here is the central committee of the YCL of Belerussia, they review cases of explusition and direct YCL party organization the actual political influence of this commity is almost nothing compared to the central comm. YCL in all cities are directed by the CP headquarters in their respective cities. The headquarters of the central committee of the CPB is located on 'Karl Marx St.' a 8 storied yellow metal and brick sturcture it is a rectangular shaped with straight shape lines and almost none of the gaudy decoration found on most buildings in the city, 'the first secretary of the central committee of the CP of Belerusia' is the impossing title carried by a short stocky man in his late 50's K.T. Mazoorof. Rarely seen on the streets he and his family occupie a huge 8-room apartment on the top floor of a government apartment house on prospect Stalin, Entrance to this apartment building is guarded night and day by one uniformed policeman who checks passes and keeps unauthorized persons out, here is also the residence of several minister's such as, Minister of Education; M. B. Poroshebed and Minister of Adminsteration E. Zhezhel. Mazoorof controls and directs all activies in his republic with authority no United States Governor has ever enjoyed, while his authority cannot be controlled or challenged by court orders or injunctions as it often is in the United States. Mazoorof is responsible directly to Moscow and the party Pesiduem chairmened by Krushchev. He appears in the reviewing box in the center of his cronies, on May 1st and November 7th holidays, where waveds a congenial hand occasionally, without the trace of a smile. He isn't elected to his post in a general election any more than Krushchev is elected to the post of premier, but rather appointed from the members of the supeam Soviet of the Republic who are elected on the one candiate ticket which is prepared and authorized in the first place, by the central committee of the cummunist party of the respective republics, therefore the central community choses the members of the supeam Soviet from whose members replacements for vacated seats in the central commity are filled. "Union or expulsion from the party' under the party constitution, government procedure, in the central committee. Corroption in the U.S.S.R. takes a major form in embazzeling and greasing of palms as in any purely Buarcratic sociaty. In 1961 the death penalty for embazzelment of States funds in large sums was renacted as an answer to wide spread pillfering of goods, crops and embazzeling of money and State Bonds. On any collective or State farm there is a certain per cent of State goods illegally appropriated by the collect farmers for their own private use to make up for low wages and therefore low living conditions, often sold to private individuals, stores or at the open market type of bazzars. These goods may consist only of a pillfered lamp or piglet or may run in scores of sheep or cows hidden in backwater swamps or thick pine forest and sold by the appropriator picemeal, or in wholesale lots to crooked store supervisors, who are supposed to buy state meats and crops at government prices, but who pocket the differences of prices from the balck market without making entrances in their books that such merchandise was brought for State prices. Such practices are so common that without them many stores would be all most empty if they had to relie on the sporatic, poor quility meats brought in from the State slaughter houses at high prices. The directorship of even a small fruit or milk store opens up wide oppurtunies for lukritive enterprizing by person with a slight bussness sense, it is almost impossible for the authorities to act on such going on because of difficulties in obtaining proof in acceptable amounts since such going on are usually in small amounts. Materials such as electric appliances, dining (illegible) are often ridden with speculation which often leads to poor goods or bad foods brought in and sold under the counter examples are horse meat used to subsidize a "beef stew". Most of the buracratic apparatis can be detoured by a well placed 10 spot, persons occupieing most of the housing ministry and passport and visa offices, expect remunaration for the life and death services which all Russians seek namely - to receive permission for an apartment, and official visas to live in such an apartment, and cumpulsery laws in the Soviet Union without a city "visa" stamp a person cannot work in that city. Once a postion or work is decided or taken it is a very difficult prossess to secure permission and work in order to recieve an apartment in another city therefore to live in another city. In such

"instance's the Administrator of an apartment house may expect 60-100 rubles for his stamp of approval on a request blank for an apartment or into an apartment all ready occupied by a family, who are expecting to leave one city for another. the usual method of gettin a room or apartment without having to wait on the so called housing list which which may take 5-7 years to recieve a one room "apartment". In any buarucratic socity a class of desk administrators is always born who expect their palmes greased and who exploit their position for self-purposes, however in the U.S.S.R. such practices take on a particularly potant nature, since it is not simply a matter of viewing (word reciving written just above viewing) rare services or conveniences but a matter of getting the fundementals things of life, a simple room, a work stamp, permission to see a relative in a city inside a restricted zone such as border zones or military base and rocket base zones. In order to recieve permission to leave one city and live in another because of individual choice a person must recieve permission from the local passport agency in the city from which he is leaving, and from the city to which he is going, than he must show that he has recieved a place of living in that city to which he is going, as well as permission to move (from the military authority if he is military obligated) from the police and security agency in case he has government or secret work. He must show that his speciallty or professtion will be used in the city to which he does, all this creates piles of paper work and photos, referances, documents and notorized declarations but the main obstacle to moving in the U.S.S.R. is getting a place to live since it would be years if one simply applied for a place in the housing line. Even if one can live until with friends or relatives for the time being they could rent a nook from somebody, they could not work because without a living visa stamps on ones 'passport', it is against the law for any directors or administrators of any enterprize, store or office, to give work to that person since without a living visa one cannot get a 'work stamp', even renting a room to a person who cannot get a living visa to that room in aginst the law (speculating). So although moving from one city to another is quite legal now (after the war it wasn't) it is a long process of red tape, greasing palms and struggling against buacratic procedure, that is why few people actually do change cities or

"exercise paper rights. The structure and procedure of Soviet society controls the flow of people and their occupations and hence value, to state any Russian will tell you he can change jobs or move to another city any time he wants to, this is true, however he must meet certain requirements in order to recieve new work although he may indeed quite any job he likes. Up till 1950 a person could not quit a job without police and state security permission. It was simply compulsery to work at the job one had been assaigned to. Now adays it is more common that foremen enforce a Soviet law making permissable the holding of any workers who cannot be replaced. In the event workers does not chose to remain at his place of work or choses to refuse a certain job he can be tried by a peoples court and sent to a work camp or prison for terms ranging up to 3 years. Such work laws safe guard the state from 'sabatage' of State property, work stamps and passes as well as permission from proper authority in regards to living passes and the 'work passes' is the indirect control of influx and out flux of what Marx called 'Surples of Labor', which in a capitalist society has no controll and is determined by mode and matter of production and econmic conditions which are all ways flutuating Therefore it is not the liberation of the prolitarian masses but rather the administration of state machinery which regulates population and labor moves in a geogrical sense and Isolates instance's of backflow of labor in specialized economic areas, which leads to unemployment in capitalist countries due to automation and over production, both of which can be carefully controlled by the State, which builds and operates all enterprizes in the U.S.S.R. In such cases as there are of overflow of labor, the excess is pationed off by the 'living visa' system, and since there is no place for them to live and the extra workers relize there is no place for the workers 'virgin land' program is instrumented, and surplus labor is promply shipped off to a promised room and work. This is one of, Krushcheve's favorite plans and has been a spectualar failure, mostly owing to the quick subsiding of entusiazim of the young people (for most part) seeing conditions of 5 to a room hostel erected, 'towns', of concrete blocks with unpaved streets in village conditions, a 1,000

"miles from their mothers and families in the over crowded, lack of work-demanding cities (mostly Moscow, Leingrad, Kiev, and a few of the other big population centers) conditions for leaving the Virgin land center and young back home are simple, get up and go, but few do because they must pay their own way back a cost of sometimes 200 rubles or more and also face the same conditions which drove them from the cities in the first place.) When elections are initionated in the U.S.S.R. a whole huge, mechiancial apparates is started, not only to ensure victory but to safe gurared the State from any voice of dissent, either in absentism or opposition All eligible votors (that is from the age of 16 up) are registered well before hand by "agiatators", who go around to every door in their district getting names and notifing all votors of their duty to the Mother land in voting. In the case of the elections held throughout the Soviet Union on March 18, 1962 to "elect" the Superme Soviet including Krushchev, the peoples government (house of represenatives) and the Soviet of Nationalities, the agitator came on January 24 and Feburary 20, on election day all votors go to the polls (usually a school) and vote, they are given a ballot which they drop into a box, on the ballot is the single name of the candidates for each post. Thats all any body ever does to "vote" this system insures a 99% turnout and pedetermined victory. In each polling place ther is a booth for secret balloting (crossing out the canditate and writing in your own) under Soviet law anyone can do this, nobody does for the obvious reason that anyone who enters the booth may be identified, there is a Soviet joke about the floor dropping out from anyone stepping into the booth. But the fact is that if the entire population used the polling booth they could beat the system, however years of mass disciple and fear have made the people afraid to, attemp any such demonstration. And with no means of communication at the hands of a would be candidate, there is no way for communication with the people and wiping up support for a black horse candidate. Universial military training has been in force in the U.S.S.R. for several years. Unlike the U.S., Drafting always take place at 19 years of age all other resons for exemplion with standing periods of service are from 2 years in the north to 3 years in the south, climatic conditions

"very so much that manny young men elect to go to the relatively sunny south to serve for three years rather then to the 9 month bitter cold winters, of camps in Siberia or Sakhalin in the far north-east. Clothing issue's are scarce in the beginning, and in getting ones cloths cleaned, all dirty cloths are thrown into a common pile to be cleaned off and steamed and brought back in a common pile with the result that a solder never gets the same jackets and trousers twice. Barracks are usually bare and damp, even in Minsk, where they are located in the oldess parts of town behind high walls, passes are never given except on holidays and sometime's on Sundays or after manuervers, leave of 30 days as our armed forces guarrante in their contracts are unknown. However the greatest difference is pay, after marsel Mikalyan became commander in chief of the Soviet armed forces in the early 1950's, pay was summarily cut for common soldiers (privates) from 3,30 rubles old money to 3 rubles new money a lost of 29.7 rubles (new) 3 rubles are enought to buy 12 packets of cigarettes, 20 cigarettes to a package whereas 30 rubles was enough for a soldier to save up for his discharge, the pay of a lath worker in Minsk is 80 rubles new money. The drop of money was less felt in the offices ranks since they lose only a 10% cut up the rank of Major. and no loss of pay for major and above, a lieutant in the Russian army gets 100 rubles a full soldier gets around 300 rubles but also gets "duty expense", pay, like our travel pay. Disipline in the Russian army is supposed to be the most rugged in the world since top sergents can hand out up to 15 day senteces to any private any time he wants to without a court martial for minor offenses. Duties at a base camp or barracks may be more like a prison then an Aerican base as we knov it with soda fountains, clubs where alcoholic drinks are served. a snack bars and PX's as soldiers are never allowed to wear civilian clothes (this is against miliatary law) we might think such life to be exceeding drab even for a soldier but Russians have such drab-lifes on the outside that there is no conflict of color between civilian and military life. When I told about the basic features of American milutary life in the U.S. Marine Corps. the ex-soldiers I knew usually laughed and said we have no disiplene but I'm quite sure the ohs and ahs were signs of admiration when I spoke of our

"A five-page handwritten letter dated 7/22/63, and addressed to:

4907 Magazine St.
New Orleans, La.

From: G. P. Khontuleva
ul. Ruzovskaya 9, apt. 8
Leningrad, P-13
USSR

Good day, dear Marinochka!

Forgive me for not answering you for so long but there were many reasons for this. I will begin from the beginning. I received your letter while I was still in Usvyaty, for which I am very grateful to you. But now it has been a month since I lived in Leningrad. I got a job at the pharmacy of the Mechnikov Memorial Hospital; they will register me here and will give me a place to live at a hostel. I started to work from July 1, and have already been paid. I left because finally I had to start working; we parted friends with the surgeon; he promised to marry me when he gets a little better, yet he seldom writes to me. And I still cannot get over the pain of my mother's death; I still cannot get back to normal. Although it is gay here in Leningrad, I have not been going out anywhere so far; I do not feel like it somehow. Moreover, I have nothing to wear. I will wait until winter, get some clothes and then friends will appear, but right now I have to be lonesome by myself.

"They are very busy at the pharmacy where I work and I get very tired, and, you know, I have frequent headaches. Personnel here is large and quite nice. But it is too bad that they pay us, medical workers, so little. They promise a raise in 1965.

At present I live at Valya's while she herself lives at Usvyaty with Stasik; it is good for him there in the country; but she is coming here soon. I will move to the hostel in August, but if you write to me, address letters to Ruzovskaya (street) for the time being; they will always give them to me and I will let you know the new address (of the hostel) in the next letter.

As for Valentin, I grew very used to him; I can even say that I began to love him and now, separated from him, I miss him very much. God grant that everything will be well with us! Right now, the weather in Leningrad is cold. I went out to get a sun tan once, but now it is terribly cold again. That is how things are with me, Marinochka. Now, that I will live in Leningrad, write to me what you need in the same letter (sic), i.e., what you would like to have. I will send it to you now that I myself am working and have my own money. Write, do not be bashful. And how is everything between you and Alik (sic) and how is your life and mood in general? I think that your troubles with your husband will smooth out; you will have another baby and everything will be fine. But in case things become intolerable, leave everything and come back to the homeland. I think we will find a place for you here; after all, our people are good; they help if anything happens. And we will bring up the little ones. I will help you. But you yourself,

"keep your head up; perhaps, you were in a bad mood when you wrote your last letter? So, you liked the new city? And how is your little daughter? She is probably walking already by herself. Never mind, Marina; everything will be all right. Did you hear that we had the first woman cosmonaut in space, Valentina Tereshkova? We all are very proud of her. What a fine girl she is! Words are lacking to express admiration! Well, I am going to close. I walk around Leningrad and recall how you and I used to walk on the Nevsky, remember? We went everywhere together. Those were good times, were they not? But now I do not have any girl friend, and that is why I feel so sad. Marina, for some reason I did not receive the style magazine which you said you sent me, remember? That is all. Good-bye. I kiss you warmly,

/s/ Your Galina

My address is as follows:

G. P. Khontuleva
ul. Ruzovskaya 9, apt. 8
Leningrad, F-13.

This is not far from the Obvodny, where you used to live, next to Moskovsky Prospect and Frunze Department Store, where you went to often before, when you lived here.

Marina, send me a few dress styles in a letter, for I do not know how to make a pretty dress to wear to dances. Our styles here went awry; at any rate, I personally do not like the styles of dresses which they are making here now. You even can draw me a few styles. All right? Well, this is all from me for now.

"Write about your life, about everything in detail. I kiss you once more,

/s/ Galina

Give regards to your husband and warmly kiss little June for me.

(P.S.) Marina, did you send me some chewing gum in that letter? I received it and did not know what to do with it and so threw it away. Be sure and write when you are sending something."

4) "An undated two-page handwritten letter.

Good day, Marinochka,

I received your letter. Thank you for the photo. We all liked your husband very much and I am particularly happy for you, my little housewife and mother. I can imagine how much work and cares you have, but, just the same, I am happy for you, because you are quite well established and, according to you, your husband is an intelligent (*) man and, apparently, you have a delightful apartment, and since you are in good spirits, it is a pleasure to work. It is a shame, however, that you are so thin; you should try somehow to gain a little; and your hair, too, changed; it was better before, or is it just a different style? Main thing, this will be a hard year for you, but then the girl will get older and things will get easier and better for you. Now, a little about us and our family. Oleg is working this year in the same town with Galya; this is my last year of work before retirement. So far, everybody is in good health. I do not know how we will spend our vacation which comes in July. Marinochka, you write about some visa. Apparently, I did not get your letter and do not know anything about your trip. If you will have time, write about yourself and your family. I will be glad to know about your family and your health, but now you should eat more and keep calmer, otherwise your baby will be nervous too, if she sucks nervous (sic) milk.

I kiss you.

/s/ E. M.

A letter, dated May 16, 1963, addressed to "Dear Marina" from "Ruth", written in the Russian language, and part of the personal correspondence and documents acquired by the Dallas Police Department from a search of the RUTH PAINE residence, 2515 Fifth Street, Irving, Texas, has been translated into the English language, and reads as follows:

"Dear Marina,

"Back home again and everything is as usual: floor has to be scrubbed; dishes should be washed; there's a wash to be done - it is particularly lonesome after our visit which was interesting and unusual. It is true that life is busy now but not as interesting as at your place.

"I conducted war today against roaches and think that I will be victorious. I expect to prepare some new soup and salad so as to see if same will be good enough for Saturday's guests. I must explain that I know little concerning preparation of food for more than four. We'll see what will happen.

"Mikhail did not call me to ask for directions or way (?) I finally called him at work. He was never home at the apartment. I am angry with him today and plan to leave immediately for New York to look for a lover. He loves his machines - that's all. Regards to Lee and write me soon re: diapers, roaches and such home topics. Kiss June.

SOCIALIST WORKERS PARTY

The Socialist Workers Party has been designated by the Attorney General of the United States pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

LOUIS WEINSTOCK

A source advised on December 13, 1959, that on December 13, 1959, LOUIS WEINSTOCK elected to the National Committee of the Communist Party, USA, at its 17th National Convention held December 10-13, 1959.

Masthead of "The Worker" dated October 18, 1963, lists LOUIS WEINSTOCK as its business manager.

FAIR PLAY FOR CUBA COMMITTEE

The April 6, 1960, edition of "The New York Times" newspaper contained a full-page advertisement captioned "What Is Really Happening in Cuba," placed by the Fair Play for Cuba Committee (FPCC). This advertisement announced the formation of the FPCC in New York City and declared the FPCC intended to promulgate "the truth about revolutionary Cuba" to neutralize the distorted American press.

"The New York Times" edition of January 11, 1961, reported that at a hearing conducted before the United States Senate Internal Security Subcommittee on January 10, 1961, Dr. CHARLES A. SANTOS BUCH identified himself and ROBERT TABER as organizers of the FPCC. He also testified he and TABER obtained funds from the Cuban Government which were applied toward the cost of the aforementioned advertisement.

No Cuba

On May 16, 1963, a source advised that during the first two years of the FPCC's existence there was a struggle between Communist Party (CP) and Socialist Workers Party (SWP) elements to exert their power within the FPCC and thereby influence FPCC policy. However, during the past year this source observed there has been a successful effort by FPCC leadership to minimize the role of these and other organizations in the FPCC so that today their influence is negligible.

On May 30, 1963, a second source advised that the National Headquarters of the FPCC is located in Room 329 at 799 Broadway, New York City. According to this source, the position of National Office Director was created in the Fall of 1962 and was filled by VINCENT "Ted" LEE, who now formulates FPCC policy. This source observed LEE has followed a course of entertaining and accepting the cooperation of many other organizations including the CP and the SWP when he has felt it would be to his personal benefit as well as the FPCC's. However, LEE has indicated to this source he has no intention of permitting FPCC policy to be determined by any other organization. LEE feels the FPCC should advocate resumption of diplomatic relations between Cuba and the United States and support the right of Cubans to manage their revolution without interference from other nations, but not support the Cuban revolution per se.

The CP and the SWP have been designated pursuant to Executive Order 10450.

SUBJECT: ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT KENNEDY

Mr. Malley received a call from Lee Rankin a few minutes ago, requesting his presence, as representative of the FBI, at a meeting at 4:15 p.m. today, of representatives of CIA, State Department, and FBI, at which Chief Justice Warren will be present.

The purpose of the meeting is to deal with the possibility of utilizing CIA for investigation outside the U.S. regarding Oswald's activities. During such investigation some of our information, as well as information of other agencies, would need to be turned over to CIA for use in the inquiries, and CIA may have to furnish this information to their contacts abroad.

If the Director agrees, our position will be that we want to cooperate with the Commission in every way possible and consequently our information can be used. We would like to know, in advance, what information of ours is to be used, so that we can determine if the furnishing of such information to CIA's contacts abroad will raise problems, possibly regarding compromise of our sources.

Rankin did not mention his appointment with us for 3pm today.

DETAILS:

FD-302 (Rev. 1-25-60) FEDERAL BUREAU OF INVESTIGATION

Date 1-25-64

WILLIAM MC EWAN DUFF, U. S. Army Serial number RA 18 678 666, is assigned to Battery D, 1st Training Battalion, USATC-FA, Fort Sill, Oklahoma. He was interviewed at the U. S. Army Hospital, Fort Sill, where he is patient in surgery for a double hernia operation. He underwent an operation on January 21, 1964, and is scheduled for another operation in about a week. DUFF stated that following his release from the hospital he will return to active duty with his assigned unit and will join with a new training cycle. Upon the completion of his training he expects to be transferred overseas, as he has volunteered for such an assignment.

At the outset of the interview, DUFF was informed of the identity of the interviewing Agent, and was told he did not have to make any statement and, that any statement he did make might be used against him in a court of law. He was also told he had the right to talk with an attorney at any time. He related as follows:

He was born November 4, 1931 at Grangemount, Sterlingshire, Scotland. His mother and most of his relatives have been in the United States for a number of years, living in Monterey Park, California. He came to the United States in May, 1957, and went directly to Monterey Park. In California he worked as a supply man for the Pacific Tele phone Company and then for the Parker Seal Company in East Los Angeles.

He was a member of the British Army, the "Argyles," from 1949 to 1952. This was an infantry unit. He worked a number of years for the British National Railroad as an engine driver.

In November, 1962, he left California and went to Dallas, Texas. The reason for this was that he followed a girl there, and at the time he intended to marry her. He said this was an impulsive act as he had known the girl only two days at the time. After getting to Dallas, however, the marriage deal did not go through, but he stayed on in Dallas.

The newspapers at the time were full of news and pictures of General WALKER and of his activities, he said, and he felt that perhaps he might be able to get a job with the General as his "Batman." He said he went to the General's and just walked up and knocked on the door, and as a result of his inquiry he was hired by General WALKER. He stayed there in the WALKER house, living in an upstairs room, working for General WALKER from November, 1962 to about April, 1963.

DUFF said he left the employ of General WALKER because of "friction" between himself and several women of the office staff. He said when the General was away he, DUFF, was supposed to have the time off; however, the women on the staff became very demanding of him, telling him to make them coffee and tea and expecting him to work for them, and he finally had enough of it and left.

Following this, he went to work for GEORGE BIRNIE, who owns the Birnie Bow Company on the North Central Expressway in Dallas. He obtained living quarters in an apartment he shared with one "CHUCK" HOLLOWAY, who worked in a drug store. He said he met CHUCK in a bar where they both used to hang out. DUFF claimed not to remember the address of the apartment he shared with CHUCK, or the name and address of the store where the latter worked.

In August, 1963, he left Dallas and went to Oklahoma City. This move was sparked by an advertisement he read in the papers stating truck drivers were needed and could make good money in Oklahoma City; however, when he arrived there he found it was necessary to own your own truck to obtain the work. He thereupon enlisted in the U. S. Army and was sent to Fort Polk, Louisiana, for his basic training.

He recalled that he was in the clothing issue warehouse at Fort Polk obtaining an issue of clothing when someone told him that the President of the United States had just been shot. Along with many others, he ran to a radio and heard the news.

On December 20, 1963, DUFF left Fort Polk and came to Fort Sill, Oklahoma, arriving on the same date. He has been here ever since.

DUFF said he has seen many pictures of LEE HARVEY OSWALD in the newspapers and is positive he never saw this person. He claims he has a very good memory for faces, although not for names. He said many visitors, some of them "queer people," came to the General WALKER residence while he was working there, and he is quite sure none of the persons he saw there could have been OSWALD. He stated he has absolutely no information concerning OSWALD.

Concerning JACK RUBY, DUFF stated he has seen many photos of this man in the newspapers and again, he is positive he has never seen RUBY at any place and he has no information about him. He said he was never in RUBY's night club and knows nothing about him.

DUFF said that in about July, 1963, he was investigated and interviewed by Detectives of the Dallas Police Department in connection with the attempted shooting of General WALKER. He said he took a lie detector examination and was "completely cleared" as a result. At the time he was interviewed, he said he gave the Dallas Officers complete information as to all his friends, addresses, activities, etc.

DUFF stated he had no information concerning the attempted shooting of General WALKER, or the assassination of President KENNEDY.

ReBuairtel dated 1-15-64, and urairtel dated 1-24-64.

The observations in reBuairtel still apply. Mary Sue Brown on 12-27-63, advised that Carr told her "Lee Harvey Oswald had not assassinated President Kennedy." Your interview of Carr does not specifically deny this alleged statement attributed to him. Each and every allegation made by Carr should be fully repudiated and the results appropriately reported.

NOTE: Previous correspondence in this matter with Dallas shows that Carr is alleged to have made statements regarding his witnessing the assassination of President Kennedy and other specific statements attributed to him. Dallas in interview of Carr has refuted several of the allegations, however, the most important statement as set out in the above letter was not specifically refuted. While this appears to be a small concern it is nevertheless pertinent to have all allegations concerning this matter adequately resolved and completely refuted.

ReBulet to Dr. PEDRO C. M. TEICHERT, University of Mississippi, dated 12/6/63, copies of which were forwarded to Memphis.

Dr. PEDRO C. M. TEICHERT, Professor of Economics, University of Mississippi, Oxford, Miss., advised on 1/17/64, that he went to a local theatre in Oxford, Miss., identified as the Lyric Theatre, about a year ago and saw a film entitled "Oxford, U.S.A." He advised this film reportedly came from Texas and for the most part contained interviews with students from the University of Mississippi who alleged to have been mistreated by the U. S. Marshals during the riot at the University of Mississippi.

Dr. TEICHERT advised that one of the students appearing in the movie who was interviewed several times was not familiar to him, and he thought perhaps he could have been a professional actor. He stated that after the death of President KENNEDY, he saw photographs of LEE HARVEY OSWALD, and the photograph of OSWALD reminded him of the student who appeared in the film.

He stated that in his opinion the movie was "slanted", and the general theme in the movie was that the Government was wrong in their actions at the University of

With DOYLE, he was attending an electrical contractors' convention in New Orleans. DOYLE is president of the National Electrical Contractors in Portland, and WILSON is governor of the Northwest Line Construction Contractors.

At approximately 4 o'clock in the afternoon of Friday, August 9, 1963, the two families were walking on Canal Street in New Orleans when they observed two young men who were carrying pro-Cuban signs and distributing leaflets. One carried a placard on a stick. According to young SHARON DOYLE, this placard bore the figure of the Statue of Liberty and some such wording as "Cuba in Chains" and "Only 90 Miles from the U. S." The other man, possibly OSWALD, was wearing on his front a yellowish or orange-colored sign which bore the wording, "Viva la Fidel" and other wording believed similar to that on the above placard. The DOYLE family were agreed on the "Viva la Fidel."

The DOYLEs said that the demonstration was taking place in the approximate middle of a block on Canal Street, some five blocks toward the Mississippi River from the Jung Hotel.

As the DOYLEs and WILSONs passed the area, the two demonstrators were "rushed" by eight Cubans (Mr. DOYLE counted them), who argued vigorously with the two men, and trouble appeared imminent. Several police officers arrived on the scene immediately, however, both by car and on foot, and after talking to the two demonstrators for a time, apparently arrested them and placed them in a patrol car. This, however, was not before the placard on the stick had been smashed and the leaflets scattered on the sidewalk. It was believed by the DOYLEs that the pieces of the placard were picked up and placed in the police car. Mr. DOYLE commented that the policemen were able to arrive on the scene so hurriedly apparently because they had been "keeping an eye" on some picketing by Negroes which was taking place across the street a short distance away.

The pictures of the incident in the enclosed roll of film were taken by young JIM DOYLE. It will be noted that other vacation pictures appear on the roll, both before and after the New Orleans incident. The pertinent portion of the film occurs immediately following scenes showing SHARON DOYLE in front of a statue and a brief view of Mrs. DOYLE standing alone. It ends with a view of what appears to be a warehouse on the river.

At one point, the individual who is possibly OSWALD can be seen with his back to the camera, talking to an officer. He is motioning with one hand. Mr. DOYLE explained that he apparently was indicating that he had a right to walk on the sidewalk. Subsequent scenes show the man walking through the crowd. At one point, his yellow sign can be seen, but not deciphered. His companion never appears.

The film is being forwarded, in order that the Bureau may make copies of the pertinent scenes, if it so desires. Mr. DOYLE stated that the Bureau may use the film for whatever use it may desire and keep it as long as necessary. He asked, however, that eventually the film be returned to him.

In view of the circumstances, the presence of the police officers and the apparent arrest of the two demonstrators, complete information concerning the incident may already be in the possession of the Dallas Division. Consequently, any pertinent leads are being left to that office.

Information concerning the incident as provided by Mr. and Mrs. WILSON will be provided as soon as they can be interviewed.

"President Kennedy has been liquidated and Your husband has been murdered the same day, a few days later, Lee Oswald

"has been shot down by Rubby. Have You never thought there must be a secret connection between Oswald and Rubby? Well, dear Madam, there has been indeed, and more, Your husband was also a member of the gang. Amazed at it? Madam believe us, we have all evidence here with us. The death of President Kennedy must be attributed to a fanatic political opponent of the President, a certain Governor of one of the States of the USA.

"The Governor did not feel safe with regards to the Election of President next year, so that Kennedy should be disappeared. In order to achieve this result, this opponent seeked contact with Oswald, of whom was Known to be a very strong antipode of the American Intern Policy, and also with us.

"After Oswald had succeeded in liquidating Pres. Kennedy, Your husband had the order to act as if he was going to arrest Oswald. Unfortunately, Oswald did not recognize Your husband for some reason, and so he shot him down.

"Further, each of us should receive an amount of hundred thausand dollars from the said Governor. As agreed upon, the Governor should pay 75% in advance and the remainder by us self.

"However, Your husband is no more to pay his part of the remainder ad. 35.000 dollars. Will You please complete the work of Your husbands? Evidently, his was doing this for You and his children, beside, let him not gave his life for nothing.

"Moreover, if the money should not be paid in time, the sellers of the Factory may get impatiently and spoil the whole thing.

"Of course, You do not have to remain share-holder if You do not want to, later You can sell Your share again. This is done only to prevent difficulties for the time being.

"So dear Madam, do not be too self-conceited or suspicious, later everthing will be clear to You. It is urgent, so hurry, Madam, send 35.000 dollars then You and we are safe, do not wait too lang.

"Go to Your Bank and send us a covered cheque of the said amount, or open a Bank Account with a Bank at Switserland, without conditions. On name of WOLFGANG AE 090822, message of confirmation may be sent to Mr. Charles Rozenblad, Admiralengracht 142.L, Amsterdam, The Netherlands.

"Please realize, Madam, if You refuse to cooperate, You will dig Your own grave, besides, You have nothing to loose.

"It is worth finishing the job, Your husband has started for You and children, so pick up the, were Your husband had had to drop it.

"In conclusion, we wish you success, wisdom and courage.

"For the Gang.

Honorable J. Lee Rankin
General Counsel
The President's Commission
200 Maryland Avenue, N. E.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Rankin:

For your information, I am enclosing copies of three articles which purport to be exposes of the assassination of President Kennedy.

"The Thunderbolt" is disseminated by the National States Rights Party, and its contents are usually violently anti-Semitic and anti-Negro. Frequently, this publication refers to FBI Agents as "frame artists," "slimy race mixers" and "mangey dogs." The January, 1964, issue maintains this level, and the material concerning the assassination is a contrived mixture designed to point an accusing finger at their favorite target, the so-called "Jewish-communist conspiracy" which is supposedly seeking to subvert the United States.

The article appearing in the March, 1964, issue of "Saga" was written by William W. Turner, a disgruntled former employee who entered on duty as a Special Agent on February 5, 1951. The FBI found it necessary to dismiss him effective July 19, 1961, [redacted]

Turner has used his former Bureau experience to give his account of the assassination a spurious aura of authenticity, and it is filled with provocative adjectives and specious reasoning in an attempt to support his conclusion that the FBI is solely responsible for the death of the President.

The article by Harold Feldman, which appears in the January 27, 1964, issue of "The Nation," is a muddy attempt to link Lee Harvey Oswald with the FBI as an informant. Using public source material

All three articles are irresponsible, and each is a good example of personal bias; however, I thought you would be interested in seeing them.

Enclosed to Los Angeles is one copy of referenced airtel.

For the information of Los Angeles, Mrs. DANNELLY, State Selective Service System Board, Austin, Texas, who is considered very reliable, after the assassination of President JOHN F. KENNEDY reported that OSWALD visited her office and approximated the time as about 1:00 p.m., 9/25/63. JESSE A. SKRIVANEK of the same office was unable to recall this visit.

STELLA NORMAN, a waitress, and L. B. DAY, a press man at the Austin American paper, related having seen OSWALD at the Trek Cafe in Austin some six or seven weeks prior to the assassination; however, when interviewed by Bureau Agent, their stories were somewhat in conflict and the reliability of each has been questioned by an employer and/or acquaintance.

With reference to the lead in enclosed airtel for San Antonio at Austin, through airlines to endeavor to locate record for travel of OSWALD to and from Austin, 9/25/63, the following was determined:

Dear Sir:

On January 15, 1964, I purchased a magazine, "Four Dark Days in History" published by Special Publications, Inc. - 6627 Hollywood Blvd., Los Angeles 28, California.

On page 4 as the motorcade of our late President passes the Dallas School Depository, there, on the left, emerging in a hurry from the building, is a man who bears a striking resemblance to Lee Harvey Oswald. As a matter of fact, even the clothes he has on seem to be like the ones Oswald had on when arrested. I realize that you have concrete evidence against him but if you find that the picture is of Oswald, it would mean he had an accomplice, who is still at large.

I know you are very thorough in your investigations and have probably checked out all available pictures but there could be a chance that you missed this one. I have spent two sleepless nights wondering whether or not to write.

I would appreciate it if you were to check this picture out. I'm sure that in getting the original from the Publisher, it can be blown up to find out for sure if that man is Lee Harvey Oswald. I would send you my magazine but it is the only one I have and they are all sold out.

Thank you very much for giving attention to this letter.

Very truly yours,

NOTE:

The U. S. Secret Service forwarded to us a letter received by them from Mrs. Shirah of Jacksonville, Florida, dated 1/17/64. This letter alleges that a photograph appearing in the above magazine* depicts President Kennedy's motorcade passing in front of the Texas School Book Depository Building. According to Mrs. Shirah there is an individual in the background of this photograph departing the building "in a hurry", who she feels fits the general description of Lee Harvey Oswald. She continued that if this is the case then surely Oswald's "accomplice" is still at large. The photograph believed to be the one referred to by Mrs. Shirah, appearing in the above magazine was reviewed by SA Rogge on 1/27/64 and no identification could be effected. Correspondent appears sincere in furnishing this information; however, she is no doubt confused in her identification. Since she has made this allegation to the U. S. Secret Service and the President's Commission may learn of it, it is felt we should conduct reasonable investigation to resolve it. In the event it is necessary our Laboratory would be called on to examine the photograph. Results of our inquiries will be disseminated to Secret Service for their information.

JIM BRADEN, 621 South Barington Drive, Apartment 6, Los Angeles, furnished the following information:

BRADEN is a crude oil producer. His mailing address is 215 South La Cienega Boulevard, Beverly Hills, California. He was in Dallas, Texas on November 22, 1963 on business. He had been in Dallas twice before, but that was over ten years ago. He is not familiar with Dallas.

On November 22, 1963, while on Elm Street trying to get a cab, he heard people say that President JOHN F. KENNEDY had been shot. He wanted to telephone his family, so he made inquiry and ascertained there was a telephone on the third floor of the building located directly across the street from a building which was completely surrounded by police with drawn guns, from which building the fatal shots had been fired at President KENNEDY.

BRADEN entered the building, proceeded to the third floor via elevator, found that the telephone did not work and returned to the street level via elevator. As he left, the elevator operator asked him if he worked in the building and finding that BRADEN did not, immediately called a police officer who escorted BRADEN to the Sheriff's Office which was within walking distance. There BRADEN was held for two or three hours and finally questioned and released.

BRADEN has no information concerning the assassination and both LEE HARVEY OSWALD and JACK RUBY are unknown to him.

Reference is made to my memorandum of January 23, 1964, which advised that in accordance with a request of the Department of Justice copies of investigative reports were being made available to the United States Attorney at Dallas in order that they could be shown to the Dallas County District Attorney.

"The Dallas Times Herald" on January 23, 1964, reported, "Two Assistant State District Attorneys are today examining behind closed doors FBI reports on the slaying of Oswald by Ruby." The article identified the Assistant District Attorneys as A. D. Jim Bowie and Frank Watts. It was stated that Dallas County District Attorney Henry Wade was expected to join his assistants later in the day and that a stenographer had accompanied the assistants when they entered the United States Attorney's office at 10:00 a.m. January 23, 1964.

Mr. Wade was quoted in the article as having announced on January 23, 1964, that the FBI was opening the Ruby file for the inspection of his staff but was stopping short of actually turning the file over to him. He was also quoted as saying that he was primarily interested in the FBI's evidence on the slaying of Oswald and he has not asked for FBI information regarding the LIBERO RICCIARDELLI, 33 Mills Road, Needham, Massachusetts, advised that he, his wife, and three children resided in Russia from February, 1959 to 1963. He said he never met LEE HARVEY OSWALD in Russia and never heard of LEE HARVEY OSWALD until his name was mentioned by various news media on the day of President KENNEDY's assassination.

It was pointed out to RICCIARDELLI that Oswald resided in Russia from October, 1959 to July, 1962. RICCIARDELLI stated that he and his family resided in Moscow at the Hotel Metropole from February, 1959 to Mid-July, 1959 at which time they moved to Kiev.

REPORT RE CALENDAR MAINTAINED BY MRS. PAINE ON WHICH THERE WERE NOTATIONS AND TO WHICH SHE REFERRED IN FIXING MANY OF THE DATES PERTINENT TO HER KNOWLEDGE OF OSWALD'S ACTIVITY. ENDEAVOR TO OBTAIN COPIES OF THIS CALENDAR AND REVIEW SAME WITH MRS. PAINE TO INSURE ALL INFORMATION IN HER POSSESSION OF POSSIBLE PERTINENCE TO THIS INVESTIGATION HAS BEEN OBTAINED.

SEE PAGE TWO EIGHT SEVEN OF YOUR DECEMBER EIGHTEEN REPORT. HAS MALE WHO CALLED MRS. OSWALD FROM FORT WORTH ON NOVEMBER TWELVE LAST BEEN IDENTIFIED AND INTERVIEWED? IF NOT, HANDLE.

NOTE:

We want to know if Oswald could drive a car, as car salesman, Dallas, said that on 11/9 he inquired re purchase of Comet and that he expected to receive money in near future to make purchase. Fact that Mrs. Paine had information as early as August, 1963, regarding his efforts to learn to drive, not previously known as summary translation of her 8/24 letter to Marina did not pick thisup. Commission undoubtedly will want to see Paine's calendar, by which she fixes dates of pertinent activity. Advisable for Dallas to review this with her to insure all pertinent notations accounted for.

fficial investigation, said, on hearing the news, at a bigot had done it.

Nevertheless, there are some important estions to be answered. For instance, why d Oswald start for Mexico City the day it was nnounced that President Kennedy was going to sit Texas? Oswald was a member of the Fair lay For Cuba Committee—a pro-Castro front roup. Many reports indicate that there is nancing—indirectly—from the Castro govern-ent.

There are four Castro Intelligence Units with Killer Sections" operating in Mexico. Former mbassador Robert C. Hill was threatened with ath while he was in Mexico. There were umors, of course, that Khrushchev and Pres-ent Kennedy, had reached some sort of an greement on the supplanting of Castro. Wheth-or not this is the case, it is known that astro hates the United States.

Moreover, the Red Chinese are very active Castro's Cuba. The Red Chinese have been ry unhappy about the close co-operation, as late, between President Kennedy and Pre-ier Khrushchev and the "Hot Line" between oscow and Washington, as well as all of the her efforts toward improving East-West re-tions in the past three years.

Is it impossible that the Castroites and the d Chinese or both are behind the plot? We not even need to ask, "did Oswald go to vana while he was supposedly in Mexico?" ere are two flights each week of Cubana Air nes which carry Communists from all over a hemisphere from Mexico City to Havana by earrangement and without documents or rec-ds.

How could Acting Secretary of State Ball be re so quickly that "no foreign government is volved"? The official State Department re-rt has now reached the Warren Commission. es it answer things like this and will we ever ow?

Again, what was Oswald doing in Minsk dur-g his two years and three-quarters in Soviet ssia as a defector to Communism? Why n't he stay in the big city—Moscow?

Oswald's Activities in Russia a Mystery

There is a Soviet school for training foreign espionage experts near Minsk. Could Oswald have attended it? Even further, could he have practiced rifle shooting while there to be letter-perfect?

How did Oswald meet his pretty Russian wife? Why was she in Minsk? Her home was apparently in Moscow. Now, to be a pharmacist in Russia at the present time—and a pharmacist is indeed an important post—usually one would have to be a member of the select Communist Party.

If so, and in any case, why was Oswald's wife permitted by the Communist Government to leave Russia? Attractive Russian women—particularly the young women—do not leave Russia easily unless they are on espionage missions.

What did Oswald, in his long talks with the officials in our Embassy in Moscow, have to say to them? Why have these officials been silenced? Why does at least one of them think that the Security Agents who questioned this person were not really after answers?

Now we all know that Oswald, a defector, gave an affidavit that he was going to give up his U.S. citizenship and become a Soviet citizen. He obtained a passport to do this and surrendered it to our Embassy upon arrival in Moscow to defect. Why did the State Department then lend him $400 to be repatriated when the Soviets allegedly refused to have him?

Did Oswald have a large sum of money in his Dallas room after an investigation by the FBI and other officials? All of these questions are unanswered.

More important, however, is this question: How does it happen that the United States Department of State had issued Oswald a new passport permitting him to go to the Soviet Union just prior to his fateful act?

These are some of the many unanswered questions which, I believe, will probably never be answered by official Washington.

Wasn't it just a little too pat when a former gang associate shot Oswald dead before he himself could testify in court? It is not enough to brush it all aside with the remark that both killers were unbalanced. History shows that assassins are usually unbalanced. But that does not keep them from being used—from being part of a plot.

What is clear is that Oswald was a Soviet-oriented killer if not a Communist trained one. His action was an alien action with no reference at all to the American scene.

The extremists of the Left, of course, have been, and still are, the dangerous people in the United States. They have a spiritual homeland abroad—Communist Russia, or Communist China, or Communist Cuba. Let us remember that Communism teaches that any action for the Communist cause, including murder, is good and is appropriate.

We beat Hitler and Mussolini—both Leftists—in a struggle over whether the forces of freedom, Communism, Fascism, or Socialism would rule the world. We are again engaged in a struggle against Leftists operating under the name of Communism. And, again, it's the same struggle—Freedom vs. Communism; our National future vs. collective Communism; our religion vs. atheistic Communism.

Why has there been such an outcry against the Right when the Left has been the real danger in this century? There are several reasons, of course. In late 1960, Moscow ordered the elimination of anti-Communism. Gus Hall put the order into effect with one of his own for the Communist Party of the USA.

The extreme Left organization—the ADA—is deep in the present Administration. By the scores they are promoting Socialistic schemes. They call attention away from themselves by attacking "shadow enemies," which they refer to as the "Right Wing Lunatic Fringe." This they are still doing, and particularly since the assassination of our late President, to cover up the fact that it was a Left Wing extremist who committed this terrible act.

That is one reason for all the talk that "hat killed President Kennedy." It was not hate Americans abominate assassinations. Amer icans are not a hateful people. It was a ma bitten by the bug of a foreign Left Wing ideolog who did this deed; an ideology that has hate a its central theme.

State Department Policies Sow Distrust Among American Peopl

If there is distrust among the America people as alleged by the Left, I believe there i a good reason for it. The State Department ha consistently misled the people regarding ou Communist enemy. How can we trust the Stat Department that predicates its hope for peac on an unreal appraisal of the Soviet Union?

If they were honestly to tell us the nature c Communism—the nature of the leaders in Com munist Russia, the successes of their insidiou propaganda efforts, and their subversion ove the past several decades—it would certainly nc make peace a meaningful gesture. Therefore to make peace realistic, they must distor Communism, they must say that the Commu nists are maturing.

They must say, as Secretary Rusk said i December: "We must throw our lot in wit Russia in their ideological struggle agains China." If they were to give a true appraisa and be honest with the American people, dis trust and frustration would clear up over night

The truth is that it may be the same problen as in the Oswald case: truth would destroy th State Department policy, which holds as it central theme that the Communists are matur ing and, therefore, it is logical to say that pos sibly truth about the Lee Harvey Oswald cas would do the same thing—would point out th fact that the Communists are, in effect, stil promoting their international conspiratoria plans with even murder as a part of its design

And then, worst of all from the viewpoint o the Leftists and the State Department, truth o the Lee Harvey Oswald case might possibl give some creditability to the anti-Communis efforts in this country—which must be destroyed at all costs. This is probably the central reason why we will never have an honest appraisal of the Lee Harvey Oswald case.

The last thing the Leftists want to do is to give rise to any more anti-Communism in this country. In fact, they are taking every effort to dry it up. The truth about the Harvey Oswald case just might—and I am one of those who believes that it would—just might give creditability to the great case that the anti-Communists have been giving to the American people, and which has been so categorically rejected by those on the Left.

Even if Oswald is never proved to be, as he may have been, a part of an international plot to kill the President of the United States, even if Oswald acted alone, he did act as a pro-Communist who, as his activities for the Fair Play For Cuba Committee showed, had never forsaken the fold.

I am not interested in possibly doctored foreign dossiers and documents from a government that makes a business of forging documents and lying. I am not interested in Under Secretary of State George Ball's theories. I am not interested in another State Department White Paper. I am not interested in an official assassination of the facts.

I, with the American people, would like the whole truth about the Kennedy Assassination. Judged by its past records—its appeasing policies and its White Paper cover-ups, the American people cannot hope to get the truth from the State Department.

For this reason I have introduced House Joint Resolution 812 calling for a complete investigation of the State Department—with special emphasis to be placed on the Lee Harvey Oswald case.

DEAN MANION: Thank you, Congressman John Ashbrook, of Ohio.

Ladies and Gentlemen. this startling speech should leave no doubt in our minds about the compelling necessity for a complete Congressional investigation of our State Department. All policies of our Government depend upon our Foreign Policy, and our Foreign Policy is made by and in the State Department. Tell your Congressman to give us the truth—the whole truth and nothing but the truth about our Department of State.

WEEKLY BROADCAST NO. 484 JANUARY 12, 19

HONORABLE JOHN M. ASHBROOK

Member of Congress for Ohio

DEAN MANION: Last December 1, the Washington Post printed a November 30 press dispatch from Tokyo about Richard Snyder, now the First Secretary in the United States Embassy there. Snyder was the American consul who handled the case of Lee Oswald when the Presidential assassin was attempting to renounce his United States citizenship in Moscow in 1959.

In the press dispatch Snyder was quoted as saying that he had been ordered by the State Department not to discuss the Oswald case. Was this a special order or a general order by the State Department to cover up pertinent facts about the President's assassination?

The Honorable John Ashbrook, a courageous young Congressman from Ohio, has been pressing this question on the floor of the House. I have asked this distinguished and able Representative to continue the discussion over this microphone. Congressman Ashbrook, welcome back to the Manion Forum.

CONGRESSMAN ASHBROOK: Thank you, Dean Manion, it is a very great pleasure to be back on your program again.

I believe that many things militate against the full truth about Lee Harvey Oswald ever coming out. While it is very difficult to gather complete, authentic factual information regarding the Oswald case, it is, on the other hand, very easy to spot the cover-up which is coming. Several factors stand out to militate against the full truth ever being known by the American public.

CONGRESSMAN J. M. ASHBROOK

First, the United States security agencies before the late President's visit to Dallas, had concentrated exclusively on Right Wing instead of Left Wing extremists in Dallas. And since one from the Left killed President Kennedy, it makes one wonder how really anxious these various Federal agencies are to go deeply into Left Wing Extremism.

Secondly, George Ball, the Acting Secretary of State at that time—and a man with many Left Wing associations—quickly cabled all U.S. Ambassadors that "no foreign governments were involved." His position has been protected constantly, and will probably be the major factor in a cover-up which is coming.

Moves by the vocal Left Wing to cover up the danger that erupted from the Left by blaming "hate campaigns" and "all extremists" makes a real investigation difficult. For instance, Chie

Honorable J. Lee Rankin

200 Maryland Avenue, N. E.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Rankin:

Reference is made to report in the Lee Harvey Oswald case of Special Agent Gerard James Norton dated December 19, 1963, at San Francisco, California, setting forth the allegation of Robert Edmond Gallant, an inmate of the Santa Clara Prison Farm, San Jose, California, that he saw Oswald in Mexico City on July 12, 1963.

MAILED 10
JAN 24 1964
COMM-FBI

On January 7, 1964, Robert Edmond Gallant was afforded a polygraph examination at the Santa Clara County Jail by a Special Agent of our San Francisco Office. In the opinion of the examiner, the emotional responses recorded by the polygraph were not the responses of a normal person telling the truth, but were indicative of an emotionally unstable individual. Gallant was vague and rambling in his speech, made general statements unsupported by specific examples, and manifested the symptoms of paranoia; namely, fixed suspicions and delusions of grandeur. In this respect, Gallant claimed that all political leaders in Mexico were communists, that he was a doctor of electronic engineering, a general in a secret Mexican army, and an associate of a Mexican millionaire.

In view of these observations, the results of the polygraph examination were inconclusive. It was the opinion of the examiner, however, that Gallant's allegation that he saw Oswald in Mexico City in July, 1963, was untrue.

Our investigation of Lee Harvey Oswald has established that on Friday, July 12, 1963, he was employed at the William B. Reily Company plant in New Orleans from 8:27 a.m., to 5:01 p.m., and on that date was paid his salary for the week ending July 13, 1963.

Sincerely yours,

NOTE: Believed advisable to furnish Commission with results of our polygraph exam of Gallant who made wild allegation that he learned from an agent he operates in the Cuban Embassy, Mexico City, that on 7-12-63 Oswald was at the embassy seeking visa. He also alleged that his agent pointed out Oswald to him in Mexico City 7-12-63. Results of polygraph have been discussed with Mr. Bell Herndon of the Lab who agrees with language of report.

SUBJECT: LEE HARVEY OSWALD
INTERNAL SECURITY - RUSSIA

On 12-11-63 the Office of the Attorney General forwarded to the Bureau a memorandum to the Attorney General from Arthur Schlesinger, Jr., Special Assistant to the President, which enclosed a 12-page typewritten document entitled "Seeds of Doubt: Some Questions About the President's Assassination," prepared by Jack Minnis, described as a "political scientist," and Staughton Lynd, described as a "historian."

A review of this paper disclosed that the authors have taken the newspaper versions of the assassination and have noted a number of contradictions as reported in the newspapers and, therefore, are asking a number of questions to which they say the American people have a right to know the answers. The questions include such things as: 1. How Oswald, from a position behind and slightly to the right of President Kennedy fired a shot which entered the President's neck below the Adam's Apple. 2. How Oswald fired three shots with a bolt-action rifle with such accuracy in such a short time at a moving target. 3. How the three shots could have produced "four bullets." 4. How Oswald did all the things he reportedly did between the assassination and his arrest. 5. How was Ruby permitted to shoot Oswald. 6. Did the FBI interview Oswald a few days before the assassination. 7. Did the FBI show Oswald's mother a picture of Ruby the night before he killed Oswald. 8. Did the FBI seize a movie film showing silhouettes of two men in the "sniper window."

The paper ends with the following: "It seems hardly too much to suggest that the Dallas Police and the FBI need to account for their own activities, during and after the assassination. Until such an accounting is made, no version of the tragedy produced by the police or the FBI can be accepted with confidence."

All of the questions referred to above have been raised in the press and have been based upon erroneous information or speculation. It is interesting to note, however, the background of the authors. Lynd was given an undesirable discharge from the Army in April, 1954, under a regulation which required the discharge of disloyal or subversive enlisted personnel. In rebuttal to the charges against him, Lynd, in writing, denied being a member of the Communist Party but admitted that in 1947 and 1948 he was an officer of the American Youth for Democracy and in 1949 held membership for a few weeks in the Socialist Workers Party. Both of these organizations have been designated as subversive pursuant to Executive Order 10450. However, in June, 1958, the Army advised that Lynd's discharge had been reviewed and changed from undesirable to honorable.

On 10-24-62 Bureau Agents observed Lynd demonstrating with approximately 22 other people at Hurt Park, Atlanta, Georgia. The group was distributing leaflets protesting President Kennedy's decision to blockade Cuba. The leaflets described the President's action as "hasty and provocative," and stated that such action was not justified even if the Soviet Union had stationed missiles in Cuba. Two members of the group were Dorothy Miller and Howard Zinn. Reliable informants identified Zinn as a member of the Communist Party in 1948-53 and Dorothy Miller in June, 1963, both in New York City. Another reliable informant reported that Lynd and his wife attended a party in the residence of Frances Goldin in New York in September, 1962, at which Alger Hiss was present. Goldin was identified as a member of the Communist Party in New York City.

Jack Minnis, on 12-21-58, contacted a Bureau Agent at Lake Charles, Louisiana, and advised that two days previously he had received a press release from the Soviet Embassy. He did not know how the Soviets got his name but said he had written requesting the Soviets to continue to send him press releases because he was interested in world affairs. However, he wanted to go on record that he was not sympathetic in any way to communism or Russia.

ACTION:

Attached for approval is a letter to the Attorney General summarizing information in our files re the authors of "Seeds of Doubt." The paper, Mr. Schlesinger's transmittal memorandum to the Attorney General and the memorandum transmitting these items to the Bureau are being returned.

SUBJECT: "THE ASSASSINS"
BY ROBERT J. DONOVAN

Robert J. Donovan originally published the above-captioned book in 1952 and has come out with a new edition, January, 1964, in a pocketbook by Popular Library to include a chapter on the assassination of President Kennedy. Donovan has obviously done a hurry-up job and his research is undoubtedly based on newspaper accounts and possibly he has also had access to FBI material in the possession of the Warren Commission. Generally, the chapter on the assassination of President Kennedy follows events which are substantially correct, however, Donovan has also used considerable literary license in dramatizing some of the story.

There are some statements which are inaccurate and are set forth as follows:

Lee Oswald

Page 22 Donovan states the rifle was purchased for $12.78. The actual total cost as reported in the FBI report made available to the Warren Commission is $21.45.

Page 24 Donovan claims Oswald qualified as a sharpshooter in the Marine Corps. U.S. Marine Corps records reveal Oswald received a "marksman" rating.

Page 31 It is stated Oswald started work at the Texas School Book Depository on October 15, 1963. Oswald actually started work on October 16, 1963.

Page 33 It is claimed that Dallas Patrolman J. D. Tippit presumably heard the police radio sounding an alarm for a man of Oswald's appearance and that the bulletin had been broadcast after a check of employees at the Book Depository revealed that Oswald was missing. It will never be known what caused Patrolman Tippit to pursue Oswald. He certainly had not responded to a police alarm. He was last heard from by the police dispatcher at 12:54 p.m. and the next recorded transmission from his police car was at 1:18 p.m. when a private citizen announced over the radio that a police officer, apparently from that vehicle, had been shot.

105-82555 8 FEB 3 1964

NOT RECORDED
139 FEB 4 1964

Page 34 Donovan alleges that one of the three bullets fired by Oswald was recovered from the President's body. No bullets were recovered from President Kennedy's body. Donovan states that the police discovered a map of the city in Oswald's rooming house on which the approximate trajectory of the fatal shots had been plotted. This is one of the early rumors appearing in the newspapers which was discounted and discredited. Donovan is probably referring to a map prepared by Ruth Paine showing possible employment locations in Dallas for Oswald.

M. A. Jones to Mr. DeLoach
RE: "THE ASSASSINS" BY ROBERT J. DONOVAN

Page 35 Donovan states Jack Ruby shot Oswald with a snub-nosed .32 caliber revolver. It was a .38 Colt-Cobra.

ROBERT J. DONOVAN:

As indicated on the cover, Mr. Donovan is author of "PT 109: John F. Kennedy in World War II." He is now chief of the Los Angeles Times Washington Bureau and was formerly associated with the Washington Bureau of "The Herald Tribune." He is also author of the pro-Eisenhower book captioned "Eisenhower: the Inside Story."

Donovan was investigated at the request of the White House in August, 1955. No derogatory information was developed with the exception of a reference to him as having attended the Fifth National Conference of American Committee for Protection of Foreign Born at Atlantic City, New Jersey, in 1941. It developed that Mr. Donovan attended this in connection with his newspaper assignment. On October 31, 1957, the Director congratulated Mr. Donovan on his appointment as head of the Washington Bureau of "The New York Herald Tribune."

In October, 1961, we had a run-in with Mr. Donovan in connection with an article in "The New York Herald Tribune" relating to the case involving Elliott Kahaner and New York State Supreme Court Justice J. Vincent Keogh. The newspaper item in question was attributed to a "trusted FBI source." It appeared that Donovan was challenged by Mr. Guthman of the Department over a statement in "The Herald Tribune" to the effect that a Brooklyn Congressman had been involved in the case when in fact he had not. Donovan through his New York office was endeavoring to run the story down and was told the story came from the U. S. Attorney's office in New York City and a "trusted FBI source." Donovan interpreted this to be a source the FBI had used in the past and Guthman apparently interpreted this as a source within the FBI. It appeared that "The New York Herald Tribune" had made an erroneous statement and was trying to clean their own skirts by blaming the FBI.

The "National Guardian" ("NG") is characterized in the Appendix attached hereto.

The January 23, 1964 issue of the "NG", page 4, contained an article captioned, "MEETINGS ON OSWALD CASE; Lane speaking tour set." This article stated that continuing doubts surrounding the Lee Harvey Oswald case will be examined at a meeting in Town Hall, New York, New York, on February 18, 1964, when attorney Mark Lane and his client, Mrs. Marguerite Oswald, will appear under auspices of the "NG". The article stated that this meeting will climax a tour of other major cities by Lane to discuss the Oswald case. This tour is set forth as follows:

Los Angeles, California, February 11, 1964, 8:15 PM; Lane discusses the Oswald Case with Southern California Friends of the "NG" at a meeting in Baces Hall, 1528 North Vermont Avenue.

Chicago, Illinois, February 13, 1964, 8:00 PM; Lane continues his inquiry into the Oswald case at a meeting in the Midland Hotel, 1782 West Adams Street, for the Chicago Friends of the "NG".

The above article further stated that on January 14, 1964, Mrs. Oswald retained Lane to represent her slain son before the Warren Commission because "he was the only one I had faith in."

Mark Lane

On June 10, 1963, a source advised that at a meeting of the New York Council to Abolish the House Un-American Activities Committee (NYCAHUAC) which was held on May 28, 1963, at 74 Fifth Avenue, New York, New York, Mark Lane was elected to the position as Vice-Chairman of the organization.

The NYCAHUAC is characterized in the Appendix attached hereto.

The "New York Herald Tribune", a New York daily newspaper, dated January 15, 1964, page 7, column 1, contained an article which stated that Mrs. Marguerite C. Oswald, mother of accussed assassin Lee Harvey Oswald, announced on January 14, 1964, that she had hired Mark Lane to represent her slain son before the Warren Commission investigating the murder of President John F. Kennedy.

On January 29, 1964, a second source stated that Town Hall would not sign the lease for the "NG" for a meeting in Town Hall on February 18, 1964. This source stated that Town Hall would not sign the lease as the terms of the proposed lease had been materially altered, that the appearance of Mrs. Oswald in Town Hall could be incendiary, and that Town Hall does not choose to be a party to the airing of a case that is presently being studied by the Presidential Commission to Investigate the Assassination of President Kennedy.

The "Guide to Subversive Organizations and Publications," revised and published as of December 1, 1961, issued and released by the Committee on Un-American Activities, United States House of Representatives, Washington, D. C., contains the following concerning the "National Guardian":

"National Guardian

THE HOUSE UN-AMERICAN ACTIVITIES COMMITTEE

The "Guide to Subversive Organizations and Publications" issued December 1, 1961, by the Committee on Un-American Activities, U. S. House of Representatives, page 115, contains the following citation regarding the National Committee to Abolish the Un-American Activities Committee (NCAUAC).

"Cited as a 'new organization' set up in the summer of 1960 to lead and direct the Communist Party's 'Operation Abolition' campaign. Seven of the national leaders of this group have been identified as Communists.

(Committee on Un-American Activities, House Report 1278 on the Truth About the Film 'Operation Abolition,' Part 1, October 3, 1961, p. 5.)"

A source has advised that the NCAUAC changed its name on March 3, 1962, to include the word "House" in its name, thereby becoming known as the National Committee to Abolish the House Un-American Activities Committee.

NEW YORK COUNCIL TO ABOLISH
THE HOUSE UN-AMERICAN ACTIVITIES COMMITTEE

On March 9, 1961, a source advised that the New York Council To Abolish the Un-American Activities Committee (NYCAUAC), 150 West 34th Street, New York City, New York, was formed at a meeting held in New York City on November 17, 1960. This organization was founded principally through the efforts of FRANK WILKINSON, Field Representative of the National Committee To Abolish the Un-American Activities Committee (NCAUAC).

A second source advised on September 17, 1952, that FRANK WILKINSON was a Communist Party member as of September, 1952.

A third source furnished on September 14, 1961, a copy of resolutions of the New York Council to Abolish the House Un-American Activities Committee (NYCAHUAC) which were adopted by the NYCAHUAC. One such resolution affirmed the intention to continue to work for the abolition of the House Committee on Un-American Activities (HCUA) and to continue its efforts to broaden the participation in this fight. Another resolution accepted as a modus vivendi the suggestion of the Field Representative of the "National Committee to Abolish the HCUA" (NCAHUAC) namely that local abolition committees may identify and co-ordinate their efforts as closely as they desire with NCAHUAC, still maintaining their autonomy for as flexible and independent a program as possible.

Various sources have advised during March, 1962, that Communist Party (CP) members in the New York City area have been solicited to support activities of the NYCAHUAC during attendance at CP club meetings.

On May 6, 1963, the first source advised that the NYCAHUAC continues to function from its office at 150 West 34th Street, New York City, New York.

Dear Sir:

I have just finished reading the magnificent speech which you delivered before the National Catholic Youth Organization on November 16, 1963 entitled "Keys to Freedom". Surely every American who still loves his God, his Country, and his Freedom should read this speech.

I have been a great admirer of yours for many years for your stand for God, America, and our Freedom. Only a great patriot could have stood for these factors such as you have and are doing. Your speech "Keys to Freedom" only makes this fact more clear.

Your attempt to put the cold, hard facts about Communism and Crime before the American people is one of the greatest services that could be afforded to the American people at this time in history. Unless the American people become informed on the threats to their freedom, the chains of bondage will continue to be drawn closer and closer about us.

It should be startling to every freedom-loving American to stop and consider:

1. as you said in your speech, that Communist spokesmen have the right "to use our public school forum to promote the secular creed of Marxism-Leninism which openly and avowedly denies God" but at the same time the rest of us are prohibited by our own Supreme Court from using the same public school forum to express our faith that God does exist.

2. that our government leaders have adopted a peaceful co-existence policy even though, as Billy James Hargis says in his book "Communism, The Total Lie", "in the 25 years prior to 1958, the U. S. held 3,400 meetings with the Communists--including Teheran, Yalta, Potsdam, Panmunjon, and Geneva. More than 106,000,000 words were spoken. Out of these meetings came the 52 major agreements. 50 of which have already been broken by the Communists, and countless minor agreements, most of which have been broken by the Communists."

From "Communism, The Total Lie" by Billy James Hargis, which is one of the best books I have read, describing exactly what Communism is, "The Total Lie", I quote: "In spite of the terroristic purges of Stalin, in spite of the universal enslavement of captive nations, in spite of hundreds upon hundreds of broken pledges, does a free world still continue to base its hope for the future in coexistence, cooperation, mutual aid, and further agreements with the grand champion international liars of all times? Does America lead the world in such folly? Have not the American people learned the lessons of Cuba, Tibet, Laos, India, Indonesia, Korea, China, Russia, Poland, Lithuania, Latvia, Estonia and other nations? Do not the people of America remember that President Edouard Benes of Czechoslovakia trusted the Communists and entered into agreements of friendship with them? Himself trustworthy and reasonable, he sought to deal with the Communists as any honorable man wants to deal with his fellowman. Because his own word was good and the word of his nation was good, he believed the word of Russia was good. He entered into coexistence, cooperation and mutual aid with Russia --and thus led himself and his nation to disaster.

"America and other nations still free have had the unparalleled advantage of learning the lessons of a host of unfortunate countries--and should profit by those lessons. Yet America, major hope of the free world, is disappointing the free world and destroying the hope of the enslaved world by consorting with the Communist hierarchy, seeking and entering into additional worthless agreements with them, and taking every possible step which will strengthen, rather than weaken. the strangling grip which Communism, thus aided, already has upon the nation.

"Do Christian Americans think it will be better to pray in behalf of their nation from slave-labor camps?

"Do the American people take refuge in lies and hide themselves in falsehoods?"

Mr. Hoover, it is past time that our government and people as a whole stood on their feet and were counted for the principles this great nation was founded upon. The only alternative to this is eventual Communist enslavement.

People shudder at even the thought of another "hot" war, because of the almost inescapable fact of the use of nuclear weapons. I would like to state at this time, as for myself, I would rather take any risk, nuclear war or other, and stand for my God, my Country, and my Freedom than to get on my knees to that "butcher" Khrushchev and lose my God, My Country, and my Freedom.

Mr. Hoover, I am writing this letter to you, respecting you as a man who is doing his best to protect this great nation from the Communist threat from "without" and "within", and also as a man who will answer any questions asked of him in a straightforward manner to the best of his ability.

In the aftermath of the satanic deed committed by Lee Harvey Oswald, a dedicated Communist, I would like the straight-forward answers to a few questions with which I am sure you, as the director of the Federal Bureau of Investigation, can supply me.

1. Is is not true that, after an attempt was made on U. S. General Walker's life early in the summer, Lee Harvey Oswald, the assassin of John F. Kennedy, was taken into custody either by the F. B. I. or some other law enforcement branch?

2. If Lee Harvey Oswald was indeed taken into custody, why wasn't a full investigation made on this man and his activities?

3. Was there any person who gave direct or indirect orders to halt this investigation of Lee Harvey Oswald?

4. What exactly was the reason this person gave to halt this investigation of Lee Harvey Oswald?

5. And, finally, Mr. Hoover, in your personal opinion, do you believe that, if a full investigation had been made on Lee Harvey Oswald at this time, Lee Harvey Oswald would have been in a position to committ the murder of John F. Kennedy?

Mr. Hoover, I feel that you are the only person in our government that I can depend upon to give me the honest, straight-forward answers to these questions.

Finally, quoting again from Billy James Hargis' book, Communism, The Total Lie.: "The American people must be given the truth, and they must take personal responsibility for the truth. The American people must awaken to what has already happened throughout the world and what has already happened inside America itself. The American people must take a hard look at what is going on, and at those who are running to and fro about the land leading the nation into the coils of Communism. The hope of America is in its common people where the Faith of Our Fathers still is strong".

Looking forward to the answers to these questions, I am,

Yours for God, Country,
Constitution, & Freedom

Dear Mr. Kachel:

I have received your letter of January 26th and I want you to know how much I appreciate your kind comments concerning "Keys to Freedom."

It is not possible to answer your questions because information in the files of the FBI must be maintained as confidential and is available for official use only. I would like to point out that in accordance with instructions of President Johnson, evidence relating to the assassination of President Kennedy is being forwarded to the Presidential Commission. It is the responsibility of the Commission to make any public dissemination. You may be interested in knowing, however, that Oswald was never arrested by the FBI and that although he was under investigation by this Bureau, no information had been developed indicating he was a potential assassin.

Enclosed is some literature I hope will be of interest to you.

Sincerely yours,

On 1-31-64 Mr. Eisenberg of the President's Commission contacted Mr. R. H. This info was telephonically furnished SAC Shanklin, Dallas, by Supervisor R. E. Lenihan and Mr. Shanklin indicated DL will comply but that it would be an extremely difficult research problem for DL to alert auxiliary offices which might possess evidence this case. Supervisor Lenihan then informed Shanklin that Shanklin should confine himself to submitting evidence maintained by DL and that the Bureau would notify all other offices of the Commission's desires. Teletype necessary inasmuch as the Commission is in daily session and might make a request for a certain piece of evidence at any time.

MRS. TIPPIT further advised a number of relatives and friends had handled this envelope and its enclosure and she stated she would determine their exact names and correct addresses and furnish same on 1/14/64. She said she felt sure each of these persons would gladly furnish their fingerprints if the Bureau so desired.

The letter is not being quoted herein inasmuch as it is self explanatory.

The Xerox copies of instant letter were prepared by SA's CARTER and GRIFFIN, on 1/14/64.

MRS. TIPPIT is the widow of Officer J. D. TIPPIT who was/murdered by LEE HARVEY OSWALD on 11/22/63, at Dallas, Texas, shortly after the assassination of President KENNEDY. Copies of all information developed in this case are being placed in the captioned files.

On 1/13/64, SA WILL HAYDEN GRIFFIN contacted AUSA B. H. TIMMINS, at Dallas, Texas, and he advised he was withholding a prosecutive opinion until investigation was conducted to attempt to determine the intent of the sender as set out in the penultimate paragraph "...if you refuse to cooperate, You will dig Your own grave, besides, You have nothing to loose. It is worth finishing the job, Your husband has started for You and children, so pick up the, were Your husband had to drop it."

The Bureau is requested to conduct the following investigation and examination through the FBI Identification Division and the FBI Laboratory and through the Legats at Bonn, Germany, and Bern, Switzerland:

1. Search Anonymous Letter File in an attempt to identify the Unknown Subject.

2. Attempt to identify sender through search of Bureau indices.

3. Examine original extortion letter for latent prints.

4. Attempt to identify make and model of typewriter used in preparing instant letter.

DL 9-1914, 100-10461, 44-1359

The Bureau is requested to furnish the result of the examination in sufficient copies for Dallas to place them in the three captioned files.

Xerox copies are prepared and attached for use of Bureau and Legats at Bonn, Germany, and Bern, Switzerland.

Div 6 The Legat at Bonn will attempt to locate and interview the sender, MR. D. EVERSHIRE, Admiralengracht 142,I, Amsterdam, The Netherlands, and also THOMAS WILLIAM EVERSHIRE, who signed the letter T. W. Evershire.

Div 6 The Legat at Bern, Switzerland, will determine if possible the identity of the owner of account number as set out in the extortion letter and also the identity of MR. CHARLES ROSENBLAD, who is also mentioned in this letter.

The original of the envelope and the letter should be returned to the Dallas Division after the appropriate examinations have been made.

A report will be submitted by Dallas upon receipt of results of Laboratory and Identification Division examinations and the results of investigation by the Legats at Bonn and Bern.

The leads for the Legats are being set forth on this airtel rather than on the letterhead memorandum in view of the possibility that the enclosed letterhead memorandum may be disseminated by the Bureau.

Title: LEE HARVEY OSWALD

Character: INTERNAL SECURITY - R - CUBA

Synopsis:

ROSE DOERFER, Justice of the Peace, Albuquerque, New Mexico, recalled DAVID C. GLASS as a person definitely in need of psychiatric care. She stated that approximately one year ago, JANE MURPHY reported GLASS to her for striking her and as a nuisance. GLASS in an informal hearing before her claimed MURPHY came to him in his dreams and she also came to him through his keyhole in order to make love to him. He also accused her of being a communist and a witch who put "stuff" in his Coca Cola to make him do things he was not supposed to do. DOERFER had only one contact with MURPHY and had no prior knowledge of OSWALD; she had no pertinent information concerning the assassination of President KENNEDY.

DETAILS

An effort was made to contact ROSE DOERFER on January 22, 1964, at her office at 302½ Central, S. W., Albuquerque, New Mexico. She could not be located there and a sign on the door stated she was out of town until January 27, 1964.

On January 22, 1964, Mrs. GRAYCE PADILLA, Secretary, Bernalillo County Sheriff's Office, Albuquerque, New Mexico, advised she could locate no record of DAVID C. GLASS in the files of that office. She said that if the matter was handled by a Justice of the Peace, the Sheriff's Office would have no record of the matter and the only record which exists would be maintained by that Justice of the Peace. She stated that

ROSE DOERFER, a Justice of the Peace, is undoubtedly attending a conference for Justices of the Peace at Santa Fe, New Mexico.

Thereafter efforts were made to contact ROSE DOERFER at her residence at 8036 Snow, N. E., on January 23, 24 and 25, 1964; however, no one could be located there.

Efforts were also made to locate JANE MURPHY at 506 Sycamore, S. E., Albuquerque, New Mexico; however, no one could be located at this address.

The 1962 Directory for the City of Albuquerque lists GENE E. MURPHY at 506 Sycamore, S. E. He was listed as a saw filer at the Bates Lumber Company.

Thereafter on January 23, 1964, Mr. WILLIAM BATES, American Builders Supply, 2701 Commercial, N. E., Albuquerque, New Mexico, advised that that company was formerly known as the Bates-Roberts Lumber Company. He recalled that GENE MURPHY was formerly employed there as a saw filer. Mr. BATES said that he had just been in telephonic contact with BILL THOMAS, a logging contractor for the Raymond Logging Company at Klamath Falls, Oregon. THOMAS mentioned in his conversation that he had just seen GENE MURPHY and usually sees him every few days at Klamath Falls. Mr. BATES advised that he could not state for sure that GENE MURPHY's wife was named JANE; however, he recalled that GENE MURPHY was having trouble with his wife and they did not get along too well. He stated that MURPHY could not stand to live with his wife; therefore, he left the Albuquerque area leaving his wife here. He does not know where she is at the present time.

On January 23, 1964, Mr. JIM J. MORGESE, 549 Mulberry, S. E., Albuquerque, New Mexico, advised that he owns the apartments covering the address 506 Sycamore, S. E. He stated that GENE MURPHY and his wife, JANE, lived at 506 Sycamore, S. E., until about August, 1963. He said they both left this address at approximately the same time but he does not believe that they left together. He said that MURPHY went to some other location; however, his wife, JANE, returned to California without him. He does not know JANE MURPHY's present address in California.

Mrs. ROSE DOERFER was interviewed at her office at 302½ Central, S. W., where she is a Justice of the Peace.

She advised that approximately one year ago, JANE MURPHY was referred to her officially by the District Attorney's Office in Albuquerque. JANE MURPHY complained that she had been struck by DAVID C. GLASS and also reported him as a nuisance. She thereafter held an informal hearing in the presence of both JANE MURPHY and GLASS after which time it was recommended that GLASS post a six-month peace bond with local bondsman MAX BACA. She could not recall the amount of the peace bond; however, immediately thereafter she determined that GLASS never made a downpayment on the bond and he left town after quitting his job. Therefore, the peace bond was dropped. She said she has not seen him since the original hearing before her.

Concerning the events which led to his appearance there, Mrs. DOERFER stated that she vaguely recalls that GLASS was apparently a brilliant scientist at one time who worked for Lockheed Aircraft Company in California. She stated, however, that when she was in contact with him he was mentally unbalanced and definitely needed psychiatric care. She also was of the belief that JANE MURPHY had at some time in the past dated GLASS but only on an extremely casual basis. Prior to the time that he was reported to her, Mrs. DOERFER stated GLASS would sit in the public park across the street from MURPHY's residence and stare at MURPHY's apartment for hours on end both during the day and the night. On one occasion he went across to her apartment and smashed the screen door. MURPHY became frightened and told GLASS that she would talk to him in the park where there were a lot of people around in view of the fact that she felt it would be safer there. When they got over to the park, he struck her and knocked her into a bench.

Mrs. DOERFER stated that GLASS seriously claimed that MURPHY would come to him through his keyhole no matter where he was and make love to him. He also claimed that MURPHY would come to him in his dreams and do the same thing. GLASS also claimed that JANE MURPHY put "stuff" in his Coca Cola and after drinking the Coca Cola, it would make him do things he was not supposed to . GLASS also accused MURPHY of being a communist whereupon she accused him of being crazy. GLASS also accused MURPHY of asking him to come to Albuquerque in order to kill her husband for her.

Mrs. DOERFER also stated that the matter was resolved when JANE MURPHY told him that she would not come to him in his dreams anymore or come through his keyhole and would leave his body entirely alone. Mrs. DOERFER stated that she strongly urged GLASS to submit to a psychiatric examination to which he agreed. She thereafter made an appointment for him with a Dr. MILLER at the Bernalillo County Indian Hospital in Albuquerque, New Mexico. Mrs. DOERFER does not recall specifically but believes that GLASS appeared for several of these appointments and thereafter quit his job at Montgomery Ward and Company and departed from Albuquerque. She said she has not seen MURPHY or GLASS since the above hearing. She reiterated the fact that he was definitely in need of psychiatric treatment. She also advised she has no information concerning the assassination of the late President KENNEDY other than what she has learned through regular news media. She said she never heard of LEE HARVEY OSWALD or JACK RUBY prior to that time and could furnish no information concerning them or any possible relationship between the two. She advised that she doubts if any record exists concerning the hearing and stated that if one did exist it would be extremely difficult to locate it at this time in view of the fact that they have instituted a new records system and the old records are not filed in any particular order.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

Special Agent Warren C. DeBrueys' report dated December 2, 1963, (Field Office File No. Dallas 100-10461 -- Bureau File No. 105-82555) at page 190 sets forth a letter from Ruth Paine to Mrs. Paul Blanchard dated July 18, 1963, in which the writer stated she corresponded with Marina Oswald in Russian. In Special Agent Manning C. Clements' report dated November 30, 1963, (Field Office File No. Dallas 44-1639) at page 828 it is further reported that Dallas Police Lieutenant Wells has in his possession three metal boxes containing Mrs. Paine's correspondence files, including letters to and from friends, which she voluntarily turned over to the Dallas Police Department.

I would appreciate obtaining through the Bureau the original documents contained in these files, with the understanding that they will be returned if and when they have no further pertinence to the work of this Commission. Should any of these documents be in Russian or another foreign language, I would further appreciate your Bureau furnishing a translation thereof.

J. Lee Rankin, Counsel to the President's Commission on the Assassination, by 1-10-64 letter pointed to a passage in Dallas' 11-30-63 report in the Jack Ruby case in which it was recorded that the Dallas Police had in their possession three metal boxes containing personal correspondence of Mrs. Ruth Paine to relatives and friends and her personal diary. The report showed that this material was reviewed by Dallas and that no correspondence was contained therein to or from the Oswalds and Jack Ruby. As this material did not appear pertinent to our investigation and was purely personal in nature, it was not reported in detail.

Mr. Rankin's letter noted that in the Dallas 12-2-63 report in the Oswald case a reference is made to a letter written by Mrs. Paine in the Russian language to Marina Oswald. Rankin asked that we obtain for the Commission the original documents in the three metal boxes described in the Ruby report which material will be returned if and when it is found the documents have no further pertinence to the work of the Commission.

The Commission's request has been relayed to Dallas which office advises that the desired documents are still in the possession of the Dallas Police and that our Dallas Office is obtaining same which will be forwarded to the Bureau 1-15-64. We do have in our files four letters handwritten in the Russian language from Mrs. Paine to Mrs. Oswald. They are dated 5-16; 7-14; 7-21; and 8-24-63. They were afforded summary translations and nothing of pertinence was noted therein. As the Commission is apparently interested in seeing any and all correspondence from Mrs. Paine to Mrs. Oswald, the four above-mentioned

We will also furnish to the Commission full translations of the four letters to Mrs. Oswald from Mrs. Paine.

Honorable J. Lee Rankin
General Counsel
The President's Commission
200 Maryland Avenue, N. E.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Rankin:

Reference is made to your letter dated January 1964, requesting the original documents contained in three metal boxes which were referred to on page 828 of the report in the Jack Ruby case of Special Agent Manning C. Clements dated November 30, 1963, at Dallas.

The material you sought has been received and is being furnished herewith. This material was returned to Mrs. Ruth Hyde Paine by the Dallas Police Department on the afternoon of January 15, 1964, on which date Mrs. Paine made it available to our Dallas office. Mrs. Paine explained that missing from the material she made available were color slides taken by herself in Europe in 1952 and color slides taken by her husband, Michael Paine, in Korea and Japan during the Korean War. In addition, various photographic equipment which was returned to her by the Dallas police was retained by her.

Mrs. Paine stated that among the material made available to us were many personal items. She requested that none of the material be made public unless it appears that such material has a bearing on the Oswald investigation. She requested that all material not found to have a bearing on the Oswald matter be returned to her at the earliest opportunity. Mrs. Paine stated that the material in question was located in her bedroom closet at her Irving, Texas, residence and was not in the bedroom closet of the room occupied by Marina Oswald. She related that while she gave consent to the Dallas Police Department to remove material from her home which belonged to the Oswalds, she did not consent to the removal of her personal property.

Due to the voluminous nature of this material which was previously reviewed by our Dallas office as reported in the afore-mentioned report of Special Agent Manning C. Clements, we do not intend to make copies of it. In view of the request of Mrs. Paine, it would be appreciated if the material would be returned to this Bureau at the earliest possible date so that we may comply with Mrs. Paine's request.

Reurairtel 1/22/64. Information set forth in referenced airtel was taken up with J. Lee Rankin, General Counsel for President's Commission, today and Rankin made it very clear there was no desire on part of President's Commission to ask for any duplication of work previously performed by the FBI. Rankin stated that the letter which had been sent to the Governor of Louisiana did not request any interviews; however, it did request that certain documents relating to school attendance be obtained.

Mr. Rankin stated the documents had been requested so that the Commission would have on permanent file either the original or a true copy of the documents requested and that was the only purpose for the request.

As a result of the discussion had with Mr. Rankin, it was indicated the President's Commission would direct a communication to the Governor again outlining their request and making it clear that it was not desired that a number of interviews be conducted but rather they were only desirous of obtaining the documents named in the original communication. Rankin was not advised the source of the information furnished your office but was merely advised complaints relative to duplication of effort had been received by the New Orleans Office.

The following information was obtained confidentially by SA FRANK A. SASS, JR. from [redacted] was at that time in possession of a one page letter, the letterhead of which was the Presidential Commission to investigate the Assassination of President JOHN F. KENNEDY. The letter was signed by LEE RANKIN, General Counsel for the Commission. The letter was directed to Governor JAMES H. DAVIS, State of Louisiana, Baton Rouge, Louisiana. The letter in its first paragraph dealt briefly with the jurisdiction of the Commission and the Directives given to it by President LYNDON B. JOHNSON.

The second paragraph of the letter pointed out that in connection with their inquiry into the President's Assassination they requested investigation be conducted through the Orleans and St. Tammany Parish School Boards at New Orleans and Covington, Louisiana respectively by the Governor's Office. They specified that they were interested in securing wherever possible the original documents reflecting all school attendance for LEE HARVEY OSWALD in each of these locals and also indicated an interest in the results of interviews conducted with those people who had been familiar with OSWALD while in attendance at the appropriate institutions.

The letter requested that any documents obtained be forwarded to the Commission in Washington, D. C.

[redacted] stated that this particular inquiry which had been directed to him by the Governor's Office seemed to be "ridiculous" because he had found from his inquiries that in each instance the FBI, the Secret Service, and in one or two other cases, other Governmental Agencies had already made an identical inquiry. He stated that it was obvious and very apparent that this investigation requested of him by the Governor's Office was a complete duplication and in fact created a problem, particularly in Orleans Parish where the Orleans Parish School Board seemed indignant at additional requests to make records available after they had already been perused so thoroughly prior to this time by Governmental Agencies.

The above is for the Bureau's information because New Orleans feels that the Bureau should be made aware of inquiry.

The investigation the President's Commission requested of the Governor of Louisiana was previously conducted by the FBI and the results furnished to the Commission. It seems apparent that the Commission is reviewing our reports and setting out requests to have the investigations we have conducted re-done. If the Commission intends to continue this duplication of effort, this matter will stretch out over an extremely lengthy period of time.

It is recommended that Inspector Malley advise Mr. Rankin that we have received this information, without revealing the source. Mr. Malley will point out to Rankin that we have conducted extensive investigation re Oswald's school attendance in Louisiana and elsewhere, including interviews with teachers and associates of Oswald, and have reported the results in detail to the Commission. Mr. Malley should ask Rankin flatly as to the purpose of the Commission's request of state authorities for duplicate investigation.

It is suggested that Mr. Malley further advise Rankin that if this is a procedure the Commission is following generally, we will be glad to stop all further investigation on the part of the FBI to avoid duplication.

If we get no satisfaction, it is suggested we go in writing to the Commission and also that Mr. DeLoach advise Mr. Jenkins of the White House.

I concur- [illegible]

On 1/21/64, Honorable ALBERT W. WATSON, U. S. Congressman, Second Congressional District of South Carolina, Columbia, S. Accordingly, an agent proceeded to the office of Mr. WATSON, where he was introduced to FRANCIS EDWIN DU BOSE and upon interview, Mr. DU BOSE furnished the following information:

It is to be noted that during the interview, Mr. DU BOSE appeared to be very nervous, furnished incoherent information, and for several minutes would stare out of the window and make no comments. He advised as follows:

He resides at 915 Abbeville St. in Columbia, S. C. and he is presently employed by the Columbia Films, Inc., Shakespeare Road, Columbia, S. C., as a film editor. He has known Congressman WATSON for approximately 20 years and they are both members of the Park Street Baptist Church in Columbia, S. C.

Mr. DU BOSE displayed the 12/2/63 issue of Newsweek Magazine and pointed out on Page 27 of this magazine an article entitled, "The Marxist Marine" and on this page was a picture of LEE HARVEY OSWALD. He advised that he is positive that he has seen LEE HARVEY OSWALD somewhere and said that approximately one year ago an individual by the name of CARL RING worked as a camera man and director for about four months at TV Station WCCA-TV, also located on Shakespeare Road in Columbia, S. C. This TV station is located next door to the Columbia Films, Inc., and CARL RING closely resembled LEE HARVEY OSWALD. He said RING had blond hair and long eyelashes. CARL RING lived in a house trailer with his wife and one child and he "came from nowhere and left suddenly, stating he was going to California".

When specifically asked if he was sure that this individual resembled LEE HARVEY OSWALD, Mr. DU BOSE stated, "RING was aloof like OSWALD and therefore I think it may have been OSWALD." DU BOSE stated that he didn't know why, but he felt like nobody should be interviewed at TV Station WCCA-TV in Columbia, S. C., regarding this matter, and he heard that CARL RING voluntarily left his employment with this television station.

He stated that this concluded this phase of the interview; however, he said, "My main thoughts at the moment are was he (OSWALD) or wasn't he in Columbia and if he was why so?"

DU BOSE advised that the next part or information he desired to relate regarded a religious matter, when he furnished the following information:

A radio recording company named the Richland Custom Recording Company is located on Shakespeare Road, Columbia, S. C., in the building where he works for the Columbia Films, Inc. The Richland Custom Recording Co. is owned by one HOMER FESPERMAN and this concern does all kinds of recording work. For about the last 1½ years, the Richland Custom Recording Co. has produced a religious program for radio and Mr. DU BOSE stated "I have no confidence in the religious sincerity of a minister, JOHN EDWIN HAGGAI, who records these sermons. He said that he understands that HAGGAI formerly resided in Lancaster, S. C., but that he is presently listed in the Atlanta, Ga. telephone directory.

DU BOSE advised that the point he wanted to make here was that he questions the sincerity of Rev. HAGGAI because he reminds him, DU BOSE, of no preacher he has ever met and he doesn't like the way this man looks as he is very grim and stern and his sermons are very high brow, whereas people like Rev. BILLY GRAHAM preach to "everybody" and so that everybody can understand the sermon. He said Rev. HAGGAI uses large words that require one to use a dictionary to understand. DU BOSE stated that he also thought it very strange that Rev. HAGGAI did not want anybody around him when he was recording and that he always shut the doors and told everybody that they must keep out of the studio where he was recording. He said he didn't think this man was friendly enough to be a minister.

He stated that he would not be surprised if Rev. HAGGAI is a Communist, although he had nothing to base this on. DU BOSE stated that these recorded radio sermons are sent to about 50 radio stations throughout the United States and that during the last 9 or 10 months he, DU BOSE, has been maintaining a list of the cities to where the stations are located that these sermons are being mailed for broadcasting and he has looked up each of the cities in his encyclopedia Britannica at home. As an example of the strangeness surrounding this, he stated that take the city of Forstbury, Md., which is the only town in Maryland where these programs are sent. He stated that his research in his encyclopedia disclosed that this town is completely undermined with old coal mines and he thought this was strange. He was unable to furnish any additional information as to why he thought such was strange.

He said another example is that these radio sermons are sent to Waynesbury, Pa., and this encyclopedia states that this city is above systems of caves and caverns, and he thought such was very strange, but he could not state why he thought this strange. He also pointed out that these sermons are mailed to radio stations at Decatur, Alabama, and his encyclopedia shows that this is a very large steel town, but that he does not know what is unusual about this, but something may be important here also. He further noted that these programs are mailed to such towns as Canton, Ohio, which is also a very large industrial city. In addition to other cities mentioned, Mr. DU BOSE stated that these sermons are also mailed to a radio station in Hamilton, Ohio, and according to his encyclopedia, this is a city which furnishes 3/4 of the world's bank vaults and safes. He said that he believes some of these programs may be broadcast in towns where possibly Atomic Energy installations are located, but he could attach no particular significance to this.

He stated that it, "truly got his dander up when he learned that these sermons were being sent to such towns as Shelton, Washington and Puyallup, Washington, and that he is now checking on these cities". He stated that over radio stations the program where these sermons are broadcast is known as the "Key to Life Program", but that he has noted recently that a number of the cities receiving copies of these recorded sermons have discontinued broadcasting them because the station stated that they couldn't afford to keep the programs on as they were non-paying programs. He said that his main objection to the Rev. HAGGAI is that he was different from most other Evangelist preachers he has ever heard.

The following physical description of Mr. DU BOSE was obtained through observation and interview:

Name	FRANCIS EDWIN DU BOSE
Race	White
Sex	Male
Address	915 Abbeville St., Columbia, S. C.
Age	33
Born	10/22/30, Columbia, S. C.
Employment	Film Editor, Columbia Films, Inc., Shakespeare Road, Columbia, S. C.

At the conclusion of the interview, Mr. DU BOSE was advised that if he had any further information he wished to furnish to the FBI he could either visit the FBI Office or contact an agent who would get in touch with him.

At the conclusion of the interview, [redacted] Columbia, S. C., who is the [redacted] confidentially advised as follows:

[redacted] has known FRANCIS E. DU BOSE, mentioned above, for a number of years as he resides in the same neighborhood and attends the same church as [redacted] does. [redacted] described him as a "strange individual" who has always been closely sheltered by his mother, who is a very dominating person. [redacted] stated that [redacted] feels that this is a very unfortunate case and that he is almost a "nervous wreck".

At the conclusion of the interview with Mr. DU BOSE, Congressman WATSON advised that he thought from the initial interview with Mr. DU BOSE that he was possibly [redacted] however, he felt that if he had any information of value, it could best be furnished to the FBI. Mr. WATSON was advised that Mr. DU BOSE was informed that he could contact the FBI office at Columbia, S. C., if he had any additional information to furnish the FBI and Mr. WATSON stated that he greatly appreciated the FBI's interest in this matter.

In view of the nature of the information furnished by Mr. DU BOSE, no further action is being taken regarding such, and it is being furnished to the Bureau for information due to the source from which it emanated.

Re Dallas teletype, 1/22/64; Bureau radiogram, 1/21/64; and Dallas airtel, 1/13/64, reporting data from [redacted]

Chief of Police JESSE E. CURRY advised me this date that he has talked to Lt. GEORGE BUTLER regarding his allegedly going to assist EARL LIVELY, JR. in writing a book and making available information from the files of the Dallas Police Department and any information furnished that Department by the FBI in connection with the LEE HARVEY OSWALD case. Chief CURRY states that BUTLER denies any such connection and has assured CURRY that he will under no circumstances make any such information available to LIVELY. BUTLER stated that he had been at DR. ROBERT MORRIS' house one night some time ago when LIVELY was there, and a discussion was had concerning LIVELY writing a book, but he (BUTLER) reiterated that he had not agreed to participate in this project and certainly had not agreed to furnish any information from the files of the Dallas Police Department.

Earl Lively, a writer, originally approached a former informant of our Dallas Office, [redacted] requesting assistance in writing an anticommunist book which would stress the Fair Play for Cuba Committee's connections with Lee Harvey Oswald. Lively claimed that Lieutenant George Butler of the Dallas Police, was assisting him and was going to try to get any information he could that the FBI turned over to the Dallas PD in connection with the Oswald case. SAC Dallas was instructed to impress upon the head of the Dallas PD the undesirability of Lieutenant Butler being involved in such a scheme. The attached airtel reflects that the Chief of Police advises Butler denies any connection with such plan.

On January 28, 1964, Mr. MAURY GOODMAN, sales manager, Berland Shoe Company, 4241 Folsom Avenue, St. Louis, Missouri, was interviewed and at first could not recall ever having known LEE HARVEY OSWALD. Upon mention by the interviewing agent of Mrs. MARGUERITE OSWALD having worked for GOODMAN at the Dolly Shoe Company, in New Orleans, Louisiana, GOODMAN was able to recall LEE HARVEY OSWALD. GOODMAN stated that he could not recall the exact dates of employment for either OSWALD or OSWALD's mother, but felt that it was sometime in 1955. GOODMAN stated that he, GOODMAN, joined the Dolly Shoe Company in February, 1955, as a partner, but left the company in October, 1957. He does not know who would have the books of the company or the original pay records.

GOODMAN recalled that MARGUERITE OSWALD was a cashier and sales clerk at the company, and recalled that she was a very pleasant person and a very good worker. GOODMAN said that at one time, she had asked him to employ her son LEE, so as to "help keep the boy off the street and give him something to do."

GOODMAN said that LEE HARVEY OSWALD worked for him mostly on Saturdays and sometimes a day or two during the week, but that his employment was strictly on a part time basis. He said that basically LEE HARVEY OSWALD was a stock boy, but that they had attempted at one time to train him in sales work, but with no success.

GOODMAN remembered OSWALD as being a "nice, pleasant little boy, but with not much sense." GOODMAN was unable to recall much of OSWALD's character, but stated that to the best of his recollection, he had never heard OSWALD make any threats against the U. S. Government or anyone in it, nor could he recall OSWALD as ever having expressed any interest in any subversive groups or parties.

GOODMAN said that OSWALD's mother, MARGUERITE, left the Dolly Shoe Company while, he, GOODMAN, was still the manager, but he could not recall what her next employment was.

Mrs. VIRGIL (WILMA) DYKES, 1038 South Whitcomb, Indianapolis, Indiana, advised that she is a contributor to the Baptist mission in Mexico. She stated that approximately two years ago, someone submitted her name to this particular mission run by JOHN HOWARD BOWEN and she has been contributing to this mission ever since that time. She stated her last contribution was mailed in the middle of January, 1964 to BOWEN at Niza 22, Mexico.

Mrs. DYKES personally never met BOWEN, but has received a number of thank you notes from BOWEN and Christmas cards with some informative comments concerning the mission and himself. She stated the last thank you card contained information that he had hurt his back and was going to Hot Springs, Arkansas in January, 1964 and that for any reason, could be located through General Delivery in that city.

Mrs. DYKES was exhibited two photographs of BOWEN, which she was unable to identify. She further advised she never heard of the name ALBERTO OSBORNE.

Mrs. DYKES made available a group photograph of BOWEN along with some of his parishioners, which was apparently taken in December, 1961 and it was sent to her by BOWEN as a Christmas card.

Mrs. DYKES advised she had no other information available pertaining to BOWEN other than it was her impression that he was running a bona fide Baptist mission in Mexico.

The following investigation was conducted by SA MILTON R. KAACK on January 20, 1964:

AT NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA

Mr. WILLIAM BALL, supervisor, Delta Airlines, Reservations Office, 919 Gravier Street, advised there was no direct airline service between New Orleans, Louisiana, and Austin, Texas. He stated that passengers traveling to Austin, Texas, from New Orleans, would have to either go via Houston, Texas, or via Dallas, Texas. He said the route via Houston is the more direct route and is the one normally used by passengers traveling between the two cities. Passengers going to Austin from New Orleans would fly on one of the regular Delta flights between New Orleans and Houston, and then transfer to Trans-Texas Airways at Houston. Mr. BALL furnished the following information concerning Trans-Texas flights between Houston and Austin:

FLIGHT NO.	LEAVE HOUSTON	ARRIVE AUSTIN
401	7:30 AM	8:22 AM
409	9:15 AM	10:07 AM
405	3:05 PM	3:57 PM

Mr. BALL said that the above schedule was the current one and he did not know of any substantial change between this schedule and the one that existed in September, 1963.

Mr. BALL advised that if a passenger desired to use Delta's service through Dallas, Texas, there was a flight leaving New Orleans at 7:30 AM, and arriving at Dallas at 9:33 AM. Another flight leaves New Orleans at 12:45 PM and arrives at Dallas at 2:08 PM.

206	2:45 PM	4:00 PM

Mr. D'ANTONI advised that in addition to Delta and Eastern Airlines furnishing passenger service from New Orleans to Dallas, that Trans-Texas Airlines also had service between New Orleans and Dallas, Texas.

CARL BLOUIN, Trans-Texas Airlines, Moisant International Airport, advised that the following was the Trans-Texas schedule between New Orleans and Dallas in September, 1963:

FLIGHT NO.	LEAVE NEW ORLEANS	ARRIVE DALLAS
100	6:50 AM	11:10 AM

Mr. JOHN BAKER, Braniff International Airlines, 724 Common Street, advised that the following is the present partial schedule of flights between Dallas and Austin, via Braniff Airlines. He said there have been no basic changes in this schedule since September, 1963:

EARL GAY, assistant terminal manager, Greyhound Bus Terminal, Tulane and South Claiborne Avenues, advised that the following was the schedule of bus service between New Orleans and Austin, Texas, in September, 1963:

MEMBERSHIP IN CIVIL AIR PATROL

NO 100-16601/dmk

The following investigation was conducted by SA JOHN T. REYNOLDS:

AT KENNER, LOUISIANA

Mr. JOHN CERAVOLA who advised that his name is also carried as JOHN CIRAVOLO, 301 Farrar Place, an employee of the East Jefferson Waterworks, advised on January 22, 1964, that he served in the U.S. Air Force during World War II, was discharged in 1946 and then served in the Air National Guard for seven months. He said that he has never been in the Civil Air Patrol but said that he has an uncle by the same name who used to work at Moisant Airport.

Mr. JOHN CIRAVOLO, 315 Coleman Place, advised on January 22, 1964 that he was formerly employed at Moisant Airport until he retired about three years ago. He said that he was never in the Civil Air Patrol, did not know any of those in it, did not know LEE HARVEY OSWALD or JACK LEON RUBY, but did mention that he had a nephew living in town by the same name who used to come out to the airport.

AT NEW ORLEANS, LOUISIANA

Mrs. JOHN CIRAVOLO, 4313 South Carrolton Avenue, advised on January 23, 1964 that her son JOHN was formerly in the Civil Air Patrol at Moisant Airport. He is presently employed by the California Company and is out on an oil rig somewhere in the Gulf of Mexico. He is expected to return about January 30, 1964.

Date 1/24/64

Mr. ANTHONY ATZENHOFFER, JR., known as Tony, 3029 Albert Street, employed at the Mechanical Supply Company, 3119 South Carrolton Avenue, advised that he was in the Civil Air Patrol (CAP), student or cadet unit, at Moisant Airport during his high school years from 1954-1957. During this time he went from recruit to cadet commander and thus came to know most of the persons in the CAP. Mrs. ROBERT DURR was in charge of the cadet unit.

Mr. ATZENHOFFER advised that he recalled LEE HARVEY OSWALD being in the CAP and believes it was about 1955. He does not recall how long OSWALD was in the CAP but said that it was definitely not over a year and was probably for a shorter time. The only thing definitely that he could recall about him was that OSWALD was a member and that he had a uniform. He does not recall OSWALD being close to any member of the CAP and cannot recall anything further about him.

Mr. ATZENHOFFER advised that on seeing EDWARD VOEBEL on television soon after President KENNEDY's assassination, he recalled VOEBEL as being one of the active members of the unit. He also recalled JOHN CIRAVOLO as an active member and said that as he recalls they were the only three from Orleans Parish, that the rest were from Jefferson Parish. He recalled an individual named THOMPSON as a member and recalled only that he was from the Metairie section of Jefferson Parish. DAVE FERRIE was also a member but he was an in and out member. He would be active for a while and then be out of the unit for two or three months. He does not know if FERRIE was in the unit at the same time as OSWALD.

Mr. ATZENHOFFER said that the CAP had no formal or informal firearms practice except during summer camp. The summer camp would last nine days. The first year they went to Shreveport and the second year he was in, they went to the England Air Force Base at Alexandria, Louisiana. He has no recollection of OSWALD being in attendance at any of their summer camps, and

Mr. ATZENHOFFER examined a photograph of LEE HARVEY OSWALD, New Orleans Police Department number 112-723 and said that he was identical with the OSWALD who was in the CAP. ATZENHOFFER said he did not know JACK LEON RUBY and thus knew of no connection between OSWALD and RUBY.

Mr. JOSEPH THOMPSON, 6434 Vicksburg Street, United States Air Force Reserve, advised that he attended Beauregard Junior High School from about 1952-55 and Warren Easton High School 1955-59 and 1960-61. He has resided at 6434 Vicksburg since 1947. He entered the Civil Air Patrol in July, 1955 and was active in it until July, 1959 when he went into the Air Force. He was affiliated with the New Orleans Airport Unit of the Civil Air Patrol, which cooperated closely with the Moisant Unit from 1957 on.

Mr. THOMPSON said that after the assassination of the President, he saw OSWALD'S picture in the paper and on television. The accounts related that OSWALD had gone to Beauregard Junior High School and had lived on French Street, only a few blocks away from THOMPSON. Despite this, he was unable to recall OSWALD and was not able to do so even after he examined a Beauregard Junior High School yearbook.

To the knowledge of Mr. THOMPSON, he was the only JOSEPH THOMPSON in the Civil Air Patrol from 1955 to 1959, and he is sure he would have known if there was another member by the same name in the Moisant Unit. He said that they had one day's firearms training at Summer encampment and that was the only firearms training they received. The first Summer encampment that he attended was at the England Air Force Base at Alexandria, Louisiana, in 1956, since it was necessary to be an active member for ninety days before becoming eligible for camp. Camps are held for nine days and usually are held in June, July or August.

Mr. THOMPSON said that DAVE FERRIE became affiliated with the New Orleans Airport Unit for the first time in 1959 and claimed he was going to do big things for them. He gradually put persons he favored in the good positions and, just before THOMPSON went in the Air Force, other members of the unit were trying to oust FERRIE.

Mr. THOMPSON said that he did not know JACK LEON RUBY and thus knew of no possible connection of RUBY with OSWALD.

Lieutenant GEORGE PIAZZA, 539 Henry Clay Avenue, a member of the Louisiana Air National Guard at Alvin Callender Field, was interviewed at the U. S. Public Health Service Hospital where he is presently a patient. He advised that in 1952, he obtained his private pilot's license. About this time, he became acquainted with DAVE FERRIE, who was associated with the New Orleans airport unit of the Civil Air Patrol. FERRIE wanted him to join, and he did with the idea it might help him pay for his flying which was quite expensive. He was active only about one year in the Civil Air Patrol but frequently saw other members of the Civil Air Patrol at the New Orleans Airport, particularly, and sometimes at Moisant Airport.

Lieutenant PIAZZA advised that the photograph of LEE HARVEY OSWALD resembles someone that he has seen, but he is unable to recall OSWALD, nor is he able to place him. He said he has never seen JACK LEON RUBY to his knowledge and thus would know of no possible connection between OSWALD and RUBY.

Lieutenant PIAZZA said the New Orleans unit of the Civil Air Patrol never had any firearms practice other than at summer encampment. He said he was not in the Civil Air Patrol long enough to go to a summer encampment.

Lieutenant PIAZZA advised that he remembered TOMMY MC KIBBEN as being in the Civil Air Patrol at the same time as he. MC KIBBEN lived in Metairie on Colapisa Street, went to Seattle, Washington, about 1954 and did not return to New Orleans until about 1957.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

The following investigation was conducted by SA JOHN T. REYNOLDS at New Orleans, Louisiana.

The 1954-55 New Orleans City Directory lists THOMAS MCKIBBEN, 1840 Colapisa Street, Metairie, Louisiana, a student. The 1958 New Orleans City Directory lists THOMAS MCKIBBEN 4313 Perlita Street, employed by Hibernia National Bank. Similar employment was shown in the 1960 and 1961 directories. THOMAS MCKIBBEN is listed as residing at 7104 Spruce Street Apartment A in the 1962 directory and no employment was listed. He was not listed in the later directories.

On January 24, 1964, Mr. ALVIN MIESTER, JR., Civil Temple Building, advised that he knows a JOSEPH THOMPSON who was in the Civil Air Patrol. He said that THOMPSON resides at 6434 Vicksburg Street. He said that the name THOMAS MCKIBBEN is slightly familiar to him but their old records have been destroyed and the up-to-date records do not contain his name.

On January 24, 1964, Mr. CHARLES F. LUCIEN, Assistant Vice President assigned to personnel office, Hibernia National Bank, advised that their records reflect that THOMAS ERNEST MCKIBBEN was employed by them on August 6, 1957 and was terminated May 1, 1961 since he was not adapting himself satisfactorily to bank employment. He heard that MCKIBBEN thereafter went to work for the Thrifty Check Corporation in New Orleans and is now supposed to have returned to Seattle, Washington. On April 29, 1963 they received an inquiry from the Bank of California, Seattle, Washington, concerning MCKIBBEN.

Mr. LUCIEN said that MCKIBBEN in his application claimed to have attended Metairie Junior High School, dates not shown, Jesuit High School, New Orleans, 1952 to June 1954, Henderson High School, Seattle Washington, September, 1954 to March, 1955 when he graduated, University of Washington, March to October 1955. He claimed employment with the National Bank of Commerce, Seattle from November 1955 to June 1956, Laykin-EtCia at I. Magnums Jewelers, Seattle June, 1956 to December, 1956, and Bon Marche, Seattle January 1957 to June 1957. MCKIBBEN, who claimed to have been born January 5, 1935 at Elmhurst, New York, listed his parents as ERNEST E. MCKIBBEN, U. S. Civil Service Commission Ordinance Supply, 1840 Colapisa Street, Metairie, and Mother DAGAI HELLBERG MCKIBBEN of the same address. His wife was listed as JACQUELINE TURNER MCKIBBEN. His New Orleans addresses while with the bank were carried as 4313 Perlita Apartment C, 195 Walnut Street and 7104 Spruce Street, Apartment A.

Mr. LUCIEN said that there was no indication in the file to show whether MCKIBBEN was ever a member of the Civil Air Patrol.

On January 28, 1964 Mr. DAVE FERRIE, 3330 Louisiana Parkway, advised that he recalled MCKIBBEN and, since mentioning his name before, he is not sure whether MCKIBBEN was in the Civil Air Patrol at the same time as OSWALD. He recalled that MCKIBBEN formerly lived in Metairie, Louisiana about the time he was in the Civil Air Patrol, that he then went out West for two or three years and that on return to New Orleans he was married and mentioned having a job with a bank in New Orleans.

The following investigation was conducted by SA RICHARD E. LOGAN :

On January 21, 1964, Miss CAROLYN ESTRADE, Tulane University Housing Office, New Orleans, advised that Monroe Hall was just completed in June of 1963 and the 9th floor, on which rooms 966,974 and 976 are located, was not occupied during the summer of 1963. She said that anyone in the building or on the campus could have gone to the 9th floor to use extension 276 and it would be impossible to locate any specific person who did.

On January 21, 1964, Mrs. NANCY MC REYNOLDS, Communications Coordinator at Tulane University, advised her records show that extension 276 was installed on the 9th floor of Monroe Hall after it was completed during the summer of 1963 but due to the fact that the air-conditioning was not installed on that floor, it was not occupied during the summer. She said she often saw lights on that and other unoccupied floors of Monroe Hall, in the evening during the summer of 1963 so she assumed unauthorized persons were using the extensions on those floors. She said the purpose of this would be to make long distance calls without interruption and if possible without paying for them. Mrs. MC REYNOLDS explained that the building is too large for one person to watch and therefore anyone could gain entrance to Monroe Hall and could have used extension 276 whether they lived in Monroe Hall or somewhere else on the campus.

Reference is made to Airtel from Los Angeles dated 1/24/64 wherein someone had written a letter to Newsweek to the effect that Oswald alone could not have assassinated the President, and referred to "clumsey, heavy-handed FBI 'leaks.

Rod Serling, the movie star, had received a communication from Newsweek enclosing a letter purportedly written by one R. Serling, Culver City, California. Serling had not written the letter. The letter contained the return address, R. Serling, MGM Studios, Culver City, California. Serling also advised he recently received a letter from Senator Thomas Kuchel dated 12/31/63 referring to the same letter. Serling said he did not write any letters to Newsweek.

It was recommended and approved we contact the Senator's office and advise him of the fact that Serling did not write the letter. It was further recommended that no further investigation be conducted. The Director approved.

Kemper on 1/29/64 contacted Mr. Hass, Administrative Assistant to the Senator and he procured the letter from his files. It is attached. This letter was handled in the Senator's office by Peggy Whalen, and she said that the letter was answered routinely on an automatic typewriter and that she had no idea who R. Serling was, but while the envelope has been destroyed, it undoubtedly had the return address, MGM Studios, because it is written in her handwriting under the signature of the letter. Mr. Hass said they didn't want the letter back.

It is further noted this letter has a P.S. on it which states, "I am sending a copy of this letter to the President, to the Chief Justice, the Attorney General, to many Senators and Representatives, to the Press, television, etc."

times, at a moving target, within six seconds. So, please, for the time being, clumsey, heavy-handed F.B.I. "leaks" that seem to answer (or should I say cover) everything but the most important question of all --- the matter of how Lee Oswald did the reputedly impossible, alone.

"It shocks me to see how faithfully most of the 'press' has represented that it tends to corroborate Oswald's guilt as prima facie evidence, and that it seems to cast doubt on the man's guilt as "wild rumors." Let's isolate this messy thing to one disturbed individual. Let's not rock our undemocratic, political "ship of state." Perish the thought!

"P.S. As a result of the Dallas tragedy-fiasco, I fully expect an unusual waive of popular cynicism; a lawlessness; a general disrespect for law (which we may as well regard as quasi or "do-it-yourself" revolutionary activity); until government comes to more truely reflect the will --- in the false consciousness created by the "popular press" --- of all the people."

OSCAR G. WEISHEIT, JR., United States Secret Service, El Paso, advised that an Agent of the United States Secret Service in Dallas, Texas, had displayed a photograph of RICHARD CASE NAGELL to Mrs. MARINA OSWALD, wife of LEE HARVEY OSWALD, on January 18, 1964. He said this photograph of NAGELL had been taken on September 21, 1963 at the El Paso County Sheriff's Office in El Paso, Texas. Mr. WEISHEIT indicated that, according to the information he received from the Dallas Office of the United States Secret Service, Mrs. MARINA OSWALD carefully examined the photograph and said she did not know the individual appearing in the photograph and had never seen him. Mrs. OSWALD was informed of the name and aliases of RICHARD CASE NAGELL and she then stated that she did not know anyone by any of those names.

Assistant United States Attorney FREDERICK J. MORTON, El Paso, advised as follows:

RICHARD CASE NAGELL appeared in the United States District Court at El Paso on January 21, 1964 in connection with the Bank Robbery charge which had been filed against him. Upon being removed from the United States District Court House enroute to the El Paso County Jail for incarceration, and while in custody of the Deputy United States Marshals, NAGELL made wild accusations to newspaper reporters, accusing the FBI of not attempting to prevent the assassination of President KENNEDY and stating that the FBI had questioned him concerning LEE HARVEY OSWALD. These statements were made by NAGELL in a shouting manner while he was on the elevator in the United States Courthouse and while he was within earshot of newspaper reporters. In addition, NAGELL accused the Assistant United States Attorney of violating his constitutional rights.

On January 27, 1964, the El Paso Times contained an article on Page 7A entitled "SUSPECT SAYS AGENTS ASKED HIM ABOUT OSWALD, ACTIVITIES LINK."

According to the article, "RICHARD CASE NAGELL, charged with attempted bank robbery, said he had been questioned by the FBI and the U.S Secret Service regarding alleged subversive activities and also LEE HARVEY OSWALD, the alleged assassin of President Kennedy."

The article contained information regarding the appearance of NAGELL before United States District Judge ROYCE THORNBERRY in El Paso in connection with the bank robbery charge filed against him and stated, "Instead of asking for a plea, FRED MORTON, assistant U.S. district attorney, made a motion to put NAGELL in a federal institution in Springfield, Mo., for phychiatric observation. The motion was granted over NAGELL's vigorous objections.

"Later MORTON, HERBERT HOXIE, special FBI agent, and GEORGE WEISHEIT, Secret Service agent, would not comment on NAGELL's specific allegations.

"WEISHEIT did say he questioned NAGELL on a matter at NAGELL's request, but WEISHEIT would not note what the matter concerned."

The article further states, "After being ordered to Springfield for 30 days, NAGELL said he would not participate in any psychiatric examination there."

At about 3:30 p.m., 1-31-64, Mr. Branigan telephonically contacted SAC Shanklin, Dallas, and read to him a letter which was found among the effects of Oswald during the search by the Dallas PD. This letter was from Anita to Marina, Alec and June Marie and made reference to one Alfred from Cuba. Anita stated that "they" sent him to Moscow to study.

Shanklin's attention was called to the fact that the only reference to Alfred located by Bureau in previous Dallas reports is contained on page 191 of Dallas report 1-7-64 and Dallas was instructed to determine from Marina Oswald all information in her possession concerning Alfred's identity and his possible association with subject and Marina.

Shanklin was advised that a copy of Anita's letter was being furnished to the Commission 1-31-64.

Honorable J. Lee Rankin
General Counsel
The President's Commission
200 Maryland Avenue, N. E.
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Rankin:

Reference is made to your letter of February 1, 1964, wherein you requested items of clothing worn by Lee Harvey Oswald at the time he was arrested in Dallas by the Dallas Police Department.

Appropriate arrangements were made with District Attorney Henry Wade and the Dallas Police Department to obtain the items of clothing desired. In order to obtain these items of clothing it was necessary to promise the Dallas authorities that these items of clothing would be returned to Dallas by the end of this week in order that they would be available for a hearing on the Jack Ruby case to be held on February 10, 1964. In addition, it was necessary to sign a receipt showing that these items of clothing would be retained in the custody of Special Agent Vincent Drain until returned to the Dallas, Texas, authorities.

This was discussed with you telephonically on February 1, 1964, and you agreed that these items would be made available in sufficient time to return them to the Texas authorities or, if for some reason this could not be done, you would work out the necessary arrangements with the Texas authorities.

Prior to showing the items of clothing to Messrs. Melvin Eisenberg and Norman Redlich of your staff on February 2, the clothing was examined to see if any extraneous material was located in the pockets. A small slip of paper bearing four telephone numbers was located, which are as follows: OR 9-9450, RI 8-9711, AC 2-4611, and CO 7-3110. Appropriate inquiry by our New York and Dallas offices has resulted in these numbers being identified as follows:

Dear Mr Hoover:

As you know, the Commission is planning to take the testimony of Marina Oswald beginning Monday morning, February 3, at ten o'clock.

It would greatly assist the Commission in this endeavor if, through the facilities of the FBI, the following items of physical evidence could be obtained from the Dallas Police Department:

1. The trousers worn by Lee Harvey Oswald at the time he was arrested;

2. The shoes worn by Lee Harvey Oswald at the time he was arrested.

In addition, we would like to be advised as to what further items are currently in the possession of the Dallas Police Department which are relevant to this investigation.

Any effort you can make to expedite this request would be appreciated.

Honorable J. Lee Rankin
General Counsel
The President's Commission
200 Maryland Avenue, N. E.

Dear Mr. Rankin:

This will confirm delivery to the Commission by Inspector J. R. Malley, February 2, 1964, of copies of the photographs which Agents of this Bureau displayed to Marina Oswald, wife of Lee Harvey Oswald, for identification purposes in connection with our investigation in this matter. A copy of our memorandum dated February 1, 1964, at Dallas, Texas, entitled "Lee Harvey Oswald" setting forth data furnished by Marina Oswald concerning each photograph exhibited to her, was also furnished to the Commission, February 2, 1964.

This will also confirm oral information furnished the Commission by Inspector J. R. Malley, February 2, 1964, that Marina Oswald, in commenting on certain of the photographs, indicated that item one, photograph five; item seven, photograph two; item fourteen, photograph one; and item three hundred sixty-nine may be photographs of the residence of General Edwin Walker. She stated she had never seen General Walker's residence and could not recognize it from photographs. She added that Lee Harvey Oswald had told her he had taken a photograph of the Walker residence and since she could not recognize the houses depicted in the photographs exhibited to her by the interviewing Agents, she felt such photographs might be those taken of the residence of General Walker by Lee Harvey Oswald.

For your information, Agents of this Bureau, through personal observation, determined that item fourteen, photograph one, and item three hundred sixty-nine are photographs taken of the rear of General Walker's residence. No definite

At 4:05 p.m., 1-25-64, SA Arnold Brandt of the New York Office furnished the following information. A reporter from the "New York Journal American" newspaper contacted the New York Office and advised that the paper had received a tip that Oswald had been in New York as recently as sometime in 1963. The reporter stated the paper had also been informed that the New York Office was conducting some investigation concerning this matter. The New York Office answered the inquiry with no comment and suggested the reporter might desire to contact FBI Headquarters.

This memo summarizes the type of personal effects of the Oswalds and Paines in possession of the Bureau, the action which has been taken to date and makes recommendations for assuring that proper action has been taken.

NATURE OF PERSONAL EFFECTS:

The material which was seized by the Dallas Police Department under search warrant, later forwarded to the Bureau where it is being held in the Laboratory, includes generally the following types of material: 1) Personal documents including birth certificates, marriage certificates, passports, Russian work documents, trade union books, pay receipts, et cetera; 2) correspondence between Oswald and his wife while in Russia and between the Oswalds and other persons while they resided in Russia; 3) correspondence from Russian friends to the Oswalds after they came to the U.S.; 4) correspondence from friends in the U.S.; 5) correspondence with various organizations in the U.S. such as Fair Play for Cuba Committee, Socialist Workers Party, Communist Party, et cetera; 6) address book; 7) photographs of individuals and film; 8) books in the Russian language such as cook books, sewing books, novels, books of poems, et cetera; 9) literature of various organizations such as the Communist Party, the Fair Play for Cuba Committee, et cetera.

ACTION TAKEN CONCERNING THIS MATERIAL:

1) Immediately upon receipt, the material was screened and portions which appeared to be pertinent were photographed. The literature, Russian books, et cetera, which appeared to be innocuous were not photographed except for cover pages and/or tables of contents of the books. 2) These photographs were screened. Those in the foreign language were sent for translation (summary translations of personal correspondence from friends and complete translations where it appeared to be desirable, such as identification documents). 3) Copies of all of the photographs which were made were sent to the Dallas office with instructions to review, set out leads where necessary and where appropriate include in investigative reports.

Memo for Mr. Sullivan
Re: LEE HARVEY OSWALD
105-82555

OBSERVATIONS:

1. It is believed that the screening at the Bureau has been sufficient to detect any items of substance among this material; however, to be absolutely sure, it would be necessary to remove a group of supervisors from their other work to read, review and analyze each item and then check it against the voluminous Dallas reports to see whether every possible action has been taken such as interview of Marina Oswald, leads to CIA to endeavor to identify persons in Russia, leads to interview persons named in the address book et cetera. It is estimated that a squad of 5 or 6 men would need from 2 to 4 weeks to handle such a project.

2. This is a normal field investigative function. Dallas is in the best position to take this action, has already been instructed to do so, has done it or is in the process of doing it. To assign supervisors to do the same thing would represent costly duplication in addition to detracting from the other work of the Division.

3. There is one area where Bureau supervisors should take action. It is with regard to the books and literature which have not been completely photographed. This material should be examined page by page to make certain that no material is secreted therein and that these books ontain no writings by Oswald.

RECOMMENDATIONS:

1. It is recommended that another complete set of photographs of the personal effects be sent to Dallas in order to make certain that Dallas has a complete set. (Previously, this material was sent piecemeal as it was reviewed and/or translated).

2. The instructions to Dallas should be reiterated. That is, to review and analyze this material, set out leads, where necessary, have Marina Oswald interviewed where necessary and include pertinent material in the reports. The necessity of making certain that nothing pertinent is missed should be stressed.

Memo for Mr. Sullivan
105-82555

3. It is recommended that Bureau supervisors go through the books and literature which have not been completely photographed and in reviewing Dallas reports be alert for logical leads not set out by Dallas but that we not attempt to do a complete and detailed analysis of all of this material in duplication of what Dallas is doing.

You were also furnished translations of some of the material and were instructed to review the material for leads and include in the investigative reports where appropriate.

The President's Commission has expressed an extreme interest in all of the material obtained by the DL Police Department under search warrant and at the Commission's request the Bureau is furnishing either the original material or photographs of the material to the Commission. It is imperative, therefore, that we make certain that all logical action has been taken with regard to this material. The Bureau has rephotographed all of the material in possession of the Bureau and will send a complete set of these photographs to you by separate mail. The Bureau has also made complete translations of some of the items for which summary translation only were previously made. Copies of these translations will also be sent to you. The Bureau will examine the books and literature which were not completely photographed to make certain that no pertinent material is secreted therein and that they contain no pertinent writings by subject of his wife. If any such pertinent material is found, you will be advised.

of these items additional action appears necessary, it should be initiated immediately. In connection with this review, prepare a listing for the Bureau showing the inventory number, specifying whether or not the item has been included in a report (if so, identifying the report and page number) and give a brief summary of the action taken. For example:

> Item number_____. Address book of Oswald. Reported verbatim in report of_____dated _____at_____. Leads have been set out to identify and interview persons in U.S. listed therein. Leads sent to CIA to identify those in Russia, if possible. Where addresses or telephone numbers only are listed, leads were set out to identify and interview persons of interest to Oswald. Marina Oswald interviewed about each name, address and telephone number listed.

It is requested that you take the same action with regard to the material belonging to the Paines which was obtained by the DL Police Department. Since no inventory is available, the material should be divided into categories and you should indicate for the Bureau whether or not each category has been included in a report (if so specify date and page number) and summarize action taken with regard to each category.

It is emphasized that this is a double check to make certain that all logical action has been taken. Obviously because of the interest of the Commission it must be handled as soon as possible. Any question as to the scope of investigation or the desirability of setting out specific leads for any particular item should be immediately presented to the Bureau with your recommendation.

Advise by return airtel when you expect to have this action completed.

re Oswald

Dear Mr. Rankin:

The news media today indicate that Mrs. Marina Oswald has disclosed new evidence with reference to the matter of the assassination of the President.

As you are aware from the extensive reports that have been submitted to the President's Commission, Mrs. Marina Oswald has been interviewed on many occasions and has been questioned in great detail concerning her knowledge of Lee Harvey Oswald's activities.

Inasmuch as Mrs. Oswald is now being questioned by the President's Commission under oath, this Bureau would be very much interested in any information disclosed by Mrs. Oswald which would indicate a variance with information she previously furnished to Bureau representatives during their interviews with her. In the event Mrs. Oswald discloses any information that has not been previously covered during interviews with her that would warrant further investigation, I would appreciate being advised in order that any necessary investigation can be immediately undertaken.

Secret Service, one of which was a letter from Mrs. HELEN SHIRAH of Jacksonville, Florida.

On 1/30/64, a copy of the magazine entitled "Four Dark Days in History" was obtained by the Dallas Office.

A photograph of the Presidential motor-cade passing by the Texas School Book Depository (TSBD), 411 Elm Street, Dallas, Texas, on pages 4 and 5 appearing in this magazine, was shown to WILLIAM H. SHELLEY, Assistant Manager, TSBD, who readily identified a man standing just inside the doorway on the left, as TSBD employee BILLY N. LOVELADY.

SHELLEY advised he was standing beside LOVELADY when the photograph was taken but was not in view of the camera. He had seen the same photograph before and had at that time identified it as LOVELADY.

Previous investigation (being included in next Dallas report) has identified LOVELADY as the individual appearing in the same or similar picture taken by Associated Press, which has appeared in newspapers and also in the Saturday Evening Post. In connection with that investigation,

I advised Shanklin that if it had not already been done, investigation should be immediately initiated to determine when, where and how Oswald came into possession of these cameras.

I further pointed out that the property clerk's invoice or receipt of the Police Department, City of Dallas, Number 1192G, lists a Minox Camera. I advised Shanklin that our Laboratory claims that they did not have a Minox Camera and that this item should be a Minox light meter.

I requested that DL resolve whether or not a Minox Camera was among the effects of Oswald.

SUBJECT: ARTICLE IN LOOK MAGAZINE, 2-11-64 ENTITLED "WE CAN PREVENT PRESIDENTIAL ASSASSINATIONS," BY JOHN H. WALKER

Attached is copy of an article which will appear in February 11 issue of Look magazine entitled "We Can Prevent Presidential Assassinations." It was written by John H. Walker, former Assistant Supervising Agent, White House Secret Service Detail. Walker is now associated with the Society of American Florists, Washington, D. C. Walker's secretary is the daughter of Mrs. Lois W. Todd, an employee of Ident who brought an advanced copy of this article to my attention.

In his article Walker suggests several methods of strengthening the Secret Service's protection of the President. On the third page he advocates "A compulsory national fingerprinting act administered by the FBI and embracing everyone in the United States" to reveal those who have criminal records and who might wish to harm the President. As part of his recommended program to raise the quality of law enforcement at all levels in this country, Walker says, "We should certainly establish a 'West Point' of law enforcement. Perhaps it could be named the J. Edgar Hoover Academy, in honor of the man who has devoted his life to this work as head of the Federal Bureau of Investigation."

Walker says law enforcement needs a lobby and suggests "a National Association for the Advancement of Law Enforcement, financed perhaps by foundations, to arouse public interest and support for better law officers and better enforcement methods." He also urges establishment of a Federal Law Enforcement Administrators Council to insure prompt transmission of information among the many Federal agencies, saying "While the full story of Lee Harvey Oswald hasn't been revealed yet, it is obvious that he was known to the Central Intelligence Agency, the FBI and the State Department investigative agency, to name but a few of the organizations that followed his activities. And yet, somewhere, there was a breakdown in the passage of information among the responsible agencies, for Oswald was at large and not under any surveillance the day that President Kennedy rode through Dallas."

Re telephone call to Dallas from Assistant Director I. H. CONRAD at 5:40 PM, C.S.T., 1/28/64, requesting the movie camera used by ORVILLE O. NIX be obtained and forwarded to the Laboratory.

Enclosed under separate cover is one Keystone Auto 8 mm, Model K-810, 8-mm movie camera in a black leather carrying case, Keystone No. 702.

NIX advised the camera is presently loaded with a new roll of colored film of the same type with which the pictures of the Presidential Motorcade were taken, and NIX said it would be satisfactory for the Bureau to use as long as the film was replaced. He said the setting was at 64 and he was using the zoom lens with Type A film.

He recalled that the first series were made at the corner of Main and Houston just as the Motorcade turned North on Houston and he was at a position near the curb on the southwest corner of the intersection and made the pictures of the left side of the Presidential car.

After the car got by, he then proceeded to a point about 20 feet west of Houston Street on the south side of Main Street and made the latter series across an open area which was in view of his position, using the zoom lens completely open.

As to whether or not the camera was wound tightly, he pointed out that he could not recall specifically, but

MY DEAR RUSSIAN COMRADE, If you arn't now, your gonna-

TAKE UP AMERICA

..THE SECOND COMING OF PAUL REVERE, THE RUSSIANS ARE COMING, EXCUSE ME THEY ARE HERE., AN ACCIDENTAL WAR WITH RUSSIA OR ANOTHER SOEOK AND GONORRAH WOULD BE A BLESSING.

You may not believe it as yet, but you will in time. Up until six years ago there was a possibility of a war with Russia, but what has been going on since and even before is far worse, as we are handing over our nation to Russia for free, but to get down on our knees and beg Russia to take us over is beyond man's craziest imagination. Of course this is the liberal way of doing things. How could anyone imagine in his wildest dreams that Americans would sink so low rather than stick up for our rights, by allowing those shyster Liberals, serpents and a generation of vipers a start to isolate us, from the rest of the world, with Cuba and Panama Canal as a starter.

We the people dont seem to give a hoot whether Russia Russianizes us or not. All the Liberals are for it, and most on the right side dont seem to care about it. Khrushchev has told us time and again that he will bury us, and the funny part of it is, thats exactly whats going to happen, as we Americans are helping Him do it to us. We have no more chance of surviving than a snow ball in hell, and we of christian principles are going down the drain with them, as most of our religious leaders are on the Liberal side. The harvest indeed is ripe but the laborers are few, to help save our country. Anyone who supports Radio Free Europe the Voice of the Liberals is a sucker. They preach freedom yes, BUT their aim is communism, because what freedom fighters did they help? Communize the America's are Khrushchev's orders otherwise we hurt Khrushchev's feelings, and both Ike and Kennedy promised to carry out those orders, by stating that "We will suffer any hardship regardless of consequences" that includes assassinations and betrayal of our country. If that proaine IS not an invitation, THEN WHAT IS?????

Trujillo of the Dominican Republic war murdered, President Diem and his brother were murdered, Joseph McCarthy war poisoned, Kennedy was assassinated, and a whole list of prominent men of this country and of others which were called suicides by the State Department proved to be murders. Leon Trotsky was murdered by a comrade, the same for Premier Nagy and Gen. Maleter of Hungary by order of Khrushchev, Carlo Tresca was murdered in New York. Communist defectors, Juliet Stuart Poyntz, Walter Krivitsky, Manning Johnson were murdered. James Forrestal was pushed out a window in Bethesda Hospital, Paul Hanson shot at Long Island, hundreds of freedom fighters were bayoneted in Hungary, Marvin Smith who testified against Alger Hiss (of the State Department who built the U.N. the House that Hiss built) was pushed out the window of the Justice Department in Wash., the same happened to D. C. Lawrence, Abe Feller, 5 to 10 thousand Americans were bayoneted, tortured or shot in Korea, John Birch was bayoneted on a peace mission in China and thrown out on a vacant lot to die etc,, What did we do about it, NOTHING. Bishop Sheen has not spoken a word against communism for years, and that was supposed to be his life's work. The Social Justice Paper was stopped by Roosevelt, the same for the Dies Committee. The only friends we have left are Khrushchev and his sad-dle-ites, because we the people have betrayed all other countries of the right.

Liberals and Congress, (a refined word for Communist Sympathizers) would like us to believe that the U2 and the Atomic Sub. were accidents, sure they were, (accidentally on purpose) Russia is absolutely helpless without our help. The scientists were given to Her by we the suckers. Russia got licked by Spain, and could not even defeat little Finland, but with our help She can defeat the whole world, besides the Liberals are doing their very best to make this country look ridiculous, period, another period.

Before Kennedy's death, Castro went to see Khrushchev, not for Vodka. Mrs. Oswald's father is a Colonel in the Soviet Intelligence Service in the Minsk region. the State Department paid $435.00 for Oswald's release after 2½ years of indoctrination. Not having much of a job if any, Oswald spread many pamphlets around, then went to Mexico and then to Havana, and upon his return he had $5,000.00 in his possession, what for? Secret Service cover up, Service but not Secret, the plan leaked, the right-wingers were supposed to get the blame, instead a Pro-Castroite communist got the credit. The Liberals sure botched up that job. The Deputy in charge of Oswald promised the nite before that Oswald would be moved at a certain time, then bragged about keeping his promise when Oswald was murdered, the whole thing stinx, and nothing will come out, because the F.B.I. is not allowed to, and the State Department will see to that and all the Liberals and Congress are all on the side of the State Department, so what to do ??????

...'hole is captioned "MARK LANE, ATTORNEY OF OSWALD'S ... REPORTS."

When FBI agents attempted to again interrogate MARINA OSWALD, OSWALD's mother insisted that they give her time to obtain an attorney. This was not to the liking of FBI and Secret Service agents. Attorney MARK LANE said that agents would have met no resistance on the part of the 22 year old girl, who could not speak English and being in a foreign country was ignorant of her rights, without the presence of OSWALD's mother. MARINA knew only that her husband was accused of a most serious crime.

Later, after OSWALD was shot, his mother insisted on seeing him, but the FBI and Secret Service said this was impossible because of security, according to LANE. Mrs. OSWALD told them that "Mr. KENNEDY could see her husband after he died and 'because I am poor and without influence, I will see my boy now. And if this means that you must obtain more agents, then you had better do it." The agents offered no objection to this and were forced to satisfy her request.

From this moment on, LANE states, MARGUERITE OSWALD was not further detained for protective reasons but she was permitted to say goodbye to MARINA, the young widow, leaving her alone there.

"During the course of the long interview which I had with MARGUERITE OSWALD," continues LANE, "and from conversations received up to now, I have found a number of things which arouse a number of questions and which have not been answered by the FBI reports publicized to date."

A good part of the information obtained is still confidential and privileged, and therefore cannot be commented upon. Part of the information obtained is now in the course of being investigated and any comments would be interfering with this investigation. It can be said now that Mrs. MARGUERITE OSWALD disclosed much information of great value to the investigation now in progress. At a fitting time her information will be tied in with the entire picture.

In the section "Investigation Begins" LANE reports how he proceeded and who he contacted in Dallas. Among other things he tells us that he tried to find out if DARRYL CLICK named by prosecutor WADE in Dallas as the driver who drove the taxi with LEE OSWALD in it from the bus station to his [illegible], was in reality "the driver from Dallas."

The City Transportation Company, which has a monopoly on taxis, has in its possession the names of all taxi drivers in Dallas. The name of DARRYL CLICK is not among them.

FAIR concludes therefore "that such information isn't decisive, but it does show in a specific manner, that all aspects of an effective investigation are not closed."

INTERNAL SECURITY - RUSSIA

The President's Commission is bringing Mrs. Marina Oswald in from Texas to take her testimony before the Commission on February 3, 4, and possibly the 4th. The Bureau has a large number of pieces of evidence which are now up in the Laboratory and Mr. Melvin Eisenberg is the staff representative of the Commission who is handling the material for questioning of Mrs. Oswald. Mr. Eisenberg has requested that in the event he desires certain pieces of material for use in questioning Mrs. Oswald, that arrangements be made to get it to him over the weekend.

Mr. Eisenberg has been advised that if J. R. Malley is not here he should talk to the supervisor on duty, to make it clear exactly what he wants, and we will comply with his request.

Mr. Eisenberg has advised that there may be difficulty encountered in getting into the premises where the Commission's office is located, namely, the Veterans of Foreign Wars Building at Second and Maryland Avenue, N. E. In the event he calls, he should be requested to give the telephone number at which he can be reached so that when the material is located and ready to be delivered to him, he may be called and advised that the material is on the way so he can meet the courier or whoever is delivering the material at the entrance of the building.

The Laboratory will have a man on duty both Saturday and Sunday during normal working hours. After normal working hours, the switchboard is advised of the identity of the individuals who should be called for matters relating to the Laboratory.

SUBJECT: LEE HARVEY OSWALD

In an address book owned by Lee Harvey Oswald appeared the name of SA Hosty, the telephone number of our Dallas Office and what was intended to be the license number of the automobile operated by SA Hosty.

SA Hosty has previously explained that he furnished his name and telephone number to Mrs. Paine on the occasion when he interviewed her 11-1-63.

SAC Shanklin, Dallas, on 2-3-64, advised that during interviews with Mrs. Paine she told the Agents that she gave Hosty's name and telephone number to Oswald. She stated that she did not copy the license number of the automobile used by SA Hosty and she does not know how Oswald obtained this license number. Mrs. Paine speculated that Marina Oswald might have copied it down and furnished it to her husband.

SAC Shanklin stated that Marina Oswald has not been questioned as to whether she copied down the license number of SA Hosty. He advised that a lead would be set in the Dallas Office and she would be interrogated on this point when she was next available for interview.

ACTION:

The results of the interview with Mrs. Paine will be incorporated in an investigative report which will be furnished to the Commission. No further action is necessary.

ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT
JOHN F. KENNEDY
11/22/63
DALLAS, TEXAS

Reference is made to various communications relating to the inquiry of Reverend V. Montgomery.

For your future information and guidance, the Bureau is handling this investigation under three separate phases.

The first phase can be described as the Lee Harvey Oswald phase which relates primarily to background on Oswald prior to and subsequent to the assassination of President Kennedy. This investigation has been carried under the caption, "Lee Harvey Oswald, aka., IS - R - CUBA," Bureau file 105-82555, Dallas file 100-10461, and is being primarily supervised by the Domestic Intelligence Division.

The second phase of this investigation is captioned as above in the respective file numbers shown. This phase primarily deals with allegations, evidence, etc., relating principally to the assassination of the President. You are well aware of the third phase which deals with Jack L. Ruby. Both of these phases are supervised by the General Investigative Division.

Your failure to reply to Bureau communications in the same caption and file as the Bureau request results in undue confusion, primarily the routing of communications.

The particular situation in question is the above-referenced communications wherein the Bureau initiated inquiries and used the assassination title, but Dallas replied in the Lee Harvey Oswald caption. Continued failure to reply in the same caption and file number might possibly result in an embarrassing delay attributable to the Bureau. In the future when receiving a particular inquiry from the Bureau in a specified title, your reply should be in like form.

NOTE: Above believed necessary to clarify apparent misunderstanding on the part of Dallas. All inquiries by Dallas have been handled promptly and no embarrassment has resulted; however, above reference matter was occasioned by request from the President's Commission and to preclude any possible embarrassment in the future it is felt the above should be sent.

Re Bureau radiogram to Dallas, 1/28/64, and Bureau airtel to Dallas 1/21/64 both captioned "ASSASSINATION OF PRESIDENT JOHN F. KENNEDY, November 22, 1963, Dallas, Texas"; and Dallas airtel to Bureau 1/23/64 captioned same as instant communication.

Enclosed herewith are two copies each of two inserts reflecting results of investigation concerning Reverend V. MONTGOMERY (now known to be VERDELLA MONTGOMERY) and two copies of an FD 302 reflecting results of interview with VERDELLA MONTGOMERY. Such inserts will be included in the next report being prepared by Dallas.

In connection with referenced Bureau radiogram, it is pointed out that the initial information contained in the copy of the letter to the President's Commission forwarded to Dallas by referenced Bureau airtel did not reflect any information indicating that the writer of the letter possessed any information concerning OSWALD. Therefore, it was anticipated that a letterhead memorandum would be submitted containing the results of investigation in accordance with existing Bureau instructions contained in Bureau teletype to all SACs dated 12/12/63, which instructed that investigation concerning allegations involving persons other than OSWALD and not connected with OSWALD should be reported in letterhead memorandum submitted by airtel.

The investigation conducted, however, revealed that VERDELLA MONTGOMERY's information involved OSWALD. It was for this reason that the results were summarized and forwarded in Dallas airtel of 1/23/64, with the comment that the results would subsequently be forwarded in the next Dallas report.

In the event the Bureau does not desire that copies of inserts and FD302s be submitted as is being done in this instance, but prefers a letterhead memorandum be submitted in such instances in the OSWALD case, and then later incorporated in the next report, this can be done. It is pointed out, however, that this will necessitate additional typing.

Mrs. VERDELIA MONTGOMERY, a Negro born February 23, 1917 at Many, Louisiana, furnished the following information:

She was raised and lived in San Francisco, California, until 1956, when she moved to Willis, Michigan. On December 25, 1962, she moved to her present address, 603 Moore, Marshall, Texas. She has one daughter, FLORINE MONTGOMERY, age 30, two young boys, ages 11 and 12, and a granddaughter age 14, all of whom live with her. Her husband died 20 years ago, and her two young sons were born [redacted] In San Francisco she did factory work, and later worked at various hospitals. In 1956, she and her daughter, FLORINE, became Spiritualists, and were then able to communicate with God, and with the spirits of the dead. Since then, both she and FLORINE have received visions and messages from God, along with instructions as to what they are to do with this information.

Prior to the assassination of President JOHN F. KENNEDY, both she and FLORINE had visions from God, which they did not recognize until later were instructions they should warn President KENNEDY.

Since the assassination, God has told them that the assassination was planned during a drunken party in Dallas, Texas, with four men and one woman in on the plot. LEE HARVEY OSWALD and JACK RUBENSTEIN were two of the men, and the others have not been identified by the law. There were actually three men firing three rifles at the time President KENNEDY was killed, and not just one by OSWALD. One of the men who is still loose had a full beard when she saw him in a vision. She and FLORINE became very disturbed over the visions, and wrote President JOHNSON a few letters, and also called him on the telephone when he was at his ranch recently.

As a result of her call to President JOHNSON, a Secret Service Agent and two other men came to see her and FLORINE on January 10, 1964, and she gave them all the information she had.

ENCLOSURE

Since then God has shown her and FLORINE a vision of the man with the beard, and he is now clean shaven. Also, the spirit of OSWALD visited her and FLORINE recently and warned them not to reveal the information they possess, and implied they would both be harmed if they did. She and FLORINE have also had recent visions from God telling them there are three men following President JOHNSON, and they intend to assassinate him. God has given them the names of all these men and the one woman, the "fingerprint" of one of them, their present whereabouts, and has made all their faces visible to both her and FLORINE.

She continued that she and FLORINE are extremely afraid they would be killed by one of the above if they revealed the information they possess while still in Texas. On January 20, 1964, she wrote President JOHNSON again and asked him to send "passes" so she and her family can go to Washington, D. C., and then she will feel free to disclose the information she possesses. She also told President JOHNSON in the letter that the Secret Service had visited her and that she now possesses additional information.

The following investigation was conducted by SA ROBERT J. STEVENS:

AT MARSHALL, TEXAS

During the interview of Mrs. VERDELLA MONTGOMERY, 603 Moore, on January 23, 1964, her 30 year old daughter, FLORINE MONTGOMERY, was also present in the room. FLORINE would either nod or audibly agree that both she and her mother had received the same visions, and what her mother said was correct. Both were somewhat incoherent at times during the interview. Further, they exhibited their expressed fear by keeping all the window shades pulled all the way down, double locking the front door, and having no lights on in the house.

On January 23, 1964, Detective W. D. STANFIELD, Marshall Police Department, advised he and Detective Sergeant RICHARD WAUGH had accompanied a Secret Service Agent on an interview of VERDELLA MONTGOMERY on January 10, 1964. It was their opinion after the interview was concluded, that VERDELLA and FLORINE MONTGOMERY [redacted]

Re Bureau airtel to Dallas 1/30/64, requesting appropriate investigation to determine OSWALD's whereabouts on 9/22/62, in view of allegation that he may have been at Washington, D. C. on that date.

According to a photograph furnished Dallas by Captain JAMES W. MARLIN, Webb Air Force Base, Big Spring, Texas, it was not possible, from an examination of the photograph, to determine that the individual involved was or was not identical with LEE HARVEY OSWALD.

Investigation reflects OSWALD was employed at the Leslie Welding Company, Fort Worth, Texas, in September, 1962 and worked 8:00 AM to 4:30 PM on Friday, 9/21/62, was off Saturday and Sunday, 9/22-23/62, and again worked from 7:55 AM to 4:35 PM on Monday 9/24/62.

Previous investigation contained on page 187 of the report of SA WARREN C. DE BRUEYS, dated 12/8/63, reflects interview with Mr. E. L. CARTER, JR., Credit Manager, Montgomery Wards, Fort Worth, Texas, who, on 12/4/63, advised OSWALD purchased from his company a television set on 9/22/62.

In view of above, no further investigation being conducted re OSWALD's whereabouts 9/22/62, and above results will be reflected in next report being submitted by Dallas completely resolving allegation in connection with photograph furnished by Captain MARLIN.

Synopsis: Mrs. LOLA LOVING, Forest Grove, Ore., recalls ALBERT OSBORNE as missionary in Texmelucan, Mexico. Knows him also as JOHN HOWARD BOWEN. States OSBORNE told her he uses both names to permit acceptance of contributions to mission in name of BOWEN, a former associate, now deceased.

DETAILS:

RE: ALBERT OSBORNE, Also Known
As John Howard Bowen

Mrs. V. BROWN, Clerk, Washington County Clerk's Office, Hillsboro, Oregon, advised on January 30, 1964, that the records of that office show that SHARON RUTH LOVING, daughter of EUGENE and LOLA LOVING, 23705 Tualatin Valley Highway, and JOHN JAMES CLARNO, son of HENRY and ANNA CLARNO, 447 N. Ebert, Hillsboro, were issued a marriage license on October 12, 1962, and were married in Hillsboro on October 20, 1962.

The current directory for Washington County, Oregon, shows that Mrs. EUGENE LOVING now resides in Forest Grove, Oregon, near Hillsboro.

This document contains neither recommendations nor conclusions of the FBI. It is the property of the FBI and is loaned to your agency; it and its contents are not to be distributed outside your agency.

Mrs. EUGENE (LOLA) LOVING, 2617 Seventeenth Street, Forest Grove, Oregon, said on January 31, 1964, that her husband is no longer living but that prior to his death, both he and she had been active missionaries for the Pentecostal Church of God, serving for a number of years in Indonesia.

In the early 1950's, they returned from Indonesia, and in about 1956 they and their daughter, SHARON, went to Mexico City, where they opened a Bible School for the Pentecostal Church of God. Not long after beginning their work, they met another missionary by the name of ALBERT OSBORNE. This man, whom she believed to be a Baptist, had a mission at Texmelucan, not far from Mexico City. His mission consisted of his own large home where he gathered in young men who appeared to have no homes or ties, trained them and then sent them out on their own as missionaries.

It wasn't long before the LOVINGs found that OSBORNE was using two names. His second was JOHN HOWARD BOWEN. In fact, OSBORNE readily admitted the use of both names and voluntarily explained that JOHN HOWARD BOWEN, at one time, had been an associate of his in the mission at Texmelucan but had died. Monetary contributions for the mission, which is dependent upon such donations, kept coming in to Texmelucan in BOWEN's name, and rather than lose this money, OSBORNE had gone to banking officials and explained the situation. Specifically mentioned by OSBORNE were American Express authorities in Mexico City, who had agreed to honor the contributions and make the payments to OSPORNE, using BOWEN's name. Consequently, over the years since that time, OSBORNE had assumed the dual identity.

Mrs. LOVING continued that she and her husband and daughter were in Mexico City until about 1958 and that during that time and over the years since, OSBORNE has used both names indiscriminately. She pointed out that he continues to correspond with her and that she never knows, from letter to letter, which name he will be using. She usually writes to him, however, in the name of ALBERT OSBORNE.

Mrs. LOVING went on to say that she had received a letter only a week ago from OSBORNE. The return address, which she had torn from the letter, was ALBERT OSBORN, Emilio Carranza 4-A, Texmelucan, Pue. Mexico, which, she said, was the address of his mission. She expressed the belief that OSBORNE would be at that address at the present time, having only recently returned from Europe. She recalled that in recent weeks, possibly in the past month or two, she had received a letter from OSBORNE in Spain.

Mrs. LOVING readily and without hesitation identified two photographs of JOHN HOWARD BOWEN and one of ALBERT OSBORNE as being those of the same person, ALBERT OSBORNE, the man she had known in Mexico. She frequently referred to OSBORNE as a "fine old man" and indicated that she regarded him highly. At one period in his life he supposedly served for twenty years as a missionary in India. Mrs. LOVING believed him to be an American citizen but said she knew of no connections of OSBORNE in the United States except some friends in Texas, whom he visits from time to time. She identified one of his friends as the Reverend WALTER L. HLUCHAN, Post Office Box 1343, Eagle Pass, Texas, who operates a mission near Eagle Pass. Mrs. LOVING said that it had been Reverend HLUCHAN who had introduced OSBORNE to her and her husband and that Reverend HLUCHAN knew OSBORNE well and possessed detailed information concerning him.

Dear Mr. Rankin:

Reference is made to your letter dated January 14, 1964, requesting the original documents contained in three metal boxes which were referred to on page [illegible] of the report in the Jack Ruby case of Special Agent [illegible] C. Clements, dated November 30, 1963, at Dallas, Texas.

We have been advised that the material you desire [illegible] possession of the Dallas Police Department. This material will be obtained and forwarded to you when it is received.

In addition to this material, we have in our files copies of some handwritten letters in the Russian language dated May [illegible], July 26, July 31 and August 24, 1963, directed to Mrs. Marina Oswald from [illegible]. Dear:

Incoming notes from our 12/2/ [illegible] report in Oswald case that Mrs. Paine admitted corresponding with Marina Oswald in Russian. It notes that according to our 11/30 report in Ruby case the Dallas Police were in possession of three metal boxes containing personal correspondence of Mrs. Paine. Apparently, in the belief that copies of Paine's letter to Mrs. Oswald would be among the documents in the metal boxes (such is not the case) the Commission asked that we obtain the original Paine documents. Dallas has obtained them and is sending them. Memo Branigan to Sullivan 1/15/64 in Oswald case stated that when received we would re-review the documents, photograph them for record purposes and forward the originals to the Commission. We do have in our files translations of five letters sent by Mrs. Paine to Mrs. Oswald and as these are undoubtedly the documents Commission is interested in, we are enclosing copies of full translations.

Dear Marina,

Home once more and everything as usual: floor has to be scrubbed, dishes to be washed, laundry to be done - particularly boring after our visit which was interesting and unusual. True, life is busy now, but not as interesting as it was with you.

Today I carried on war against a beetle (cockroach). I think that I will win it. Tomorrow I am going to prepare new soup and salad in order to find out if they will be good enough for guests on Saturday. I have to explain that I know little about cooking for more than four. We shall see how it will come out.

Michael did not call me to ask about the way. I finally called him at work. He is never at home in the apartment. I am angry with him today and intend to leave for New York at once to find me a lover. All he loves are his machines (cars?).

Please give regards to Lee and write me soon about diapers, beetles and other such domestic subjects (things?)!

Kiss June

Dear Marina,

Oh, I made a mistake. Michael explained to me that deduction ($600 per person) should be taken out of earnings, not out of the tax. When earnings are smaller, the State wants less taxes. But not $1,800 less, as I wrote. (It is best not to write letters at 2 a. m.) But it seems that Michael would pay $450 less every year if he had 3 more people dependent upon his salary.

No, we are not as rich as I thought. But we can arrange it this way if you wish to live with me with your children: we would pay you $10.00 a week. Out of this you could buy what you wish - clothes, stamps, etc. But not food. I will buy this and also pay for the doctor, medicines, etc.

You do not understand how useful and pleasant it would be for me to live with you. I want to learn Russian very much, but how can I? It is very difficult to study at home with children and I have little practice.

We do not have to live and eat like rich people. We can live simply but wholesomely. I would consider that it would cost me little to buy groceries (food, soap, etc.) and pay for the doctor and hospital in return for acquiring the knowledge of the Russian language, and to get help with my mistakes in speech and letters.

Calcium tablets are for you, of course. I found out that when a person eats yeast (?) all day (?) he needs more calcium.* You particularly need more calcium now. Nine tablets a day, please, with milk, if you can. Of course, you need more milk, at least one quart a day, better two. Forgive me for this extra advice.

I am anxious to hear news from you.

Paoli, Penna.

From there, on to Columbus, Ohio, where live my mamma and my father. (By the way, I do not believe I wrote to you that my father did not get married in June. The woman changed her mind. Father, of course, was very hurt. (This would offend my father very much.) When he visited me in June, it was already decided that there would be no wedding.)

My brother and his family live not far from Columbus. We will visit there for a few days and then leave for home about the 17th.

TRANSLATED BY:
TATIANA NIKONISHIN:del

What if we come to visit you in New Orleans then? We may come on the evening of the 18th and live (spend?) with you a day or two. Then you may tell me if you wish to come to stay with me for the baby's birth. Of course, I wish very much that you would. I would be very glad to have your company at home and would be glad to look after June while you are in a hospital and afterwards, while you would be still weak after your confinement. It would be nice for her (June) here with children in the yard, etc. Our home is used to children!

If you wish to come to stay with me, then we can leave together for Dallas (on October 20, or thereabouts). But perhaps Lee would not let you go. He may feel lonesome without his wife and children. It is also true that a hospital here costs more, as you wrote in your letter. Before, I was looking for a hospital where it would cost less, but we do not have any like that here. Everything, including a doctor and hospital would cost here $225.00. I am very sorry. But we may talk about this personally, may we not?

Please, address me by "thou" when writing to me (do they say it this way?) Try it. (This is from the verb "to try," is it not?). It would not be as hard for you to do in Russian as it is for me. Tell me please, is it correct to write "Thou" with a capital in letters as you do "You?"

I wrote to Ruth Kloepfer about you. She is a secretary for the New Orleans Quaker Church (genitive of "church," feminine?) I asked her if she knows any Russians in New Orleans. I also wrote to Mrs. Paul Blanchard, Secretary of the Unitarian Church in New Orleans. I also asked her if she knows any Russians there. Perhaps one or the other would be able to find a Russian friend for you.

Write without fail. Regards to Lee from me, please. Kiss June.

Sincerely,

Translator's Note: The sender writes a fairly good Russian, but she is not sure of her grammar; hence her questions regarding various word forms. She also gives in parentheses pronunciation of American proper names mentioned in the letter. She requests Marina to address her in letters with a familiar pronoun "thou" as is the Russian custom among close friends. (The writer herself uses "thou" in addressing Marina.) In a more formal letter, when using a pronoun "you," Russians spell it with a capital letter; that is why the writer asks if she should spell "thou" also with a capital (which is not done, as a rule).

Dear Marina,

Thank you very much for your letter which I received a week ago. I was very sorry to learn that Lee is not working. It is hard for him and for you in the meanwhile. I hope that he will begin (working) again soon. Perhaps, he has already began.

It is too bad, you are not in Dallas yet. I found out that you may go to the Parkland Hospital (there, in Dallas), and receive everything necessary and pay only according to your earning These unable to pay do not have to.

But, in order to get this aid, you have to live in Texas for one year and, in Dallas County, for six months.

Lee told me that he learned a little from his uncle how to drive a car. It would be very useful for him to know how to drive. But it is hard to find time for this when he works every day.

Tomorrow, we and the children will go to Baltimore, Maryland, where Michael's brother and his wife live. We will spend one day there and then we will go further to Washington, where we will stay with sister until Thursday. Then back to Paoli again, where we will wait for my father. He will be here with us for two days. I expect to be in Paoli until September 10, and then to go to Ohio and Indiana, where our relatives and friends live, and to arrive in New Orleans on the 20th, in daytime if I can make it; otherwise, in the evening.

I hope you will be able to understand this letter. My mistakes are terrible.

(In Paoli)

Please write to me here one more time. I shall be glad to hear news from you and will be particularly glad to see you, Lee and June in September.

All of the best,

Sincerely,

/s/ Ruth

"I would like to know as to where you decided to live. Perhaps we will see each other in New York, Washington or Philadelphia.

"It seems that the article will not appear in the 'Look' magazine. People there decided that newspapers wrote enough already about it. That's all right. My mother-in-law prefers me not to write such an article. She's glad that there will be no article and I, personally, don't care.

"I wish you everything of the best -- new life, later some nice work i.e. when youngsters will grow older.

ReBuairtel to Dallas 1/14/64 and San Antonio airtel 1/29/64 which made reference to San Antonio's letterhead 11/28/63. The information in San Antonio's 11/28 letterhead in the assassination case did not resolve the question raised by the article in 11/30/63 issue of "The New York Times," nor did it resolve the allegation of Vincent Christi. San Antonio endeavor to resolve these matters and report results suitable for dissemination under Oswald caption. Note that San Antonio's 11/28/63 letterhead referred to above has not been furnished to the Commission due to nonspecific nature of contents.

If necessary, Dallas should set forth lead for New York in effort to determine source of the allegation in the article in question. Dallas advise San Antonio and Bureau if a receipt from clothing store in Laredo was found among Oswald's personal effects. San Antonio include Dallas advice in report to be submitted.

The Times article reported that from a clothing receipt found in Oswald's possession it was determined that he purchased $32 worth of clothing at a Laredo, Texas, clothing store prior to going to Mexico and that Federal Agents were checking into this. This does not appear to be the case. We inquired by referenced airtel as to whether this had been run out and it appears that a check passer using the name of Vincent Christi appeared at a clothing store in Laredo claiming to be an investigator assigned to Laredo Air Force Base. He said he was there checking on report that Oswald purchased $40 worth of clothing at the store and in checking through old sale receipts, he selected one in the amount of $39.81 saying this was Oswald's purchase. Christi then made a purchase and cashed a $20 check. It was unknown at time of San Antonio's 11/28 letterhead whether or not check bounced, but it probably did as Christi is not known at Laredo Air Force Base. The letterhead is nonspecific,

LET TO MISS NANNIE P. HARBOUR

NOTE:

Correspondent cannot be identified in Bureau files. The enclosure does not mention the FBI. It attributes Oswald's assassination of President Kennedy as the actions of a mentally unbalanced individual seeking to prove he was of "heroic stature." It states the normal adult receives this same satisfaction vicariously by identifying himself with heroic figures in fiction or in history.

Mr. J. Edgar Hoover
Federal Bureau of Investigation
Washington, D. C.

Dear Mr. Hoover:

Enclosed is an extract of an article which has been submitted to a magazine which we publish, THE MISSISSIPPI MAGAZINE. It was written by a professor who holds a doctor of philosophy degree in the behavioral sciences.

You can see from a glance at the extract that the subject matter is controversial and casts a bizarre light on the motivation behind the assassination of President Kennedy. Before we publish this material we would appreciate some comment from individuals with experience in dealing with extraordinary crimes.

Will you please let us know if, in your opinion, there is any justification for the conclusion of the author?

Sincerely,

Nannie P. Harbour

CORRESPONDENCE

"To some extent every man dreams of being a heroic, romantic individualist operating beyond limits of society. The great heroes of the ages -- The Greek warriors, Robin Hood, Sir Lancelot, the gunmen of the American West, Charles Lindbergh, and Babe Ruth -- were men of such cast. With automation and "team-work" replacing individual skill and daring in the arts of war and work the hero-emulator looks increasingly to fictional characters for identification. Thus, such non-conformist modern knights as Mickey Spillane's Mike Hammer and Richard Boone's TV characterization of "Palladin" have emerged. The epitome of the unbound, individualistic hero is Ian Fleming's James Bond. Bond is the embodiment of all the great invincible heroes. He is endowed with special physical skills, he is contemptuous of conventional opinion, his daring and arrogance are unlimited, he operates on the principle that the end justifies the means; he has authorization to murder adversaries, which he does prodigiously and with relish.

"A normal adult receives vicarious satisfaction identifying with James Bond -- and it may be assumed that the late John Kennedy, a James Bond fan, could be so classified. On the other hand, a person of paranoid tendencies, who has developed real or fancied heroic qualities, must be under great temptation to prove that he is actually of James Bond quality. This must be especially true of a potential "hero" such as Lee Harvey Oswald who had been repeatedly frustrated and deprecated.

"Oswald considered himself to be a superior and uncommon individual who had been maltreated by society. He was a reader of James Bond. When he acquired a high powered weapon and developed skill in its use, it was almost inevitable that something more substantial than target practice would be needed to consume his need to prove that he was of heroic stature. The presidential parade in Dallas presented a unique and overwhelming stimulus.

"In magnitude and improbability the assassination of President Kennedy had all of the characteristics of a James Bond escapade. The subsequent behavior of Oswald, especially the killing of police officer Tippitt and the symbolic flight to the movie "War is Hell," could not have been more aptly plotted by Ian Fleming. In fact, Oswald might have escaped detection had he been less intent upon playing his romantic role to the ultimate.

"No one seems to question the probability of literature triggering the twisted mind of a child to re-enact a terrible crime of fiction. Isn't it just as likely that an immature, bitter and neurotic adult would be similarly influenced?

This records our findings concerning one of the false allegations in the highly critical, grossly inaccurate article, "Oswald and the FBI," by Harold Feldman which appeared in the 1-27-64 issue of "The Nation." Memorandum to Mr. Sullivan dated 1-25-64 reviewed this article; however, at that time we did not have the true facts concerning the following allegation.

Allegation:

Eugene Pugh, agent-in-charge of the Customs office on American side of the bridge at Laredo, Texas, said that Oswald had been checked by American immigration officials on entering and leaving Laredo; that this was not the usual procedure as Americans were not required to check in with Immigration when crossing the border but that "U. S. Immigration has a folder on Oswald's trip." It was also alleged that William Kline of the Customs Service at Laredo said Oswald's movements were watched (presumably during his trip to Mexico between 9-26 and 10-3 last), at the request of "a federal agency in Washington."

Facts

Oran Eugene Pugh, agent-in-charge of U. S. Customs at Laredo says he received number of calls from all parts of country after the assassination but that he does not recall name of Harold Feldman, author of the article. He states he did make statement that Oswald was checked by U. S. Public Health at International Bridge, Laredo, upon his exit from Mexico, having been told this by his assistant William Kline. (Kline denies so informing Pugh and no record of subject at Public Health could be located in our investigation). Pugh denies stating that Oswald was checked by the Immigration and Naturalization Service (INS) on entering and leaving Mexico, although he admits saying that Americans are not required to check in with INS in crossing the border. In connection with his reported statement that INS had a folder on Oswald's trip, Pugh claims he was misquoted and that he merely stated INS had a folder on Oswald, having been informed of this by William Kline.

Allan Skinner, Chief of INS at Laredo, states that his office has no record or folder which relates to Oswald's trip to Mexico. He said he answered several inquiries from news media to the effect he had no such record in his office.

William Kline, Pugh's assistant, denies making any statement to anyone at any time that Oswald's movements were watched at the request of a federal agency in Washington. While he received numerous inquiries from reporters following the assassination, he does not recall the name Harold Feldman or of talking with anyone from "The Nation" magazine. Kline says that on 11-23, at the request of the Assistant Commissioner of Customs, Washington, he made inquiry concerning Oswald's Mexican trip and learned from a Mr. Cash, the American Consul at Nuevo Laredo, that Oswald entered Mexico 9-26 and exited 10-3 at Nuevo Laredo. Kline says he had no knowledge whatsoever of any check made on Oswald by the U. S. Public Health Service at Laredo and he denies so informing his superior Pugh. He did inform Pugh that he learned from an INS investigator at Laredo that INS had a record of Oswald due to his returning to the U. S. with a Russian-born wife. It was his understanding that this record dealt only with Oswald's return from Russia and did not show any coverage on Oswald since that time.
